The chain letter has again been making its periodic appearance in the city, and numerous recipients of the letters, fearing the curse of ill luck which might follow if they neglect to answer them, are dipping their pens in the inkwell and hastening to comply with the silly rules. Chain letters rank in the new era with a circular now being distributed in other buildings and other places. It appeals to the entire who desires to aim his shaft at another while remaining anonymous himself. All the critic does is send in 25 cents, the intended recipient's name, and the criticism. The organization, which gives a post office address, is styled the "Civil Service Reform era" complaint in the form of a neat letter on plain stationery, guaranteeing that the sender's name will not be revealed. Prospects are invited to beckle their neighbors by mail for slaying the radio too late or too early, neglecting their yards, talking too much, using slang expressions, complaining of illness, borrowing cigarettes, matches and money, thinking their children are "too good" to play with other children, and smoking smelly cigars. Other targets suggested are "the woman who talks continually while playing bridge," the too slow in bidding and playing; the woman who has photographs of her husband in a risen Lord, and of the heritage left her family by her parents suffering and perfect trust. Sincere sympathy is extended to the aged and feeble widower, her daughters and son.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pinkle and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bleecker had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds, r. and Mrs. E. Sills and Mr. and Mrs. Miller of Madoc were in her hour guests on Sunday at Mr. J. G. Sills.

And he picked me up and I said, Well gosh, G, when you've grown up you dont half to go upstairs at all, if you want something you just send your children up to get it while you stay down comfortable.

You may well mention children, and when you mention children you mention responsibility, a word with golden youth doesn't even know the meaning if, pop said. High ho, no responsibility and no digestion, cept eat anything at any time and the more the merrier, he said.

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories give only permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles can be yours. Then you actually remove the cause—and too one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEMROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt is sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and reastores the almost dead parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when J. S. McKeown Invites every Pile sufferer to try HEMROID with guarantee of money back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

GOITRE

Goitre is a condition where the thyroid gland is enlarged. It is not a superfluous growth as many people think. The gland is abundantly supplied with blood vessels and nerves. The nerves supplying the thyroid are derived from the nerve centres in the neck and connected with the spinal nerves in the lower part of the neck.

Pressure on the spinal nerves which control the various parts of the thyroid glands are responsible for its enlargement. A chiropractor by locating the impinged nerves and removing the pressure from them relieves the cause of goitre.

MR. MacLAURIN SPEAKER AT WELFARE CLUB

Address on Average Man Appreciated by Live Stirling Club

COMMUNITY NOTES

Newly Weds Honored by Pupils, And Residents of District

Stirling, Jan. 11 (Special) —The regular meeting of the Stirling Men's Welfare Club was held in the Community Hall on Tuesday evening, Jan. 9th, with President George Lacey presiding. The Women's Institute catered for the dinner at which seventy-five members were present. During the dinner, community singing was enjoyed. The toast to the King was then proposed by the President.

A number of local members were called on for a few remarks and on the following: R. W. McIlwaine, Welfare; Dr. G. F. Wall, the pas- the Welfare Club holds in our community; Rev. Mr. Mossop, Of early settlers; J. E. O'Donnell and J. Thompson, of the younger set.

A pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was the singing of "Mother o' Mine" by A. Retford (soprano), W. Jones (alto), Ted Hilde- brand (tenor), Bob Hildebrand (bass), rendering two selections entitled "Mason's in the Cold, Cold Ground."

F. C. MacLaurin Speaks

The main speaker of the evening was F. C. MacLaurin, Principal of the Belleville Collegiate Institute, who was introduced by Mr. T. Dunlop. The speaker had come to Stirling at the request of the club to address the club who, he felt, were about to enjoy a delightful treat. Mr. MacLaurin's moulder of the thoughts, and purposes of the young, an example of which is Charleton, a graduate of his school. Mr. Dunlop mentioned Mr. MacLaurin's services to the Y.M.C.A. and the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

Mr. MacLaurin thanked the club for the eloquent introductory remarks and stated that he had felt pleased to come to the newly formed Welfare Club to see just how things could be done. After a few preliminary remarks on the up-to-date community building, he continued his address on the "Development of the Average Man."

"School teacher in thinking of child speaks in terms of the men and women of tomorrow. From this data evolves the idea of the "average man."

A challenge is thrown out to us. What place shall we occupy and what will we do our allotted work? Moreover, why should we speak of the average man? Each and every one of us can be an average man and how many are there who consider themselves the question. Have I allowed the average man to change man?

We must have a unit of measurement as in other things. This is determined by a mental examination. Broadly we deem the attributes of social standing, power, wealth moral and noble actions necessary for a successful life but they are not the true standard of measurement.

The surest way to lose pride in oneself is to view the bulwark of country for on going back we are not prone to have brilliancy of intellect, outstanding physique, wordly success and fame. Perhaps we find a prominence in us who have three distinct essentials—Honesty of purpose, faith in God and man and with our fellow-men—sound bodies. That is mental health and these are super-beings and clean minds—this is brought about by sheltering the child's mind.

Truth Always Clean

Mr. MacLaurin stressed the fact that right from the start, truth and clean- ness were erred in conceal- ing facts which in after years would have later learned from an unde- sirable source. We see to the com- ing generation clean minds, self- respect, confidence in self and God, moral, optimism, love of justice and love of home and country.

In our own province great men we cater to the five percent minority unmindful of the 95 per- cent examples of this being men such as Macdonald of Nova Scotia, Germany, Roosevelt of the United States and MacDonald of Great Britain. Thus the millions of men behind these are the bulwark of the nation. Mr. MacLaurin men- tioned the gloomy clouds of de- pression, crime, poverty, shattered fortunes, business failures, which sometimes darken the horizon. So- the slogan for the average man should be "Put First Things First." The proper mind glorifies work for business hundred years as the greatest man, who lived was hu- manly speaking, a failure, with un- derstanding. He chose twelve ordi- nary man for his disciples, pos- sessed the true spirit of greatness.

Honor Newlyweds

River Valley school children, members of the Women's Institute, friends and neighbors assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Cash on Wednesday evening last to honor them on their recent mar- riage. Early in the evening during the gathering, some two hundred people, to order following which Master Dick Cronkite, of the class pupil of Mrs. Coombes read the fol- lowing address on behalf of the school children:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs.:—We' your pupils, are glad to have this opportunity in which to wish you much future hap- piness in your married life.

"We are very glad that you are going to be with us here in the community so that we can see you frequently and that we will be able to see the results (which we hope will be) of your united and teaching and the fine foundations you have laid in our lives.

"It is a great pleasure to know you are remaining with us in the district as it is the hope that we may still be able to benefit from your kindness.

"During your time at River Val- ley school, you have always been a help to us and each every pupil has progressed well under your faithful care and kindness, and we would like to show our appreciation and love for you by presenting you with a token of remembrance.

"Again our best wishes for your future.

"The pupils of River Valley school."

With this came the presentation of a beautiful fernery presented by the members of the pupils.

The charivari boys then presented the newlyweds with a set of pots and one a needle clock and the other an alarm clock. The following address was read:

"Dear Reg and Alice:—

"Many times you have gathered with us on such an occasion as this, but this time you are the guests of honour.

It is needless to tell you why we are here. We have already offered our heartfelt wishes for your happy married life and mutually said now we take this opportunity of showing them in a more material form.

"We as boys have often assembled on happy occasions with still a commencing of hope, but to-night Reg., we must take our hats off to you and admit our defeat, since you have taken unto yourself one from the little red school in the valley. "There always is a certain touch of happiness when a new home is begun and we are pleased that we share it with you since you are re- membered as a prominent factor in the tricks on, we hope that these clocks will tick out many years of peace and happiness for you, and we hope sincerely that your lives will receive the kind of love which has been in- soculted by the alarm on this one.

"We are assured you will receive a very happy home and knowing Reg. Cash's ability in kitchen af- fairs we are all anticipating early invita- tions to partake of your delicious meals in the past you have been out- standing members in our social ac- tivities and we feel sure that we can rely on your future co-ordina- tion in this respect.

"Signed on behalf of the Charivari boys, Alex. Cash, H. Bush, Jack Cash."

A beautiful comforter was pre- sented to Mrs. Alice Cash on be- half of the Women's Institute and the community.

The address was read by Mrs. Percy Ulman and was cleverly writ- ten by Mrs. Clarence Chard.

The following is the address:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Reg Cash:—

"We have here a fictitious radio set—all set now save turn the dial to a local number.

"Station R.V.W.I. speaking:—

"This C.O.S., is being sent out to Mr. and Mrs. Reginald E. Coombes who this night launched their ship on the sea of matrimony— from the Presidents and members of the River Valley Women's Institute, who wish them "Bon Voyage." Take a chart, and a good compass to guide them safely past all impending rocks as they travel through life's ocean; with a sturdy crew of "Hope and Courage" to carry them through any stormy elements or turns in the tide they meet and reach smooth waters of their desired goal.

"The Institute always awaits them on the shores at River Valley by their many friends in this Institute and Community, who also would like to express their thanks for the valued assistance rendered them by Captain Coombes on so many occasions, and also to his worthy "mate" for her aid and co-operation during her years of teaching at S. S. No. 19.

"The President is forwarding them a small gift to add to their material comforts.

"So we are going off the air, but as we do we wish this pair the best of health in the years to be accompanied by Prosperity and all that God does add; to give to aid their lives in which to live for the thing that is called living, isn't god or false at all.

"It's good fellowship and sunshine and it's roses by the wall.

"It's evening's gift and morn and a heart's fire that's ablaze,

"And the joys which come to mor- tals in a thousand different ways.

"It is laughter and contentment and the struggle for a goal,

"It is everything that's needful in the shaping of a soul.

"You have been listening to a radio broadcast from R.V.W.I. with Rita Chard announcing.

"A most interesting and better programme will now follow."

The young couple were then pre- sented with a shell-cabinet show- er. The gifts were both numerous and beautiful and the groom ex- pressed his heartfelt appreciation of the honor paid to him and his bride. Mrs. Alice Cash thanked all, even following which lunch was served and dancing was enjoyed until an early hour. The gathering wished success to the young couple in many happy years of married life.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

RICH IN VITAMINS

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Without waiting for a reply he said to Maral: "Take the woman to the cavern. She remains there until the council decides who shall have her for a mate." And so Tarzan followed the chief's wife and cast an appeal- ing glance at Tarzan. The ape-man looked quickly around. Only a few warriors were about the opening of the trial which led down the cavern. Before the time is long, he might have been with the girl it would have been impossible.

And so Tarzan shook his head, and his lips, which were turned away from Avan, formed the word "wait!" As the Red Flower of Zoran disappeared in the dark cavern of the Clovians the chief address- ed the ape-man. "As for you, man of another country, until the council decides your fate you are a prise- oner. Into the cavern with you!" The ape-man bed- lated. A bold dash for freedom might carry him beyond the few warriors who lolled idly about, ex- pecting no emergency.

Tarzan felt certain the voice of the council would doom him to death. Then he would be surrounded by all the warriors of Clovi, alert and ready to pre- vent his escape. It was now—or never. But Tarzan of the Apes made no break for liberty. Instead he turned and strode toward the entrance of the cavern. For the Red Flower of Zoraan had appealed to him for aid and he could not desert the sister of Thour and the friend of Jason in her time of need.

H. M. ROBBINS LOSES APPEAL

Negligence Conviction Stands According to Court

Toronto, Jan. 12—(CP)—Appeal of Harry M. Robbins, Provincial Minister of Hospitals for Ontario, against a conviction of criminal negligence in driving with an automobile accident at Brantford was dismissed by the Appellate Court at Osgoode Hall today.

Three Appeal Judges found against the contention of C. W. Bell, K.C., counsel for Robbins that the former deputy minister could not be tried a second time on the same charge after being acquitted on substantially the same count.

Acting Chief Justice W. E. Middleton announced the appeal dismissed after conferring briefly with his colleagues on the bench, Mr. Justice Eric Armour and Mr. Justice Wright.

Mr. Bell argued his plea of autrefois acquit, entered at the second trial of Robbins before County Judge Gallagher T. Boles at Brantford, should have been allowed. COUPLE DYING AT NANKING

Protests Made Against Continued Imprisonment

Toronto, Jan. 12 (CP)—A protest against the continued imprisonment of Paul Rusgy and his wife Gertrude, now reported to be dying in Nanking prison where they are on a hunger strike, was made from Toronto today by the Canadian Labor Defence League in a cable to the Chinese Minister at Washington.

The couple, known by a variety of names among them one alleged to be of French-Canadian extraction and another, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Noalieu, were arrested a year and a half ago and found guilty of being Communists and carrying $30,000 monthly from Moscow to members of the Chinese Communist party. One of their five passports was reported to have been issued in Canada.

At the time of their trial they were sentenced to death, but the sentence was changed to that of imprisonment. Since then they have been demanding a new trial. The hunger strike is in protest against the Nanking government's continued refusal to grant their request.

The message sent from here to the British Consul at Nanking and signed by A. E. Smith, Secretary, read:

"Brutal treatment of Ruegge' sheds [illegible] of world opinion of 40,000 members, hundreds of thousands of supporters, demand immediate release of Ruegg; and wife. Please transmit this protest to Chinese government."

MILK IN CARS WAITS DEBATE

Brantford Has Miniature Milk War on Its Hands

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 12 (CP) — A milk war affecting one Brantford Dairy and 13 Brant County milk producers broke out unexpectedly today when the farmers brought their milk to the city as usual, refused to turn it over to the Brantford City Dairy.

Arriving at 8.30 a.m. the farmers held a long conference with J. A. Haines, manager of the dairy. At 10 a.m. the conference ended in a deadlock. Some 15,000 imperial gallon cans of milk remained in the farmers' cars lined up on Murray Street until noon, when they drove to the farms.

The farmers said the trouble arose over contracts and agreements, they said, which they received from competitive cans and were receiving less for their milk than was being paid by other Brantford dairies.

This morning they presented terms which they considered fair and equitable and they declared they would not sell more milk until their terms were met.

PICK-UP IN BUSINESS SEEN

Edsel Ford Believes Car Trade Will be Better Than 1933

(Copyright 1934, by the Associated Press)

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Edsel Ford said in an interview today that business conditions "look very, very good" this year and that sales of cars expect a "75 per cent. pickup" over 1933.

"I don't want to make any predictions, but the youthful appearing motor magazine, Jan. 1934 business, so far as automobiles are concerned, looks as much better as are all very happy about it."

He added he based his optimism for 1934 partly on the fact that the Ford Motor Company schedule for his company is bigger than for any month in 1933. He pointed out that January is usually a slow month.

Asked how the NRA would affect conditions he said:

"So far as wages are concerned, the NRA is the best thing that happened.

"The automobile industry is on a 40-hour basis and wages have been increased 10 per cent. since our wages have been.

"It has tended to help employment. All those additional workers, not only in the automobile, but other industries, help purchasing power."

Ford gave his views on the business situation and made a statement in testimony before the United States Banking Committee which is inquiring into the closing of Detroit banks.

He said his appearance had been quite a surprise.

"You can't help but be nervous" he remarked with a smile.

One Year's Residence Before Relief for Indigents

One year's residence rule, which will apply to relief applicants of the city of Belleville was recommended and carried at the regular committee meeting of the city council last evening.

Previously the local Chamber of Commerce had passed a resolution to that effect which had been forwarded to the city council.

The following recommendation is worded: "That the unemployment relief be granted only to bona fide residents of the city of Belleville, and to constitute such bona fide residents only those persons who have resided continuously in the City of Belleville for a period of not less than three calendar months prior to the 1st day of January, 1934.

"No person taking up residence in the City of Belleville after the 1st day of October, 1933, shall be eligible for a relief card or a rental card, nor shall such person be entitled to any measure of relief.

"Excellent," stated officials of the Central Relief Bureau when informed today that the resolution had been carried. "This should stop a lot of the transient families from moving in from the outside districts in the fall and receiving relief here in the city during the winter. It will assist us greatly."

Officials of the Central Relief Committee were also gratified at the action of council in setting the year's limit residence rule.

LINDBERGHS' EAST FLIGHTS SUSPECTED

Japanese Admiral is Outspoken Over Air Surveys

HIS INTERVIEW

He Does Not Like White Man's Superiority Complex

Tokyo, Jan. 12. — A fiery office spokesman today cast doubt on the veracity of an interview attributed to Vice-Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, commander of the navy's combined fleets in the Gendai 'magazine.

The magazine quoted the Admiral as saying Japan must prepare "and is preparing for war against herself against what appears to me to be America's policy of basically encircling Japan by every possible means."

The spokesman said the matter would be investigated and observers recalled that the head of the Japanese naval mission on the navy will be in Tokyo for a short time at a penalty for indirect utterances after the London naval conference.

Spying Suspected

Instances of encirclement, the interview quoted Admiral Suetsugu as saying, include the flights of Charles A. Lindbergh's leisurely flight along the Siberia to Japan route in 1931 and to Harold Bromley's abortive attempt to fly the Pacific in 1933.

"Some time ago, an American lieutenant-aviator flew his plane over an alleged trans-Pacific flight attempt and had to land in Hakodate we don't know where. I think the failure was purposeful."

The interview was seriously was the Bromley-Cathy attempt of Sept. 14, 1933.

Stay In Kurdles

"When Lindbergh stayed in the Kurdles over a week on excuse of bad weather. The height of his stay is grounds s* suspicion.

"America is sending great numbers of aviators to China, Siberia, Chi and Hankow. Air routes linking these places are also under planning.

"Today, Americans are surveying the Aleutian Islands on a great scale—naval officers, aeroplanes and the telegraph corps.

"I think this means an American policy to surround Japan with every possible means in the event of war between the white and the yellow races."

The interview then referred to the recurrence of Russian violations of relations and the Soviets' "perfection of armaments in the far east, where it has a stationed a strong army and a powerful air force.

"The Japanese Navy Complex

"In the event of an emergency," it concluded, "when foreign nations through the air from three directions—approach, the Japanese Empire a powerful hostile fleet with a strong air force will attack from the Pacific."

Admiral Suetsugu, since his elevation to the high command post last in September, is regarded as the coming power among Japanese Admirals.

"At the time I past," the interview concluded, "when foreign nations will be able to force Japan's obedience of two new directors, and Wesley Gray and T. W. Bamford were elected to the board. George O. Vice President last year moved up unopposed to the office of 1st Vice President. Three nominations were made for his successor, Fred Bonnell, Jr., and Norman Thwaites, Mr. Thwaites withdrew and resident of the Association. Mr. Barber was elected as 2nd Vice President for the year.

Changes in the personnel of the officers for the Association include election of two new directors, and Wesley Gray and T. W. Bamford were elected to the board. George O. Vice was recorded the honor of being elected by a unanimous vote, and the remainder of the fifteen members of the directorate are those whose names appear as endorsers of the promissory note outstanding at the Bank of Montreal.

The new executive met at the close of the meeting.

Ex-Warden R. M. Mitchell

As stated heretofore it was a harmonious meeting president R. M. Mitchell called to order shortly after 2:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon and the first item of the agenda for the proceedings was his address.

During two of depression years Mr. Mitchell he had been chosen to preside over the destines and affairs of the Old Boys' Association. Dependant on the public, he had built money to spare, the society had weathered the storm of the times and the attendance statement the treasurer would

ELECT OFFICERS

H. B. Stock, City Treasurer Unanimous Choice For President

With the president of the Association in the chair, some 60 members, of the Belleville Agricultural Society attended its annual meeting Thursday afternoon in the City Hall auditorium. It was a harmonious gathering, the President R. M. Mitchell presided over for the greater portion of the proceedings. Due to business, after election of officers had taken place, by the newly elected president for 1934, H. B. Stock, city treasurer of Belleville.

Indebtedness, Reduced

The report of the treasurer, Ambrose Dafoe, showed the Association, to be in a better financial position than it has been for some time, and proved the Belleville Fair of 1933 that has been held had rented rentals, which had enabled its officials to reduce the society's indebtedness.

Receipts of the receipts at the Fair, Augus, last, a payment of $500 had been made on a note of $2000; a bank loan of $600 had been paid off; and $300 paid the Bank Interest, Mr. Dafoe said.

The bank balance showing on the Association's statement, he followed, below, has been augmented by a refund from the Belleville Fair Board in relation to reduction in rates, and stands at present at $1,000 in the bank.

Receipts from the Fair had increased over 1932 and the success of the year previous, the prime movies had been relatively large as the economy and co-operative effort, the officers and directors of the Belleville Agricultural Association had been able to accomplish much in 1933. It was a splendid report treasurer Dafoe had to offer and a pleasure duty on his part to present such for the endorsation of his fellow members.

New officers

Ex Warden R. M. Mitchell after a term of two years as president of the Association retired as its head and was succeeded by H. B. Stock, who was elected to take his office, without opposition. Walter Anderson, Vice President last year moved up unopposed to the office of 1st Vice President. Three nominations were made for his successor, Fred Bonnell, Jr., and Norman Thwaites, Mr. Thwaites withdrew and resident of the Association. Mr. Barber was elected as 2nd Vice President for the year.

Changes in the personnel of the officers for the Association include election of two new directors, and Wesley Gray and T. W. Bamford were elected to the board. George O. PERCH BITING AND MANY ARE CAUGHT

PHEASANTS SEEN NEAR THE CITY

Pheasants have reappeared in sections of Sidney Township during the past few days after an absence of some time. Wandering indefinitely during the late fall and early winter, the birds had been noticed feeding quite close to the various farms, but after the first few falls of snowfalls, hardly a pheasant had been seen. Now they are to be in greater numbers than ever. Crossing the Trent Road west of the Institute on Thursday a cock pheasant with very fine head were observed slowly walking along. Other coveys have been seen in other localities, apparently more numerous than ever. The mystery of their disappearance has been explained by one resident of the section. After the first heavy snow the birds found refuge in the swamps and wooded sections, where they were observed less frequently. With the melting of the snow they have again taken up their quarters in the thinner brush nearer the farms. Although the present winter had been a hard one on them, it is reported, that the mortality rate of the pheasants has been low.

BISHOPS' WAR FOR LEADERS

Charge of Resisting Temporal Authorities is Cited

Berlin, Jan. 13 (CP)—Forces opposing Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller in the German Protestant Church fight over leadership and dogma, apparently have decided today to see the struggle through to the end.

Having declared in defiant statements Sunday that the must obey God before man, opposition leaders indicated they were fully aware that state interference in the church may also come at the moment they refuse to obey temporal authorities—even as they have refused to obey the Reichsbishop.

In Biblical terms, oppositionists recalled today how Christ was surrendered by the Jewish priest Caiaphas to Pilate on a charge of resisting temporal authority in being called king of the Jews.

2 SPEAKERS AT KINSMEN CLUB

Magistrate Mikel And Mayor Tice Address Members

The Kinsmen Club in their first meeting of the year Thursday evening had as their invited guests, Magistrate W. C. Mikel, K.C., who addressed the club on the coming centennial of this city's incorporation and Mayor George O. Tice mentioned the conditions in the city and the help the Kinsmen Club could be in furthering the activities of the city. President William McIntosh was in the chair, Bill Hurst conducted the community singing and Dr. Charles Adams accompanied on the piano. Bill Hurst also gave a solo, which was much appreciated. The meeting was held at Dicken's restaurant. A report of the recent dance held by the club was given by Carl Dafoe, treasurer, showing a slight balance after all expenses were paid. Secretary Walter Reid passed designs of the new badge to the members and they will be adopted in the near future. The new club member, Bob Graham, was introduced and heartily welcomed into the club. The attendance was most gratifying, there being but three absentees. The speakers of the evening were introduced by the president and the thanks of the club were expressed by Edward Lally for the Mayor's address and Reginald Butler for the review of the early life of this city by Magistrate Mikel.

Decree Signed in 1834

"There have been protests advanced that Belleville was not incorporated by March 4, 1834," said Magistrate Mikel, but the decree was signed on that date and for all purposes 1834 is the central year of the incorporation of Belleville and the 100th anniversary of the landing of the U. E. Loyalists in this district. Those people braved the early life of this district stating that the history of the Canadian people was the most absorbing tale of all mankind. Four hundred years ago, Jacques Cartier came down the St. Lawrence and 150 years ago, the Loyalists established on this soil to make their home in the wilderness of Canada. They left behind a civilization they did not love liberty but that is not true for in 1793 a law was passed abolishing slavery 70 years before the passage of the same act in the United States." The speaker told how the first child born in Upper Canada Brock with a handful of men defeated a large force from the States, leading the landing of the invading army at Kingston in 1797 and their coming to the Bay of Quinte and there given meaning in Indian "where the snakes meet" and their settlement in 1615 and later the Monks in 1665.

"Of outstanding interest to Bell is the first settler in this city, and the records that he kept, providing this generation with early information and of the man building the first brick house in the city and of the naming of the city in 1816. Magistrate Mikel concluded the club to appoint a committee to work with the city and that soon the event would be recognized and suitably observed and all citizens should co-operate only as big as the people that reside in the city. Abraham Lincoln the ancient Greece as an example. He believed every citizen should take the celebration if only a spirit of co-operation was shown.

Can Serve City

Mayor Tice thanked the officers and club for the invitation to be present and wished for them every success. The Mayor expressed the belief that the club could fill an important part in the city's activities as it embraced among men of the professional and business life of the city. He asked for co-operation and invited them to bring their ideas to the council and if worthy they be given consideration. He invited all members to take an active interest in the government of their city. His Worship told of the crucial times the city and country is passing through and he offered no reason for the cause of the depression and no cure excepting work and co-operation. "Governments have a difficult situation to handle," said the Mayor, "but times are a little better and the Dominion will emerge with a better spirit and a more human understanding of their responsibilities." The speaker mentioned the wonderful heritage left by the United Empire Loyalists to Canada and hoped that in the years, many of them descendants of these, would carry on and make for the next generation, the same fine spirit that was left to us by the Loyalists. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

GIVEN TIME TO PAY TAX

Poll-Tax Necessary to Run City Says Court

Nine local youths appeared in the local police court held this morning before Magistrate Mikel charged with non-payment of their poll tax. City solicitor A. B. Ostling, K.C., appeared on behalf of the city while the case was conducted by Assessor T. R. Ketcheson. Two of the number had paid the tax since they were summoned. The remaining seven were given until February 15 to raise the necessary $20.

Before enlarging the cases his Worship pointed out to the young men that it was necessary to collect such taxes in order to run the city and provide them with its protection in the matter of fire and police. Of course there has been certain disposition on the part of some citizens to pay the tax, but despite the fact that persons owing it have been known to attend theatres and other entertainments thus causing the tax collector to be severely criticized. A lawyer stated his worship as he urged the youths to endeavour and provide them with evidence for further trouble of embarrassment.

A charge of speeding in a motor vehicle for hire without first having a chauffeur's license was dismissed against Joseph Ganyon of Trenton through lack of sufficient evidence which magistrate Mikel stated.

Kenneth Martin of this city was given a part of the evidence dismissed after being found guilty of a charge of driving negligently when in a motor vehicle, resulting in grievous bodily harm to a small lad named Roy Miller, Trent Road. His licence was not cancelled.

The case was entered by the highway traffic department following a motor accident which occurred west of the Devil's Elbow on December 19th last when the little Miller lad was struck in the forehead by a scantling which came from a truck which Martin was driving. The little lad sustained a broken nose and bruises about the face when he struck the timber. He was walking in an eastbound direction, Martin overtaking the west-bound traffic, when the accident occurred. Martin was called on to pay the costs of the court, however.

EDDIE SHORE BACK IN U. S.

Says He is Still Nervous But Ready to Take Place in Lineup

New York, Jan. 12—(CP)—Eddie Shore, defenceman of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, tanned and apparently refreshed by three weeks in Bermuda today landed from the Monarch of Bermuda to return to his place in the Boston lineup when his suspension is lifted on Jan. 26.

Shore was suspended Dec. 13 following a game in Boston the night before in which Irvin (Ace) Bailey, Toronto star, suffered a fractured skull when knocked to the ice.

Shore himself was injured in a fight a moment later, suffering a severe gash in his head, and was in a highly nervous state for several days while Bailey lay near death in a Boston hospital.

"I'm still very nervous," Eddie said, as he waited for customs officers, to go through his baggage, "and right now I don't like the playing hockey but I expect to be back in the game Jan. 28."

"Black Crows" are Separated by Death of Chas. E. Mack

George Moran, Bereft of Mate, Once Played Belleville

IN WIZARD OF OZ

Charles E. Mack known to millions of radio fans throughout the continent as a member of the "Two Black Crows" vaudeville team, died last evening from injuries received in an automobile accident near Mesa, Arizona. George Moran, the other member of the famous radio team, Mack Sennett, motion picture producer, Mrs. Mack and Marjorie Jane Mack, daughter, all riding in the same car, escaped unhurt, except for minor cuts and bruises.

Although Charles E. Mack was not so familiarly known in this section, Moran, known in professional circles under his right name of Bert Swor, and owner of the team was at one time well known in Belleville when he played as leading comedian with the Al G. Fields minstrel show. Twenty five years ago Moran made an appearance in this city, playing in the "Wizard of Oz" and the "Red Mill" at the old Griffin's Opera House.

Paul Lakonde, old time trouper with the show, now residing in Belleville was well acquainted with Bert Swor, known as Moran to radio fans.

"Moran took the place of Fred Stone in the minstrel show" stated Mr. Lakonde today when questioned. He was always known as Bert Swor then. Later he formed the team of Moran and Mack, and the team was christened with the name of the "Two Black Crows". Mack was one of the old time troupers, just the same as Moran is."

NO PRICE CUT IN GASOLINE SEEN HERE

"Purely Local Matter in Toronto," Is Comment Heard Here

Reverberations of a gasoline war in Toronto found no echo in this city today. Motorists were still paying the regular price of gasoline, and according to local offices of various oil companies, no reduction in price is contemplated.

"As far as we're concerned it is just a matter for Toronto companies and we're not mixed up in it. Our prices are just the same," stated the office of one company. "Our prices are just the same as they have been and we've had no word from head office as all."

Another office reported that "business was as usual" and no reduction had been made.

According to Toronto papers service stations of one oil company in that city were selling gasoline "below cost" at a retail price of one penny per gallon in addition to the provincial tax of six cents additional.

Pitched Hay with Harvesters New Canadian Girl Now in Clover

ANKA MEYER- STROMFELDT

When she left Sweden for Canada a few years ago, Anka Meyer-Stromfeldt had but $40 in her purse, and knew but one word of English. That word was "Please" and she got by with it. Arrived in Canada, Miss Meyer-Stromfeldt heading for the far west and the "golden opportunity" of the harvest. Instead of the fortune she expected she found she had to masquerade as a man, do manual labor and earned little money. Hopping a freight, she came back to the east and was assisted by a young lady who sympathized with her, plight. The young lady heads the Swedish girl sing, and, well now she earns $750 a week singing over the air from a Montreal chain program. Miss Meyer-Stromfeldt now plans to head for big time radio, the stage and screen. And from the picture, you'll have to agree that Marlene Dietrich and Greta Garbo will have to look to their laurels if she ever hit Hollywood. This young Swedish girl is now a naturalized Canadian who looks like Dietrich and talks like Garbo.

HITLER GREETS A WAR-TIME PAL

Mad Competition in Creamery Business Contributes to Economic Difficulties Says Creamery Instructor

London, Ont., Jan. 12—(CP) — Mad competition in the creamery business has contributed to the economic difficulties which may lead to serious sacrifice of butter quality in Western Ontario, according to the report of J. H. Scott, chief creamery instructor, speaking to the 67th annual convention of Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario here.

Said Mr. Scott: "Owing to the low prices of butter that prevailed during the past season, we find the creamery business generally reported as showing red on their balance sheets, some of them to such an extent that they were ceased to operate, or have gone into the hands of creditors. Notwithstanding this, I suppose there has not been a year in the last decade or two in which so many permits for creameries were issued.

"Each plant opened adds to the burden of the already over burdened farmer.

"If creameries were scarce so that the cost of transportation of cream was exorbitant" then there might be some economic need of plants going in.

This need did not exist, he pointed out.

"Where there is keen competition for volume, quality will be sacrificed," continued Mr. Scott.

"Because of the discouraged attitude of the producer, caused by low prices for all his products, he is not in a mood to study the effects of poor quality, and he is receiving no assistance from the creamery men who are too busily engaged in this "mad competitive cream trucking race." The farmers in this district appear to have little confidence in the business method of creamery operators and have adopted a rather sullen attitude of 'well I'll get stung anyhow.'

"The equipment of some creameries has become so out of repair that churning, pasteurizing vats and worn out churns are causing first grade cream to make second grade butter. When producers take the necessary care to produce good cream we feel that the creameries should not be allowed to do damage by poor equipment."

Mr. Scott went on to tell of the efforts being made to increase the differential between low and high grade butter, thus encouraging appreciation of good butter in the home market which sees little but that produced locally.

COMMISSION ADVOCATED TO HANDLE ALL RELIEF

Taschereau Thinks Matter Should Be Without Political Control

Quebec, Jan. 12.—Designed to take the load off unemployment relief off the shoulders of burdened municipalities and at the same time remove it from all political control, Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec will propose to the Dominion-Provincial conference next week the appointment of commissions to handle all unemployment matters.

The Premier announced his plan in the legislature here yesterday. He proposed creation, of a system whereby the province of Quebec and the other provinces in Canada would appoint commissions to form corporations which would issue thirty or forty-year debentures, the proceeds to be used for unemployment relief.

Debentures would be guaranteed by the Dominion government and the provincial government concerned. Three men would form each corporation, one chosen by the Dominion government, one by the provincial, and the other by the two men first chosen.

Sole Control

They would be well paid and they would have sole control of all unemployment matters which would be taken completely out of political control.

Next generations, the Premier felt, must bear their share of the unprecedented distress caused by the economic turmoil of the past four years. No longer could the municipalities continue to pay one-third of unemployment relief within their borders.

Suppose, he said, under the plan the province of Quebec needed $10,000,000 a year to spend for the relief of the out-of-works. Such an expenditure, funded in 40-year four per cent. bonds, with sinking fund provisions, would cost the province but $250,000 a year, the Ottawa government also paying $250,000 a year. Municipalities would pay nothing and would be free to devote their resources to the ordinary demands made upon them.

THREE FAMILIES ON RELIEF

As evidence that times are improving Tweed village was supporting thirty-five families through relief last year at this time while there are only three families seeking aid at this time. However unless some work is provided shortly there will be several more families added to the list within a short time. — Tweed News.

FINDING A NAME

Names of some old families are bound up with the names of streets in Belleville but for many years no new names have been added though there is a growing list of names of departed residents who are recalled in nothing except their memorials in the cemetery and in the memory of some friends or relatives.

Some names stand out pre-eminently, like those of the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell and the late Sir Gilbert Parker, Bart., to speak of only two. The former was the premier of Canada, and the latter an outstanding novelist and public man, both of whom brought honor to Belleville which they loved. But Belleville has given them no mention in the names of schools, streets, parks, or squares.

Then there was the late Senator Billa Flint, whose association with Belleville was one of the features of the earlier life of the place and yet the name marks no local site.

Captain Myers who built the first brick house in Upper Canada on the brow of the east hill, is remembered by the name of a short street but Senator Corby's name is associated with a park and the public library. The name of the late Thomas Ritchie is perpetuated here in a playground.

All this is a preamble to the suggestion that some such name be the new name of Zwicky's Island. The name of one of these great men of the past might fittingly be bestowed upon the park which is to be created.

Of course there are names of living men and women after whom streets or squares might be named but it would seem to be the part of wisdom to use the name of some one of the past.

The generations change quickly enough. In Belleville today the greater part of the population is made up of those whose ancestors were not here perhaps 40 or 50 years ago. Those many newcomers and there are dangers of forgetting the past in constant movement of the newer citizens, indeed the constantly changing personnel that are taking place with such rapidity today. There will soon be another generation which knew not the war, and which will be long after even the generation which knew the war will be outstripped by the oncoming generation. It is not difficult to state with truth that many names perpetuated in Belleville in various streets are without modern counterparts among the living, that is, descendants of those who gave their names to the streets. There may be the same name in some cases, but the families are not the same.

Some say Belleville should think seriously of memorializing two great men by statues, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Gilbert Parker. One of Toronto parks has a statue of Peter Pan, the figment of a Scotsman's imagination and brain, but never a dweller upon this earth, while cities like Vancouver let the tourist rest on the great and glorious figures of their past who were just as loyal to their towns and cities as present day folk are.

SEA-SERPENTS

There are elephants in the world, many of them in Africa and quite a number in circus tents, but the world does not pay so much attention to these animals it knows about as it does to reported sea-serpents. Our own British Columbia has been the home of endless stories of mythical monsters floating in the lakes, never to be exactly seen in detail. Now over at Loch Ness in Scotland they are having something to talk about, a sea monster, and the sending of the body of a man on the shore, as well as the crunched bones of a goat support the story. Scotsmen are like the Missouri folk—they have to be shown. Yet many say they have seen the monster which inhabits the loch. One of these is Arthur Grant, veterinary student of Edinburgh. He reported as others did that the huge monster eluded him, escaping into the lake with a great splash. Grant saw a long neck with the head of an eel, two flappers, fore and aft and a tail nearly six feet long. He thought it was something between a plesiosaurus and a seal. But then Grant saw the "serpent" at one-thirty in the morning.

Well-known scientists state that there is a species of shark fifty feet in length, which has often passed for a sea-serpent. The California oar-fish is another large and grotesque fish.

Why people should be so anxious to make a sea-serpent out of it seems strange. One might think they would be satisfied to know that there are some sharks about as large as the sea-serpent is thought to be but it seems to be in accord with human nature to want something new instead of a shark. What's a shark anyway! Most people have not seen sharks though a few have seen them, but everyone has heard of them so that no one has a doubt of them. But of the sea-serpent they know nothing and every strange thing seen is of course part of a sea-serpent. It is a sea-serpent because it is mysterious.

In the ocean there may be creatures the like of which man has not seen and whose presence on a coast of any country would start stories of sea-serpents. Still the scientist does not care to state that there are not sea-serpents because he knows that one might appear suddenly and show him up.

LOVE'S MYSTERY

The world is wide, O, very wide,
Vast seas and mountains high,
Strange races, lands diversified,
Between our dwellings lie.

So wide it is that every ship
Outbound on blue sea-lane
Takes all my dreams along each trip,
Though I on land remain.

The world is wide; though not too wide
For love's bright wings to sail
Across the mountain and the tide,
Through hurricane and gale.

And though the way is very long
Which to your door would wind,
By thought of you, how sometime sweet song
Keeps ringing through my mind.

SOMETHING NEW EVERY MINUTE in this modern world of ours and if it were not for the daily newspapers folks could not keep up with the procession of events or anywhere near it. The newsgatherers of this Great Family Journal are constantly turning up things new and interesting. One of the odd pieces of current news concerns an attempt to collect a license fee for radios in public places playing copyright music. A representative of a company which claims to control over ninety per cent. of the best published vocal and instrumental music of Great Britain and America was in Belleville this week calling upon hotels where radios are operated and demanding a yearly license fee of fifteen dollars for the privilege of listening to copyrighted musical selections. It was claimed by this man on behalf of his company that radios operated in public places must pay tribute to his company which has copyright control of a large number of musical selections of a popular nature. Hotels, restaurants, dance halls, etc., would come under this category, also orchestras, while radio broadcasting stations pay a very large sum each year for the privilege of broadcasting any or all of the musical selections under copyright control of this company. This is the same company which recently entered suit against the Canadian Radio Commission, citing nine copyrighted musical selections controlled by the firm which had been broadcast from C.R.C. stations, claiming damages of $2,500. This was more or less of a test case tried in Montreal and the company's representative while in Belleville claimed that a perpetual injunction was granted prohibiting the Canadian Radio Commission from using any of the musical selections named. The question of damages was not decided. The rates asked from hotels varies from fifteen dollars a year to $500, while broadcasting stations are taxed up into the thousands, according to the company's travelling representative who stated that one Montreal broadcasting station paid $2,500 yearly to the company. A large Toronto hotel he said to pay $360 to the company on account of having radios in the guest rooms. Orchestras are also affected, it is said, and will have to cease playing copyright selections unless given permission by this company which has headquarters in Montreal but which has been in existence in the United States for several years, and has, it is said, waged considerable litigation, one case going to the Privy Council. The radio angle certainly opens a very interesting chapter on just how far copyright owners can go in protecting their property.

In connection with the above the following news despatch dated Montreal, January 10, is illuminating:

"Eight of the latest dance tunes will not be heard over the air, at least from station CRCM in Montreal, Mr. Justice Francis Curran having today granted an injunction to the Canadian Performing Rights Society against the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, operators of the station."

NO ONE FREE FROM ABSURD SUGGESTIONS

The Difference Between Delusions and Obsessions Explained

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Hygiene.

(Copyright, 1934, Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

People are continually finding themselves compelled to think, or to do things they recognize as foolish, but for the life of them they cannot stop thinking, or refuse to say says they are suffering from obsessions.

I have yet to find an individual who is absolutely free from obsessions. Absurd ideas keep popping into the mind despite everything you do to keep them out.

You find yourself feeling that something dreadful is going to happen. You experience a sense of impending danger. You don't know why. You just feel uncomfortable and it is extremely important to you to shake the feeling off.

Or, quite without any known reason, a tune suddenly occurs to you. You hum or sing or whistle it over and over again. After a time you want to get rid of it. But you find you cannot. The obsession persistence becomes annoying. You are haunted by the melody. Whether you are obsessed by it.

People of this temperament are compelled to add up the figures on the licenses of automobiles. Others have to touch every post they pass. Still others are compelled to count their step on a crack in the pavement.

There are hundreds of forms of obsessions. Some are due to very trivial thinghts and acts to serious things that may seriously undermine the nervous system.

Those who are unacquainted with the mechanisms of obsessions frequently worry about their actions. Often they think they are going insane. Fortunately few people suffer in similar fashion, they do not confide their difficulties to others and so they are permitted to allow themselves to be tormented in silence.

The important fact that distinguishes the obsession from a real insane idea, or act, such as a delusion, is the fact that an obsession is always recognized by the sufferer as a foolish thought or act.

The obsessed one has insight into his condition, we say. An insane individual does not possess such insight.

The important fact that distinguishes the obsession from the fancies of a deranged mind, namely, conscious recognition of its absurdity, is the identical factor that torments most.

People try to fight their obsessions but fail. The reason is that they do not understand from whence the obsession comes, what its cause may be.

All obsessions originate in the unconscious mind. The compulsive thoughts and acts are merely symbols of some disturbance in this unconscious mind.

You may feel that you are going to meet with a mishap because, as a child, your mother was overanxious concerning your welfare and was always cautioning you to be careful of the traffic.

A melody may continually recur to you because, when you heard it first, it roused feelings of love and romance that one time played a most important part in your life.

Obsessions can always be traced back to something else. Sometimes they stand for something quite opposite to that one might suspect. A case in point is the proverbial fad obsession habit of old maids to look under the bed before retiring.

Unless obsessions are numerous and very upsetting there is no reason for alarm. They are merely annoying.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Lamb and mutton are equally palatable and equally easy to digest. Both are more digestible than beef, provided they are tender. Although the chops are the choice cuts, taken either from the loin or legs, other parts are likewise delicious and are especially tasty when made into stew. Lamb chops should be well cooked. This is particularly important in the winter season, as a distinct digestion or one who has been ill.

HUGE LOSSES WERE SUSTAINED BY FORD

Had $22,500,000 on Deposits When Banks Failed

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Huge losses from stock in the Guardian Bank Group of Detroit were related by Edsel Ford to the United States Senate Banking Committee after testifying the Ford Motor Company had $22,500,000 on deposit when the institutions closed in the Michigan Bank Holiday.

Ford and Henry Ford told a crowded committee room that he and his father had lost "every cent" in the Guardian Group.

At one time previous testimony showed, this amount was valued at approximately $75,000,000 but since has become worth less than nothing, due to assessment of stockholders.

Did you ever notice, asks an old-time bricklayer, that about ninety per cent. of the brick chimneys in homes throughout the city take on a decided slant to the west after they have been built for a few years? Another observant bricklayer now makes a living by patching and repairing the loose bricks in a good many of them. He says there is no apparent explanation for it. "They just lean, that's all."

REPEAL—

Advent of repeal in the States has been followed by many a story but few of them are as interesting as the story of the two newspaper men who combined to kill the 18th Amendment five hours earlier than it was scheduled to die. Dom Howard, news editor of the Salt Lake Telegram (Utah) and Jennings Phillips, State House reporter, for the same newspaper stand out as the heroes of the national prohibition repeal.

It happened like this:

The delegates of Utah's repeal convention, meeting soon, had decided to recess until the night, and that, in the slang of Phillips, Wa "a crumby idea for an afternoon newspaper", Howard conceived.

Utah's big fret was to be the final ratifying vote. Everybody knew it. Then Howard had an idea and he telephoned Phillips to tell the chairman of the convention, Ray L. Coon, a rabid fan for the "spot" ratifying position, that Maine was preparing for a "fast one."

"Tell them", said Howard, "that Maine is now in as the 36th State to ratify.

"Can't be done", repling Phillips.

"Ask him if he ever heard of a palabra turning the clock back and enacting laws, and then ask him if he doesn't think Maine could reverse the order and move the clock ahead. Then tell him we have a despatch to that effect.

Excitedly and convincingly, Phillips performed the mission. Coon wasn't fooled. At least he so reported later. The delegates were hurried and called for a 15 minute recess. That was early in the day.

During the recess the "Maine story" was told and someone with a bank of shortwave radio received a press association reporter. The press association reporter was aware of the conspiracy and confirmed the story.

Vast excitement! Utah's prize spot threatened! Delegates insisted for immediate action, and got it. The result was that prohibition was repealed at 3:32 p.m. M.S.T., instead of around 7:30 or 8 p.m. M.S.T.

Then a southern town leaders, of two rival political clubs, one Republican and one Democratic, were discussing the date appointed for Sunday just before election day. Was "a crumby idea for an afternoon newspaper", Howard conceived.

Utah's big fret was to be the final ratifying vote. Everybody knew it. Then Howard had an idea

HOW ONE MAN LOST 19 LBS. FAT

Now Feels Absolutely Fit

A fat man is commonly supposed to be good-humoured, easy-going. But there is many a fat man who finds the going far from easy. The following letter describes one typical instance:—

"I used to put on weight this year, and developed stoutness in the abnormal girth was very uglv. I took Kruschen Salts each morning for a month, and reduced my weight 13 lbs. So I kept on, and have been reduced by 19 pounds. Apart from that, it has also lessened the use of headaches, and I feel absolutely fit each morning, ready for a hard day's work."—H. M.

Fat is waste matter, Kruschen effects a perfectly natural clearance of unwanted fat. Kruschen aids all excretive watery waste matter. Each tiny atom of it required to expelled Nature will eventually store it up out of the way in the form of ugly fat. TEAM TROTS INTO TOWN DRIVER DEAD

Pension Falls, Ont., Jan. 12—(CP)—A team of horses, hitched to a sleigh, loaded with wood, pranced into town with the body of James Martin, 56-year-old Verulan Township farmer, slumped in the driver's seat.

Martin loaded his sleigh, hitched his horses, and started for Pension Falls, three miles away. He died from a heart attack during the trip. The horses never missed their driver, striding into town and up the main street.

A relative of the farmer, William Martin, saw the team and called to James. There was no reply and he thought there must be something wrong. He stopped the horses, and found James dead. The farmer had been subject to a heart ailment.

Boy of 14 Years Found Dead after Saying 'I Wish You'd Shoot Me'

Seattle Jan. 11 (AP)—A boy's request to his playmates, "I wish you would shoot me, shoot me here," (pointing to his stomach) was studied by authorities today in the strange death of Prescot Marston, 14-year-old son of a socially prominent family.

The lad healthy, energetic, imaginative, died yesterday from such a wound, several hours after he had been found lying on a street corner.

Even to his mother, in his dying words, he gave no clues about the shooting.

Questions among his playmates however, disclosed he had made the request to them to shoot him several days ago. He was shot with a .22 rifle while on his way to a store.

ONLY 51-2 HRS. OF SUNLIGHT IN JANUARY

Electric lights were gleaming in darkened homes, office buildings, shops and factories and elsewhere throughout the city today on the tenth day of gloomy darkness in a month that up to the present date has produced just five and one half recorded hours of sunlight. Only five hours of this total was received on the sunniest day of the present year, January 3.

"It's unprecedented", stated officials of the weather bureau at the Dominion Entomological Laboratory on East Dundas street where a pyrenmometai sun gauge keeps accurate track of the sun's scanty rays.

And while heavy clouds still hang over the district, awaiting the city to spawn electric light meters are ticking off the rounds on their dingy dials. The month may also be a record one for consumption of electrical current. Lights have been burning more brightly and longer since the first of the year. Several business offices have fallen into the habit of leaving the lights on throughout the day, when the falling daylight through the windows has been found sufficient to provide enough illumination.

The December record is a record for consumption", stated Mr. O. H. Scott, manager of the local Hydro-Electric system today. "Whether we will create a newer record for January remains to be seen, but so far we have a good start."

The score sheet was started by Patrolman Eugene Teague whose name was added to it when he fell fatally wounded Dec. 29 during the capture of Edward Shouse, one of the escaped felons, at Paris, Ill.

On the wall Teague penciled the word "convicts" and opposite this word he entered in their "credit" the names of officers killed by

Here's what a Famous Racing Driver says about the NEW FORD V-8

FRED FRAME — famous racing driver, Winner of Indianapolis Speedway Classic 1932. Winner of Elgin Stock Car Race, 1933. Holder of twenty-one national and international world's stock-mileage records.

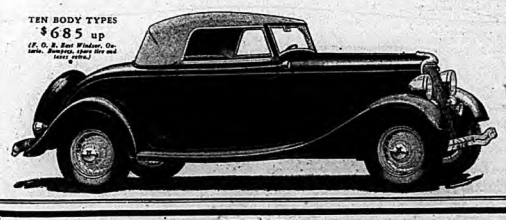
"I PICKED a Ford V-8 for the 1933 Stock Car Race at Elgin and I thought it was a great car when it brought me home in front. It takes a lot of automobile to average 80.22 miles an hour for 200 miles over a course like that. It was tough going all the way.



"When I heard that the 1934 Ford V-8 was even better than the 1933 job I was just a little doubtful. It just didn't seem possible, but I thought I'd find out.

"I could see it was better-looking but I wasn't much interested in that. The thing a racing driver looks at is the engine. How does it sound? How is it built? How fast will it go? How does it stack-up on gas and oil?

"So I took it out on the road and opened it up. It held the road like a veteran and the way that speedometer touched the top numbers was something to talk about. If I'd had that car in the Elgin race I'd have averaged closer to 90 than 80.

"You can put me down as saying this New Ford V-8 is going to go places in 1934. It's a sweet job all the way through and that new dual carburetion system is going to save you a lot of money on gasoline."

WEALTHY NOW BUT THEY KNOW THE MEANING OF "BROKE"

Clara Bow

Janet Gaynor

Zasu Pitts

Charles Farrell

Joe E. Brown

Edna May Oliver

Marie Dressler

Although modern, affluent Hollywood would seem to deny it, fact, many of the screen stars, now living glamorously, once knew what it meant to be "broke". This layout shows some of the stars who actually have felt the pangs of poverty. Charles Farrell used to mow lawns between his extra jobs before he became a star. Clara Bow once sold hot dogs on the beach at Coney Island, New York, and Marie Dressler operated a hot dog stand at the same place. Before Zasu Pitts attained movie fame, she worked as a maid in her mother's boarding house at Santa Cruz, Cal. At one time Janet Gaynor worked in a San Francisco shoe store. Strandede with a road show in Indiana, Edna May Oliver skipped her board bill, later paying it. Joe E. Brown, too, often was broke after running away from home in Toledo to join a circus at the age of nine.

PRESENT MOCK RADIO PROGRAM

3rd Sidney, Jan. 12—The members of Centenary Church met on Tuesday evening of this week at the church for their annual congregational meeting. Hot supper was served followed by a very interesting programme put on by the gentlemen of the congregation. The pastor, Rev. Plant acted as chairman in his usual efficient manner, and also delighted his hearers with a song. The special event of the evening was a mock radio program staged by the gentlemen, with Mr. Edgar Adams as chief announcer. Everything went much merriment, especially when a hockey match was announced using local ladies' names as players. There was a silver collection at this gathering to assist the choir in buying new music.

Quarterly service was observed at Aikens's Church on Sunday morning with Rev. H. B. Johnson officiating. Rev. Johnson's New Year's sermon was an inspiration to those privileged to hear this timely message.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Westover spent Sunday with Mrs. C. Moon and Miss Jennie Moon, 2nd line.

Miss Helen Hartt visited Miss Myrtle Wright on Sunday, 4th.

Mrs. A. Adams spent the week end in Belleville the guest of Miss's Marjorie Chaine.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hubble spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs Fred Moon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Bailey 2nd line, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Grills motored the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. Westover.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hubble, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hinchcliffe and Miss M. Hazard, Trenton, were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. Harley Hubble.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeffrey spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grills.

Rev. Plant paid several pastoral calls on this line on Tuesday of this week.

The parents of Sidney Cheese Factory are busy hauling ice this week for future use in the factory.

Mr. M. B. Sine is very ill with pleurisy and under the care of Dr. Ward.

Could any one locate an English boy by the name of Alfred Lugg? A Christmas letter came for him from England, care of J. A. Lott, and no one in these parts knows of a boy by that name.

Mr. and Mrs. Orloff Pearson entertained on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Acker and Mr. and Mrs. L. Houlden.

Mrs. Robert Smith has returned home from visiting her daughter and family in Rawdon.

Mrs. J. A. Lott is confined to the house with a cold.

DOROTHY DIVORCES—WANTS TO WORK

DOROTHY MACKAILL. — NEIL MILLER

Another Hollywood romance seems to have struck the shoals. The very non-committal divorce word "incompatibility" is given as the reason for the parting of Dorothy MacKaill, beautiful blond, English born screen actress, and her handsome non-professional husband Neil Miller. Miss MacKaill is reported to have stated that the separation is final, and that she expects henceforth to devote her time entirely to motion pictures. Miss MacKaill started her career as a Ziegfeld folly beauty. She was born in Hull, England. She married Miller in 1931, after a tempestuous courtship. It was her second matrimonial venture; her first having been with Lothar Mendez, German screen director.

Workaday Business World Crowds God Out of Life

Self-Sacrifice Basis of Christianity Says Rev. G. G. Wright

PRAYER SERVICE

The place of meeting for the Week of United Prayer Services was transferred to Christ Church last evening for the fourth service of the series.

With a warmed spiritual atmosphere still living the high mark of attendance was still maintained.

Rev. O. G. Wright, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association and Rector of the church, and Rev. Bishop George Marshall, vice-president, were the scheduled leaders for the evening.

The choir of Christ Church very kindly furnished the lead for congregational vocal praise.

The early exercises of the evening—the Call to Worship, the reading of the General Confession, prayer and Scripture lesson were very fervently conducted by Bishop Marshall, prior to the meditation and intercessions of the evening led by Rev. G. G. Wright.

The subject of the plan of the world-wide Revival Alliance for the last night was "National and International Life" and leading up to this vital topic the speaker dealt very usefully with "The Economic Life of the World."

"We are living in a peculiar age in machine age," declared the messenger of the hour. "The growth of cities and factories, causes us to take equal note, that in all this God has been crowded out. Workers are most concerned with their pay envelope, and size of pay cheques, and allied good business progress may have been made by this motive, but there has been not much of God in it. The people have got away from the sense of dependence upon Him. Things of human living have seemed more attractive, interesting and comfortable we have become more and more self-contained. We have been no place for God.

"How church has this generation lost sight of the Old-time thought of the destruction of the hand of God?

"The basis of Christianity is self-sacrifice, yet speculation says 'Let me make my profit first,' and practices. A desire to be first and not Jesus.

"Real wealth which can only benefit man, comes through the bounty of nature, the source of good.

"The Week of Prayer throws out a challenge to every Christian to do their part in the matter of fellowship with God, and that the nation-shall be upon the knees.

"Yet in spite of all our neglect, the bounty of God has been with us, year after year."

After Communion the speaker then illuminated upon the thought of national and international life. Referring to a prevalence of racial bitterness. the Rector declared "there is pure racial stock." He cited the mingling of various races in Canada and allowed that the world needs every racial character.

No literature of any importance has been cast out in its due translation to every other racial tongue. We are living in the closest of relationships with other nations, and every nation has a contribution to make to the happiness of the world. There have been national jealousies arise, but all must learn that brotherhood is the ideal relationship to the world's problems.

In this, what a contribution the church has to make! It is battling against envy and suspicion, even among nations. And in this where may the nations appeal to brotherhood among ourselves must be made.

The last service of the week's series will be held this evening in the same church.

Little Benny's Note Book

I had a argument almost ended up in a fite wawking home from school with Sherry Judge this afternoon, and tonite before supper I was looking out the back window of our living room waiting for mom to ring the dinner bell and pop was looking at the financial page in the evening paper and shaking his head, and all of a sudden Sherry yelled up at me from down in the alley.

Being Sherry Judge, saying What's you doing up there, funny face? and I called down, I'm looking at a poor fish of a bridgit mom in the alley, what's you doing down there, shrimp?

Wich just then Nora rang the dinner bell for supper and pop said, Disbonors are even, how about that, let's stop and taking a little sourrisshment?

KITCHENER NEARLY OUT

Kitchener, Ont., Jan. 12.—(CP)—Inability to beat the tail-end Unitversity of Toronto Blues had put about ruined Kitchener's prospects today of capturing the Ontario Senior Ontario Hockey Association playoffs.

In the first game they also registered the first victory. Strengthened by three re-instated players, Empire's Stock soared recently and they promise to make things booot by registering victories over a few of the leading teams in a way that had the other clubs worried.

Betty Aman, one of the most popular of the British screen stars, is steadily building up a reputation for herself among the British film, in French films, incidentally, so maybe that has something to do with it. She's English, though.

Cautious folk in winter may cling to the family fire-side and nurse their colds with medicine and mustard baths, but the gay and devilmay-cars young Canadians find the winter an enthralling and frivolous season and with the first snow, set out to find new thrills.

A breathless kaleidoscope of their adventures appears in "Pair and Odd", latest release in the "Sport Chat" series, filmed by Associated Screen News. As in other "Sport Chat" subjects, showing cross-sections of Canadian sport, "Pair and Odd" was directed by Gordon Sparling while Corey Thompson, famous sports broadcaster, tells the picture's narration.

The cameras capture the breathtaking take-off toboggans tearing dizzily down long steep slopes; hair-raising ski jumps through space; the clever art of ski-joring in which skiers are drawn at break-neck speed by galloping horses or whizzing aeroplanes. Again, "Pair and Odd" shows the ice-boats scudding under full sail across the frozen lakes and it shows the whirling figures of expert figure-skaters who risk their bones in strange acrobatics of the rink.

One young man whose face was red, upon arrival in England, was David Manners, young Hollywood screen star, who went over to play the leading role in "Contraband". When he arrived in Plymouth, he had a British passport and a bad cold. By the following day, when he reached London, he was told that there had been some doubt as to his true American actor should be brought from Hollywood to take his place in the picture.

Still suffering from his cold, the exasperated young man had to explain to all that he was a Canadian. Born in Halifax, and a matriculate of the University of Toronto. Fortunately, he had brought along a birth certificate in addition to his United States passport. Manners was thus enabled that he had once worked with a firm of art dealers in Regent street, London.

Invading British territory, Warner Brothers has decided to launch in the immediate future, a heavy schedule of British-made pictures, featuring American players, according to Irving Asher, head of the British film division of Warner Brothers, who has just arrived in New York from England.

Advised that until the British producers recently began to turn out a number of really fine films, Warner Brothers had been content to turn out quota film-requirements and paid little attention to these with no special desire to make much money out of them or invest too heavily in production costs.

"But," says Asher, "if American screen players, directors and writers can go over to England and produce money-making films for the British companies, there is no reason why they shouldn't do the same for the American picture firms for whom they used to work."

Three other subsequent charges of breaking and entering were read to Davis by Prosecuting Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., all of which accused pleaded guilty. The former two having received penitentiary sentences on the same charges at a previous date.

600 FAMILIES NOW ON RELIEF

Approximately six hundred heads of families are registered on the relief lists in the city at the present time. Each family has an average of four dependents. The present figures, state officials of the central bureau, have remained fairly stationary, but an exact check up is difficult owing to the fact that some registered are transient applicants who are finding odd jobs in order to help out the relief given by the office.

U.K. LEVIES NEW DUTY ON OATS AND PRODUCTS

Former Duty Was 20 P.C. Ad Valorem on Both

Ottawa, Jan. 12—(CP)—The United Kingdom has levied a new duty on oats and oat products, the Department of Trade and Commerce was advised from London today. The duty will be three shillings a 112 lbs on oats and seven shillings, sixpence on oat products for 112 lbs.

The former duty was 20 percent ad valorem for both oats and oat products. It is assumed here, that the duty does not apply to empire countries since by articles one of the great Britain-Canada agreement signed during the Imperial Economic Conference in 1932, the United Kingdom guaranteed to admit free any empire produced goods already having free access into its markets. Oats and oat products were in this class.

SAYS H. FORD WAS INCENSED

Edsel Ford's Evidence as to Extra Demands For Added Help

Washington, Jan. 12—(AP)—Evidence that the day before the Michigan Bank holiday, Henry Ford refused to give further aid to the Guardian Bank and threatened to withdraw his $25,000,000 from the rival group, the Detroit Bankers Company, was presented today to United States Senate investigators.

Shortly before, the Senate Banking Committee heard from Edsel Ford that he had advanced more than $10,000,000 to support the Guardian group of Michigan banks and that none of it had been repaid.

The young Ford explained that his father had been "incensed at demands for additional help for the frozen Guardian Banks.

Questioning by Senator Couzens (R-Mich.), Ford said his father's reference to $25,000,000 was a 'general statement' because his deposits in the Detroit Bankers Company group totalled only $18,706,000.

This, however, brought to about $50,000,000 the total deposits of the Fords in the two groups when they were closed.

PLANE DROPS INTO OCEAN

Big Wave Swallows up Wreckage And Prevents Rescue

Hove, England, Jan. 12 (AP) — An unidentified aeroplane belching smoke overturned in the air today, nosedived into the sea, and disappeared 400 yards off shore.

As the Shoreham lifeboat set out into rough water in an effort at rescue of the plane's occupants, witnesses said a big wave swallowed up the plane's wreckage.

Neither Hove nor Shoreham is on the regular cross-channel air route.

SEIZED BOOKS ARE EXHIBITED

Liquor Smuggling Ring Cases Open at Quebec

Quebec, Jan. 12 (CP)— Officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police brought an imposing array of seized documents and ledgers into court of King's Bench here today as the trial of Alfred Levesque of Notre Dame Du Lac and Antonio Graveline, Quebec, accused of conspiracy to defraud the government of $1,500,000 in customs duties through activities of a liquor smuggling ring, was continued.

Staff-Sergeant Frank W. Zannet, in charge of the R.C.M.P. investigation which resulted in the arrest of two score men as members of the rum-running ring, produced documents he said were seized at the Levesque home on October 29. Documents exhibited include letters, ledgers and accounts dealing with the shipping, buying and distribution of contraband liquor over a period of three years.

Constable Raymond Pitre, of the R.C.M.P. was also called to produce documents which he had seized on November 18, and produced a ledger containing entries dealing with payments made to Capt. Azarie Pluze, one of the 40 accused, and also of money paid for the purchase of motors in New York.

VOTE MAY BE LONG DELAYED

Believe St. Lawrence Treaty Will be Subject to Debate in Senate

Washington, Jan. 12.—The controversial St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada became entangled in senate debate today with prospects that a vote would not be reached for weeks, if at all this session.

That a decision could not be reached for a week at least was clearly indicated with the departure for Florida of Senator Copeland (D., N.Y.), one of the leading opponents of the pact.

Prepared to talk a week or more on the treaty, he was understood to have obtained a promise from administration leaders, most of whom are only lukewarm for the treaty themselves, that a vote would not be taken while he was away.

Senator Pittman (D., Nev.), the chairman of the foreign relations committee which reported the treaty favorably last session, chose to start the discussion for the proponents, with Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, a Republican member of Committee, in reserve for another speech urging ratification.

Senate Democratic leaders challenge the claims of the opposition that fifty votes are available against it, but are doubtful the pact could muster the required two-thirds for ratification.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt organized today for the contest, conferring with Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin, Republican Independent in the treaty forces.

ORDERED NOT TO ROCK BOAT

Banking Examiner Tells Why Reports Not Followed

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—A White House command "not to rock the boat" was described to United States Senate investigators today as the cause of the Government's failure to act during the Hoover Administration on Examiners' reports of bad banking conditions.

Alfred P. Leyburn, Chief National Bank Examiner, testified before the Senate Banking Committee that the Comptroller of the Currency did not act on his reports of bad conditions in the Guardian Banks of Michigan "because he was told by the higher command not to do anything to rock the boat and not to have any more bank failures."

He explained later he meant the secretary of the Treasury and the White House by the expression "higher command".

Earlier Edsel Ford had testified to his father's refusal to extend further aid to the Guardian Banks in the frantic hours before the Michigan Bank Holiday last February.

Leyburn testified the Government had done all it could to save the Detroit Banks and that criticism of the Government's part in the situation came "from the politicians up there who want to make pawns of the depositors."

The R.F.C. has been accused of being the big bad wolf that came up to Michigan that February morning and closed the banks," he said.

PROMPT CALLS FROM SHELTER

Dr White Tells of Seeing Affection Shown by Strang Sisters

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 12 (CP)—As the probe into conditions at the Windsor and District Children's Shelter resumed before Commissioner M. A. Bersoleil this morning Dr. George E. White said that in statements made by him yesterday he was not reflecting on the hospital in which Buddy Stevens died. He stressed that his statement about the Stevens chart he referred to the medical section which had not been completed and this is no responsibility of the hospital or the nursing staff.

Gerald McHugh, K.C., resumed his questioning of Dr. White who said that the shelter management had always been very prompt in calling him when children were ill and his usual procedure, if a child was very ill, to have the patient removed to hospital because of the crowded condition of the shelter and the fact that the staff has enough ordinary work to do.

Dr. White said that never had he observed any marks on children which would indicate any cruelty in treatment.

"If there was a lack of fruit or vegetables over any length of time there would be scurvy or some other indication of malnutrition and I did not see anything of that sort in the children in the shelter," said Dr. White. "I consider the children were as well fed as any group, not specially selected might be." He said he paid more particular attention to the smaller children and he found his orders were always carried out.

Dr. White said he had often seen affection displayed by the Strang sisters toward the children and he had never seen undue discipline or punishment.

Dr. White said that in his experience he had never seen bichloride poisoning in a child and his belief was it was very rare.

"I do not think that if a child were dying from bichloride poisoning the child would be asking for food a few hours before death, because action of the poison would have a directly opposite effect.

GOLD CONTROL IS SURVEYED

Study Made of Right of Government to Impound Gold

Washington, Jan. 12 — Attorney General Cummings has submitted an opinion to President Roosevelt on the question of whether the government can impound the gold of the Federal Reserve System without legislation.

This became known today as the Capitol expectantly awaited a new move by the President in his gold control programme.

Attorney General Cummings declined to disclose the nature of his opinion on Federal reserve gold.

The fact, however, that an opinion was before the President was regarded generally as showing he has this move in mind.

Should Mr. Roosevelt devalue the gold content of the dollar, he apparently wants the government to have the benefit of the added value of the $3,800,000,000 in gold held in the Federal Reserve System.

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 12.—Irregular trends again prevailed on the Standard Exchange in today's morning session with the weight of the movement slightly towards the down side. The big gold stocks had few price variations. The Base Metals and Silvers were generally firm and the oils were quiet.

In the senior gold group Lake Shore lost 50 cents to $45.00, Dome, selling ex-dividend was off 15 cents to $34.25, McIntyre showed a gain of $1.10 to $41.60, Hollinger was up 5 to $12.20 and Teck Hughes and Hargreaves were unchanged.

Price changes in the Base Metals had Nickel down 20 cents to $21.80. Noranda advanced 15 cents to $34.00 on small volume.

A heavier volume of trading developed in the silver stocks in the early afternoon and prices were marked up moderately. Eldorado, Mining Corporation, Castle and Nipissing all showing a better price level.

Trading was slow in the senior gold group with exception of Hollinger which came out in good volume. Prices were slightly off in the first two hours but firmed a little after mid-day.

Noranda, Sudbury Basin and Base Metals Corporation picked up a little and Nickel was slightly lower.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 12 (CP)—The oil shares were sold quite freely today at lower prices on the Toronto Stock Exchange in anticipation of falling revenues resulting from the gasoline price war announced today. British American, Imperial, International Petroleum, McColl and Crown Dominion all receded a half point each and Canadian Oils lost ¼ and Supertest 1⅝. The general market tone was unsteady.

Trading was less active in distillery stocks and the group was off ¼ to ½ in Walker's Common, Industrial Alcohol and Distillers Seagram. The Brewing Corporation shares moved briskly with heavy volume in the preferred accompanied by a price rise of 1⅛ to 21½. The common was off ⅛ to 9¼.

Other interlisted issues were narrowly lower, Ford A, Brazilian and C.P.R. recording losses of ¼ and Nickel off 25 cents.

Oil and brewery shares provided the action today, the former group losing ground and the brewery issues rising smartly. The general list was barely steady up till mid-afternoon.

Brewery stocks were under accumulation from the opening, particularly the Brewing Corporation issues, and Canada Malting. Brewing pfd. advanced 2½ and Canada Malting 2 points. Canada Bud also gained a point.

Distillery issues held steady and foods were generally strong.

NEW YORK FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 12—Stocks wandered about in search of a trend during the greater part of today's session. Speculative fervour seemed to have cooled somewhat, so far as the recent leading favorites were concerned, and the principal activity centred in a number of low-priced issues which usually are more or less dormant. U.S. government securities rallied and dipped while secondary bonds displayed a firm undertone.

Some of the metal shares moved up a point or more, including U. S. Smelting and American Smelting. Case, Peoples' Gas and American Commercial Alcohol also advanced around a point.

Small changes occurred in Canadian securities. International Nickel was rather active but failed to gain. Others were steady. On the curb Lake Shore Mines was about unchanged and Hiram Walker eased a minor fraction. Dominion Government bonds ruled ¼ lower to a similar fraction higher. The Canadian dollar was unchanged at $1.

Amazing Amerks Hold Leafs to 1-1 Tie and Improve Their Standing in N. H. L. Section

"Rabbit" McVeigh Plays Hero Role by Scoring The Goal

CUDE STARS

Goalie Subbing For Roach of Detroit More Than Making Good

They all look alike to New York's astonishing Americans now. The worms that turned rolled over again last night in their efforts to get out of the National Hockey League's Canadian division cellar, holding the mighty, the almost unbeatable Toronto Maple Leafs even in seventy minutes of hockey.

The team that had won only three games in seventeen as the new year rolled around and were dubbed hopeless as play-off possibilities, were right in there today fighting for a position. Their 1-1 draw with the N.H.L. champions brought them within one point distance of the Montreal Maroons and Ottawa Senators, their opposition now in the battle for second place.

Rabbit McVeigh, sharing the limelight with Aurel Joliat of Canadiens these days among veterans who don't intend to fold up a shipped out again in a Mellar role. As his team mate held the puck, Rabbit had whipped them badly twice before this season, McVeigh scored their only goal on Norman Himes' pass in the first period. Toronto's game from scoring leader Charlie Conacher's stick in the middle frame.

The 10,000 New Yorkers who recalled the 9-1 and 7-3 lacings Joe Simpson's team have taken from the Leafs this season last night in the was the most marvellous of all the amazing things these Americans have done. It emphasized their reincarnation, previously outlined in recent wins from Boston, Canadiens and Ottawa.

McVeigh's return to the heights, paced with his team's setup, found him with twelve scoring points today, enough to keep him well up with stars of the game who haven't been playing strenuous hockey for thirteen years.

Rangers Win

Americans prize upset and Rangers 5-3 win over Senators in Ottawa, featured a night of N.H.L. hockey that included two other games which failed to reach a decision. Maroons and Wings played a 1-1 draw in Detroit and Boston and Black Hawks went scoreless minutes without a goal in Chicago.

The world champion Rangers were back where world champions should be today. The two points they picked up in the capital were just enough to bring them into a tie with Chicago for top spot in the United States division standing. Their long grind to get out in front, sided since the new year with three wins in five games, ended in the Senators' third consecutive loss.

Although Murray Murdock with two goals, and Cecil Dillon, who got two assists, led the Ranger scoring attack, the famed Cook-Boucher-Cook line was the real driving force behind the New Yorkers' efforts. They played the sort of hockey only that combination can and collected five scoring points between them.

Syd Howe was the big scoring threat of the Senators, bagging two goals and assisting in the third. Both teams were in the first period, Rangers got part Beveridge with in the second and snared another couple in the final period when Senators were pressing.

Rough Play At Chicago

What Boston and Chicago lacked in scoring punch they made up in rough play that kept the 9,000 spectators in an uproar. Two majors were handed out, Joe Lamb, Boston forward, and Roger Jenkins, Hawk defenseman, drawing them for tradtional punches in the second frame.

The puck did get in the net once but a goal was not allowed. Paul Thompson, Hawk forward, banged it past his brother Tiny in the Boston nets early in the third but the play was offside.

Wilf Cude, playing in Detroit's nets while John Ross Roach rests, stood out in the Detroit-Maroon encounter as he has in every game since he joined the Wings. He stopped thirty-three shots, many of them difficult. The game's goals both came in the first period, with Laurie Aurie scoring for Wings and Russell Blinco, recently recruited from Windsor, for Maroons.

BENNY GRANT MAKES FANS LIKE HIM

Replaces Cude in Syracuse Net And Makes Good

By The Canadian Press

Jeers had changed to cheers today for "Dumping Benny" Grant, who drew the difficult assignment of replacing the brilliant Wilf Cude in the Syracuse goal, when the latter went to Detroit Red Wings. Syracuse fans, scored at the loss of Cude were not overly enthusiastic, when Grant took his place but last night they tendered the Owen Sound boy an ovation as the Stars left the ice after beating Cleveland 3-1 in an International Hockey League fixture.

Despite their win Syracuse failed to reduce the lead of Detroit who maintained their two-point margin in front of the pack by downing London Tecumseths, 3-1.

When the Hemlocks and Brockville played a 2 to 2 tie the other night it placed the local O.H.A. intermediates in the rather embarrassing position of having six games scheduled in one week, two of which are on the books for next Friday night, maybe.

As the situation now stands the local Cities Service are to meet the winner of tonight's game at Kingston in the league finals starting Monday night. The second game may be played Wednesday night and providing a third game is necessary it will be played one week from tonight. On the other hand the local intermediates who also play for the "oilmen" are scheduled to play two O.H.A. games next week, Tuesday at Belleville on Tuesday and Belleville at Campbellford on Friday next.

Manager Waller Patterson announced this morning that the Tweedsmuir-Bellevue game had been postponed indefinitely, while word from Napanee is possible chance of not being able to play at Campbellford on Friday night will be conveyed to the Hydro town tomorrow, if correct the "oilmen" win or lose the Kingston City League finals in two straight games this week Friday night's tussle at Campbellford will be 'on'.

Unless the weatherman sends down a cold snap tomorrow over the week-end the local junkers may have to take to the ice without even a chance for a workout as season workout as they are scheduled for tomorrow. Manager Hicks of the local arena next Thursday. Manager Thomas has plenty of unlired material at hand as numerous aspiring youths have been constantly enquiring as to the possibilities of trying out with the local juniors. If the weather would but tighten up for a day or so perhaps a real live junior team could be picked from the material at hand.

Following the recent press dispatch relating to a three-way trade in the International-Hockey League the following news article was taken from the London Advertiser yesterday denying the trade of "Toots" Helway. It reads: "Syracuse, Jan. 11. — Syracuse Stars of the International Hockey League obtained a needed defenseman tonight when they got Andy Bellemer from Windsor in a deal which sends Sparky Vail to London and Gus Forslund to Windsor. To complete the trade London will send Toots Helway to Windsor, the Syracuse club announced.

After reading the above yarn from Syracuse late last night, Manager Loughlin of London announced that no deal had been approved by the local club. He would not agree to such a deal as this one. London officials will attend the league meeting in Detroit today, and an acceptable deal may be made at the confab.

Recently the sports editor of the Oshawa Times took time enough from his present activities of following the more or less successful Oshawa "Imps" to write at length the so-called independent hockey now enjoyed by the Oshawa Dukes, after their entering of the O.H.A. The Oshawa key-pounder admits that the Dukes are now flirting with either a berth in the Conboy Park or Hamilton Stadium loop for Toronto which is all very nice indeed so far as their efforts are concerned just at the present time.

It has been rumored that a second senior team might be placed in Oshawa with Harold "Duke" Dadsety and Al Tyson at the helm. In reference to this proposition brought forward the motor city sport scribe says: "Al Tyson was present at the local meeting last Wednesday night, but he decided to forsake the O.H.A. and the vote was unanimous," he said. And as for "a lot of the present Dukes hesitating about jumping the fences and joining either" that's just so much eye-wash. Usher Stadium Dukes baseball players are playing O.H.A. hockey right now and they played O.R.F.U. football. There is nothing to be afraid of and even if there is, quite apparently the Oshawa players are not afraid since it was the players and not the executive alone, who voted to give up the O.H.A. franchise.

Oh, well, the grass is getting greener all the time and when the "fourth of May rolls around everything will be all cleaned up, except the weather, and we will all know just what's what. But while we are not talking with authority from the inside on it, it is the opinion that Oshawa's senior team will either play ball at Conboy Park (enclosed) either for Toronto's second Outlaw League or under the jurisdiction of the T. A. B. A. or they will be playing in the Inter-City League with the other O.C.B.L. teams—"Wontcha Come Up and See Us Some Time."

The latest reports from New York tell of a new nickname for "Babe" Ruth will perform for the Yankees at least one more season . . . . Jim Londos, Greek claimant to the wrestling championship of the world, made a host of friends when he threw Rudy Dusek in Toronto last evening . . . . while the Leafs were playing a tie with the Americans at New Gotham . . . . up at the Trenton Airport they are planning another feature boxing bout for next Thursday night, we hear.

Kings of Baseball's Realm All Receive Increase in Salary

Contracts For The Giants Have Been Put in The Mails

By EDWARD J. NEIL

Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Jan. 12—(AP)—From San Francisco to turbulent Havana, with a list of baseball players reposing in between, letter carriers are filling sacks their caps today, setting a thumb, riffling through pads of envelopes, and handing out the good news for 1934 to the world champion New York Giants.

Contracts to the kings of baseball's realm have been in the mail now over two full days and though Gauer, Terzas, Meeker, Oklahoma, and Waldo, Arkansas sound far away, the mail to gray clouds have penetrated the fastnesses by this time.

If good news travels fastest all the way from Coral Gables in the top of southpaw, down to Dolly Logue, the 54-year-old Cuban relief expert, have dropped what they were doing to read the figures on the 1934 contract secretary Jim Mulvey sent them. Most of them will get bumping good raises to add to the world series cut.

There have been reports about town that Don Carlos Hubbell jumped with this mailing into the $25,000 a year class, trailing only his manager, Bill Terry, as to figurical standing among the Giants.

Terry signed for fifty years as manager, at about $15,000 a year shortly after the world series.

Tierney snorts a bit at the reports of Hubbell's lofty elevation.

"Terry Doesn't Think So

"We never discuss our salary arrangements," he said, "Most of the boys got more. But $25,000—whew!"

As Tierney checked off the postmarks, stamped on the contract envelopes he saw, it seemed as though most of the Giants, for all their money for the first time, chose this winter as a surcease from all toil.

Little Hughie Critz, mite second baseman, goes into the cotton fields on his plantation at Greenwood, Miss., and runs into a himself while Freddy Fitzsimmons, fat right hander, pops back and forth from sprinkling grain on his chicken farm to gasoline pumps he owns in Arcadia.

But Johnny Vergez, Mel Ott and Hal Schumacher have given themselves over entirely to the delights of hunting and fishing at Alameda, Cal. Gregg Hanna, the catcher, N.Y. respectively.

Schumacher, graduated from St. Lawrence University last spring is spending the first winter out of school. He went home determined to put on weight. So far skating and skiing, along with hunting have added 12 pounds to his rawboned frame.

Travis Jackson, who subbed for Vergez at third base in the world series after Johnny came down with appendicitis, is resting his legs at Waldo, Ark., hunting a little to strengthen his knee, Awice operated upon.

Thirteen years in professional hockey is a long time. But to "Rabbit" McVeigh of Joe Simpson's New York Americans, it doesn't mean a thing—now. At start of season New York sports writers saw the writing on the wall for Charles. He couldn't get going, and took his own sweet time about getting into shape. But Simpson had faith in his man, and sat back with a satisfied grin on his face when "Rabbit" socked home three goals, one of four in the last period of a game against the speedy Canadiens. Now Gotham's scribes are taking back all they said in the early season. Hence Manager McVeigh to the skies. They ever reported how the former Regina star went over the official scorers after the game and told them that he had only scored two goals, and Jack Gross scored the other. McVeigh, now 34 years old, jumped to fame with Regina in the old western league back in 1922. He was with the Canadiens before going to New York, where he has been since 1926. He was born in Kenora, Ontario.

Frank Boucher, crafty Rangers' centre, collected a goal and an assist when his team defeated Ottawa 5-3 last night to climb up another rung in the point standings of the National Hockey League. Charlie Conacher, right winger of Toronto Maple Leafs, posted his fifteen to 25 when the Leafs tied 1-1 with Americans. Conacher retired the lone Toronto goal. Standings:

BARGAIN IN LOVE

by JANE DIXON

"Mr. Randall is away —on business." Sue, hating Herman Henschler, wishing she could strike him down. "What we do is no concern of yours."

"On business, huh? Yes—monkey business," Herman sneered. "I'm making what you do my concern, young lady, and don't you forget it. You're going to your husband where ever he is. You'll quit acting like a booby, working for a few measly dollars with him with millions. You are going to him and you're staying with him till he pays you well for beating it somewhere else. He'll be glad to fix you up for the rest of your life—to get rid of you."

Avarice. That was why Herman Henschler was here. His soft life sliding from under him.

Sue, no longer trembling. Steely now. White-hot with fury. This man had spoiled her youth, had made Tommy's young life a torment She would let him know, once and for all, how loathsome he was to her.

"How much would it cost, Herman," Sue with curling lips," to rid us of you—mother, Tommy and me? You're such a blot on our lives that any amount I might raise would be cheap if it rubbed you out."

The suddenness of the attack, the venom of it, infuriated the man. He was out of his chair instantly, his hands on Sue's shoulders. Thick crushing fingers, and his face, purple with rage, close to hers.

"You leave your mother out of this," he said thickly. "She's a decent woman. No trollop like you can interfere between me and my wife. Think your smart, eh, hooking a millionaire? Well you've lost him, ain't you? But you ain't losing me. Not by a jugful."

"Oh yes I am, Herman." Sue, trying not to think of the pain in her shoulders. "You're leaving. Peaceably, I hope. Otherwise, I'll have you removed, by force."

"You—" Herman was shaking her. Shaking her so that her head seemed about to jerk from her shoulders. should she scream? Where was Mathilda?

"Drop it!" The door burst open. Larry stood there, shoulders, hunched, fists doubled.

Now the crushing fingers, sunk deep into Sue's shoulders, relaxed. Herman Henschler turned to face a new foe.

"Who are you?" he snarled.

"I'm the guy that lays bullies low," Larry said between closed teeth. "Better scram while the scramming's good. One of these fists might get away from me and do business."

"I was just going." Herman's laugh was evil. "Gotta get up the river and collect our son Tommy. His mother thinks he'd better be where she can keep an eye on him."

"No. Oh, no! You wouldn't!" Sue tobogganing from defiance to suppliance. "He's in school. He's doing so well he loves it so—"

"Oh, wouldn't I?" Herman reclaimed his hat. "And what's to stop me? Not the likes of you, with your name a byword on decent lips. The boy's going west with me unless—"Herman twirled his hat between blunt fingers.

"Unless I buy him. Buy my own brother. That's what you want, isn't it? You want me to buy Tommy?"

"Call it anything you please. Your mother's a sick woman. Always needing doctors and medicine. They cost money."

"You know I'll take care of my mother. I am taking care of her."

"That's what I don't like. It's a husband's business to take care of his own wife, instead of you sending her the money, and her handing it out to me like it was so many diamonds."

"How much do you want?"

"Now then, daughter," Herman leered, "no use getting smart alecky. Just enough so we'll be sure we can live in comfort, your mother and me not being as young as we used to be."

Larry advanced toward Herman, fists still doubled.

"You're making a mistake dealing with this swine, Sue," he said. "Better let me take care of him."

"No Larry, please." Sue interposed herself between the two men. "I've got to think of Tommy. He's all I have." Then, to Herman: "You must give me time. I don't know what I can do—about the money."

"You'd better find out pretty quick. I got to get back to your mother. She'll be cryin' her eyes out for me."

Hate became so active in Sue she thought she must fly at Herman, beat her fists against his gross red face. She closed her eyes to shut out the temptation.

"Where can I reach you?" she asked.

"At the St. Rex Hotel. I gave your name, so they treated me to to the best room in the house. You'll get the bill. I figured Mrs. Jeffrey Randall wouldn't want her family putting up at no cheap joint."

"Then there's nothing more to be said." Sue, hoping Herman would go before the craving to unleash her claws overcame her wisdom.

"That's all for today." Herman adjusted his new brown checked suit by the lapels. "Better step on the gas, daughter. They'll be wanting to know in the St. Rex where I do my banking."

When Herman was gone Larry grumbler, "You should have let me pummel some decency into poppa's thick hide. I'd have fixed it for him to go out on a stretcher."

"I've got to save Tommy." Sue, trembling again, weak with the rage that had consumed her. "Tommy must be spared Herman, no matter what happens."

How would she deal with Herman? She'd have to take money from Jeffrey to feed Herman's greed. Why not? Security for Tommy was her main reason for entering into this bargain. That was before she knew. Knew what? That she cared for Jeffrey! That she loved Jeffrey! She did love him. No use tricking herself longer. She had loved Jeffrey from the moment he stood in the compartment of the boat train from Paris to Havre, and rumpled his red hair so that the stubborn lock at the back stood up small boy fashion. She had pretended her acceptance of his proposal of marriage on the ship was a business arrangement. That was to save her own face. Jeffrey did not offer her love. To him she was a convenience. A legal bulwark to be used and abandoned when it had served its purpose.

If only she hadn't lost her head and bought that expensive coat in Paris—the coat she almost lost overboard the night of the storm! It was the coat that brought them together, to quicken the flame of her love, scarce lighted, to foment in Jeffrey's mind the fantastic plan for saving the Randall money. Jeffrey had played the craven. Had left her to battle greed malice born at Beatrice's thwarted infatuation; evil design to snatch pleasure: injustice; ignominy; if not of death itself. Yet she loved Jeffrey. Her bargain husband. The man who abandoned and repudiated her. She loved him irrevocably infinitely.

"I'll lock that secret so far in my heart no one, not even Mathilda, will even suspect it exists." Sue, biting nails into the palms of her hands. "No one shall ever know what a complete fool I really am."

Mathilda advised that they take a day to think over Herman's demand. "I may have an inspiration," she said, "and again something may happen. Anything can happen the way we're going."

A note came to Sue's desk from Henry Hume late in the afternoon.

"Please remain until after the others have gone. There is something to be said."

Sue took the note to Mathilda.

"Remain, as he says," Mathilda advised. "I'll stay too, just outside his office' I have a key and no one will know I'm there."

"But, Matty, if I thought Henry Hume—"

"Don't think. Obey orders. Let's see what happens."

Sue was typing strenuously when five o'clock signalled the close of the day. Office machinery was sheathed and slid into its berth. A rush for subways, elevateds, suburbans.

When the offices were cleared Sue went to Henry Hume's door and rapped.

"Come in."

Sue opened the door, as she had pushed it to so many times. But this time was different. Mathilda searching files for records which did not exist, was outside the line of vision. Her presence lent a smile to Sue's entry and a cherry, "What is it, Mr. Hume?"

"I've news for you." Henry Hume sat at his desk. He lighted a cigar and offered her a cigarette.

"No, thanks, not now." Sue remained at attention.

CHAPTER 28

"Sit down, Mrs. Randall—or Miss Santry— I judge you are Miss Santry to the office." Henry Hume pushed his glasses to a bivouac on his brow. "We've succeeded in contacting Senor Jules Baltino. In Antibes, where he's living a state to which he was never accustomed, thanks to the generosity of my wife."

Sue gulping. "Mrs. Hume—is—is—"

"Supporting Senor Baltino?" Henry Hume blew smoke rings toward the ceiling. "Fortunately, yes. My agents have been able to make the senor understand he's in something of a hole. His remittance is liable to be cut off at any minute Depending on how he behaves. If he plays with me, he will net a tidy sum—in cash. If he insists on going gigolo. I shall cut off my wife's allowance and throw the matter into the courts. And courts are notoriously slow, when there is power to slow them. Also, they are not so generous with parasite wives as they used to be."

"Does Mrs. Hume know?"

"She does." Henry Hume smashed a out his cigar in a tray. "She knows you are back in my office, too. She's threatened reprisals. Her idea was to burst into these offices and make a scene."

"But she can't, possibly. I'm leaving now. I'll find another job. I'll—"

"Wait a minute. I said that was her idea. She's changed it. It's too expensive. It would cost her every dollar she's getting from me and that would mean the remittance to Baltino. She wants Baltino."

"It's horrible!" Sue, shuddering. "She scheming for the money to buy him, and he's looking for a safe bid. For security. He'd sell himself, sell her, just to be secure—to go on living the way he wants to live."

"It's been done before." Henry Hume smiled.

Sue, tingling. Her nerves a mesh of wires, which pricked and sparked. Her mind a chaos. With one sign blinking through it: Guilty. She too had bargained for security. And had bought—chaos.

Henry Hume lit another cigar.

"The world's gone material," he said. "May as well accept it and ride with the crowd. I've a proposition to make to you, Miss Santry—material for you, considerably more than material for me. Until my wife called you to my attention, you were just another name on my pay roll. Paris, for instance. If I had met you on any street in Paris, in the Champs Elysee, the Rue de la Paix, on the boulevards at night, you would have been another woman."

"I scarcely knew I was in Paris, except I bought a coat I couldn't afford," Sue said.

"Why—why yes! You're right. I didn't have the consideration to give you an occasional afternoon off, did I? More materialism. I was driving for a goal. A big deal to be closed. Well, we closed it. Then what? Money? More money, and my wife, who has been a name and not a woman to me for ten years, buys herself a gigolo. You buy a coat you can't afford and my wife buys a gigolo I won't afford. The whole trip was a waste."

"I've wished a thousand times I had never taken it."

"Wishes are fishes." Henry Hume drew geometrical figures on the blotter of his desk. "Here's my proposition, Miss Santry— may I call you Sue? Thanks. Sue, I've been watching you since you were thrust on my notice. I have the bad breaks to thank for the good break. You're the kind of a woman a man dreams about and reads about and thinks about, if he has time to think about ideals. You're a worker, Sue. You're not a digger. When you married Randall I thought you were. Then you came back to the office and went to work. You've got the heart and the courage a man needs."

"Mr. Hume. I had to come to work—"

"No, you didn't. I know all about the drawing account. Unlimited. Sue, will you do me the honor of becoming my wife? If you will, I'll set Sadie—the wife in name only—get her divorce and take on her gigolo, and I'll pay them off to live in Europe or any other place they won't bother us."

"Mr. Hume—"

"Couldn't you make it Henry? My friends call me Hal."

"Hal—I don't know what to say. You see I'm already married."

"So am I."

"Marriages are supposed to be made in heaven. I guess heaven doesn't make such a good jog of it."

"Heaven starts us out right but even an arch-angel can't stop our botching it. My proposition is open to you, Sue. Indefinitely."

Sue, clutching Mathilda's arm. Threading through traffic.

"Matty, Henry Hume proposed to me."

"Proposed what?" Mathilda jerked Sue back to the curb. The red light was glowing.

"Marriage. He wants to marry me."

"Jiminy crickets!" Mathilda all but fell off the curb. "Don't tell me that trick coat of yours flew overboard again."

That evening, talking Henry Hume's proposal over with Mathilda while they tidied the kitchen after dinner. Sue asked a rather perplexing question.

"What's the matter with me, Matty?" She confronted Mathilda, dish towel and dripping plate in hand.

"Nothing that shows," Mathilda said, surveying Sue. "Why?"

"Two men in entirely different orbits, social and traditional have offered me partnerships in the marriage business. Neither one of them so much as mentioned the word love. You'd think the tender passion the poets rave about didn't exist. I'm not such a fright. Average looks, and can wear a size sixteen without letting out the seams. Also I've proved I have enough brains to earn my own living and a bit more."

"Any man who didn't find you an eyeful of wholesome good looks would be blind," Mathilda said.

Sue put down the plate, went into the living room, studied herself in a mirror. What she saw was reassuring. In a moment she was back to resume her wiping.

"I have a heart, too," she continued. "I know because when I'm hurt it gives me lots of trouble." A heart with a secret in it that was exquisite pain—her love for Jeffrey. "I have emotions—envy, hate, love —how I used to envy rich girls their smart clothes and their expensive pleasures! I hate Herman Henschler so much the very thought of him sends me into a fever. And I love—Tommy—and you."

"It is kind of strange," Mathilda admitted. She knew another answer but this was not the time to give it.

"Maybe it's my soul that's missing". Sue, thinking aloud. "I'm shy on soul. That's why I agreed to sell myself to Jeff for money."

"Are you thinking of selling yourself to Henry Hume—for money?"

"No. I guess I must be sprouting a soul. It's a little late but if the sprout lives through the weather ahead, it may grow into a regular tree. Eventually it may even bear fruit."

Mathilda hung up the copper dishpan and polished the bottom until it was a glowing amber moon.

"Why worry about souls, when you've got a stepfather who's an extortionist, a cousin-in-law crazy with jealousy and greed, and a gigolo-chasing wife to keep you busy. Polish them off first and then worry about your soul."

TILLIE THE TOILER

By Russ Westover.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Jason Gridley leaped down the canyon side toward the lone warrior who faced the tremendous creature gliding swiftly through the air. The warrior stood awaiting his end. But he showed neither fear nor panic. He clutched his puny spear and crude stone knife, determined to die fighting. The distance between Jason and the huge stegosaurus was too great for a revolver shot to take effect, but as the American leaped downward he fired twice in succession.

The American thought he could divert the attention of the beast from its prey. Perhaps even frighen it away by the unaccustomed sound of the shots. And he guessed right. One lucky shot struck the creature, which now veered from its course, emitting a loud screaming sound. It had spied Jason and evidently attributing its hurt to this new enemy, this thing, using its tail as a rudder, and tilting its spine plates up on one side, turned in Gridley's direction.

As the two shots shattered the silence of the canyon the warrior saw the man leaping down the declivity toward him. Then he noticed the beast had turned toward the newcomer. The man could scarcely believe a stranger was deliberately risking his life to aid him. Yet there seemed no other explanation. And so, the perplexed warrior, instead of seeking safety in flight, ran swiftly toward Jason to join forces with him in combating the attack of the terrible enemy.

With wide distended jaws and uttering piercing shrieks, the stegosaurus shot toward the American. But now it presented an easy target, Jason fired rapidly with both weapons, aiming at its open mouth and thus hoping to reach the creature's brain. The strange sounds, together with the pain and shock of the bullets, proved too much for the beast. A dozen feet from Gridley, it swerved upward, and passed over his head, meantime receiving three more bullets in its belly.

present in due course shown by co-operative effort of its officers and directors the affairs of the association were on the right side of the ledger. He wished to thank them, the Belleville Parks Board, the merchants of the city, the press, the Belleville Hydro Electric Commission and all who had so wholeheartedly rendered assistance in making last year's fair a success. It had not all been sunshine going a certain element had wished the fair discontinued for a year. He felt that would have been a mistake and the treasurer's report would bear him out in that. There was no reason why the Belleville Fair should not go on to greater attainments. He thanked his fellow members for electing him to two years' term of office and in closing said the welfare of the Belleville Fair should ever be near his heart and anything he could do toward its promotion, progress and welfare, he would gladly and wholeheartedly render.

Brief Reports.

Following the presentation of the secretary's, treasurer's and auditors' reports, all of which were unanimously adopted, brief reports of the chairmen of the various committees of the association were read as follows: Finance, H. B. Stock; Midways, Jack Clarke; Races, Harry Kelcheson; Horses, Fred Denyes; Cattle, Dave Thrasher; Poultry, Jack Bodley; Swine, R. R. Dafoe; Sheep, Wesley Gray; Grain, Frank Heid; Vegetables, T. W. Bannister; Fruit, C. T. Babcock; Flowers, A. R. Symons; Space, Walter Aseltine; Fine Arts, George Sprague; Dairy.

Brief remarks were also made by Mayor George G. Tice, H. E. Fairfield, H. A. Bennett and F. J. Aseltine.

No action was taken in the matter of a spring fair and to the new board was left the dealing with the Field Crop Competitions and the appointment of delegates to the Ontario Fair Association Convention to be held in Toronto next month. Affiliation with the Central Ontario Association and the Central Ontario Fairs Association with the approval of the meeting.

Harry B. Stock in assuming the chair after the election of officers stated he was proud and honored by the bestowal of the office on him. He had been a director, secretary and treasurer of the association and had always had the ambition to be its president. He would do his utmost to fill worthily the office. Unless the Belleville Fair did something of an educational nature, he felt it had not accomplished the true intention of an agricultural society.

First vice-president Aseltine and the new second vice-president James Barber also made brief acknowledgements of the honor conferred on them and following a heartily rendered vote of thanks to the retiring president the meeting adjourned.

1934 Chevrolet has New Engine and Knee Action Wheels

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The Chevrolet Six for 1934, with an engine of new design delivering 80 horsepower, with knee - action front wheels, and with increased all-round performance, is considered the most extensively improved annual model since Chevrolet became 'a Six. The new front wheel springs are enclosed in an oil-tight housing attached rigidly to the frame, making a neat and efficient type of individual suspension. Larger and more luxurious bodies by Fisher, with improved no-draft ventilation, are offered. The prices shown below, by Master Six special sedan, and below is seen one of the coupe models.

Many Improvements Incorporated in the 1934 Chevrolet Models

The Chevrolet Six for 1934, perhaps the most extensively improved annual model since this car was stepped up to six cylinders, is being announced locally today. The new Chevrolet has an 80 h.p. engine which, according to General Motors Engineers, is the most powerful and efficient ever to be placed in a Chevrolet. The increased power, it is said, is not at the cost of economy, but is the outcome of three small increases in engine efficiency. The purpose of all this was to provide smoothness and quietness, and the results seem to be remarkable.

Besides flashing performance from the new engine, the Chevrolet presents a number of distinct chassis improvements most interesting of which is the new Knee-Action front wheel suspension of a type which contributes to a comfort in riding never before thought possible in a motor car. This independent front wheel springing gives not only improved riding but a host of other advantages. Steering stability is greatly improved and wheel fight completely eliminated.

A reduction in weight, in which the engine is located far forward and the rear-seat passengers sit slightly in front instead of above the rear axle, combines with "knee-action" to make the ride of the new 1934 Chevrolet astonishingly smooth, comfortable and easy.

In appearance, the sickness which has been a feature of Chevrolet presents a number of distinct chassis improvements most interesting of which is the new Knee-Action front wheel suspension of a type

Fisher Bodies

The 1934 line of passenger cars again features Fisher No-Draft Ventilation in all closed body types. All bodies are approximately 3 inches longer, with the cowl lengthened 1 3-4 inches and 2 inches added to the width of the closed body front doors. On the interior of the closed cars the increased body interior length is divided to provide more leg room in the front seat 2 inches more in the rear seat.

Chevrolet's 1934 power plant does not only more powerful, but smoother, quieter and more economical in the use of its predecessors. With the same bore and stroke—3-1/8 x 4 inches—this power motor has a maximum output of 80 horsepower at 3,200 revolutions per minute and produces a torque of 150 foot-pounds through a speed range from 800 r.p.m. to 2,200 r.p.m.

One of the most important improvements effected in this remarkable motor is the new "slim flame" cylinder head, development work on which was begun over three years ago and perfection of which involved literally thousands upon thousands of experimental tests.

The possibilities of this new type of head design were discovered three years ago when Chevrolet engineers were asked to develop a race-type engine with a very small piston displacement and which would deliver exceptionally high power. This naturally demanded high speed and efficient valve gear, which could be placed in the available space in the cylinder head assembly. The design which accomplished the desired purpose proved the way for the 1934 Chevrolet engine.

To explain the general changes in the cylinder head in a not too technical manner, it might be said that Chevrolet engineers succeeded in controlling detonation in the head by shortening the heat from the last gas burned and at the same time speed power and economy by not absorbing heat from gas which has been burned. This was accomplished by an entirely different arrangement of valves and spark plugs—a new angle at which they operate.

The new Chevrolet engine also embodies the results of many years' experience in providing ample water space around the valves and spark plugs by the use of a pump for most effective delivery and distribution of water. It is an entirely new method of distribution control, and the water for the pump is taken into the cylinder head and then delivered to the valve seats—a most necessity the hottest point in the head. This control is accomplished by means of eight small stamped copper nozzles pressed into the cylinder head water jacket.

Knee-Action

In design, the new front spring unit is neat, compact and efficient. The springs are enclosed in oil-tight and the double-action hydraulic shock absorbers at the ends of strong, steel horizontal arms. A forged steering knuckle is welded to the outer end of each arm. The "king pin" is locked securely. There is a plenitude of lubrication provided for all parts to reduce friction to an absolute minimum.

The steering arms are strong rectangular section forgings of alloy steel, with balls riveted to their ends on which the tie-rod and drag-link seat. This arrangement of the knuckles and their arms completely isolates the steering control from vertical wheel movement and makes for perfect road-sability and eliminates the last vestige of wheel fight.

With the increase in top speed and general all-around performance the engineers have improved the braking system more than proportionately. Brakes on the Chevrolet are of the double-acting, internal shoe type with increased brake shoe length and increased brake lining area. In addition to the actual increase in these important parts, the braking system has been completely redesigned so as to provide maximum safety and positive, yet smooth action under all deceleration conditions.

Mechanical brakes on the Standard Six in the 1934 models—a device which eliminates the startling bell-toe, the latter being coincidental with the foot accelerator.

There is the usual wide range of body models.

SEARCH NOW IN PROGRESS

Hoped Missing Plane With Four Passengers Will be Found

MOOSONEE, Ont., Jan. 12.—(CP) Clerke today alarmed the sub-Arctic as a search-plane piloted by L. H. Lymburner swept the stunted pine-lands hoping to find the plane of Doc Bibby, mineral prospector since December 20, when Bibby with a mechanic left here by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sievert to Longmanhill, Ungava.

Lymburner and an air engineer took off from here yesterday to pursue the search. They were believed heading for the opposite side of Hudson Bay, but the pilot did not state definitely just where he was going. His plane carries repair parts for Bibby's machine, and also food supplies and other necessities.

EAST WINDSOR CHIEF WILL BE RETAINED

Police Commission Decides Against Committee's Finding

East Windsor, Jan. 12.—(CP)—Chief Constable Albert (Peggy) Maisonville is not to be retired as head of the local police force as recommended by a committee from the committee of supervisors.

This decision was reached by the Police Commission last night as a climax to a lengthy investigation into activities of the police department and charges of laxity in the liquor enforcement. Favoritism on the part of police officers, and other matters connected with the enforcement.

The Commission, in its final report, criticizes the enforcement of liquor laws—particularly the Ontario Temperance Act and the present liquor control act—as enforced by Chief Maisonville and says "there has not been the degree of vigilance exercised with respect to the suppression of liquor law violations that has been given to subject demands."

It is pointed out however, that there has been some improvement shown since the appointment of the present chief constable.

Commissioners, besides the Stanley Clerke, are Reeve Howard Daby of Sandwich East Township, and Mayor Cecil Jackson of Windsor.

H.M.S. NELSON AGROUNDNEAR PORTSMOUTH

Flagship of Commander of Home Fleet in No Danger

WONDER SHIP

Oddest And Ugliest Battleship Ever Built

Portsmouth, England, Jan. 12 (AP)—H.M.S. Nelson, 33,600-ton flagship of Admiral Sir William Boyle, Commander-in-Chief of the home fleet, went aground today at the entrance to the harbor.

She appeared likely to remain there for some hours.

The Nelson was leaving with more than 1,000 officers and men to join other units of the fleet on a cruise to the West Indies.

She became stranded on the stony bottom at the narrow entrance to the harbor about an hour and a half after high tide at 7.29 o'clock this morning.

Tugs raced to the vessel's assistance.

Whether serious damage results would depend on the bit the ship takes as the tide falls, officials said.

Captain P. Macnamara is in charge of the Nelson, "wonder ship" of the British Navy and largest vessel ever to pass through the Panama Canal.

She is reputedly almost unsinkable and has been described as the oddest and ugliest battleship ever built, except her sister ship, the Rodney.

The Admiral, who is affectionately known as "Chirgee", Boyle, is a descendant of the author of Samuel Pepys Diary.

The British Admiralty announcement at 11 o'clock this morning said:

"The Nelson is aground two and one-half cables, south-southeast of Fort Blockhouse," which is the portsmouth side of the harbor. Tugs are now with her."

Well Stocked

The Nelson is fuelled and stocked with food enough to last three months. Her stores include 30 tons of flour, 15 tons of frozen meat, and 2,000 tins of milk.

But the least important in her stores is 60 gallons of rum and a ton of tobacco.

She was scheduled to lead one contingent of the home fleet to the West Indies, remaining there until February 28 and then leaving for Gibraltar to join the remainder of the home fleet and the Mediterranean fleet for combined exercises somewhere in the Atlantic.

Admiral Boyle was starting his usual foreign cruise since he took command last September.

PREMIER R.B. BENNETT SPEEDING TO OTTAWA

ops in Edmonton to Confer With Party Followers

Edmonton, Jan. 12.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was speeding toward Ottawa today after a short visit here last night.

The Premier, booking in fine form after his brief visit to the coast, was given a warm welcome by some three hundred people whom he addressed at the station shortly after his arrival.

Speaking of general conditions, he said that there had been improvement in England, France and other countries and in eastern Canada. This improvement, however, had not reached the west to the extent one could like.

The Premier declared his faith in the future. The government, he said, would be glad to do all it possibly could to promote the prosperity of every part of the country.

During his brief visit he found time to meet representatives of Conservative organizations who urged a public works program for the relief of unemployment.

JOSEPH FAHEY LAID TO REST

Former Native of This City Honored by All Walks of Life

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—Attended by a host of friends, sincere and true, but as he would have wished it, have had it, the funeral service for Joseph Fahey, was held Friday morning, January 5th, in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Austin street, Winnipeg.

The crowds that filled the church and outside the building were dense. There were representatives from almost every public body in Winnipeg present; members of the Dominion parliament, the legislature of Manitoba, the judiciary, the Board of Trade, the various departments of police service ,railwaymen from both transcontinental and the American railway systems, past and present members, and from every branch of the service: the service clubs, the fraternal men, athletic association officials, the Orange orders and the Catholic societies, a mingling and worthy assemblage expressing tribute by their presence to the high regard and esteem in which Mr. Fahey had been held over a period of 36 years' residence in the city.

Old-Timers Numerous

"One prominent citizen, who has attended many funerals in recent years, remarked: "I never saw so many old-timers gathered at one spot in my life as I have removed more fine associations this morning than at any day in my long life."

It was truly said. For the high and the lowly, the modest and the forward, professional, business and leisure classes of the life of Winnipeg mingled together, in happy associations, telling before the start of the service of many kindly acts pleasing recollections, the bright and the colorful which they could look back on in the life of "Joe".

Veterans Attend

The Army and Navy Veterans were present by hundreds." They formed a long and closely knit uncovered head line from the curb of the street to the open doors of the church, and on each side of the gateway the crowd was also numbered by hundreds.

Through this lane of sympathetic faces and forms the funeral proces. slon moved slowly on arrival from the undertaking chapel of Barker's at ten o'clock.

Notables Present

His honor the lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, Hon. James D. McGregor, led the dignitaries, which included Mayor Webb, ex-Mayor R. D. Waugh, J. T. Hale M.L.A. many military men, John Easton and Sam Larkin; Max Finkelstein, representing the Jewish charities; William Hurst, William Birt repre. senting the Conservative association; Charles Gerrie and Mr. Terrill, representing the Old-Timers' association; many notable hotel men, some of whom dated many years from away back in the dim past as among the city's chief bonifaces; W. H. D'Arcy, a representative of the railway service veterans Claude Robinson and Arthur Morrison, rep. resenting athletic associations; Senators Sharpe, Haig and Benard; civic aldermen and newspaper men.

The Army and Navy Veterans were represented by C. H. Sharp, president of the provincial command and C. H. Barnard, secretary of the provincial command Capt. T. W. Young, president of the Winnipeg unit; Capt .S. S. Delves, vice-president of the unit; George H. Maxwell, secretary-treasurer of the unit.

Church Service

Inside the edifice the beautiful music of the mass hushed and thrilled all listeners. The choir was present in large numbers. The mass was celebrated by Father Kane; the deacon, Father Mc. Aulay, and the sub-deacon was Father Macdonell, with Monsignor Cherrier, former rector, being seated in the sanctuary. The choir soloist was Maurice Celley and outside of the "echo in the mass he sang Cardinal Newman's beautiful hymn: "Lead Kindly Light".

The chief mourners were the widow, Mrs. Fahey; a son, Joseph Fahey, and a daughter, Mrs. Oliver Smith, of Chilo, Calif., who arrived Thursday night to attend.

A lengthy procession of autos went to the graveside in St. Mary's where the last rites were performed by Father Macdonell. A large variety in design of floral tributes, beautiful and with sympathetic tokens attached, were placed there by family and those rested on the graveside. Over a score were sent in by public bodies. The "Last Post" was sounded by Trumpeter Charles Honey and the Highland drone was played by Pipe Mayor John Cogbill, at the close of the church commitment.

The pall-bearers were: Honorary —Hon. James D. McGregor, lieutenant-governor of Manitoba; Lieut.-Col. Ralph H. Webb, mayor of Winnipeg; Richard D. Waugh, ex-mayor of Winnipeg; Chief Chris Newton, head of the Winnipeg police department Frank Ingram and William Barry.

The active pall-bearers were: W. J. McCappelain, past president of the Army and Navy Veterans' association; William Dickson, president of the Winnipeg Police Athletic association; J. D. McKelvie, a representative of the Scottish Amateur Athletic association; Michael Barry; Frank Powlie, and a representaitve of the North End Athletic association, of which Mr. Fahey had been honorary president since its organization over twenty years ago.—Winnipeg Free Press.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS MAY BE CONQUERED BY VACCINE

Young Canadian Doctor, Maurice Brody, on Right Track

New York, Jan. 13. A young Canadian doctor sat in a little laboratory room today, his eardrums buffeted by the chattering of monkeys in adjoining cages, and gambled on an experiment that aroused bright hopes for eventual victory in the long fight against infantile paralysis.

Dr. Maurice Brody of Ottawa, who at thirty years of age has a record of brilliant research behind him, has applied a "vaccine of formalined virus" to monkey with good results in protecting them against the disease that is to blame for more than half the human cripples in many lands the world over.

A long road lies ahead before science will know whether the new development will confer the same boon on humankind. But Dr. William H. Park, famous authority on public health, today pronounced Dr. Brody's work a "definite advance along the rocky road of experimentation.

Graduate of McGill

Dr. Brody, who was graduated from McGill University in 1928, is conducting his experiments at Willard Parker Hospital on the east side under the direction of Dr. Park. The latter is head of the city's Bureau of Health Laboratories and a professor at the New York University Bellevue Hospital Medical School.

The young doctor's method is to take infantile paralysis virus, a deadly infective agent so small that it cannot be seen even through a microscope, and treat it with formalline, a germ killer, to obtain the vaccine.

The first step is to obtain the virus from the spinal cord of monkeys that have died from paralysis. This virus is then treated with formaline (just the right amount of formalize to kill the virus and no more) and the resulting mixture kin amullion is then injected into the brains of healthy monkeys to determine whether it will infect them. Dr. Brody found it will not.

The next step is vaccination, the introduction of the vaccine through the skin of other monkeys in an attempt to render them immune from the disease. Dr. Brody discovered that many developed what he called "pretty good immunity".

In Final Stages

The monkey experiment is in its final phase. The human phase lies in the unknown future. There are many problems yet to be solved.

Dr. Brody, a dark-haired, boyish young man who evidently has a horror of the first person singular, so carefully does he omit the word "I" from his vocabulary, says merely:

"It's more or less experimental. All we can say is that it's giving good results with monkeys. We can say It's applicable to human beings. Analogies with other diseases lead us to think so, but that's all we can say."

Questioned about the ideals that lead him to spend long hours in the laboratory and over his books, striving for this blessing for the race, all he says is:

"It would be nice to do something to protect people from this disease."

All Advertising Audiences Come From the Newspaper Family

Because whatever else people may see or hear, they all have the daily newspaper reading habit.

EVERY advertiser talks to newspaper readers no matter what method of advertising he employs.

He may use letters or circulars to address his prospective customers.

He may employ advertising signs to catch the eye of those who walk or ride past.

He may broadcast a message to those who listen to the radio.

He may make his appeal through the columns of popular magazines.

But in every case, his advertising goes to habitual newspaper readers—to people who read the papers today and will read them again tomorrow.

Therefore, newspaper advertisers enjoy the unique advantage of reaching all who are reached by any advertising and many more whom only newspapers reach.

This obvious reason for the continued success of newspaper advertising should receive the thoughtful consideration of every merchant and manufacturer. Business is improving—particularly for those willing to look for it.

Newspaper advertising gets to everybody every day -- and gets there FIRST.

COUP d'ETAT THREAT AHEAD

Premier Says Riots in France May Lead to Directory

Paris, Jan. 12.—Premier Camille Chautemps warned the nation today that the Royalist riots over the Stavisky scandal held the threat of a coup d'etat to establish a "directory."

Thousands of troops were held ready to march on Paris if necessary to stamp out the disorders which have occurred in a protest against alleged complicity by government officials in the Bayonne Pawnshop collapse which cost the French public more than $40,000,000.

The president of the chamber of deputies adjourned the body suddenly this afternoon in the midst of a pandemonium which broke out when Deputy Jean Ybarnegaray charged that "the police assassinated" Inspector Stavisky, founder of the pawnshop, to hush the case and to "protect higher-ups."

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

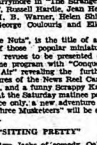
"THE SPHINX"
AND
JOE E. BROWN

Metropolitan life came into its own last night in "The Sphinx", mystery thriller which opened a 3-day run at the Capitol theatre. Speed and suspense were intermixed with thrills and realistic glimpses into police courts, newspaper offices, and other hotbeds of city activity, while the audience was taken on the inside of a frantic hunt for a desperate criminal, and treated to a drama as exciting as it was true to life. So baffling was the mystery that a sigh of relief could be heard all through the theatre when the final denouement came.

Hilarity starts to begin to take place when Jack Burton, star reporter on the Chronicle, takes it upon himself to help the police run down a criminal who has killed four check-brokers, all identically the same manner. Motivated by a desire to win a $5,000 reward, and thus be able to marry the girl he loves, Burton gets evidence against Jerome Breen, a wealthy real-estate. How Breen escapes conviction on the first trial, only to be pursued by Burton until the real criminal is brought to justice supplies a thrilling story it would be unfair to reveal here.

The acting throughout is excellent. Lionel Atwill adds new laurels to his long list of successes by his portrayal of the double role of the real-mute and his twin brother. Theodore Newton and Sheila Terry contribute cash to the performance and adequately supply love interest.

Also on the bill is Joe E. Brown in a revival of his famous comedy "You Said a Mouthful", Just a great big facetful of mirth and merriment that's Joe E. Brown as the marathon champion who didn't think he could swim till they turned him loose in the middle of the Pacific—and then he knew he couldn't. Number two for larynx for louder laughs than any other known. Comedy you've ever seen. Last night's crowds almost went into hysterics. In support of Joe E. Brown there is Ginger Rogers and Farina of "Our Gang".



AT THE BELLE

"HER SWEETHEART"

They did a scene together two years ago..... Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore. That was when they appeared before a distinguished assemblage, Miss Dressler to receive the award for an actress, Barrymore, the trophy for an actor, from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences proclaimed their respective performances the best of the year.

Now they do scenes together again, this time as co-stars teamed for the first time in "Her Sweetheart", which opens tomorrow (Saturday), at the Belle Theatre, as Metro Golden Mayer's transcription of the celebrated stage play, "The Late Christopher Bean", in which Pauline Lord was starred on Broadway.

The first scene in which the heroine of "Tugboat Annie" and the screen's famous "Sadie Thompson" played Marie Dressler's transcription of Abby, his faithful servant of many years. The story tells a drama of greed which changes the kindly doctor to a homicidal maniac seeking to rob his servant until the woman's faith guides him back into his lifelong path of honor.

Although their type of work is different both stars have a method in common. They rehearse every bit of "business", timing their action together as experienced players do, and then literally living that action. This, according to Sam Wood, the director, has never been demonstrated more clearly than in "Her Sweetheart".

Players in support of Miss Dressler and Barrymore include Helen Mack, Buddy Boone, who appeared with Barrymore in "The Stranger's Return", Russell Hardie, Jean Hersholt, H. B. Warner, Helen Shipman, George Nicholls and Ellen Lowe.

"Peck Nots", is the title of another of those popular miniature musical revues to be presented on the same bill with "Her Sweetheart" of the Air" revealing the further adventures of the News Reel Cameraman, and a funny Scrappy Karfunkle. All the Saturday matinee performance only, a new adventure of "The Three Musketeers" will be exhibited.

"SITTING PRETTY"

The two Jacks of comedy, Oakie and Haley, together with Ginger Rogers, Thelma Todd, Gregory Ratoff and Lew Cody make up the feature attraction of the all-star singing-dancing-laughing cast in Paramount's screen musical "Sitting Pretty", that closes its engagement at the Belle tomorrow.

A very interesting Belle Newsreel Charlie Chase in his latest comedy "Luncheon at 12", and a clever Krazy Kat Kartune completes the program.

EXECUTION OF P. PELLETIER

Shirt Button Played Part in Conviction at Montreal

Montreal, Jan. 12.—Phillas Pelletier in whose conviction a shirt button played a major part, was hanged early today at the Montreal jail for the murder of his cousin, Mrs. Marie-Ange Guerin, on July 20, 1933.

Evidence at the trial showed that the slayer had visited his cousin in the evening while her husband, an express company carter, was at work. The murder had been committed about nine o'clock at night and the woman's body was found the next morning by the husband when he returned from work. Death was caused by asphyxiation from a bowel pushed down the woman's throat.

Suspicious were pinned on Pelletier when a shirt button found to which there on one of his shirts from which a button was missing, was discovered by detectives near the bed on which Mrs. Guerin's body was thrown by her assailant. A plea of insanity was rejected by the court after jail alienists had reported Pelletier fit to stand trial.

Two young fresh water sailors from Ontario are resting ready to set out from Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, to brave the rigors of the Atlantic on a voyage to the West Indies. They are Carnutt Batson, aged 21, Brantford, Ontario (LEFT) and Henry Labatt of Hamilton, aged 26, (RIGHT). They are shown above with their 13-ton schooner Osolpee, a fishing schooner with a 48-foot over-all length. The two daring young sailors expect to follow the coast south in short jaunts. If they make it successfully, they will attempt to return via the St. Lawrence and Lake Ontario to Hamilton. Labatt is an experienced fresh-water sailor, having been a skipper with the Royal Hamilton Yacht Club. Anti-Lottery Law Should be Swept Into Discard Says Premier Taschereau

Proceeds Could be Voted to Charity And Education

DIVIDE EQUALLY

Says Thousands of Dollars Being Sent Annually to Ireland, France

Montreal, Jan. 12.—Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec believes the Canadian anti-lottery law should be swept into the discard and one large lottery be permitted, proceeds to be devoted to education and charity.

Declaring he would propose this at the Dominion-Provincial conference called for January 17, the Premier said the lottery should be run under authority of the Dominion government, and all money, other than prizes and expenses, divided among the provinces on a per capita basis.

Lotteries were illegal in Canada yet each year scores of thousands of Canadian dollars were going out of the country to swell the coffers of sweepstakes in Ireland and France.

Should the Dominion law be repealed, said Premier Taschereau, the lottery be held or lotteries in each province which desired to conduct them, Mr. Taschereau continued, the money would remain in Canada and millions would be brought in from other countries, especially the United States.

Lottery Illegal

Ottawa, Jan. 13—(CP)—To operate a lottery or sweepstake in Canada is a violation of the Criminal Code and, although several efforts have been made in the last few years to have the law amended, these efforts have been far from successful. Despite the statute, however, tickets for sweepstakes are still be purchased in this country, and, since these are chiefly concerned with horse-racing, scarcely a big turf event passes in the United Kingdom which does not result in the announcement of "lucky" Canadian holders of sweepstake tickets.

Parliamentary discussion on the propriety of sweepstakes has in the past been confined almost exclusively to its sentiment, there is debate on this subject is pretty much of a hardy annual. But not until now has any move to legalize sweepstakes, such as Premier Taschereau has, received the support of a provincial premier. Mr. Taschereau's proposal to be put before the Dominion-Provincial conferences, which meets in Ottawa January 17, has created considerable interest in the capital.

Meanwhile Prime Minister R. B. Bennett is en route to Ottawa from Vancouver, and private members, ministers were reticent on the subject.

PROBE WILL CLOSE TODAY

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 12.—Evidence in the investigation into charges of the Children's Shelter here is expected to end today, and counsel for Mr. Justice Lewis, Deputy Minister of Public Welfare, will retire to prepare his findings for the report to be given in progress for nearly two months. It resulted from allegations of cruelty laid against Misses Magdalene and Catherine Rogers, matron and assistant respectively of the Shelter.

Any suspicion that two children from the Shelter, who died shortly after being removed, had died from poisoning was completely dissipated yesterday when Prof. Joseph Scott, Dr. J. H. Erb and Dr. E. R. Prankish, Toronto, declared that none of the children had been poisoned. The bodies had been exhumed and examined by order of Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General.

OPINION IS DIVIDED ON LOTTERIES

Mayors of Calgary and Hamilton Approve but Opposed by W. J. Stewart of Toronto

The proposal of Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec for legalization of lotteries to aid relief funds has met a varied reception today from government and city heads throughout the Dominion. While Premier Mayer declared his opposition, the Mayors of Hamilton and Calgary stamped their approval on the suggestion.

A warning against legalization of lotteries came from Hon. W. J. Major, Manitoba's Attorney General, who declared such step would be a mistake and believed the proposal would be turned down by the Dominion-Provincial conference. He said, however, the Attorney General would.

"I am not in favor of it, certainly not at the present time," declared Mayor William Stewart of Toronto. "Lottery is a curse. Too many people have tried, to their sorrow, the ticker tape and kindred routes to fortune."

Mayor Andy Davison of Calgary declared his approval by stating "people like to take a chance and so many lotteries of one sort and another are going on in the country the government might as well legalize them." Support for Premier Taschereau's suggestion also came from Mayor Herbert Wilton of Hamilton. He said Canada was suffering is 'acute throughout the Dominion, and the funds would be welcome for the alleviation of the distress."

"Objections on the moral grounds," Mayor Wilton said, "lose weight when one considers the fact, which the government plays in the parimutuel system on Canada race tracks."

No More Harmful Than Theirs

"I don't think lotteries would be any more harmful than the race tracks right across Canada," declared C. R. Nash, General Secretary of the Canadian Legion and Navy Veterans in Canada. W. E. Bastedo, former Provincial Secretary of the Ontario Branch of the Canadian Legion, declared a lot had been taken at the Legion conventions in favor of sweepstakes or lotteries.

Premier Alberta Federation of Labor is on record in support of Premier Taschereau's suggestion while A. Richardson, in 1932, the citizens endorsed a plebiscite favoring investment trusts, and educational purposes.

Similar support was forthcoming from Rev. Dr. W. H. Sedgewick of Toronto: "I am opposed decidedly to that way of raising funds for relief purposes or for any other purpose," he said. He thought it would injure those who by private charities and create a desire among the people "to get rich quick" and added: "The medical of hardship in homes from which the breadwinner would be removed."

Dr. J. R. P. Sclater of Toronto also stood firm against lotteries. Dr. Charles Vance of Toronto declared: "I am opposed to lotteries in every way. They are a curse and do more harm than good. Other Toronto clergymen and church leaders, in other parts of the Dominion took similar stands.

FAMOUS NIAGARA BOATS ENDANGERED BY HEAVY ICE JAM

Winter has been none too kind to Niagara Falls this year, and the famous scenic boats, the Maids of the Mist, are in grave danger of high water mark, at present being smashed to pieces by the heavy ice floes. Frantic efforts are being made to raise the boats, as illustration shows the two boats locked in the ice. The falls are seen in the background.

PRESIDENT PREPARED TO TAKE OUTSTANDING GOLD

Preliminary Probably to Permanent Devaluation of American Dollar

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP) — President Roosevelt was prepared today to take over the largest hoard of outstanding gold in the United States—that held by the Federal Reserve system—as a preliminary to eventual permanent devaluation of the American dollar.

He is believed to want all of this metal monetary commodity in the treasury, along with a proper proportion of silver, to insure the power of new moves effecting the monetary policy. Just when the next step in the managed currency programme will come, Mr. Roosevelt is very carefully keeping to himself. One thing is certain, however: he intends to manage the new money programme himself.

Arguments as to whether the administration could call in the Reserve gold were not been answered calmly by the President late yesterday with the declaration that he had the power, under the Thomas amendment, to order the entire $2,600,000,000 held into the treasury's vaults.

This step is regarded as necessary by most monetary experts to insure that no outside profit would result from permanent devaluation of the dollar. This, of course, would result in an increased price for all the gold outstanding.

A burst of reportorial questions yesterday as to when and if he would call in the Federal Reserve gold and what he would do with his next dollar move, merely caused the President to smile and leave the queries answered only by a wave of his hand. He made it plain that he regarded the complete monetary problem as one outside of public discussion.

Meanwhile, both Senate and House Chambers remained quiet due to a week-end recess. Then the Senate will take up the Governed St. Lawrence pact with Canada and the House of Representatives will turn to tax matters.

BOY TRAPPER GETS BOUNTY

Brings Pelt of Big Bad Wolf to County Offices

Fourteen year old William Reavy of Marmora, Hastings county's youngest trapper, who claims that he was not afraid of the big bad wolf, proudly entered the city hall yesterday with one of the largest grey wolves ever killed in this section of some time. He applied at the office of the County Treasurer, Mr. James Haggerty and collected the $15.00 standing bounty offered for such capture.

It will be remembered that Reavy became lost on the 16th day of December last, while trapping, and during the course of his wanderings from home he managed to shoot the big animal near Crowe Lake. He returned home after an absence of some time with the pelt across his shoulders.

'CONFESSION' IS CONTESTED

Major Point of Contention in Wynekoop Murder Trial

Chicago, Jan. 13.—The much publicized "confession" Dr. Alice Wynekoop signed in the office of the operating table of her pretty daughter-in-law Rheta, is to be some the chief subject matter of controversy in her trial in criminal court for murder.

This became apparent with the announcement by attorneys for the defense they would present a motion to suppress the "confession" when the murder trial is resumed on Monday.

"We will charge that the statement was obtained by duress and as such is not legally admissible," attorneys Allen D. Smith and W. W. Smith said yesterday after the jury which is to try Dr. Wynekoop's fate had been selected.

In the statement Dr. Wynekoop said that Rheta had died of an overdose of chloroform and that she then fired a bullet into her body to give the impression that the young woman's death had been caused by an intruder. Later she repudiated the statement in its entirety.

AUSTRIANS TO EXPEL NAZIS

Leaders Concentrate in Ousting Nazis From Ranks

By Wade Werner

Associated Press Foreign Staff

Vienna, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Austrian government, in a drastic campaign against Nazi terrorists momentarily was crowded into the background today as leaders concentrated on ousting Nazis from their ranks.

They aimed particularly at Nazis in key positions in the civil service and influential posts in the Fascist Heimwehr, or Home Guard.

By arresting the Heimwehr Chieftain, Count Johann Alberti in the act of negotiating secretly with the Nazi leader Alfred R. Frauenfeld, Vice Chancellor Emil Fey yesterday started a shakeup designed to draw a clear line between pro-Dollfuss Heimwehrmen and those inclined to compromise with the Nazis.

A communique said the Count submitted his resignation as soon as it became known that he had been dealing with Frauenfeld.

Meanwhile, the Cabinet last night appointed a new functionary — Kommissar of Personnel—whose duty it will be to purge the government service of Nazis, no matter how high their positions.

As the same time, Fey, as the new Minister of Public Security, planned to purify police and Gendarmerie ranks from Hitlerite tendencies.

WAX RECORDS 'PHONE TALKS

Crooner Gives Court Story as to Conversations of Wife

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Life, less variike that which the voice of Rudy Vallee so often has created with crownings of love, spoke its story for the public ear today.

On evidence provided by transcriptions of the telephone conversations between his wife and others, one of them was Gilbert Leon, an adagio dancer—Vallee won the right yesterday to sue for divorce wherever he chooses.

The specific ruling was a refusal by the Appellate Court to grant a petition of Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee by which she sought to bar the soft-singing maestro from seeking a Mexican divorce.

The transcriptions, obtained by a secret simple device attached to a telephone extension and without the necessity of wire tapping, "fed Vallee to tell the court, in his affidavit that:

His wife carried on her affair with Leon right under my roof, "shocking unbelievable."

(Last night on the West Coast, where the principals of the action are located at present, denials of some the charges made on the part of both Mrs. Vallee and Leon).

The large plant was wrecked, with damage estimated at approximately $50,000.

"The threatened shortage for the rest of the fiscal year (hitherto set at $5,000,000) now is cut to about $2,500,000," said Deputy Treasurer Albert E. Cobo.

Milord and Milady Tolerant with Butler After His Night Out

By HOMER McCOY

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—If the admirable Jeeves didn't go about his buttering with his customary efficiency today, no matter.

Milord and Milady were inclined to be tolerant about it; for Jeeves had his filing and this was his morning after.

He had come to the Butler's Ball, held last night in the Grand Ballroom of one of Manhattan's swanky hotels. Also at the affair were 2,999 of society's gay butlers, stewards, maids and chauffeurs.

For one long evening and well into the little hours he lired the life to which he had so long been a spectator. He dined and danced and was catered to.

Also in the event was termented, the first American version of the English institution.

Mrs. Marshall Field was the promoter of the ball and charity was the beneficiary.

The Bellevue Hospital Family Welfare Social Service got the proceeds. Single tickets—$2.50; boxes, $5.

The ball brought out a surprising fact and sparked a literary chimeras. For Jeeves—good old Jeeves—was not present. His name is used in this story in a generic sense).

Look who was there, however. No end of butlers, whose names bend themselves too perfectly to the crisp, genteel command.

Host. Stafford and Goodchile Pitts Brookson, Kidd and Marsland. Astrubia, and Wayne.

Good man Monday was present; Friday, absent.

Formal attire was not compulsory. But the Butlers' Committee decided to this day off, most of the butlers wore tails, white tie and shirt.

The maids, they directed, sedately over the dance-floor were a gifted young replacement for the rascal in Fifth Avenue's latest Frocks, the spectator. He dined and danced and was catered to.

Remaining there for a few years, he returned to Springbrook where he settled on the farm on which he spent the remainder of his live.

Mr. Thompson held municipal offices such as councillor, were member of the county council, being assessor for many years. Thus he gained an intimate knowledge of the land values of the township, and which he was regarded as an authority. He was also Justice of the Peace and occupied his office as the name signified. He never held a court, but strove to get the people to settle their differences amicably. His counsel was sought by the whole community for he possessed their complete confidence. He was president of the local cheese factory for forty-four years, and a member of the Grange Lodge for over fifty years.

The church held a prior claim upon his loyalty. For many years he was superintendent of the Sunday school, and member of the official board of the Methodist church, later the United, and was regarded as a thoroughly consistent leader of the church. His ministers always found him and his wife and children, their most beloved friends and the Thompson home was often called by them, "the preacher's home". When the local church was celebrating its golden jubilee, it was Mr. Thompson who assembled the facts of its history, and gave personal reminiscences of its earlier days.

"SKINNER'S DRESS SUIT" CAST SCORES TRIUMPH AT COLLEGIATE

Annual Y's Men's Play Splendidly Enacted Last Evening

LARGE AUDIENCE

Directed by Jessie B. Tuite, Play Delights And Amuses

"Skinner's Dress Suit", that inimitable comedy of a cautious cashier's plunge into high society and big business was splendidly put to a large audience in the Collegiate Auditorium last evening under the Y's Men's Club last evening, the performance adding further laurels to those already won by the dramatic offerings of the club.

Seldom has such a well-balanced, well-sustained presentation been seen on the Belleville amateur stage. Each player seemed to have a special aptitude for his or her own part and in the role of Skinner, Stanley Wilbur was splendid. There was not one weak character in the cast and the success of the play was assured from the start.

Everyone is more or less familiar with the story of "Skinner's Dress Suit." As a hard-working but not very dashing young man Skinner made a poor showing in a business office where breezy, well dressed society men were the preference. At the insistence of "Honey" Rutherford, whom he wished to become engaged, Skinner asks his manager for a raise and when this is refused, he hesitates to tell "Honey" so gives himself credit for a $5 increase in salary from his own bank book. The first thing "Honey" notices is a dress suit and accessories, then attending the Charity Ball at which the heroine Mrs. Colby is patroness. He and Honey attend, much to Skinner's dismay as his employers suspect that Skinner must be playing the market with the firm's money.

Skinner is given a holiday ostensibly so he can secure the services of the hard-headed Andrew Jackson but in reality to allow his books to be examined. Skinner's books are found to be correct, he cleverly interesting Jackson in a deal to his interest in the firm and "Honey."

Mrs. Skinner's performance was excellent. He entered thoroughly into the spirit of the part and made the lovable and harassed Skinner very real. Skinner felt the most at ease in the witty lines of the evening and he gave full value to them. Mrs. Skinner's part was splendidly played by Sylva Ross, a charming, talented young lady who is a Toronto Skinner who inspired him to do great things.

Harvey Ross was the brisk and unscrupulous salesman, Mr. Briggs, and his quick-change art in getting he played it very well indeed. Briggs' attempt at all times, to hurt Skinner in every way but is always repulsed.

Gerald Graham and Kenneth Munnings as McLaughlin and Perkins of the firm of McLaughlin and Perkins added to the enjoyment of the play by their clever impersonations of business men haunted by the fear of losing a large account.

Russell Hackborn, as Andrew Jackson, the cause of their worry, had a difficult role, well handled, and Andrew Jackson, irritable and blustering but one point on which Skinner can work—his desire to make his wife happy.

Mrs. Jackson was excellently played by Helen Sulman. The western wife of Andrew Jackson has known hard work but when the money will not give her the entry into society, "Honey's" friendship for Mrs. Colby secures this, Mrs. Jackson wants for by seeing that the coveted contract is given Skinner.

Mildred Lloyd as Mrs. McLaughlin; Edith K. Budden as the stately Mrs. Colby and Miss Eleanor Bone as Olivia play their roles of "Honey's" influential friends to advantage. Miss Culbar as Thomas, the office boy, is seen only for a brief time but made the most of his role.

Miss Jessie B. Tuite, the play was one of real enjoyment and shows a high standard at which future plays must aim.

Much admiration was aroused by the loveliness of the gowns in the production, the velvets, drapes, and silver flare of Honey's evening gown being especially effective.

Mrs. Tuite's business manager and Bill Gerard, stage manager, were most efficient in carrying out their duties.

BOY ARRESTED TAKING IRON

Admits Systematic Thefts From Scrap Iron Pile For Weeks

Daily for the past few weeks a small quantity of iron has been regularly disappearing each day from a scrap-iron pile on the Fruit Machinery Company in Belleville, much to the consternation and disapproval of the company's officials.

Despite the efforts of the police the thefts continued until early last evening when a youthful culprit was caught red-handed wending his way slowly up Bridge street with a large sack in hand and sleigh.

Plainclothes Constable Isard followed the youngster until he had pulled his heavy load past the Grand Trunk and Bridge street corner near Ledi's dam. Here the lad struck in a northerly direction until he approached his home. At the office of the company the youth and after examining the load discovered it consisted of scrap iron. The youth later admitted taking from the scrap iron heap at the rear of the Fruit Machinery Company.

Upon further questioning at the police station the boy confessed he had made daily trips, between 6.00 and 7.00 p.m., when it was dark, down the river on the ice, procured a small load of scrap iron and returned home. Recently he had taken nearly 500 pounds of the iron which he sold to a local junk dealer for the large sum of $1.00. No charges have been laid against the youth as yet although the matter of restitution is being contemplated as those in authority believe the youth has received a lesson sufficient to warn him of future misdeeds. He will appear before the Chief of Police this afternoon in answer to the matter.

SKUNK, GROUNDHOGS, DUCKS AID PROPHET

Sidney Township's and Belleville's unofficial weather forecasters could be permitted to do a little self-back-patting today as further signs that winter is dying and spring is near, reveal themselves to residents of the district. Near Foxboro on Friday evening the odor of a healthy wandering skunk was plainly evident on the balmy air, while other reliable hogs have been seen during the past few days near Shadoc. Groundhog wild duck was observed paddling in the open current in the Moira River just above the upper bridge on Friday morning, later Friday noon, while workers on Zwick's Island state that during the late afternoon Friday another flying wedge of wild ducks were seen flying from the South.

The new owners are making extensive alterations and are later adding an up-to-date soda fountain.

The shop will be known as the "Theatre Shoppe" from now on.

Annual Meeting

Ways and means of improving the beauty of Trenton with the addition of planting shrubs, flowers and trees were discussed at the annual meeting of the Trenton Horticultural Society which was held in the Town Hall last night.

A representative body of citizens who are interested in the work of beautifying the limits of the corporation, were present at the meeting when it opened at seven-thirty. The president, Mr. J. A. Sutcliffe, outlined the purpose of the meeting during the past year touching on some of the difficulties that had been encountered. He said that the membership was small but hoped that it had been in past years but held out hopes that this would be increased this season. Despite the inclement weather and the lower legislative grants of last year some new work had been added while the older beds had been kept up.

Mr. J. C. Gillan, secretary, treasurer of the society read a report following which it was moved by Mr. E. T. Fraser, and seconded by Mr. Geo. VanAdair, that the report be duly adopted. Mr. E. T. Fraser, treasurer, read his report which showed receipts of $3834.34 and expenditures of $3675.79 with a balance in the bank of $141.51. In commenting on the situation of the past year the treasurer pointed out that not all the beds were in the best of condition and some of the flowers which were said that it was going to be a little difficult to get the same splendid results this year as they have been accustomed to in the past. The election of officers followed which resulted as follows:

Honorary Presidents—Mayor H. R. Over; Mr. Fraser, M.P., and W. H. Ireland, M.P.P.

President—J. A. Sutcliffe.

Vice Presidents—Mrs. Hugh O. VanAlstine and Rev. A. K. Edmison.

Secretary—J. C. Gillan.

Treasurer—E. T. Fraser.

1934 Directors — Mrs. George Sprenkell, Mrs. Wesley Connell, Miss M. Payne, Mrs. Stewart Hoovy, Mr. E. Bateman, Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P.

1933 Directors were re-appointed for 1934 and 1935, namely Mr. M. W. Andison, Mr. T. A. Hicks, Mrs. C. V. Wilkins, Mrs. Russell Haines, Mrs. Hugh Ross.

Auditors — Messrs. W. George Sprenkell and C. Howard Jarrett.

The suggestion was made by Rev. Mr. Edmison that a post be formed of a resolution that the next general meeting be held on Wednesday night nearest the middle of March. This was seconded and moved by Mrs. George Sprenkell and duly carried. Rev. Mr. Edmison also suggested that the Horticultural Society might stress the improvement of the bay front this coming summer and in order to stimulate better help from the Parks Board would put up a prize as an inducement. Several members pointed out that Trenton was placed in a rather difficult position in this regard with the shortage of water has forced them to put a ban on the use of it. The president added that his favorite idiosyncrasy in the lawns, although he realized it was difficult had been considerable improvement during the past years. Preliminary plots were laid to get the canvassers out when the weather arrives.

SPRIGHTLY YOUTH OF CITY PARTIAL TO THE TUXEDO

Not Enough Freedom in Formal Suit of Swallow-tail

The larger centres can have their swallowtail suits and claw-hammer ensembles for the formal occasions for which they were intended, but sprightly youth, and even the sobersiders of this city will still stick to the tuxedo for correctness and comfort on the semi-formal occasions and even formal occasions where propriety demands.

That's the verdict of leading tailors of the city when questioned today.

A canvass of a number of prominent citizens and leaders in business is overwhelmingly supported. A few have the correct swallowtail suit, with satin lapels, but the majority are rummaging to unearth them. Most of the suits have been packed in the moth balls for a long time, reserved only for the event of inspection and funerals and other occasions. Flug hats are correspondingly scarce.

"I think the tuxedo suit is as much as distinguished on a man," gushed a pretty typist in one business office, who was briefly interviewed. "The long coats make them look so tall—and so very different. One gets tired looking at common tuxedos all the time."

"Give me a man with a tuxedo every time," softly breathed a second typist in another office. "I abhor that starchy looking claw hammer suits with the long tails. Men look so funny when they wear them."

But a tuxedo, ah, they seem correct all the time, "So that was that.

"Tuxedos are still ten times more for every swallowtail ordered," stated one of the most prominent tailors in the city. "Young and old seem to prefer them any time in preference to the more dignified claw hammers. We better still ensures a brief splurge of popularity now and then you'll notice, but the tuxedo is here to stay always. In the larger cities there has been a slight revival in the swallow tail but their popularity will be only short lived. The tuxedo is here to stay again."

"The claw hammer, or full dress is the proper thing for formal wear, but the fact that not many of them are sold in Belleville is probably because there are so few really formal occasions here. Another reason is Front street tailor.

"Although I fill a lot of orders for tuxedos, I do have a call now and then, but they are more dignified ones suit. Mostly they are requested by the older men. The older men always like to be more correctly attired in dress, however. For example they know that the tuxedo should never be worn always when in company with ladies. The tux is all right for smokers and men's gatherings, but the full dress is absolutely correct always."

And morning coats and striped trousers? Very rarely by the bridegroom but a fair percentage of the city's business men wear practically all of them. If a census were taken it would be found that a good many own them, even if their chances for wearing the striking ensemble are limited in this city.

Runs Half Mile, Five Miles, Marathon Distance and Plays Football All in Afternoon

Fort Erie, Ont., Jan 13 (CP)—Forty years ago he was the best halfmile champion of Ontario. He could run a marathon better than most of them and a five-mile jaunt in competition was just a warm-up for him. He knew all the tricks in the book and a few besides.

Mere William Scherrer is a mighty athlete back before the turn of the century. He wasn't the best of Waterloo County but it's a wonder he wasn't. Twenty-seven years ago Scherrer is a corpulent, mild-mannered man, resident of the Lake Erie shore near the trunk road to Port Erie.

When he talks he can tell you stories. He recalls the day when he rode in a horse-drawn buggy from Waterloo to New Hamburg to compete in a half-mile race which he won. He returned to Berlin (now Kitchener) in the early afternoon and captured a five-mile race.

That was a pretty hard day's work, but the Scherrer of the 80's had a constitution that was to see 25-mile marathon later in the afternoon. As Bill's soccer team was playing that day, he spent 90 minutes on the football field as well. Whew, oh?

Bill Scherrer had his fun too. One of his favorite tricks was to ride a country fair and make a wager that he could beat his horse in a 440 yard dash. He would provide in his agreement that a gun must be used to start the race. And they'd take all or Bill's money they would get.

"All set, ready-to-go," would say the starter and with the gun Bill would be away. The horse, frightened by the gun's discharge, would invariably rear. Bill would cross the finish line before the horse had started and collect his winnings.

Those were days, says Mr. Scherrer. There were some iron-man days there was all fun.

GEORGE ROBB DIES AGED 70

Member of Pioneer Railway Family Brother of W. D. Robb

George Watson Robb, former railroad and industrial figure, and brother of W. D. Robb, ex-vice-president of the Canadian National Railways died yesterday, at his home, 236 Strathearn avenue, Montreal, West. He was 70 years of age.

G. W. Robb came from a pioneer railroad family and for a great part of his life was associated with various roads in Canada and United States. On his retirement from railroading he entered industrial life and was president of the Federal Distillery Limited, Watson Rye Limited and McInnes and Hunt Limited. He retired from active business a few years ago.

Mr. Robb was well-known in Montreal and throughout Canada. Noted for a genial, kindly disposition, he made a host of friends during his lifetime, in and out of railroading and industry. He was born in Montreal, the son of the late Joseph Morrison Robb, a foreman with the Grand Trunk Railway, and Susan Dole. He was educated at St. Francis College, Richmond, Que., and commenced his railroading with the G.T.R. in 1882, at Brockville, Ont.

In 1884 Mr. Robb became associated with the Canadian Pacific Railway at Kingston, and four years later joined the Great Northern Railway as locomotive foreman. He later went to the Chicago and Great Western R.R. at Des Moines, but returned to Canada as general foreman with the Canada Atlantic Railway at Ottawa. Joining the Grand Trunk Railway shortly after, he was made master mechanic and in 1900, superintendent of motive power at Winnipeg.

He left Winnipeg in 1904 as master mechanic of the Intercolonial, and four years later was appointed superintendent of Western Division. He was promoted to assistant general manager for the Provincial Supply Company. He was appointed manager of the Robb and Stevens Supply Company in 1907, became superintendent of Watson Robb Limited two years later, and was subsequently president of Federal Distillery Limited in 1923 and retired a few years later.

Mr. Robb married Elizabeth Caroline White, of Perth, Ont., in 1890. She predeceased him several years ago. He was a member of the Marlborough Golf Club and the Canadian Club. Surviving are one son, Douglas Robb, of Winnipeg; a daughter, Christina Robb, of Montreal West; two brothers, W. D. Robb, former vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, and Gordon Robb, of Chicago; and one sister, Mrs. Thomas Rochford of Toronto.

The funeral service will be held at 236 Strathearn avenue, Montreal West, on Monday morning, Burial will take place at Smith's Falls, Ont., on Monday morning.

NEW IMPETUS WATERWAYS

Bay of Quinte Would Benefit Greatly by Having Work Done

Realization of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway scheme will be one of the greatest benefits Ontario has received in modern times, according to a statement of business men of this city who were questioned today on the matter. Belleville, it was pointed out, is one of the important ports, will or should benefit greatly by the scheme.

"It should be a great asset, not only to Belleville, but to the whole district," stated Mr. J. C. Herity, secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. "It's a thing that should want to make us all take off our coats and work hard for," he added.

Trade and industry all through Ontario would receive a great impetus it was pointed out. Exports from the west and overseas would find their way in a steady stream up and down the lakes, and even into the inland waters of the city the larger ocean vessels couldn't make port here, the smaller freighters should find it profitable enough to make this city their port of call on regular runs. Cheaper transportation which would naturally follow the opening up of the Canadian trade channels would be of great benefit, not only to local manufacturers, but to others throughout the district.

Although not in the merchant action, Captain George R. Strachan of this city, veteran lake sailor, stated that the Bay of Quinte should find the scheme a profitable one, and only locally in the harbor, but in the Narrows, also."

NO WORD FROM RESCUE PLANE

Cannot Communicate With Radio While Machine in Flight

Moosonee, Ont., Jan. 13 (CP)—Anxious eyes looked to the north today as Moosonee awaited the return of a rescue plane piloted by Flt. Lieut. Leonard Stevens, which is seeking the ship piloted by R. H. Bibby. Not since Bibby left here on December 30th, has anything been heard of him. Whether he, with a mechanic and two passengers ever landed at his destination, Pervyanskik, Ungava's ice town. The pilot was due back on January 3rd, but failed to return.

Lumbering took off on Thursday, intending to skirt the shores of Hudson Bay over the 1,000 mile route taken by Bibby. But just what the rescue pilot's intentions were is unknown. He is not equipped with wireless but he cannot use the set while the ship is in flight, and no word has yet been received from him.

PLACE OF THE KINGSHIP

One man went too far in his free speech and now he seeks to explain away what has aroused a storm of protest from all parts of Great Britain. It was Sir Stafford Cripps, a British Labor leader, who said that the Labor party when it attained power would have to overcome opposition from Buckingham Palace. These words brought him blame for dragging the Crown into party controversy. He explains now that by Buckingham Palace he meant not the King but the officials and others of which the palace is a symbol.

Sir Stafford has tacitly admitted that no one has a right to draw the Crown into controversy and that the King stands outside of politics and beyond the sphere of party strife and warfare.

Most people will probably believe that his explanation is rather weak and unsatisfying.

Britain has through the course of generations developed a system of the monarchy which leaves the King free from party affiliation. The importance of this is clear and one has but to compare the strife which now overspreads premiers with the atmosphere in which the King as the head of the state moves. The Kingship in Britain is one of the greatest achievements of British development. Kings where not limited, and where not in an atmosphere free from the strife of the moment, have mostly failed but no matter what the future development of the British system there is no fear of the place which the King will hold.

Sir Stafford Cripps forgot himself or spoke in anger or excitement. His haste to explain away the position of the British throne is understood by the mass of the people and by Cripps himself.

POLITICS NOT DEGRADING

Some unfortunately see politics as vulgar and beneath the notice of respectable persons. This was the fault which the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Minister of Justice, brought before the Womens Canadian Club at Quebec on Thursday. Mr. Lapointe might have come into Ontario and found such a feeling existing among certain people.

Mr. Lapointe pointed out the strangeness of this that anything having to do with ruling and the progress of a people should be regarded as degrading, and showed that the basis of politics was after all human nature with its weaknesses and imperfections as well as its good points. "One should not deny politics because one dislikes this or that politician," remarked the former Minister of Justice, adding that "if politics is wrong it should not be allowed to remain so," and went on to ask if those lookers-on were not responsible to fill those positions they find so ill-occupied.

As a cure for this attitude he asked the young to fight for what they believed was true and just, in spite of difficulties. There never was a time when democracy was being so tested as today and it is essential to study the principles of parliamentary action and the rules of constitutional institutions. Parliament is the bulwark against the rule by force.

The question of politics should not be left to the few, but it constitutes an obligation for all those who have the good of their country at heart. Consequently the objection to politics that one does not like the type of men who follow a certain policy or politician throws the burden on the objector to inject something new, himself into the situation.

LATE HON. E. B. RYCKMAN

The death of the Hon. E. B. Ryckman, M.P., former Revenue Minister, removes one of the most successful lawyers and business men ever offered Parliament by themselves as servants of the people in the Commons. Mr. Ryckman visited Belleville not many years ago and spoke on the public. He platforms during a campaign and all those who heard him remember a man of prepossessing appearance who was well groomed and who possessed a mild dispositon, one who trusted to the cogency of his argument and his quiet delivery rather than to flights of oratory to impress his hearers. His business career was one which singled him out as a capable man for the position of a Minister of the Crown. Three short years he sat in the Revenue office, working with intensity upon the affairs of state in the service of the people.

Mr. Ryckman is another of those who assume the people's burden and sacrifice themselves in office.

IMMORTAL CHILD

("I hope you will be a child still when I see you next."—In a letter from Lewis Carroll.)

That was his wish. How many years ago
Were the words written? Into what small hand
Fell that enchanted letter? Did she know,
As Alice did, the way to Wonderland?
Some clocks run backward, whether we accept
The shadow on the dial, the years that pass;
And time will never touch us once we've stepped
Across his threshold, through the Looking-Glass.
I like to think he found her still the same,
And that she read between his twinkling lines
More than preteading, more than just a game,
Undimmed by any doubt of ours, there shines
A light that child has given us to hold,
When darkness gathers and the story's told.

CONGRATULATIONS TO FRIEND James E. Walmsley upon the attainment of his eighth year, and still able to exercise his keen business intellect in the conduct of his wholesale grocery business, operated so successfully by him for many years. James Walmsley has been a good citizen and served his community well and faithfully in the City Council. Forty years ago he adorned the office of Mayor of Belleville, a fine-looking and efficient chief executive officer. God has been good to James Walmsley, as well and sincerely appreciates, in giving him a generous measure of health and strength and an unimpaired intellect which enables him to conduct his business aright—also good to him in giving him sons, strong in courage and efficiency, to stand by his side and take many of the details of business from his shoulders as the evening of life approaches. Curiously enough New Orleans, Louisiana, has a Mayor Walmsley —no relation, but a big shot way down where the Mardi Gras begins, who is interested in Belleville and his namesake here, and has promised a visit sometime when he can get away from politics long enough. However, to our own ex-Mayor Walmsley we are sure all of the readers of this column will join in extending congratulations and good wishes.

GHOST TOWNS are coming back to life, partly as the result of President Roosevelt's New Deal, partly on account of the business lull which has given so many people more time than they know what to do with. Mining towns in the United States and British Columbia, deserted when the pay streaks ran out or the ore became too low grade to work with profit, are again showing signs of life as the prize of gold and silver has been raised by Roosevelt's New Deal. An augmented army of prospectors is attacking the foothills and canyons of the West, hoping to be one of many modern gold chasers are panning the creeks for the precious metal. Ghost Towns in Ontario, Canada, used to be a feeling the effects of the drive back to the hills, and shacks deserted for years by humans, are again occupied by the greatest of all optimists who know that there is a pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow. For instance, one place to feel the reviving boom is Barkerville, a ghost town as pictured in this newspaper on Wednesday, which once had a population of 15,000 and is now down to thirty people. Gold dust and of the creek in placer work, finally to sink into the gloom and desolation of a ghost town. Barkerville is coming back.

WOULD YOU EVER

Some years ago the local freights were hauled by little low-wheeled Brooks moguls with the old tallow cups on the steam chests.

One morning the regular fireman didn't show up. In the emergency a husky lad from the coal dock was impressed into service. Before starting out, the engineer showed the recruit these tallow cups and explained how they could be kicked open with the foot, and when the sucking noise was heard, pour a little valve oil into each.

After leaving the terminal he got her going nicely and about the first thing Dick to go out and give his side some oil and then cross over and give the right side a little. Dick grabbed the tallowpot and sallied forth. Thomas, the engineer, waited a while, then demanded: "Why didn't you give my side some oil, too, as I told you?!"

"He—," replied Dick, "this side ain't got enough yet, it kept on suckin'."

He had poured the entire allowance for the trip into the left steam chest!—Canadian National Railways Magazine.

CONRAD'S LIFE IS SOURCE OF INSPIRATION

Do You Fear to Tackle a Secret Ambition?

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

Such a conviction as "it can't be done" really has no place in this world of ours, a world that each day reveals new marvels. Science constantly never subscribes to the principle of "can't." Science always says "can". But what stirs one even more than marvelous inventions, phenomenal business successes and the like, is the steady plodding, day by day and day out, year by year, that has marked the final achievements of some of our greatest men.

Take the life of Joseph Conrad, for instance. Here are the outstanding features of this English novelist's remarkable career. Conrad was not an Englishman as is often supposed, but a Pole. He was born in the Ukraine in 1857 and came from Polish stock. He did not learn English until after he was twenty years old!

At this time he boy decided to go to sea and he stuck to this career for nearly forty years. In his own words, "I shipped as an ordinary seaman at Newcastle and since then I have sailed on many vessels in many seas, through all the grades—from able seaman to master of both sailing vessels and steamships."

Only in 1895 did he settle down to the business of writing, his earliest efforts in this direction having been made at sea on the ships previously. His first novel was started in 1889 and not completed until 1894. Different chapters of the manuscript were written in as many different parts of the world. All sorts of accidents happened to it as it travelled it from one port to another.

Despite Conrad's handicap in learning the English language comparatively late in life and in beginning to write in his middle life, he was acclaimed before his death as "the greatest living writer in English".

Nor did writing come easy to him. Often, he said, he would work until two in the morning—hoeing harvest in the fields of his fancies—only to find that he had completed no more than a single page. Yet a few years ago these laborious words, in the form of the original manuscripts brought at public auction more than $110,000.

Conrad's life proves what can be done. One scarcely need comment upon it. The answer is within itself.

Ambition! Perseverance! Grit! Industry. These were the four-salient traits of Conrad's character. No there was a fifth — love of humanity.

Anyone who studies Conrad's life must be impressed by his ability to conquer himself and his circumstances.

But what about yourself? Why cannot you be the master of circumstances as well?

Yes you sure can be sure unless you try, unless you put as much energy into the trying as did Conrad and others like him.

To be sure, a person cannot do everything or excel in all. But is there not some secret ambition you have been hankering for? Why have you been afraid to tackle?

If so, study Joseph Conrad and take heart.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

For nervousness it is often well to go on a milk diet for a few days with the amount taken, being about two quarts each day. But in addition eating is bad for the nerves. Besides, care should be taken to avoid foods that are readily digestible because nervousness produces over-acidity of the stomach and the free hydrochloric "fries" the food and produces gas and distress. Coffee should not be drunk during a meal.

20 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 15, 1914

Mayor J. F. Wills and Mrs. Wills were host and hostess at a dinner tendered to the aldermen and city officials and their wives at Hotel Quinte yesterday. The city officials present were City Solicitor Masson, City Clerk Thompson, City Treasurer Price, City Assessor Keer, City Tax Collector Hipson and manager of the gas works Gardiner. His Worship occupied the chair and Mrs. Wills the vice chair. After Grace had been said by the Rev. Canon Beamish the spread was partaktaken of and it was without doubt one of the best ever supplied by Mine Host Jenkins. After dinner short speeches were made. Canon Beamish proposed the toast to the host and hostess and it was most cordially received. Mayor Wills made a suitable acknowledgement. The affair was indeed most enjoyable.

Mr. J. M. Waterhouse of Sidney Township, sold his herd of 8 Holstein cows for shipment to Woodstock and received $90 for each animal.

At the annual meeting of the Public Library the following directors were elected: Messrs. J. B. Flint, S. A. Gardiner, E. J. Riggs, H. C. Clarke, John Williams, Jos. Templeton, M. Wright, E. Stafford and Col. Ponton. A standing vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. J. T. Luton for his valuable services during the past three years and he was elected honorary patron. At the meeting of the meeting the directors met for organization and elected the following officers: Hon. Pres., Mr. Wright; president, Ald. Chas. N. Sulman, Treasurer, Mr. Joseph Templeton, secretary.

There was not as large a crowd in the rink last night as the match deserved. 40 YEARS AGO

The first carnival of the season was held at the skating rink last night and was a most successful affair. There were fully one hundred people in costume and the scene presented was dazzling and brilliant. While there were no entirely original costumes there were many of a superior quality and the representations were exceptionally clever. The judges, Messrs S. A. Herman, T. McRae, and Claude Armstrong had a difficult task to perform and if they did not please everybody they are not to blame. The prize winners were as follows: Ladies, 1st, Miss Hanwell; 2nd., Miss Prior; 3rd, Miss Bleecker. Gentlemen 1st., J. Falconer, 2nd, Alex. McDonald. The third prize for gentlemen for the most original costume but the judges did not award. There was a costume worthy of the prize.

While Messers. H. Corby, M.P., Jas. Jenkins and Fred Clinton cars crossing the bay yesterday afternoon on their way to the Massassa Park they got off the travelled road and the horse went through a hole in the ice. They were able to reach the horse after considerable difficulty, as he was up to his legs, but otherwise was uninjured.

The City Council will meet for organization next Monday.

He rang a button, a blonde, stenographer appeared, a few hasty notes and she was gone. In a flash Chatterbox looked over his spectacles, and if I'm not my self-control. I tiltered Mr. Wingollar about this red tape, and remember him tactfully. Mr. Wingollar's of the incident when a messenger boy was asked to take a bank teller for a bag of money to be delivered to the bank and other corporations. Obligingly they handed over the bag to the man because he was a fellow corn on. Mr. Wingollar, I think was beginning t. get the idea but I was not sure. Then I remembered that here I am with a small cheque, and my self-control returned all like a flash.

"Mr Wingollar relented, O.K.'d the cheque, and I was about to rush back to the teller's window where all the paymasters in Toronto were waiting, when I was stopped after two, and I had an appointment at three.

Towards the end of a fierce match between two English sides a big, beefy specimen forward burst through the defence. The diminutive goal keeper having run out to meet him, finished at the ball, missed, and the centre-forward scored.

The goalie's captain rushed forward and furiously demanded: "Why the blazes didn't yer try to stop 'im?"

Not a whit abashed, the goalie replied: "Well, I did!" Then his voice rising in shrill crescendo of righteous indignation, "Stop im did yer say? I'll tell yer as much as I could do to ruddy well get ahi of 'is way!"

ALONG MAIN STREET

A NIFTY—

One of the local Hydro men whose job is to clean out those large glass globes which contain lighting system along Front Street at periodic intervals, was hard at work the other day. He had the inside part of the globes, wiped it out, and was replacing the protective grill. Just then one of the proverbial Irish cops, who was walking by glanced at the thoughtful worker and called out: "What's the matter, Mister? Have ye four goldfish?"

THE CHEQUE CASHER—

How many times, asks a reader, have you walked out of the house without a wallet in the pocket? But how many times have you walked in to the bank to cash a small dividend cheque in your wallet? Anyway, once is enough, he says.

The gentleman in question had been called from the city to Toronto. As sometimes happens, he left most of his money at home and found when he arrived that he had a small cheque stood between him and the entire comforts of life while away from home. It was for about $30, and discretion is the best part of valor. He was never happier to see a bank guard; such a pleasant smile, and what a high polish on all about! Another guard glum, and checking-up on the first, eyed me suspiciously. Then:

"I walked to the centre of this huge marble-floored affair, stuck to the right of me, tellers to the left of me and tellers all around me. Apparently I'd had to choose my audience. "With grand gusto, I produced the cheque, endorsed it, and acted it, waved it and almost spat upon it. Then I approached a teller.

I approached the teller's window, pushed the cheque in, straightened my tie, gave my hat that proper angle, and along with a hurried glance at my finger nails asked for the cash. Now tellers have a technique all their own in handling cheques. Grasping firmly between the two thumbs, the little fingers and forefinger, with a twisting movement, reversing the cheque in a jiffy. "Now I'll help you if you are not wearing the approved expression while he is busy at the counter! I showed him my automobile license, a calling card, two postcards and the letter which he had read and signed for the guards. They were satisfied and the lad beside a beautiful mahogany desk.

ANDRE TARDIEU

Camille Chautemps, Premier of France, has launched a vigorous campaign against the rising Royalist element in France which has been in open conflict against the government since the recent 500,000 "paws shop" scandal. Observers see in Chautemp's warning an attack on Andre Tardieu, former Premier and Chautemp's most powerful enemy at the moment. Tardieu, French steel magnate, and exponent of militarism, is thought to have been one of the commission of three mentioned to rule France when the resignation of the present government was demanded in many quarters. Trenton Intermediates Tied by Cobourg "Waverleys" in Final Minute of Contest

Trenton Had All The Best of The Heavy Going

POWERS HURT

Cut Over Eye by Flying Stick And Out For Period

Trenton, Jan. 13 (Special)—The local Intermediates were robbed of victory over Cobourg last night when with only one minute to play Pearce beat Joe Gould to even the score, one all.

George Rosenplot netted Trenton's only tally midway through the opening stanza, when he took a pass from Johnson and skated in to beat McCawley on a beautiful shot in the corner of the net.

This ended the scoring until the final minute when Cobourg evened the count which was changed in the ten minutes overtime.

Coach Benny Bowen used Doug. Powers, Norm Johnson and George Rosenplot on the first line but in the second stanza Powers was cut over the left eye and was out for a period while Dr. Johnson dressed the wound. He returned in the last period only to break a skate which put him out the remainder of the game.

Joe Gould in the goal batted, booted and stopped everything to make a big hit with the fans.

Going Heavy

The going was heavy all the way through on the ice and while both the locals' line from playing their usual combination.

In the third period they and Johnson fell in the second by a mix-up started that drew several fans onto the ice.

Little "Plain" Bohan played one of his finest games last night both in the play making and back-checking. He was flanked with Bill Miller and "Slim" Mattis who put up stellar performances. He replaced Powers when the latter was forced from the game with a broken skate.

Norm Johnson and George Rosenplot featured on the attack and missed scoring several times.

For Cobourg—"Hoss" Gibson, Max Geraldi and Archie Campbell were the stars in McCawley's Waverley nets. Campbell at centre is a hard man to get past with his wide fall-checking. Pearce was the hero when he took a pass from Gibson with seconds to count in the closing moments.

In three starts the locals have not yet hit the win column but they have played fine hockey and when the break comes they will be hard to beat.

Referee Barrett meted out nine penalties, all for minor offences.

The line up:

Trenton—Goal, Gould; defence, York and Stiller; centre, Johnson; wings, Powers and Rosenplot; alternates, Bohan, Mattis, Miller and Bowen.

Cobourg—Goal, McCawby; defence, Lockyer and Geraldi; centre, Campbell; wings, Iley and Gibson; alternates, Freeman, Parker, Pearce and Staples.

PRE-GAME PREDICTIONS

(By the Canadian Press)

Two silly old veterans who have amazed fans with their youthful antics in recent games will have all eyes glued on them tonight. Fans, who wonder whether the remarkable play this season of Aurel Joliat, Canadiens' wispy atom, and Babe Siebert, McVeigh. New York's most amazing American, is just a flash, will seek an answer when they enter two tough contests.

Joliat will be right at home in the Montreal Forum playing against Ottawa Senators. McVeigh who has played in so many cities he calls no rink home, will tend the New Yorkers into action against Leafs in Toronto.

The two games that will test the veterans' rejuvenation are the only clashes on the National Hockey League calendar tonight. Three other tussles are scheduled for tomorrow night, bringing all four teams in the closely packed American division into action.

At New York the Rangers take on Montreal Maroons and Americans continue on to Chicago to test their recently found scoring punch against the Black Hawks. Boston, the division cellar occupants, play the Red Wings in Detroit.

FOUR GAME WINNING STREAK IS ENDED

Tigers Defeat Cataracts 4-2 to Hold Three Point Lead

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 12 (CP)—With a "confident" Niagara Falls squad threatening to usurp their position at the top of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association series, Hamilton's battling Tengals clawed out a 4-2 victory over the cocky Cataracts and put an end to their winning streak which had reached four games.

As a result of their victory which took place here last night before the largest crowd of the season, the George Redding had his striped cats three points in front of the pack today, while Falls dropped a notch in the standing.

It was the second clash of the week between the teams, Niagara Falls winning the first at the home own ice by a 2-1 count after ten minutes overtime on Tuesday.

"ACE" BAILEY FEELING FINE

Will Leave Hospital For Toronto on Wednesday Next

Boston, Jan. 13.—Irvin "Ace" Bailey is looking forward to next Wednesday, when, if all goes well, he'll start home for Toronto.

The injured Maple Leaf hockey star, received newspapermen and photographers yesterday at the Boston City Hospital where he has been recovering from a skull fracture.

His wife was despaired for several days after an accident during a Maple Leafs-Boston Bruins hockey game at Boston Garden December 12 and two delicate brain operations were performed by Dr. Donald Munro, Boston specialist.

He felt "fine" after the ordeal of posing for pictures and answering a volley of questions and looked it as he sat at ease in a chair, wearing a brown bathrobe and brown tie, Mrs. Bailey, who rushed here from Toronto on the eve of the first operation, sat on the arm of his chair during yesterday's interview.

"Tell the Toronto fans I'll never forget their kindness," he asked the newspapermen. "I am getting better. I feel so good that I expect to be back on the ice before the season is over."

Medical science continued to ponder and wander at the remarkable recovery from a brain injury it thought must be fatal. For days his death seemed but a matter of hours and more than once physicians gave him "but little longer to live".

GRILLS WIN IN OVERTIME

Defeat Marmora on Soft Ice by a Score of 4 - 3

A very good game of hockey was played on Marmora ice on Thursday night between Grills' Garage team of Belleville and Marmora team, the former winning by a score of 4-3 after ten minutes of overtime.

The first period was not very fast being mostly a series of end to end rushes, but one goal was scored by H. Hewitt for Marmora, after a smart rush. There were three penalties in the first period, three for Belleville by Henn and Connors, the latter drawing a double and Shannon and H. Hewitt for Marmora.

Much better hockey was played in the second period, although there was little combination by either team. The first Belleville goal was scored after 7 minutes of play by H. Canning, the second goal being scored by J. Senack and the third by H. Day.

Penalties this period went to Wilson and W. Shannon of Marmora and Bleecker of Belleville.

The third period brought out the best hockey of the game, Marmora scoring two goals this period to tie up the score. The goal-getters were McWilliams and Clemens.

Connors and J. Canning of Belleville and Neal of Marmora received penalties this period.

In the overtime period Ridley of Belleville received a penalty and the winning goal was scored by H. Day.

RUTH AGREES ON '34 TERMS

Will Likely Sign Contract on Monday Calling For $35,000

New York, Jan. 13.—Two months ahead of the usual schedule and minus all the customary fanfare associated with this momentous event, Babe Ruth and his baseball employer, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, came to terms on the 40-year-old sluggers' 1934 salary.

By mutual agreement they withheld the details, pending the actual ceremony of signing the contract next Monday in Ruppert's office, but it was learned a compromise was reached at or close to $35,000, after the shortest and most harmonious salary conference Babe and the Colonel have had in a dozen years.

The figure mentioned, which Ruth himself indicated, was close to the mark, is the Babe's lowest salary since 1921, but still makes him the highest salaried performer in either Major League. It is his third "cut" in as many years and represents a total drop of approximately 55 per cent. in salary since he received his peak pay of $80,000 for the 1930-31 season.

The Yankee slugger since then has been signed only on a one-year basis, received $75,000 in 1932 and $52,000 last year.

In the aggregate, over a period of 15 years, including 1934 Ruth's salary accounts for $1,000,000. Yankees reach the staggering sum of nearly $800,000. This will be his twenty-first season in the American League.

The magnitude with which Babe and the Colonel came to terms this early in the winter was more surprising than the latest reduction in the veteran's salary, which he had himself said he expected to accept without much, if any, argument. Ruth has heretofore signed any of his big contracts with the Yankees before March.

"The Colonel and I simply decided there was no use prolonging the matter this time," explained Ruth. "We got together quickly. I gave him my figure and he gave me his. We reached an agreement and I was satisfied. The Colonel has always been fair with me. I can't tell you the exact figure now, because they asked me not to say anything about that until Monday. Yes, it's under $40,000."

The despondent old salary business regarded in baseball circles as a possible indication Ruth has an understanding with Ruppert that he will get a chance to manage the Yankees in 1936, after the present contract of Joe McCarthy expires. The Babe turned down a proposal by his employer to manage Newark, Bees of the International League this year.

Honeymooners Run Out of Money, Don't Eat

Montreal, Jan. 13. — They were newlyweds, obviously and signed the hotel register as from Dalhousie, N. B. They were popular with the hotel staff and were having a lovely time in the city. Then they unaccountably dropped out of sight.

The hotel thinks newlyweds? the doorman asked the bellhop captain. The question echoed to the room clerk and to the manager. The manager investigated and found two dismal and harassed young people. They had not had a meal for more than a day; had over-estimated the elasticity of their resources and greatly to their horror found they were broke.

The hotel management suggested an appeal to the old folks at home. A telephone call brought results, money arrived and the young couple, honeymoon very nearly ruined, departed for home.

Current Sport

Day By Day

According to a recent press clipping from St. Paul, Minn., Lawrence "Larry" Goyer of this city, is back with his old love the St. Paul "Saints" and is more than making good in the newly formed Central Professional hockey league that includes Eveleth, Hibbing, Minneapolis, Duluth and St. Paul. The majority of these teams are at one time members of the American Hockey League, that now boasts of but Oklahoma City, Tulsa, St. Louis and Kansas City. The clip, at the north end of the loop could not stand the long jumps so formed a loop of their own, called the Central League.

Goyer after a few seasons sojourning in St. Louis coming on St. Paul around Christmas time to star with the club, that he first played with some nine years ago on American soil as an amateur, later to turn professional with the St. Louis "Fliers". The local ontrio ice performer is traveling at a fast clip, it seems, and made his initial bow in the Central loop by scoring two goals and giving a pass for a third to assure the "Saints" of their first victory in seven starts. Since that time, however, the St. Paul club has been winging with irregularity while Goyer'is one of the leading scorers of his club.

A movement was recently started in Belleville to bring all local baseball clubs under one head. It has been suggested that a committee, composed of three men, who are not connected with any of the present baseball organizations, head the new association, who will look after all senior, intermediate and junior ball clubs in the city. H. A. Fanning, sponsor of the Belleville Intermediates, Art Young, manager of the Belleville Senior and Juniors and those at the helm of the National's all signified their willingness to support the scheme throughout.

Gordon Delaney, secretary of the Moose Juniors informed us yesterday that the local boys' would not operate a junior team this season, thus eliminating the team from the proposed amalgamation. With the Moose kids out of the B.A.A. juniors would have access to all the surplus junior ballsters in town, thus assuring Belleville of two strong junior organizations for 1934 competitions.

Despite the continued mild conditions, the ice at the Belleville Arena has stood up in the warm spells much better than was at first expected. Even today, after a full week of mild weather, there is little if any water on the ice surface. This fact is due solely to the solid brick building. All that's needed to assure a fast hard sheet of ice is but a few hours of sub-freezing weather.

Let's see what's on the sports rialto for next week-end. The Belleville Cities Service meet Hembloks in the first game of the O.H.A. in the Kingston City League, Wednesday—the second game of this series at Elmcroft, while the same evening a double-header of C.O.B.I.A. will be played at the Y.M.C.A. with B.M.C. meeting Belleville "Y" in an intermediate fixture and the Deacon A. C. juniors opening a two game series, the "Cadet" junior cagers; Thursday, a Junior O.H.A. fixture—Hastings at Belleville and Friday either the B. A. C. intermediates at Campbellford or a possible third game in the Kingston City League. Oh well, we'll have Saturday night to recuperate, maybe. Incidentally, wouldn't an artificial ice plant come in handy at the local Arena about now? Or would it?

Basketball Schedule

Four teams in each section of Interscholastic basketball were entered in the Bay Quinte group for C.O.S.S.A. basketball competition this year with senior and junior squads competing in each school represented. The four schools to compose the loop this year are Picton C.I., Trenton C.I., Albert Col-lege and Belleville C.I. & V.S.

At a recent meeting of the school representatives a schedule was drawn up and which was then adopted by the local schools yesterday. In each case or date mentioned, double headers will be played with the senior game following a junior fixture on each occasion.

The 1934 interscholastic basketball schedule for the Bay of Quinte group is as follows:

Jan. 19.—Picton at Trenton.

DOWNARD RUSH OF WESTONATS IS HALTED

Backed by Phil Stein on Goal They Defeated Saliors 2-0.

Port Colborne, Ont., Jan. 13.—(CP)—The toboggan ride of West Toronto-Nationals into the lower regions of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association standing was checked today by their brilliant young goalie, Phil Stein in the Nats' initial tilt this first year in the Senior series.

Last night West Toronto won tibile first game in three starts, when they handed a desperate Port Colborne Crew, with whom they battled for fourth place, a 2-0 defeat, and Stein was the rock upon which the sailor hats foundered.

Inside the combines' defence often enough to score a gross of goals the Port Colborne players were unable to pick a single flaw in the defence of the Westonats. Junior goalies erected around the citadel. It was a damaging defeat to the sailor cause as a win would have placed them in second place, three points behind Hamilton Tigers. As it is Nationals are now in second position, one point in front of Trenton and Niagara Falls, who are tied with 17.

Both goals were scored in the third period within three minutes of each other. Scotty McAlpine and Stein doing the trick on lone efforts.

Child is Often Burden, but They Lighten Life

(By Lisa Grenelle)

When you were a young girl beset by confusions and despairs when your mother, or the family generally, found you difficult, even accused you of selfishness and irresponsibility, someone would always come out with "Wait until you have a family of your own then you will understand."

Of course, you got pretty sick of it. But nevertheless you were quite impressed with the idea: "When you have babies of your own, everything will change for you you will be more settled, and—

It was the same again when you and Fred began to run into rough weather. "What you need is a family," somebody or other would be sure to remark, leaving the impression that when you have a baby you attain peace of mind; that the baby would cure all ills of character, mood and relationship.

Yes, when you had a baby everything would settle itself; everything would become and comfortable and happy. No more confusion, no more quarrels with your husband, no more restlessness. Motherhood would bring you everything you wanted—peace, happy and keep you happy.

A Responsibility

But when the baby came, no such delightful metamorphosis took place, neither with the first baby nor the second. Nothing changed that was considered to change. You confused, didn't change a bit. Peace of mind, instead of settling upon you, immediately disappeared clear out of sight. Fred continued to be difficult, too, more difficult than ever. And as for moods and that restless urge—they continued to attack you all at intervals, just as before.

Then, too, you found the baby a lot of trouble; more trouble than you had expected. Of course, he was awfully cute, and you love him, but anything but cute at other times—and always a lot of trouble. A great expense, too, greater each year and such a responsibility! Always complaining everything — engagements, rest, personal ambitions—insisting that you be a mother all the time, year in and year out. And who, no matter how maternal, wants to be a mother every minute?

Make Life Worth While

All in all, you feel a bit resentful at times against friends who spread the rosy gospels about the desirability of having a family — even against the children themselves, especially when they seem to be turning out—well, hardly the sort of people you had hoped they would, considering all that you have sacrificed for them and the advantages you have given them. They aren't a bit grateful, either.

Of course you love your children. Every mother does. And it would tell you if anything happened to them. Why, if you hadn't, you'd be over again?

What's your answer to that question? It's the same as every mother's answer. For you know that children are your greatest responsibility, your greatest opportunity, your greatest source of happiness and your greatest source of misery.

They have brought you love and experience, adventure and life.

They have given you immortality — something of yourself, reliance that which 'there may be speculation and doubt, but the real immortality that is the most precious and valuable of all gifts—your share in carrying forward the race.

Beauty .... By Helen Jameson

Fundamentals of Good Appearance

Though the reducing mania has subsided and there is a bit more sympathetic attitude toward the curves, the chief beauty concern has to do with their figure. Fat among the newly born and spot stop his pate is more distracted or discouraged than a woman who discovers that she can't wriggle into last season's dinner dress because her hips have carried on a policy of expansion.

Yet the most important part of a woman is her head, the inside and the outside. A scrambled hairdress and a face that is hopelessly out of date put her in the don't belong class. She'll be out of her element among the modish ones of the world. Her figure has an element of comedy of which she is not aware. What is more tragic than a fashion victim? Another is the old fogy who persists in one of the style parade, inspires smiles.

The hair and the hat! They're seen first. Frizzly hair, hair that has always grown as it chose, that will make a frump of a woman, no matter what she wears. The wrong hat or the one placed at the wrong angle makes or mar a caricature. It is too late to order a new face, to take your walk or trot-trot to the beauty shop for a new one.

It isn't right, when the professional attention of specialists and milliners is accessible everywhere.

To the matter of dress; if a woman realises that she hasn't the dress sense, doesn't understand what will suit her type and what will make the most of her figure, she is not going to be content to go a first class dress maker and have a gown made. The price of the new frock will include an education in line, color, and styles that suit her.

If a woman is with the open mind, who is willing to try out new ideas, that is about all the mental ideas is ruinous to good appearance.

Before the bob came in there were women who bobbed their hair—that is, wrapped their hair "high", no other arrangement would be becoming. Where are the bobbed heads now? It's as dead as Chlumbus.

It is no longer necessary to have a nice fat balance in the bank book to look smart. The thing that is necessary is to understand that simplicity is the basis of smartness, tinguished than fussy ones. It is also the basis of the new fine stunning costume, not the decorations; jewelry can also step into the background.

Now that make-up is used so generally, it is important that that should be done carefully. Hands must be carefully cared for, feet nicely shod. The choice of colors should be no haphazard guess. Some colors are rich, some are cheap and shoddy. It all comes down to a matter of taste. If you have good taste you're all set.

Know Your Child's Mind

By LISA GRENELLE

"A MAN IS what he thinks about all day long," so it is a child. Do you know what your child is thinking? Have you the least idea how fine impressing him. What his reactions are to you and the family. Do you encourage him to say what he thinks?

Probably not. It takes a courageous and patient mother to encourage freedom in her child. Because what little Willie has to say will not always be pretty; it will not always be what it expected—and it often is unpleasant.

Nevertheless, it will be good for him to say it and instructive for you to listen. Not that even the good trait of frankness and truthfulness may be practiced as all times, even by a child. It is not only unpleasant but unnecessary for little Willie to announce that the arrangement of grandfather's nose at the dinner table. He must be taught tact and restraint. But it would help you rebuke his frank statements to you if you knew how foolish, shocking or even disrepectful they may seem.

For you can't stop even your own child's thinking. You can't control those thoughts unless you know what they are, unless you know the hurt behind his respect and confidence has been shaken, but you change his thinking.

Talk Things Out

It is well known that "talking something out" relieves that pain sure. Not only that, it clarifies the situation, makes the solution much easier. There is nothing that so helps the normal growth and forward step of a child as having someone he can talk to freely—someone he can trust.

Little Mary suggests, after having her own dolls' tea party, that sister, that she in turn go over mother's. To this, if mother not unreasonably wise, mother refuses to listen. Unknown to herself, she listens at her age to criticism, mother's criticism. Mother does not suggest mother remains and is likely to continue to remain in entire ignorance of Mary's opinion of her, which may or may not preserve her splendid, healthy attitude and encourage an intimate relationship.

Freddie, being the admiring age for some inferior type of actress as the age is for Rudolph Valentino, by mother for his bad taste. Where, upon Freddie goes in admiring the actress more than ever, but no longer speaks his mind. Freddie has learned the bad lesson that it is better not to tell mother his feelings for others' ladies.

It is such a mother who remains in ignorance of Freddie's subsequent crushes, finally to find herself confronted with a daughter as surprising as it is distasteful. If she had but been more respect to his first protestations, she would have retained his confidence and been able to steer him off future mistakes.

The Beauty Box

(By Helen Follett)

It is not economy or sense to hoid back anything that will help the cleaner, and fling it at Paul, the housekeeper. Let her have some now of the gal who wears the frock that is discolored at the neck line by perspiration.

Pastilloumes is the watchword for ladies who wear the new satin slips.

The perfectly groomed woman makes sure that the cuff of her frock than the careless dreamer who goes forth all togged up in the Paris fashions.

Saturial errors include stocking that are not the right shade, shoes that is not strictly fresh, shoes in need of repair, hair that is dull and unbecomingly darkened by the friction of the coat collar, hairdress that is not in style or shape because they're stuffed too full of grimcracks. But why go on? Every reader of the boulevards offers examples every day.

When finger nails are large, wide and square, manicure and the slightly red lacquer is necessary for the heart's content. Long nails require a finer tone in the centre, nails look smaller.

Short nails should have a complete polish, that is, some color on each of the nail base and the eaves that, ordinarily, show up white.

The new shades that us who hope to see the day when finger nails will be long, are:

Scanty eyelashes are rejuvenated by applications of vaseline. Stiles can destroy them. Eyebrows are sometimes fluffed and prettier when touched with a small brush that has been dipped in vaseline. Then they can be guid now, easier to manage than the solid fifth of.

Lash curlers are to be had at most cosmetic counters. Look like tailored curling irons, don't have to be heated, but stretch the fuzzers and give them curly ends. Yes, you, what will they think of next?

When muscles are soft and flabby, there's not much chance of wearing a pretty gown with distinction. Nor is the step alert, movement agile.

Five minutes of exercise every morning will do more good than the average woman realizes. Get a rowing machine. Or stand erect and swing the arms, bend the body to the line of the hip, touching the floor with legs held rigid. Good to put one over on the cranks.

To overcome gooseflesh on arms and legs; get with saucy weather and a bath brush, dry, massage with quantities of until the oil disappears. Sprinkle with borated talcum, slap the flesh briskly to urge capillaries to function more actively.

LIBRARY CORNER

The first two volumes concerning the career of the man who remained continuously in the British Cabinet throughout the War, as Chancellor of the Exchequer, Minister of Munitions, Secretary of State and Prime Minister, have been published under the titles "War Memoirs of David Lloyd George." Volume one covers the period from the Armistice and its outbreak, the financial crisis, the fight for munitions and the establishment of the Ministry of Munitions and the early days of the war. Vol. II carries on his story from the time of the Ministry of Munitions to the premiership in 1918. It was only after the Armistice that the full story of leading actors in the Great War both military and civil, could be committed to writing the story of the part they played in it and that of the men who one (and I often recall the fact with horror) who was as a schoolchild/with myself with the war direction of affairs in the whole of its reading and tearing course through the trials of mankind. But David Lloyd George was induced to devote his leisure to the writing of his task's Ship of State. The New York Times acclaims the straightforward style of the Memoirs. "His sentences are as clear and as unadorned as the qualities of his character as Grey's. Nor does he omit the human touch. The whole makeup of dexterously disarming anecdotes, of quiet and sane comments, wins the hesitant reader to his side."

Departing from his usual style of light entertainment, Mr. Eugene O'Neill has written with insight of how a father may make or break his son's life for the sake, at an important moment, in his new play, "Mr. Wilderness." The grouping of family characters in the small midwestern city in the year 1906 gives greater emphasis to the story of the father son. Mr. O'Neill's title "Comedy of Recollection", has been written with sympathy of adolescents of the early twentieth century with a touch of nostalgia. Shaw, Swinburne and Omar Khayyam and of the rather than Shakespeare are the latest to be cited to discipline them. George M. Cohan is the father of the play, a rather perplexed father in the Broadway tradition with Cohanesque humor.

Mr. Philip Guedalla has set the literary world by the ears with Britain America in its title "Argentine Meat." Mr. Guedalla's thesis is that the outcast from the ordinary run of travel books, Mr. Guedalla has written his interview with long John Silver outside the Admiral Benbow Inn, he standing on a box as a platform for his voyage. Long John has seen many travellers in his wayside places, travellers who invariably have a book about them. His advice to them all is "Beware of the Argentine Meat." Mr. Guedalla is ing in his mind that the author has been in the Argentine and many the other America. The sections of his book bear the names of tango dances, and include a chapter on Golpe, Tijeras, and Rueda and other reproductions of the Argentine movement and grace characteristic of the Argentine dance.

THINK WILD DUCKS TAKEN FOR PLANE

Hove, England, Jan. 13—An hysterically smoking" airplane, which six witnesses reported had plunged into the sea, was found today by a boat to have been only the quacking of a flock of wild ducks.

A fruitless search in rough seas by the Eastbourne lifeboat continued. Coastguardsmen said the witnesses must have mistaken a large flock of birds "for a human birdman."

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE BANISHED COLD, BACK AT WORK NEXT DAY

No wonder Mrs. Withershaw, Port Arthur, Ont. says BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE is the best cough medicine she ever used. She writes: "Just this week I had a cold and caught a very severe cold. I took two doses of Buckley's and in the morning he was so greatly improved that he was up and about his work as usual."

It is this quick, sure relief that makes BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE the largest selling cough and cold remedy in Canada. If you have a cough, cold, flu or bronchitis, take Buckley's.

It acts like a flash—A single sip proves it.

Proper Preparation Will Keep Almost Any Daughter Out of the Wall Flower Set

Dancing Instruction of R ight Kind Insures Symmetrical Body, O ne Requirement For Girl's Po pularity

Miss Agnes Boone, dancer, wearing one of the season's newest dance gowns featuring the train as created by Paquin.

By AGNES MARSH
Author of the "Textbook of Social Usage"

New York, Jan. 13.—It is far easier and pleasanter to keep your daughter out of the wall flower set, than to rescue her from it, once she has been elected.

The wise-cracking soul who summed up a girl's popularity at the dancing floor by saying "She has it" was only confirming a truism for girls and daughters. Most of them think that it is a mysterious thing, a gage and a matter not favored, are doomed to sit out all evening while the favored few dance every few steps.

Such "it" can be analyzed to advantage and a great deal of "it" can be acquired. First it is health; then a happy disposition; a beautiful, symmetrical body; good skin, hair, eyes, teeth and complexion; appropriate clothes in the prevailing mode, and conversational ability.

Can Be Acquired

We are all agreed that health and a happy disposition can be acquired. Unless born with some physical defect, correct dancing instruction insures a beautiful, efficient body. Proper food, rest and care develop the skin, teeth and hair. Good grooming is a matter of training and habits. The shops are full of intriguing clothes and well informed salespeople who can help you dress your daughter perfectly even on a limited income. The art of conversation depends upon a combination of having something to talk about from contact with varied interests in life, and practice in talking.

A Successful Example

Having decided the points to work for, the most important thing is not to delay the inauguration of this program. Successful daughters are started on their social careers from the cradle. All normal children are potential dancers or ballerinas. By education we must make the most of their inherited gifts and make up for the deficiencies in inheritance by opportunities in environment.

Paganism More Subtle Than Heathenism Says Rev. R. Hall

Religious Need at Basis of Modern Woes of World

WEEK OF PRAYER

Fifth And Final Meeting of Series Closes at Christ Church

With a note of triumph, the week's series of united prayer came to a close last night, held in Christ Church, and with Rev. Robert Hall and Adjutant A. W. Martin, secretary-treasurer of the Bellecille Ministerial Association, as leaders of the service, and with another large congregation present.

The value of the week of prayer was cited by Rev. R. Hall as being a means of bringing the Christian people of the city together has nothing else has done in a long time.

The opening fellowship of worship was led by Adjutant Martin, embracing the call to worship. The prayer of general confession and the Scripture lessons, with appropriate hymns.

In presenting his subject for the evening, the speaker, Rev. R. Hall, of John Street Church, pronounced at the outset his spiritual authority for the substance of his remarks. "The kingdoms of the world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of His Christ", the logical verse in support of "the world-wide Christian mission".

The immensity of the task of the church was first declared when we pray "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done"—the fulfillment of what our Lord taught us to pray for.

This has been a universal week of prayer. Groups of Christians everywhere engaged in the same function and remembering the promise, "the fervent effectual prayers of the righteous", what will be the outcome of a million earnest hearts approaching God.

The evangelization of the world from heathen superstition was one of the church's great tasks and it was disclosed that the last century had been the greatest in history for foreign mission enterprise.

Dr. John R. Mott was warmly commended for his timely convention slogan, "The Evangelism of the World in This Generation".

Another supreme concern today and most challenging condition before the church, is the conquering and conversion of paganism, the thing that believes in no God, worse than heathenism, and described by St. Paul as "one who turns the truth into a lie."

The chaotic conditions of the world today are the offspring of conditions which we have framed, for which are responsible, and for which we must secure the remedy.

It is futile to conclude that ills are merely the cause of over-production for this infers still more strongly that God cannot fail.

The speaker declared that St. Paul again advises that "no man liveth to himself". Neither can a nation.

The speaker quoted also a London Times editorial: "Public ills are problems of the spirit, before economics and politics, we must begin with religion".

Religion is not a mere auxiliary, it is the heart and core of life itself.

When the church should be on her feet, leading the way to revival she appears to be doing little more than looking on.

God spoke to us in the war, and we didn't heed. He is speaking again through the tragedy of unemployment.

After an interval of prayer the speaker's closing remarks outlined a conception of the great task assigned to the church and its people.

He led the meditation right up to the point where the massed congregation was realizing the need of a great religious revival.

Before closing, Rev. G. G. Wright, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association, congratulated all on the success of the services.

FORECASTS WAR

Vice-Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu (above) commander-in-chief of the combined fleets of Japan, threw a bombshell into official circles in Washington and other world centres, in his interview that was published in a Tokio publication. According to the vice-admiral, Japan is preparing to go to war with the United States, and he declares that the only thing that can prevent war between the two nations is a relinquishment of the "assumed superiority" of the white race by us, as well as by other white nations of the world. Our recent resumption of diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia was but a scheme to "surround Japan for military purposes," according to Suetsugu, and he avers that any fears regarding the ability of Japan to defend herself may be dispelled by his countrymen. In Washington the interview is discounted and regarded by most officials as "deplorable". "Militarism run wild", is the way one official described it, and another declared that "as long as Japan does not attack the United States, there will be no war between the two nations." Vice-Admiral Suetsugu is regarded as one of the most noted of the world's submarine experts, and he is also an authority on naval strategy. In the event of war he is the man to whom the post of minister of the navy of Japan would most likely be entrusted.

POLICE COURT

But a few minor cases were heard in Saturday morning's police court before, Magistrate Mikel. A bench warrant for the arrest of Claude Lobb, Milford, was issued when he failed to answer to his name on a charge of fraud. Lobb was charged with obtaining a truck, valued at $335, and had been summoned into court but failed to put in an appearance.

A charge under the L.C.A. was enlarged until next Wednesday. Activities were rather quiet in and about police court circles with no arrests being made. A few transients were provided with sleeping accommodation last night.

N. MacFADYEN PASSES AWAY

Sudden Death of Former Well Known Bank Manager

Galt, Ont., Jan. 13 (CP)— This city was shocked today at the sudden death of Neil Donald MacFadyen, manager of the Bank of Montreal, and community leader.

Ill two days with an acute septic throat he underwent an operation and died this morning.

Born in Durham, Ontario in 1881, he was an accountant here in his early days and then went west being manager at Wetaskiwin and Edmonton. He returned east and was located at Belleville, Montreal and Toronto before coming here a few years ago.

He was very active in community life here, president of the Kiwanis Club three years, president of the Galt Choral Society and interested in the Y.M.C.A. Little Theatre Movement, community relief work, symphony orchestra and golf club.

He was a past president of the Summit Golf Cub, Toronto. A widow, several brothers and sisters survive. N. Aikens MacFadyen of Toronto, is a brother.

The late Mr. MacFadyen was well known in this city, where for several years he managed the Belleville branch of the Merchants' Bank, and later, after the amalgamation, with the Bank of Montreal, he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal at Montreal.

Mr. MacFadyen had left Belleville before the amalgamation of the banks.

Informed of the sudden death, Mr. Weir of the Bank of Montreal received the news with surprise.

"It will be a shock to his many friends in banking circles, and also the many Belleville residents who knew him so well," stated Mr. Weir.

Fort Erie Chief of Police Tries to Stop Practice

MAY DISROBE .. ..

Fort Erie, Ont., Jan. 13 (CP) — "Mother may I go out to swim?"

"Yes, my darling daughter"— so runs the old ditty.

And so may Fort Erie lads and lassies continue hanging their clothes on the hickory bush or prepare for a dip in the Niagara River in modern style.

A recommendation by A. E. Griffin, chief of police, to the Police Commission, asking that disrobing in automobiles and sometimes behind trees by the younger generation be stopped, was rejected.

"Until such time as the municipality provid : facilities we have decided not to grant the chief's request," Police Magistrate Malgkin said. There are no bath houses at either of the two beaches used within town limits.

TEN BILLION EXPENDITURE

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Concerned Over 1936

Washington, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce said today it was most concerned not so much with President Roosevelts' plan to raise $10,000,000,000 in the next six months but rather in the spending of this sum.

The Chamber in its "fortnightly review of national business affairs", conceded it would be difficult to gauge the effect of raising $6,000,000,000 of new money and $4,000,000,000 for refinancing before July 1, but indicated it would result in a higher bond rate.

If the President's plan reaches his goal of a balance budget in the 1936 fiscal year, the Chamber said, "The government's fiscal situation need not create apprehension". But it added that if "such high expenditures" should be permitted to continue for long the outlook would be "ominous".

CANVASSERS MAY BE LICENSED

Ottawa, Jan. 13—(CP)—Are canvassers selling radio receiving licenses from door to door compelled to obtain a pedlar's license in each municipality in which they solicit?

This question is being considered today by officers of the Department of Justice. A request for an opinion reached the Justice Department this morning from the Department of Marine following a ruling of the East Windsor, Ont., City Clerk that a pedlar's license must be obtained by radio canvassers in that municipality.

Montreal, Jan. 13—(CP)—Prominent Conservatives from Western and Eastern Canada gathered here today at the first 1934 rally of the Conservative Association of the district of Montreal.

BOX CIGARS FOUND ON GARBAGE DUMP

Somebody's Gift to Somebody Now Smoked by Somebody Else

A garbage dump picker of the city is smoking long fat stogies this week, and the mystery of where Aunt Eppie's or wifie's Christmas gift box of cigars finally ended up has probably been solved.

Dug up from beneath a load of rubbish dumped by a city garbage truck, the prettily wrapped smokes were contained in a typical gift package. One—just one—lone cigar was missing from the box when found.

On the day before the same man uncovered another holly wrapped package containing a man's tie. Of as many colors as Jacob's coat, the tie lay prim and unwrinkled from the crease of a single knot. It had been untouched by human hands.

CHATTERTON W.I.

The Chatterton Women's Institute meeting was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Finkle's. The annual banquet was held. The meeting was opened with the opening Ode and all repeated the Lord's prayer. Three papers were then given, "Managing of Money," by Miss Myrtle Reid, "The Family Budget", by Mrs. B. Bleecker and "A Women's Influence in Making a Home Attractive" by Mrs. Horace Palmer. They were very instructive and interesting. Miss Aleita Horton sang a solo entitled "By a Waterfall." The business was then discussed. Some community songs were sung and the meeting closed [illegible]

TOM WELLS TELLS THEM
NOW IS THE TIME TO THINK AHEAD AND PREPARE FOR SPRING WORK ON THE FARM—When the season arrives to get busy much valuable time will be lost if everything is not in readiness. Especially so is this the case if harness is not in a good state of repair and it has to be taken to the harness maker to be put in condition for hard work. Many people put off having this necessary work attended to and at a result the harness shops are filled in the spring with work that is wanted immediately. Now there is plenty of time to do it and if you have harness or horse collars which require repairing take them to T. G. Wells, 13 Campbell Street, Belleville, so that when the time is ready to be worked you will not be held up owing to lack of harness for your teams.
Mr. Wells is an expert harness maker and upholsterer, having learned his trade in England where he served a long apprenticeship. He installs only the best of leather and any job turned out in his shop must be satisfactory to him and to the customer.
Mr. Wells has been in business in Belleville for quite a number of years and enjoys a fine patronage from all parts of Hastings and Prince Edward counties.
A complete line of new harness and harness parts, horse blankets, whips, rug-robes, trunks and cases and travelling bags of many kinds is carried.

Gene:" Bill, has the depression hit you yet?"
Bill: "Why say it has—first I lost mah job an' went back to father's to live; sent my two children to de orphans' home; my wife went back to her mother, an' I shot mah dog."
Gene: "That's bad."
Bill: "Yes, if times gits worse, I'se afraid I'll have to give up mah car."

"It is a favorite custom now in Soviet Russia," we read, "to give born soul NICKNAMES as a fine name." But is that not merely an adaptive version of the "very young spark" of Victorian times?

In the next decade young husband's will probably say, "Ah, that soup's just the thing for you to make!"

HELLO! GIVE ME 1580!
THAT YOU MADILL!—I'm still smiling, thanks for the fine job you did on my car, it was worth many times what you charged me, for I can now drive in comfort and confidence, since you eliminated my steering troubles. Sorry I did not find you long ago. My car now runs like a watch since you gave it the tuning up. I'm telling all my friends to take their cars to J. E. Madill, 2 Dundas Street, and get the little devils of discomfort cast out. Thanks again, old chap, I'll be seeing you.

"PROVEN ABILITY"

By William Lumpp

"For the last time, no!" said Betty Courtney emphatically. She stood with fists on hips on the front porch of the Courtney home.

Tony Parker, his top-coat collar turned up and hands thrust deep in his pockets, regarded her dejectedly.

"But," he said after a moment, "doesn't our engagement mean anything? Aren't we ever gonna get married?"

Betty glared. "I've told you time after time that I don't intend to marry a bum, any amounts to nothing, no account. I want a man to make something, and be something, does things."

Tony was suddenly indignant. "Now see here, Betty, I'm not that way."

"Won the district golf championship!" Betty put in furiously.

"Yes, and played pole to Rochester one season!"

"Right——"

"And climbed the Matterhorn, and swam the Hellespont; you've probably played ping pong in Pecola and shuffle-board in Shanghai; and stood on your head on a flag pole for a week. When it comes to idiotic accomplishments you lead the field. If it was sporting to ride a trained seal up the Mississippi River from New Orleans, I know you'd be goofy enough to try it!"

Tony listened to the tirade open mouthed. But there was no knowing some justification in Betty's attitude.

"I guess you're right," he said, after thinking it over. "But," he looked at her steadily, "I'm not exactly a moron. I'll prove that to you. I'll get a job, do something."

Betty's dark brown eyes softened. She looked up at him wistfully. He looked much like a school boy who had just been lectured by his father about a low report card. He belonged to her and, darn it, she loved him in spite of everything. She wanted up close to him, drew his head down and kissed him on the mouth.

"All right, fellow," she smiled shyly, "you prove to me that you can do something worth while and we'll get married right away." She kissed him again. "I've got to go in now, night."

"Goodnight, Betty."

Toby phoned the next afternoon. "Betty," he said with a trace of excitement in his voice, "remember what I told you last night? Well, I'm going to make good. I'm leaving town and you probably won't hear from me for three or four weeks."

"What's all the mystery?" Betty inquired, immediately interested.

"Can't tell you now. But please don't worry. I'll write you at every chance."

Betty hesitated. What did Toby have up his sleeve? Reluctantly she said she would. "But," she added, "you be careful. That lean—take care of yourself."

"I will," Toby assured her. "You plan the wedding in the meantime, huh?"

"So long." Betty hung up and sat down to think. Toby was a dreamer, now bothered by a vague apprehension. Toby was a fool enough to try anything. "How could I stop him?" she pondered. "Maybe she shouldn't have been so severe with him."

The first week was disquieting but Betty found herself unconsciously convinced herself that Toby could take care of himself. She had hoped to hear from him the second week and when she didn't she became uneasy. The next week she wrote Mr. Parker, said that Toby went away presumably for a week, but he didn't say where he was going." At the end of the third week Betty was close to a nervous wreck. She hadn't slept well for days. Toby had left her in grief. She harkened to every door bell and phone call.

When the second she just couldn't go on, a telegram arrived. She tore it open and read rapidly, eagerly. "HAVE ARRIVED IN ST. LOUIS TAKING NEW ORLEANS TRAIN-ED SEAL STOP LOVE TOBY."

Her wild anxiety was transformed. She read it again. And again. Gradually, incredulously the awful truth dawned on her. Toby had run away! Betty was very disastrously with that thought in mind. The large crowd present was especially interested in the closing program. Mr. Chester Sills was the chairman. Chairman's address, Mr. Sills; solo, Mr. Clayton Thomson; several musical numbers were given by Messrs. Sam Houghton (saxophone), Don Rose (banjo); duet by Mrs. Samuel Fargey and Mr. Clayton Tummon; guitar duet by Miss Frances Reid and Ernest Roberts; duet by the Misses Nora Hagerman and Helen Sills; solo; short addresses were given by Messrs. Howard Kelly, Henry Wallace, Hubert Rolling, Charles Mitts and the Rev. Harry Mellow. The outstanding feature of the evening was a debate. "Resolved that the Pioneer Women Did More For Home and Country Than Do the Modern Women". The affirmative field was taken by Mrs. Clayton Tummon and Mr. Arthur Wilson, while the negative was supported by Mrs. John Wallace and Mr. Philip Carr. The judges who were the Misses Winnie McInnis, Eva Lazier and Jessie Anderson, gave the decision in favor of the affirmative. Refreshments served and the young people enjoyed dancing for a short period.

WORLD SEEN IN UPTREND

Manufacturers Cheered By Message of Maj.

Hamilton, Jan. 13.—(CP)—Major L. L. Anthes, Toronto, President, Canadian Manufacturers' Association today addressed the executive committee, Ontario Division and Hamilton Branch of the Association, at luncheon here. Members were present for the meeting today from all parts of Canada. He said:

"The New Year is beginning with most of the omens favorable. Great Britain has been leading Europe, and, to some extent, the whole world in the upward trend for over a year. She has reduced her expenditures, by economies, extended her trade, protected her home market by cautious tariffs, provided much additional work for her people, is balancing her budget, and has regained her financial influence. Improvements has also been reported from other European countries such as Belgium, France, Italy, Germany and Holland.

"Trade among the countries of the British Empire has been gradually expanding, partly as a result of the trade agreements which were signed in Ottawa in August, 1932. During the 12 months ended November, 1933, the percentage of Canada's total imports, represented by Empire Products, was 23.2 per cent, as compared with 27.9 per cent. in the preceding year; while the percentage of our exports, represented by Empire exports, increased to 46 percent from 42 percent.

"Any trading more with the United Kingdom as a result of the Ottawa agreement. The percentage of Canadian exports represented by exports to the United Kingdom, in, increased from 23.2 percent. to 26.6 percent, while the percentage of Imports, represented by imports from the United Kingdom, increased from 46.5 per cent to 54.5 percent.

MORE SHIPS FOR ITALY

Rome, Jan. 13.—Announcement that Italy might build up to the capital ship naval strength permitted under the Washington treaty, was made in the senate during its debate on the naval budget. The senate approved the air, army and navy estimates for 1934 by acclamation.

With the loss of religious faith there has come a lapse into moral chaos. Christ came to the earth not to bring us a doctrine to live by but to bring us life. He came to dwell in the heart. The only hope of the need of the world being supplied is by the Christian Church to offer prayer without ceasing.

Joint Meeting

A joint meeting of the W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. A. Wilson on Tuesday evening. Mrs. H. H. Hall, president of the W.M.S. presided over the meeting which was opened with a hymn, and prayer by the leader. Matt 14, Mrs. S. B. Rollins offered prayer and read a poem on the death of Mrs. Sonter, missionary to India, who died there in November last year. The lesson was taken by the Rev. Mr. Wilson from the Study Book.

The second part of the meeting was taken by Mrs. D. W. Sills and Mrs. Wilson, who called the meeting to order and Mrs. S. B. Rollins was invited to use the following address, was read to Mrs Wilson.

Dear Mrs. Wilson:

On hearing of your anticipated visit to the West to make your home with your daughter for an unlimited time, we, the ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, feel you go without showing you our appreciation of your faithfulness in all our church work. We will miss you in many ways and the place in which you were always present in health permitted. We would ask you to accept this gift, not for its value but as a slight token of our esteem and love. May you have many happy days in this New Year and may God's richest blessing rest upon You is the sincere wish of your friends of St. Andrew's.

Signed on behalf of the W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid, Mrs. H. H. Hall, Mrs. D. W. Sills.

Council Meets

The first regular meeting of Tweed village council for the year 1934 was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening where Reeve W. Bapty presided. Councillors, Kingston, Harold Purdy, E. Myles and M. J. Quinn, and B. H. Hall, clerk and Public Utilities Commission for two years signed the declaration of office. The clerk, W. B. Huyck, declared the Council and Public Utility Commission duly organized for 1934.

The following committees were appointed:

Finance—Quinn Purdy and Sayers.

Streets—Sayers, Kingston and Myles.

Fire, light and water — Quinn, Myles and Purdy.

Parks—J. W. Kingston, E. Myles, C. D. Wilson and Jas. Ryan.

Mr. & Mrs. Ed. Way interviewed the council in connection with driving the unemployed men to Kaladar to work on the highway and was given instructions to take back another load of the unemployed.

The customary by-law was passed authorizing the Reeve and Treasurer to borrow money from the bank for current expenses.

Moved that road steps to put a stop to the use of profane and obscene language on the streets by issuing a by-law imposing a penalty on those found guilty. A number of bills were ordered paid and the council adjourned at 12.15 Tuesday morning.

The Council and High School Board met on Tuesday evening to discuss the matter of starting the High School. A recent leg of the water shortage was the unfit for drinking purposes. It was decided that a further 6" of the water would be made. The Council does not feel that it would be wise at the present time under existing financial stress to extend the water works to the High School and other measures will be considered in a future time to provide the school with a supply of drinking water.

WEEK OF PRAYER OBSERVED BY TWEED CHURCHES

Tweed Village Council Holds First Meeting of The Year

Tweed—The Universal Week of Prayer, is being observed by union services of the Anglican, Presbyterian and United Churches and the Salvation Army. The meetings are being held in the church particular of the United Church. Large congregations were present at all services.

On Monday evening Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne, Rector of St. James's Anglican Church delivered an inspiring address on "The Need of the World." The speaker chose as his text, Oct. 11:8 "It pleased the Father that in Him should all fullness dwell" He said that traditional forms of Christian belief have temporarily lost their vitality and that the drift from the Christian standpoint is a cause of anxiety. There is a need that the best thought of the community, secular and religious, shall be united in a common effort to give wise guidance as knowledge grows, as law and social customs change to meet new conditions. Christian enthusiasm and material prosperity have always proved to drift apart as opposed forces. It is the duty of modern Christians to become self-satisfied, they then lose a great danger.

True faith in this era cannot be a smooth joy; it is only to be won by rough experience, by question and struggle and failure and renewed effort to understand.

On Tuesday evening Capt. H. S. Boyce of the Salvation Army spoke on the them "The Church Universal." Capt. Boyce is a man of deep religious conviction and those who heard him were greatly benefited by his words.

The church referred to is the Christian Church in the early centre of its faith is Jesus Christ, who brought to the world the hope of Eternal life through faith in Him. It is the duty of the Church to lead the world into the knowledge of this hope of life. In many cases we are compelled to admit that the Church has fallen short of fulfilling its duties. There is in the world today a widespread decay of religious faith and a turning towards man-made ideings which do not satisfy the spiritual thirst. There seems today to be a lack of heart knowledge of the gifts and power of God and their ultimate outcome.

BARGAIN IN LOVE

by JANE DIXON

Mathilda turned deliberately and surveyed Sue's little, firm delicately rounded young figure, her fresh eager young face, her hair that clung in shining curl tendrils to her brow and neck.

"You don't suppose men choose you because of your brain power?" she twitted.

"Don't be absurd, Matty. I have not a brain in my head. If I had I wouldn't be what I am, a target for every fortune hunter, every pleasure hunter who feels like shooting."

"No one has hit the bull's-eye yet," Mathilda said. "Let's turn on the radio. I can always think better to music."

In the morning Sue wakened with a start. Her nerves were a network of humming vibrating wires.

"It's chilly," Mathilda said, depositing a glass of orange juice by Sue's bed. "We must wear topcoats. Smell that coffee. Nothing like coffee to start your right foot in the morning."

"I feel all keyed up," Sue, sipping the orange juice. "As if I were standing on the edge of a high cliff looking into a canyon, and not knowing whether I would fall backward or forward."

"You'd better fall out of bed or we'll be late to the office," Mathilda advised.

"I'm out, Matty. When you get your coat, bring the beige one for me. It's my pet superstition."

At ten o'clock Sue, busy over her typewriter, became conscious of an electrically charged atmosphere in the office. Simultaneously, a shadow fell across the page she was typing. She glanced up to see Mrs. Henry Hume leaning over her desk.

"Come into my husband's office," Mrs. Hume said, her eyes twin pin points of malevolence. "Unless you would rather have me say what I intend to say here, for the benefit of everybody."

"I'm —that is—I'm very busy, Mrs. Hume." Sue, fencing for time, for escape. "And Mr. Hume hasn't sent for me."

"Not too busy, I think". The pin points went on stabbing. "Never mind about my husband's sending for you. I've sent for you. Follow me at once."

Sue rose and followed.

Henry Hume looked up from his desk. Seeing the two women, his wife advancing on him with derisive smile, he went to the door through which they had entered, marked Private, and bolted it.

"Now, then," Henry Hume addressed his wife. "Why are you here? I warned you to keep away from my workshop."

"Workshop!" The derisive smile became a grimace. "Hardly that—"

"Hold your tongue! I should have twisted it out long ago."

Sue, helpless with fright. The cords of Henry Hume's neck had thickened, were straining against his collar.

"You won't, though." The woman went on grimacing. "You're too soft. Beside, I've plenty of protection outside that door. One scream and think of the headlines in the papers. 'Husband attacks wife in presence of his paramour.' Lovely reading."

The pin points stabbed at Sue again.

"What do you propose to do?" Henry Hume thrust his fists deep into his pockets.

CHAPTER 29

"What do I propose to do?" Mrs. Hume repeated her husband's question.

"Nothing, my dear. Absolutely nothing at all. You will do the doing. I'm sure you won't mind paying for having such a clever young woman as Miss Santry at your beck and call. I'll be quite reasonable. Quite. Say —five hundred thousand on account, and a thousand a month until further notice. Isn't it worth such a trifling sum to get rid of the wife who helped make you from a laborer into a financier, and to take on one of your—servants?"

Sue, indignation submerging fright.

"Mrs. Hume, please! It's all a terrible mistake. You know it's a mistake."

"What, that you are one of my husband's servants?" derisively.

"No. I suppose I am what you might call a servant. I'm working in his office. But the other—his taking me on—is not true."

"You mean you've just been his stenographer? Nothing more?"

Sue tell-tale crimson mounting to her cheeks. "He—he—"

"I've asked Mrs. Randall to marry me when we're both free," Henry Hume cut in.

"Then you admit you've been having an affair. That will be interesting news to a jury—most interesting" Mrs. Hume said, triumphantly.

"Not so interesting as this." Henry Hume drew a letter from a drawer of his desk, offered it to his wife. She snatched it. Consternation, alarm, wiped out the grimace. The letter rustled in her shaking hands.

"It's a lie!" she cried. "You've tricked Jules—Senor Baltino. You have used force to take him from me."

It was Henry Hume's turn to laugh. "The strongest force in the world for his kind," he said. "Money. He's made a statement, signed and delivered. All the details of the scheme to use Miss Santry to extort money from me along with your divorce. Baltino has taken his cut and left for parts unknown. Unknown to you, that is. I can always reach him."

"More lies." The woman held on desperately. Clinging to a lost hope. "I heard from him only yesterday."

"That was yesterday. Don't wait for his next message. He cleared out immediately after he cabled you. If you doubt it, try to reach him. You'll find the gallant senor forgot to leave his forwarding address."

"You've done this to me—you and your women." Mrs. Hume's face was stark. "You've taken my life and now you take him."

"You were free enough about smashing other people's lives," Henry Hume reminded. "When you withdraw the suit against Mrs. Randall, get your divorce and a reasonable sum to take care of you, I'll give you Baltino's address. Then you can settle scores with him any way you please."

A crafty gleam crept into Mrs. Hume's eyes.

"Divorce you?" She affected surprise. "I've no intention of doing anything of the kind."

"Oh, yes you have. In jig time The quickest place that's legal. If not, there's a neat conspiracy case waiting to be filed against you. I'll get the divorce and you'll get nothing."

"Is she"—stabbing Sue with the pin points—"so eager to own you?"

Sue, quailing. "No, Mrs. Hume. No. I've no idea of marrying Mr. Hume. I shall never marry him. You see I—I love my husband."

It was out. Her secret had fled her heart, spilled across her lips. The crimson in her cheeks guilty stains. Why? Is there shame in a wife's loving the man she married?

Mrs. Hume rallied:

"How sad. Really tragic, isn't it? Because your husband does not return the compliment. I happen to know. The adventuress type doesn't appeal to him. I'll have to be running along. Such an enlightening visit. I've ordered a sable coat from Franchot, Henry. The bill will be down tomorrow."

Henry Hume unbolted the door, held it back while his wife passed through.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Hume." Sue, the crimson drained from her cheeks. "It's all so rotten at the core. This bullying and cheating, this money-madness."

"You love Randall?" He stood before her, demanding, his eyes hungry.

"Yes." Pride in the word, a little tremulo of tenderness. "I love Jeffrey. I've tried not to. It isn't any use. I shall love him—always."

"Thanks for telling me the truth. After all, love belongs to youth. I'll make it my business to see young Randall knows the alienation suit was a frame-up."

"Oh, no. Please. Promise me you won't, until I give you permission."

"It's only fair to you and to Randall to have the thing cleared up—"

"But it isn't fair. Don't you understand that if Jeffrey Randall accepts my guilt without even taking the trouble to hear my side, he wants to accept it? He wants to be rid of me. I'd be forcing myself on him and he'd hate me. Let the whole affair drop. What I need most is a safe corner, where I can work and rest and—think. I have found the corner. Just leave me, with Mathilda, in my corner."

"As you wish." Henry Hume strode to his desk. "At any rate you've nothing further to fear from my wife. Poor old girl Baltino's selling out on her must have been a blow. You may have the rest of the day off, Miss Santry, and take Miss Fetherstone with you. It's been a busy morning."

Mathilda intercepted Sue before she could reach her desk.

"I see you've got all your limbs," Mathilda said, meaningly, "and no battle scars—at least none that are visible. The battle's not finished though. Beatrice Randall phoned you while you were in there. I answered. She demands that you meet her at noon. She suggested Black's for lunch. We'll be able to make it if you hurry."

Lunch? With Bea Randall? But Matty, why should I lunch with a person who—"

"Whacks you over the head with ancestral busts and hires thugs to bump you into ditches. I don't know but I thought we'd better find out. She's got a new trick up her sleeve. If we know her game we will be better able, to block the trick."

"I couldn't eat with her at the table. I'd choke. It's about—Jeff."

"Undoubtedly."

"We'll go." Sue, tucking the curls under the brim of her hat. "Mr. Hume has given us the afternoon off. We may need it."

They found Beatrice Randall waiting inside the entrance at Black's. Not difficult to sift her from the pack. A knot of green orchids nestled in the silver fox under her delicate pointed chin, and the hat poised pertly on her small head was the ultimate in fashion and in costliness. Masculine heads turned for a closer approximation of the solitary figure with the smouldering black eyes and the air of detachment. Sue, in tweed coat suit with tailored white blouse under the beige coat, and Mathilda in the customary office regalia, distinctly more serviceable than pictorial, were as field daisies to an orchid.

Greetings were scant. A table at the far corner of the room, and a waiter bending for orders.

"Broiled mushrooms on toast," Beatrice ordered without deigning to study the extended menu. "Do you have them under glass?"

"No, madam, but they may be ordered."

"How long?"

"Fifteen, twenty minutes."

"Don't bother. The others will do very well."

"Very well madame." The waiter turned to Sue.

"A pot of coffee, please."

The waiter lifted his pencil expectantly.

"That will be all. Coffee, very hot, please."

"I'll have lamb chops au gratin potatoes and a lettuce and tomato salad," Mathilda said. "Yes, and lemon meringue pie."

The waiter responded with a grin. Here was a woman, not a bird.

"Sorry to trouble you." Beatrice Randall addressed Sue, unfastened the silver fox with white gloved fingers. "It was imperative that I talk with you."

"I judged as much." Sue, steady eye fixed on the pallor of Beatrice Randall's face. Could it be real? Ivory chalk taking tinge from the green orchids. Thin scarlet lips, Thin flaring nostrils, beaked.

"I'll be brief." Beatrice Randall avoided Sue's inquiring eyes. "Your father has been in touch with me. He tells me your family needs money."

Sue, stung by the surprise attack. Wavering, assembling her wits somehow.

"My father is dead."

"To be sure. Then let's say your mother's husband. Henschler, Herman Henschler, isn't that the name? He explained that your mother is an invalid and that he is without funds. Also, that there is a young brother to be supported."

"I'm taking care of my brother, and of my mother too."

"Yes—that is, Jeffrey is looking after them. Or rather Jeffrey's money. Quite all right, of course, except it must be a bit embarrassing, being kept by a stranger. Effect of a charity dole."

Sue, recoiling, as from a blow:

"There's no use in discussing a situation, she said, "with which you are not familiar."

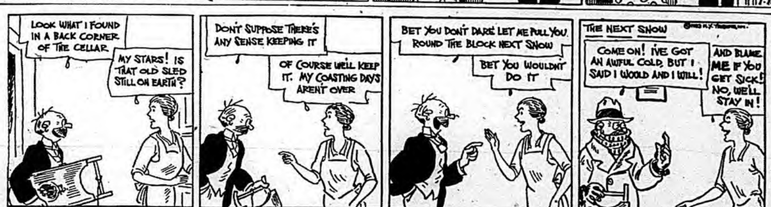
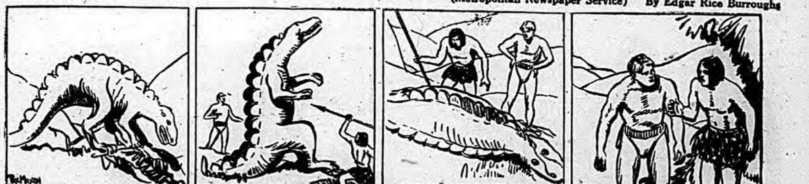
TILLIE THE TOILER



By Russ Westover.

BRINGING UP FATHER



By George McManus

TARZAN AT THE EART H'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The giant stegosaurus had no intention of giving up the battle. Still shrieking in rage and pain, it now glided to the ground beyond Gridley and the warrior. Immelately it turned to renew the attack. This time it came upon its four feet. Gridley saw it was likely to prove as great an enemy upon the ground as it had been in the air. For considering its tremendous bulk, it moved with great agility and speed.

As Gridley stood facing the returning creature the warrior leaped to his side crying: "Get on that side of him and I will attack him on this. Keep out of the way of his tail. Use your spear. You cannot frighten him away by making a noise." The American leaped quickly to one side, obeying the suggestion and the warrior took his place upon the opposite side of the approaching engine of destruction. Before Jason could fire or the warrior cast his spear the stegosaurus stumbled and fell.

Its nose dug into the ground and it rolled over on its side. "It is dead!" said the warrior in a surprised tone. "What could have killed it? Neither one of us has cast a spear." Jason tapped his Colts as he slipped them back into their holsters. "These killed it," he said. "Noises do not kill," answered the warrior skeptically. "It was not the noise that did it," said Jason, "look into its mouth and examine its head and then you will see what happened when my weapons spoke."

Curiously, the man looked the dead beast over and when he saw the holes in it he looked at Jason with awe. "Who are you," he asked, "and what are you doing in Zoram?" And now it was Gridley's turn to be astonished. "Am I in Zoram?" he exclaimed." Are you one of the men of Zoram?" The warrior answered "Yes." "Then tell me," cried Jason, "do you know Jana, The Red Flower of Zoram?" The warrior's eyes widened in surprise. "What do you know of The Red Flower, stranger?"

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE

"HER SWEETHEART"

Co-starred for the first time on the screen, Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore bring comedy, heart interest and gripping drama to their fans in an inimitable blend in "Her Sweetheart" (Christopher Bean), at the Belle Theatre, today and Monday, matinee daily. This is Metro Goldwyn Mayer's much discussed filmization of the stage success, "The Late Christopher Bean."

The two beloved figures who received Academy awards together provide vivid personalities in a vigorous story which is replete with laughs as well as dramatic interest. As Abby, the faithful old servant who finds herself suddenly in possession of a priceless painting and consequently becomes the centre of intrigue and plotting. Miss Dressler gives another of her forceful and intensely human portrayals. Barrymore as the kindly old Dr. Haggett who becomes obsessed at the thought of riches almost in his grasp, gives an equally brilliant performance.

Old Paintings Discovered

The story deals with the family of a country doctor who in the past has befriended an artist long since dead. The paintings of this artist are discovered to be worth a fortune. The old doctor, under the lash of avarice, seeks to steal the portrait of the servant, Abby, thus uncovering a romance of the past and participating a striking denouement. Various characters, such as the innocent young lovers, the scheming wife, the jealous daughter the sauve art dealer, interject interesting touches into the absorbing drama.

Miss Dressler and Barrymore are supported by a finished cast in which prominent roles are filled by Helen Mack as the jealous daughter, Buelah Bondi of the original stage cast, Russell Hardie, Jean Hersholt, H. B. Warner, Helen Shipman, George Coulouris and Ellen Lowe.

The discerning direction of Sam Wood, who filmed "Hold Your Man" is of a definite aid to the new Dressler-Barrymore co-starring vehicle.

Preceding the feature offering is another of those popular miniature musical Revues, featuring a cast of Night Club, Radio, stage and screen artists and entitled "Plane Nuts"! "Conquest of the Air" introducing the ramblings of the News Reel Camerman, and "Sandman's Tales" a clever and funny Scrappy Kartune.

"WHAT PRICE INNOCENCE" AT THE CAPITOL THEATRE

"What Price Innocence?" is the pertinent title of the new photoplay which opens Monday at the Capitol Theatre. It's a story of youth—the present day, fast-living, supposedly wise, sophisticated youth, plunging at life without really understanding its problems and responsibilities.

Authored by Willard Mack, veteran playwright, the new screen play presents a provocative social drama, handled with utmost delicacy and tact, and enacted by a cast of superlative performers.

In no way intended to be a preachment, "What Price Innocence?" embodies, nevertheless, a strong indictment of the imperturbable, steadfast faith that certain parents have in the moral inflexibility of their children. "Why, nothing like that could ever happen to MY daughter," the mother of the tragic Ruth Harper remarks. But it did happen, and a poor soul was sacrificed to a blind, mid-Victorian haughtiness.

Willard Mack who not only wrote the splendid story, but gives a delicate, understanding performance as the Harper's family physician, also directed the film. The splendid entertainment that is on view at the Capitol Monday is a tribute to Mack's versatility.

Jean Parker, lovely little brunette actress who in this, her fourth picture, has won her way to stardom, gives a stirring performance of Ruth Harper, the sweet, ill-fated youngster of 17, whose mother "took things for granted", where the girl was concerned.

Minna Gombell, always more than competent, is at her best as this self-deceived mother. Bryant Washburn, long noted for excellent performances, gives another one as the father who "always leaves such things to the wife."

Ben Alexander, once famed as a portrayer of little boy parts, but now grown to young manhood, plays the young rotter, who turns Ruth's sweet innocence to his own advantage, and does splendidly in an unsympathetic part.

I hope every mother and father and daughter and son in Belleville will go to see "What Price Innocence?" It is a powerful screen drama and worthwhile entertainment for every member of the family. In addition and as a contrast to this drama you will see a screamingly funny two reel comedy; popular song hit; Oriental Cocktail, and Capitol news of the world. Gift days on Monday and Tuesday of fruit dishes. Leaving Saturday, Lionel Atwill in "The Sphinx" mystery thriller also Joe E. Brown in his funniest farce, "You Said a Mouthful" and another chapter of "The Whispering Shadow."

CABINET WINS 2 VICTORIES

But Budget And Train Wreck Formidable Hurdles

Paris, Jan. 13.—Despite two victories wrung from the chamber of deputies over the Stavisky pawnshop bond scandal the Chautemps government was still on uncertain footing today.

Premier Camille Chautemps scored a personal triumph in two smashing votes of confidence, leaving the investigation of the $40,000,000 financial fiasco entirely in the hands of the cabinet. His generalship before the chamber of deputies greatly enhanced his prestige, too.

But parliamentary lobbies were inclined to doubt whether he can succeed again in welding a majority to support him across the formidable hurdles awaiting the government in the near future.

The cabinet's insecure footing lay chiefly in the gigantic budget task befort it. Investigation of the Lagny train wreck which killed two hundred people was another bad spot.

The chamber gave one vote of confidence, 360 against 229, supporting Chautemps' opposition to a parliamentary investigation. The second, 376 to 205, was a resolution of faith in M. Chautemps' promise to personally investigate the debacle, "sparing no names".

Mrs. Wells and Miss Brown will be in charge for the February meeting at the parsonage.

Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Haacke at the close of the meeting.

The busiest spot seen in Marmora in a long time is on the new highway west of Crowe River and in connection with the construction of the temporary bridge across the river. An immense lot of rock has been taken out of the rock cut and yet it is just enough to give an idea of the magnitude of the job. It will provide work for a lot of men well into next summer. The approach to the temporary bridge is about completed on both sides of the river with the exception of surfacing and has taken a lot of crushed rock.

The work of constructing the piers is being pushed along. Big cribs of heavy timber are constructed and then filled with rock. The men building the crib stand on a big floating platform with the centre open, the size of the crib. Logs are placed in position by the aid of a caterpillar crane and the rock is also unloaded from the trucks in big flat buckets and emptied into the cribs for the piers.

The number of local men employed means a great deal to the village and the assistance of Hon. J. R. Cooke in having the contract call for the use of 857 of Hastings County labour should meet with hearty thanks. The construction work is a source of interest to many spectators.

Mrs. (Dr.) Curtis is visiting her mother, Mrs. Edmonds, at Seaforth.

Mr. Wotten and Col Fee of Peterboro, were in town on Wednesday.

Mr. Dan Keeley of Timmins, is visiting his brother, Rev. Father J. J. Keeley.

Cottrell led in the responsive reading of Psalm 103, and offered prayer. Mr. H. W. Sabine also offered prayer. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell gave an inspirational address on "Faith," taking as his text Heb. 11: 6, "Without faith it is impossible to please God."

TENNIS CLUB OF STIRLING HOLDS DANCE

Over 100 Couples Enjoy Evening Amid Pleasant Surroundings

HOCKEY SCORES

Both Games in Centre Loop Result in Tie Scores

Stirling, Jan. 13 (Special)— The annual "At Home" of the Stirling Tennis Club was held in the Community Hall on Thursday evening, January 11th. One hundred couples were present and enjoyed dancing to the music supplied for the occasion by Chas. Allen and the Commodores. Guests from out of town were from Belleville, Trenton, Tweed, Frankford, Marmora, Madoc, Deloro and Campbellford.

The softly subdued lights in shades of rose formed an effective setting for the ladies in their multicolored evening gowns. At the entrance to the ballroom a cosy lounge was arranged with easy chairs and shaded lamps for a sitting-out nook, while a large welcome sign was placed at the head of the stairs. The guests were received in the hall which was attractively decorated in traditional Stirling colors of red and white by the patronesses, Mesdames J. B. Belshaw, Anne Bailey, C. N. Baker, E. A. Carleton, A. E. Dobbie, H. C. Martin, J. C. McGee, R. W. Meiklejohn, R. G. Lawlor, Jas. McC. Potts, W. H. Pedley, and Walter Wright. The ball room was lovely with its futuristic lighting effect, the central light a revolving beacon which cast a rose glow over the hall and traced delicate shadows on the ceiling. Rose flood lights were installed in the four corners while twenty bridge lamps, arranged along the walls cast a roseate glow on the tables. There were 20 tables for reservation and twenty-five more were in demand. The orchestra was on a dais which was arranged in a triangular effect with a railing along the sides, the gateway coming to the apex of two of the arms. At each side of this entrance stood two lofty palms, while many novel ideas were carried out in the orchestra arrangements themselves. Directly over the orchestra stand were two crossed tennis rackets, symbolic of the sponsors of the event. The spot dance was won by Mrs. Walter Wright and Mr. J. C. Beacock. Lunch was served at midnight by the members of the Tennis Club and dancing continued until an early hour. Much credit for the success of the event goes to Bill Jones, president of the club and Ned Potts, chairman of the decorating committee.

School Teams Tie

Stirling High School lads travelled to Frankford on Friday night and met the Wooler team in the second fixture in the South Hastings High School hockey loop. The game was a close one, Stirling leading at the end of the first frame 2-1, but the count was evened in the second. The game ended 2 all and an overtime period of 10 minutes failed to break the tie. This leaves the locals with a win and a tie game putting them on top of the heap.

Evergreen 1—Zion 1

The Friday night doubleheader in the Centre hockey loop played in the Stirling arena resulted in two tie games, Evergreen tying Zion Hill by a 1-1 score and Cannifton battling out with Bethel to a 3 all count. The ice was rather heavy slowing up the play to a considerable extent.

In the Evergreen-Zion Hill encounter the play was fairly slow. Bill Heath of Evergreen netted the sole counter for his team in the first frame. The second stanza continued scoreless for Zion Hill with the credit for it going largely to Rodgers in the Evergreen nets. Shortly after the third period opened the tying goal was chalked up by Orley Parks, star wing player on the Zion Hill lineup. The latter part of the period saw the play become considerably rougher with a good deal of slashing. Neither team seemed to be able to break away from the close checking and the game ended with a 1-1 count. No penalties were handed out throughout the entire game.

Outstanding for Evergreen were the goal tender Rodgers, Maurice McGee, Don Rodgers and Bill Heath while Parks, Seeley minding the nets and Defiyes were the stars of the Zion Hill aggregation.

Lineups:

Cannifton 3—Bethel 3

The second encounter that of Cannifton vs. Bethel was much faster than the previous game and provided plenty of thrills for the spectators. Shortly after the play opened, Empson of the Cannifton crew chalked up the first counter by scoring on a combination play with the speedy centre lad, Johnsen. Once again the Dickey brothers, were outstanding for Bethel, working had to overcome the Cannifton lead. They were rewarded in the last of the frame when Earl Dickey bulged the twine evening the count. Incidentally, Cannifton had a new goalie Watts in the nets and the shot on which Dickey beat him, the second of the night, looked to be a mighty easy one. The Cannifton net was seriously menaced in the scramble just in front of the goal but the bell sounded ending the period.

Sharpe replaced Watts in the Cannifton goal in the second frame and stopped some hard shots. Johnson of Cannifton was the most troublesome man on the ice and was all over. The second goal was chalked up for Cannifton by Empson who was merely repeating the act. It was a dead shot and Sharpe hadn't a chance to save on it. Cannifton tested Sharpe again and again but failed to slip another counter by him, the period ending with Cannifton on the long end of a 2-1 count.

Penalties in the second frame were meted out to Fargey of Bethel for tripping up Johnson and to Ray Dickey and Carmichael for bodying.

The third frame was a real speedy affair and shortly after the gong pealed, Ed. Jarrell took a trip to the benches for boarding Fargey. Hudgins of Bethel was also penalized for tripping. Empson made a close shot on the Bethel goal hitting the goal post and was deflected off. For a while it looked as if the performance would be repeated thrice. Cannifton thought they had the game in the bag when Johnson tallied on a solo play making the count 3-1 but those hard battling Dickey lads stepped into the breach and a few minutes later Ray Dickey scored on a pass from Fargey.. The Dickeys along with Fargey of the Bethel aggregation worked like demons and time after time tested the Cannifton goalie. Sharpe who acquitted himself nobly in the nets. Shortly before the bell went, the score was evened when a sort of fluke goal was scored, the shot coming from behind the nets, striking a Cannifton player's shoulder and was deflected backward to exen the game up. Although it was a tough break for Cannifton, the Bethel forward line labouring against terrible odds deserved the luck. With the series tightening up in this way, the loop is becoming increasingy interesting of which the larger crowds are ample evidence.

Lineups:

"Due to its many attractive features, I am confident that the issue will meet a ready reception from the investing public," concluded Premier Henry, "and I urge all who contemplate purchasing these debentures not to delay in entering their orders."

SIMPLY SHIFT IN TITLE OF ALL U.S. GOLD

Washington, Jan. 15 (CP)—Government ownership of all monetary gold, today was analyzed to mean chiefly a shift in title, since most of the yellow metal already is in either the United States treasury itself or its mints.

Treasury monetary gold stocks exceed $4,000,000,000, of this, $2,261,000,000 are held in the treasury, of what's outside, $810,154,000 is held by the Federal Reserve banks.

The change of title might be accomplished simply earmarking than $810,000,000 of coin and bullion to the government's account, or it could be shipped into the treasury.

Of the gold held in the treasury, $1,727,949,000 is the portion of a $2,000,000,000 debenture issue dated January 16, 1934.

The issue which is a direct obligation of the province is offered in three maturities, and the subscription is optional with the subscriber:

$20,000 LOSS AT MARMORA

Old Stone Grist Mill is Totally Destroyed, Stock Saved

Marmora, Jan. 15 (Special)—The large stone grist mill owned by the Marmora Milling Company and C. B. Airhart, as tenant, was totally destroyed by fire, which broke out in the early morning and by three o'clock this morning. The origin of the fire is unknown and the loss on the property is estimated between $15,000 and $20,000. Insurance carried by the company is not known. The stock, which was owned by Mr. Airhart was saved except some grain that were in the bins. The loss to Mr. Airhart will not be more than $500.

The mill is one of the landmarks of the district and has been in use for many years. Power was supplied to the mill by water and when the water was low, the mill was at a loss to determine the cause of the fire. The building was covered by electricity, but the fire broke out in the basement. The machinery on one room was also burned, in which much of the stock was stored but the fire was confined to that part and spread to that building. The volunteer brigade was quickly on the scene and by the villagers, but the fire had reached such headway before it was discovered that most of the attention was directed to adjoining buildings. At an early hour today the fire was under control and no more danger is expected. One of the most serious fires to have occurred in Marmora in some years.

EARTH SHOCK OFF ALASKAN COAST FELT

So Severe It Rang Earthquake Bell in London

London, Jan. 15—(CP)—A great earth shock believed to have been felt somewhere off the coast of Alaska was registered on the seismographs of England at 8.45 o'clock this morning, the disturbance continuing long afterward.

The shock was so severe that it rang my earthquake bell," said J. Milne, Seismologist at the West Bromwich observatory.

DID NOT PLAY POLITICS IN SLUMP DAYS

Deposed House Leader Sinclair Blames "Office-seekers"

REMAINS LIBERAL

Sinclair Tells Why He Co-operated With Government

Oshawa, Ont., Jan. 15 (CP)—Liberal members of the Ontario Legislature depose him from leadership of the party at the Liberal "house" threats of losing their own riding conventions and being driven out of public life if they supported me as House Leader for this session," W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., former party leader in the Ontario Legislature, today in a statement.

"I was 'on the spot,' he charged "by a small group of self-appointed, self-made politicians from Toronto, known as the board of strategy." Mr. Sinclair was voted out of office by a vote of 39 to 28 members, at Toronto more than a week ago and was succeeded by Hon. Mitchell Quibban.

Mr. Sinclair said he was "let out" because he did not co-operate with Harry Nixon, Progressive leader and Minister of Lands and Forests, in the government in measures of benefit to the party.

No Lack of Ability

"I am highly gratified to have the testimony of my fellow Liberal members as to my ability, and there was no lack of ability to consider legislation or to carry on the duties of office with dignity," he said, "but because I was not giving enough co-operation to Mr. Nixon and his followers. It has therefore, come to be considered an offence in the Liberal party to be an independent Liberal and to be too strict in adherence to that party.

"I was let out because I offered co-operation to the government in the measures of benefit to the people. Even in times like these, it is therefore a political offence to help the people against the wishes of the party. I have lived too closely under the lash of party to be surprised on these many months, making every effort I could for the welfare of the unfortunate at home, not to be driven to seeking work in the government in any way to impress conditions and aid recovery. Knowing that some of my constituents who were sorely tried, I could not play politics at such a time as this. My action would be adjudged wrong by the party.

"At an early hour today the fire was under control and no more danger is expected. One of the most serious fires to have occurred in Marmora in some years.

RELIEF CHIEF TOPIC FOR PREMIER'S PARLEY

Conference Will Open Wednesday at the Capitol

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—(CP)—Delegations from the nine provinces of Canada were converging upon Ottawa today for the important Dominion-Provincial Conference, which will be opened by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett on Wednesday morning.

While Dominion-Provincial Conferences are nothing new here, the one about to open promises to be the most important in history. Unemployment relief will be the chief topic of discussion, and it is stated that the delegates are instructed to come to the conference table with definite proposals.

Naturally the Dominion Government will present to the Conference certain policies for discussion, which it considers of primary importance. Perhaps the most pressing is unemployment relief with the question of the financing. The latter point is of vital importance, particularly to some of the western provinces.

The Conference is slated for discussion, and it is stated that the Premier's secretary will be kept busy taken up with the western delegations.

JOHN GILBERT AND VIRGINIA BRUCE PART

Fourth Marriage Apparently Headed Way of Other Three

Hollywood, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The fourth marriage of John Gilbert, romantic leading man, apparently is headed the way of the other three.

Gilbert's estranged wife, Virginia Bruce, whom he married August 10, 1932, announced today she would file suit soon today. She said she and the actor had lived apart for a year and so had separated.

Miss Bruce gave their thoughts for the present, said the wife of the screen lover, herself an actress until she married Gilbert, will resume her career. Divorce severed Gilbert's previous marriage to screen actress —Olivia Burwell, Leatrice Joy and Ina Claire.

Gilbert had nothing to say, except saying that his wife would do the talking.

Miss Bruce described him as a "fine husband," but added: "I'm being without hard feelings. She said when they found themselves in the agreement they decided it would be better for her to live with her parents for a while, thinking things over.

"There may be a divorce and there may be a reconciliation," she said.

The couple's five-months-old daughter, Susan Ann, is with her mother.

"Gold Standard" Product of Bourgeois Philosophy, Outworn

Toronto, Jan. 15 (CP)— B. K. Sandwell, Editor of Saturday Night, told the Canadian Club today that the gold standard was a product of "bourgeois Philosophy of the 18th and 19th centuries, originating in the desire of English capitalists to prevent interference with the monetary system by their own government as an obstacle to similar interference in other countries."

"That international philosophy," said Mr. Sandwell, "broke down in practice about the end of the 19th century, although its philosophers did not know it at the time. Its collapse was brought about by the rise of tariffs, which put nationalistic considerations above the claims of international movement of every commodity except gold.

Flexible Dollar Sought by Roosevelt in His Address to U.S. Congress

"Exact Value Fixation Not Desirable" Says Roosevelt

2 BILLIONS PROFIT

Silver Recognized as Medium of Exchange in United States

Washington, Jan. 15.—Power to make a drastic revaluation of the United States dollar within the limited range of 50 to 60 per cent. of its present gold content was asked of Congress today by President Roosevelt in a special message urging the government ownership of all monetary gold.

Mr. Roosevelt recommended also that of a $2,000,000,000 fund out of profits realized from devaluation with which the secretary of the treasury could trade in gold, buying and selling at home and abroad "for the regulation of the currency, the maintenance of the credit of the government and the general welfare of the United States."

His message to a legislative title to the $3,500,000,00 of federal reserve bank gold "as a basis provision for payment in gold certificates—warehouse receipts on gold dollars in the future."

His message made clear the intention to proceed with "managed dollar" plans, envisioning a flexible rather than a fixed relationship with the present statutory gold content—at between 50 and 60 cents.

Partly Aid Likely

Democratic leaders in congress quickly predicted he would get the revaluation he sought, despite opposition from the Republican ranks and within his own party.

The President's words were in part:

"Because of world uncertainties, I do not believe it desirable in the public interest to return to an exact gold standard at this time.

"The President is authorized at present legislation to fix the lower limit of permissible revaluation at 50 per cent.

Careful study leads me to believe that any revaluation at, more than 60 per cent of the present statutory value would not be in the public interest. I therefore, recommend to the Congress that the upper limit of permissible revaluation be 60 per cent."

In more passage led to many questions, the meaning not being considered clear by many. In a special press conference, the President explained the intentions of the wider powers sought.

Two Billions Profit

Devaluation of the dollar by 50 per cent would mean a profit to the government of approximately $3,500,000,000 in the dollar price of the gold at par, which is held in the Treasury from the Federal Reserve banks and the mint in night; since flurries.

Numerous motorists were seen skidding around the streets about the city but no serious automobile accidents were reported to the police. Accidents on the provincial highways running out of the city were also at a minimum.

NEW WORLD FACES YOUNG

Miss Jessie McPherson of Toronto Speaks at John St. Church

A Christian challenge, especially to the younger members of the church, was presented by Miss Jessie McPherson, newly appointed Dean of Women at Victoria College, Toronto, at the evening service held at John Street United Church last night when the service was conducted by the Young People's League of the church with the annual Sunday service in charge, assisted by Miss Helen Findlay, who read the lesson and introduced Miss McPherson the speaker.

Miss McPherson's address was pictorial than the future of the Christian church depended on Christ's knowledge of the living God," declared the speaker, and appealed urged the young people to renew their knowledge of God and cast off their childish ideas relating to a mythical God upon a lofty throne. "Science has revealed to us a magnificent God and presented a revelation of His works, by identifying Him with His works throughout the whole realm of the universe," said Miss McPherson as she quoted the late Jessie Arnold, the living God though sacrifices and the Crucifixion of the man Today must recapture God's presence in life and establish union with Him.

Mrs. McPherson dwelt at length on the seriousness of marriage in this age and urged all young persons contemplating marriage to be sure that there be a mutual understanding of respect and future accomplishments, as today in 1934 a new world faces youth for much of the training given in the homes of the past is now taught in institutions. Miss McPherson was of the opinion the modern trend in the pioneers in the construction of a new social order and would change the present family system.

In regard to armaments, she said the world today had become like the like of which had never been before from the fact that the profits of those persons who are presenting war today is not according to the teaching of Jesus and it is the duty of all to refuse to be led away by their propaganda. Today is the most interesting period in world history because the challenges are the greatest.

During the service Miss Leona Rigge sang a delightful solo while Miss Helen Findlay rendered suitable anthems. Following the service the Young People's League were hosts at a social hour spent in the church parlors.

Miss McPherson is no stranger to the city of Belleville as she has visited here in connection with C.O.I.T. work in this city.

MANY PARTAKE OF COMMUNION

Rev. Dr. Semple Officiates at Bridge Street U. C. Service

Holy Communion was partaken of by a large congregation in Bridge Street United Church Sunday morning. It was one of the largest communions held in the history of the church. Rev. Dr. A. Semple was assisted by Rev. W. D. Harrison and Rev. J. Waddington. Rev. Mr. Harrison preached the sermon. He remarked upon the reality and reverence in the rite of communion and emphasized remembrance.

The theme for the evening sermon by Rev. Dr. Semple was "The Meanest Thing a Man Can Do." The minister outlined the lesson taught by the conversion of the dying thief. He hoped that man might learn the lesson and come to God in the morning of life. He said that the meanest thing a man could do was to waste the power which God had given him in uselessness and frivolity for the gratification of self and the contamination of others, to lead them to give the balance of his life to God.

CRUSADERS' PLAN PRAISED

Mr. F. D. L. Smith of Mail And Empire Makes Reference

Mr. F. D. L. Smith, Chief Editor of the Mail and Empire in his broadcast Saturday evening, January 6th, at 6.45 p.m. on a series of journalistic talks on the air, referred in complimentary terms to the work of the Belleville Commerce Crusaders, in connection with the enlarged British Trade the two-way plan and wider markets for the Dominion.

This can well be taken as a great compliment, coming as it does from a distinguished Journalist.

It is stated that Mr. Smith's talk on the air was well heard from Halifax to Vancouver, and from time to have been difficulty in reception in Eastern Ontario.

Many Rotarian groups in Belleville, who had gathered to hear Mr. Smith were disappointed.

The principle now well established by the Belleville group, the success of the C.C.A. Conference Trade agreements, will spread over the country from coast to coast.

The company has had no intention of leaving Belleville, said Mr. Kalpin, and in fact have just entered into a new and long lease, which means that their business experience in Belleville has been agreeable and that a bright future is seen for the business here. Now that the matter of a long lease has been definitely settled the firm proposes to make extensive improvements in the store which will be entirely remodelled and new fixtures installed. In addition to these improvements the manager states that the staff will be increased and employment given to more Belleville people.

Further announcements may be expected shortly in the daily press, said Manager Kalpin.

POLICE COURT

Found guilty of common assault, Percy Bowen, Deseronto, was given six years's suspended sentence by His Honor Judge Deroche in the county criminal court held in Belleville this morning. Bowen was charged with assault, with intent to cause actual bodily harm but his honor lowered the count to that of common assault, as alleged to have assaulted Allan Artis, recently of Deseronto, on the night of June 9th. The case arose out of altercations between the two parties after Artis refused to pay Bowen rent allegedly owed the latter last fall. Bowen ascertained that Artis was contemplating leaving his premises, which had been rented by Artis from Bowen. Upon investigating the matter words were passed between the two men. Artis alleged that Bowen struck him with an iron bar while the accused man denied hitting the latter. Crown Attorney Wills prosecuted and Defence Counsel Ponton represented the accused.

Mr. Justice Hall presided over the assizes which opened this morning at 10 o'clock. The grand jury was empanelled with Mr. Ernest Hubbs as foreman. Mr. Justice Hall addressed the jurors and dismissed them until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

ORATORICAL CONTEST HELD AT STIRLING

Students Give Fine Display of Public Speaking at School

WINNERS NAMED

Sister Rogers Presented With Jewel at L.O.B.A. Meeting

Stirling, Jan. 15 (Special)— The annual High School Oratorical Contest was held in the High School Auditorium on Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Literary Society. Principal R. O. Hector was in the chair and introduced to the audience that the school had been divided into two groups for the contest, the contestants from first and second forms being classed as Juniors and those from third, fourth and fifth being classified as seniors.

There were four contestants in the Junior class, the first speaker being Leah Carr of Form 1 who chose as her topic "The Birth of Our Dominion." She pointed out that our country in its primeval stages pointing out the difficulties that the early Canadian statesmen encountered in their attempts to unite into a Dominion, a country, divided through racial differences, as well as religious differences and colonies. The speaker enunciated her words clearly and spoke in a good voice although perhaps a trifle quickly.

The second contestant in the junior class was Carl Mumby of Form IV who chose as his subject "On Being Idle" in which he was full of wit and dry humor and the youthful orator promised that he would be found a doubt that "idling" is a rare gift since there is no enjoyment in doing nothing when there is nothing to be done. The discourse wound up with a fanciful picture of a glorious future when idling would prevail. The speaker delivered in a manner were excellent and showed that he has quite a gift on the platform.

Lloyd Rowland, the third contestant and member of Form I, spoke on Captain Scott and his heroic and noble Antarctic Research. The subject was a very difficult one and was well dealt with. Captain Scott's diary tells the tale of their privation and suffering from the cold and exposure and recounts the courageous death of his companions and himself. The speaker said that he might meet the end with equal bravery. The dead were not discovered until eleven months later, when Captain Scott's writings before to his family and the public were found lying beside the frozen corpses. The spot is now marked by a cross. The speaker's voice was good but in second he lack the self assurance of the two previous speakers.

The final contestant in this class, Lorne Graham of Form I chose "Sword-fishing In Nova Scotia" as his topic. This industry is steadily growing in importance as the fish when canned, tastes a good deal like canned salmon and is in great demand in the United States. The traditional method of catching them was described and disclosed many here-to-fore unknown methods of fishing.

Four in Senior Group

The senior group of contestants numbered four, the first being Miss Ruth McCaw, who chose as her topic "Home". The word Home contains a wealth of meaning and should be a place where love is shut in and hate is shut out. The home is unquestionably the bulwark of the nation and a country may prosper only when its homes are in a flourishing places where family love is paramount. Tim and Sir David Lloyd George was Abraham Lincoln were ready when the occasion arose to them only because their homes taught them the proper spirit and furnished the inspiration. And the great sons and daughters to whom the world pays homage owe their success to great parents whose names will never be emblazoned across the pages of any history. The speaker dealt with the matter ave, the great love in the world which makes a mother retain her affection for a son, be he ever so foulest criminal while she remembers him only as the little cuddled years ago. But the very zenith of mother

SIXTY could have reproached him for the lack of enthusiasm shown by her companion. But wisely she did not. Instead, she put into practice the information which she had recently received from a well-known authority concerning ef-fective methods of toning up the human system. Without telling him what she was doing, she induced him to take Nu-Tonic. Shortly after, he began to feel like a new man. Once more he found himself quite capable of enjoying the companionship of his wife. Her youthful vivacity and charm, which had begun to fade, were again fully appreciated by him. Nu-Tonic is sold by all druggists.

An address was read by Miss Vera Rose of Hallaway and it as follows:

Dear Myrtle and Charlie:

We have come here tonight to your old home to celebrate with you on the first occasion and with that this present happiness and still always with you. You will both meet with little obstacles through life, as you travel life's pathway but it's always the little things conquered that makes us enjoy the bigger things. It's the dark-est days that make us appreciate the sunshine.

If we would all think occasionally of the beautiful words entitled "Kind words and deeds," life could be nothing but the most sunshine.

May these presents bind as a permanent token of the friends and neighbors you have in this community. To you both we extend our most sincere wishes for a long and happy journey through life.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors, Mrs. Leola Sprung, Mrs. Ted Gould, Mrs. A. R. Wannamaker.

The gifts were then unwrapped and the couple thanked their friends for their kindness. A program then followed. C. B. WATT Appointed Advertising Manager of General Motors Products of Canada, Limited, to succeed T. H. Cope, who goes to a similar position at the Buick Motor Car Company, Flint, Mich. Mr. Watt has been with General Motors of Canada for over eight years and is widely known.

We is shown in that sorrowful picture on Calvary's Hill when the Virgin Mary stood with unwavering faith at the foot of the cross where her son was being crucified, although she understood not the reason for His crucifixion. The address was delivered in excellent style, the one fault being that the speaker's voice was just a trifle too low.

Miss Margaret Clyde of Form V was the second senior speaker taking "Ladies Declaration" as her topic. Her discussion dealt with the life of the women inmates in Portsmouth Penitentiary and showed them not as an ill-used crowd, but treated as well as anyone paying for a crime could be treated. The cells and work rooms were described as well as an average prisoner's day. The menu was a highly nutritious one. Women are encouraged to keep up their personal appearance and usually emerge from the prison walls with a trade of some sort.

Clifford Holmes, as third speaker spoke on "Why I Am Proud to be a Canadian". The discourse opened with a colorful contrast between the unrest at present day Europe and our Canada with its freedom of thought and speech and of religious belief as well as the absence of all internal strife. Our place in the world was won for us through the heroism, idealism and courage of our noble ancestors who made our glorious past and left to posterity a worthy example. Each industry was dealt with in turn and even the tourist attraction in the Rocky Mountains was mentioned. The splendid climate, the advanced system of education and Canada's part in the great war were further reasons for pride in that our country as was our membership in the League of Nations. Although Canada is essentially a country of life in the open, the fine arts have not been neglected and Canadian poets rank high in the school of nature poets of the world. So we of the glorious lineage and ancestors of the great past have as our own, a country with a more promising future than that in the world.

The final speaker was Miss Donalda Richardson whose subject was "The Prospect of Another World War" in three phases, why war is imminent, the nature of the proposed war and preventative measures which should be employed to ward off the danger. With secret compacts and treaties between the European countries, peace is merely a dream from which we shall be soon rudely awakened. As the recent disarmament conference there was much talk of security than disarmament. Daily armaments are being manufactured, the manufacturers of them being in the hands of capitalists and private concerns who are hoping to soon amass great fortunes from their sale. The war will be fought in the air and with gases which have been classified into four types. Perfected tanks and submarines will be used on land and sea. Preventive measures would consist of the government taking over the munitions industry, control of armaments, and the teaching of the peace doctrines with less emphasis placed on the glories of past wars in our histories.

The judges retired and during the interval community singing was enjoyed.

Mr. Lawlor commended the pupils on their work and expressed his opinion that probably the students who stood first and second in the judging would not have as much benefit from the contest as those who were counted fourth. The judges, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, Rev. J. A. Koffend and Dr. W. H. Pedley returned. The chairman of the judges, Mrs. Lawlor returning the decision. The judgment was based on six considerations, voice, articulation, nature, memory, general effect and material. The decision was announced as the class were by no means unanimous but the final award stood in the junior class, 1st, Carl Mumby and second, Leah Carr, while the senior awards were, first, Ruth McCaw and second Clifford Holmes. A hearty clap was given the contestants and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

The High School Literary Society has been arranging inter-form debates to be held at future meetings and which should prove of interest to the people of Stirling.

FAMOUS TENOR LOSES MOTHER

Mrs. James Johnson Had Lived Quiet Life For Her Family

Guelph, Ont., Jan. 13.—Mrs. James Johnson, mother of Edward Johnson, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, died at her home in Guelph today. Death followed a prolonged illness. Mrs. Johnson was a life-long resident of this city. She was in her 78th year.

A woman whose life was almost entirely devoted to her home, Mrs. Johnson had few associations beyond her family, yet she was beloved of a host of personal friends with whom she came in contact, and her passing is widely mourned throughout Guelph and district. Death followed a prolonged illness.

In ill-health for many years, her condition became more serious about two years ago, and last year a severe attack almost resulted in her death.

A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, she was educated here, and had spent the entire 74 years of her life in Guelph.

Before her marriage she was Miss Margaret Jane Brown.

She was a member of St. George's Anglican Church, but took little active part in its work, her chief interests centering on the care of her two sons, Edward, world famous tenor, and Fred, a manufacturer of Bay City, Mich.

Besides her husband, who is a livestock breeder in Guelph, Mrs. Johnson is survived by her two sons, three brothers, James Brown of San Francisco, John of Detroit, David of Guelph, now in Flint, Mich., and one sister, Mrs. Joseph Brown, of Providence, R.I.

Edward, who was unable to leave New York during his mother's illness, is leaving New York tonight, and will be at his home here tomorrow.

The funeral, which will be private, will be held at three o'clock Monday afternoon at the family residence on Elora Road. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery. Services will be conducted by Ven. Archdeacon D. E. Scorfi, Rector of St. George's Church.

Works Itself to Early Death to Keep YOU Alive

Each red corpuscle—of which there are millions of millions in your body—literally works itself to pieces in 90 to 90 days. But your liver makes them over. Is merciful. For it maintains your life by doing three vital things.

It carries life-giving oxygen from the lungs to the body cells. It transmits nutriment from the digestive organs to every part of the system. And it helps back to the lungs, for expulsion from the body, the poisonous gases created by being generated. Without this necessary service, your life is most quickly end.

If the countless millions of red corpuscles in your blood stream are normal, your blood-health will be up to par. You will feel strong, energetic, vigorous and confident. But if your red corpuscles are lacking in numbers and in strength, you are bound to feel weak, "tired out" nervous.

There is one sure, safe way to regain normal health and vigor. That is by its enrich and build up your blood. And for that purpose Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a guaranteed remedy of proven efficiency.

This is not just a claim—it is an established scientifically proved fact. Forty patients were recently blood-tested at a leading hospital, before and after taking a treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In every case where the blood count was below normal at the start of the treatment, it showed a splendid increase in the number—and with it a return of health, energy and vigor.

This "test proven," guaranteed blood-builder will help you—that growing child or "teen age" girl of yours. Try it for a month. 50 cents a package at Drug Stores.

"Individual reports on these 40 patients certified by the hospital pathologist, are on file.

IS SPEAKER AT UNION SERVICE

Schedule For Juvenile Hockey League Announced

Tweed—Large numbers of people deeply interested in the welfare of the church and in their own spiritual well-being were present at the special Union Prayer Service on Thursday evening in the parlors of the United Church. Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne, Rector of St. James' Anglican Church, presided at the meeting at which Rev. R. R. Nicholson delivered a fine address on the subject "The Church and the Social Situation."

There are many today who believe that the central obligation of the Christian Church is to individual souls. The evangelical type of Christianity had placed the emphasis, not on church orders and forms but on personal salvation through right and loving relation the individual to God and on personal spiritual experience. This is the true explanation confronts the church. The problem is not merely a matter of one it is a mass or collective one. We find today that the high aspirations of men are thwarted, and their souls are crushed by a maladjusted and cruel society. This is an ancient story for in the Book of Judges we read of the misery in Egypt three thousand years ago.

The Christian Church must confine its forces the possibility and the necessity of inward transformation of the lives of men. Conversion, however, is not the end, for of life is possible for all. Now the church that worships must see the transformation of individual character is worthless unless it is willing to face with social questions. The foreign missionaries at first were interested in evangelism but are compelled to become social workers.

The necessity of caring for the social environment of the child dependent when we think of international relationships, which so often lead to war, and the drink traffic ruins the spiritual life of men and nations.

The church is interested in social reform because the Christian conception has been changed most have an adequate conception of Christianity and express his Christian spirit. This can only be accomplished by the recognition by social life with the ideas that underlie it.

The schedule which was drawn up is as follows:

Jan. 11—Trail Rangers vs. Columbias.

Jan. 18—Trail Rangers vs. Black Hawks.

Jan. 25—Columbias vs. Black Hawks.

Feb. 1—Trail Rangers vs. Columbias.

Feb. 8—Trail Rangers vs. Black Hawks.

Feb. 15—Columbias vs. Black Hawks.

The first game was played at the Arena on Thursday evening when the Columbias defeated the Trail Rangers by a score of 6 to 1, which does not quite indicate the fine display put up between the two teams not being as marked as the score would indicate. In short, the Rangers were noticeably weak in goal, two or three long shots sifting through Vance's pads to find lodgement in the net. The line up of the Rangers and Joe Torch of the Columbias were a constant threat to the Rangers goal with Art Hall of the Rangers Bowers, Sayers and E. Kingsland, forwards; Orland Parks, R.O., after an absence of nine years before leaving for British Columbia about thirty years ago, Dr. Kingsland is a member of the medical fraternity of Stirling.

Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Mather left last week for an extended visit to Florida. They plan to return about March 15th. They made the trip by motor with Mr. Laurason Preston who is touring this section for visit Panama and the West Indies.

DESERVING OF SUPPORT

Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders leave by their batlecry—"Trade Ontario Farm Products for British Coal"—aroused the province. This is the achievement of the group of Belleville men who have pointed out the possibilities of trade.

Both Toronto morning papers and the newspapers of Eastern Ontario have taken up the challenge of the opportunity to trade and important developments will probably come so fast that the originators of the scheme will be gratified with the success.

But the scheme is large and the entire province may take it up. Yet after all the real success probably will lie with the smaller groups which go out after the new trade and exchange. What is meant is this—the cry has been sounded and the work is just beginning.

Mr. W. E. Schuster has done very fine work in connection with bringing the attention of the Bay of Quinte and the Province to the amazing possibilities which lie ahead. He will be able to do much more work and all his friends believe that the agitation he has been making is on the eve of success.

The Globe pointing out the efforts of the Belleville group, now known as Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders, remarks, "The advantage of providing cargoes both ways is obvious and a little study will show that this can be done with a great variety of commodities. Belleville and its neighbors have started a movement deserving of support and one which should grow beyond the limits of Central Ontario." While it is growing beyond these limits, it must continue to develop in Central Ontario and in Belleville. Shippers have met a barrier to the situation as was indicated last autumn with exports of Belleville district farm products finding their way to the British market.

One of the interesting features of the present project is that the trade will follow the channels of the railways in making method has to be set up. But contact is necessary and the smaller places in Ontario have just as much right in making contact and developing them as the province. The province may do so much but the province and an active group can do much more and in the end the responsibility in which this group operates and to the province at large. The province needs active groups in every centre.

THE NEW CAR

The automobile of 1934 has truly shown that a change has come over the car. Is the car of 1934 is what it is, then what can be the car of 1950? No one can forecast for there may be new methods of building and the ever new highway regulations which will remove the need of certain changes in motorcars.

But the new automobile has taken a real step forward from the standpoint of elimination of wind resistance, and on the score of equilibrium of the car as well as of speed. And all the while as these improvements are being made minor improvements are being added which remove from the model a long way from the pre-war types which used to amble along.

The new lines have come to stay, it would seem. The plan is being followed to put the car in the place of a bullet flying through the air. It is also more and more the trend to make the car safe for the greatest safety to the driver and his party may be secured.

The airplane is making its influence felt upon the car construction particularly in the streamline.

The changes are in some cases radical and in other firms less so. The changes in construction do not come in one leap, the changes come rather in hops in order to try out public feeling. But the public feeling cannot and will not go against the dictates of the engineer, where the pure science of mechanism comes in. If the engineer says that advanced streamlining is necessary, it will come and will stay.

WORSE THAN WARS

A return from the Home Office, made in the British House of Commons recently, gives figures showing the seriousness of the situation that has developed in England and Wales through highway accidents. In nine months, 4,688 people were killed and 151,396 injured by accidents caused by vehicles and horses in those two countries.

Comparative statistics show vividly just what a menace highway accidents are becoming. From 1926 up to the time the return in question was made 48,400 people have been killed and 1,356,574 injured in Great Britain, a total of 1,404,974, or 300,084 more than all the British killed in the Great War. Compared with the casualty list from these accidents, the total losses by death in the Boer war from all causes, including disease, 20 721, was a small matter. The whole of the Napoleonic wars, from 1793 to 1815, resulted in a British death list of under 20,000 or a little more than the number of killed and injured on these roads and streets in one month at the present rate. The return goes into quite complete details, showing that the humble horse has comparatively little to do with these innumerable smash-ups. 1932 horses were involved in less than 3,500 accidents altogether; in other words, the motor vehicle, in one form or another, is the principle source of danger.

It is no wonder that this high deathrate is described as a matter for "grave concern." Arterial highways, with safety devices, are being built rapidly, and will tend to reduce the accident rate materially.—Montreal Star.

A GRAY LIFE

She is poor and lonely
(So the neighbors say)
All her days are toil-filled,
All her life is gray.

So the world must pity
This unlucky one,
With her hours so dreary,
Life of dark threads spun.

Yet (how great a blessing!)
She has never known
Just how dull her days are,
Just how bleak and lone.

Where the rest see grayness,
She can glimpse the gleams,
Radiant with glories,
Of her radiant dreams!

She dwells rapt in beauty,
Spite of loneliness,
Visited by angels
That they never guess.

LADY THORNTON, widow of Sir Henry Thornton, late head of the Canadian Government Railways, was swept into the spotlight and the front Page by the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the United States constitution, in short, the repeal of prohibition. Lady Thornton has created a position for herself, the first of its kind, but one which is remunerative and interesting. Lady Thornton will teach the wealthy society folk of the United States how and when to drink liquor. In an interview recently she stated that since prohibition the art of correct drinking had passed out with the butlers, hosts and servants, who knew what wine to serve with what course, in short what to drink and when. These old-timers have passed out of the picture to be succeeded by the mob of speakeasy and synthetic cocktail drinkers, who knew more about bootleggers than they did about rare old wines and vintages, and the breath of the heather on the Scotch that knew the moors and hills of Bonnie Scotland. Lady Thornton has a fine line of liquor samples and a fine line of experience in what to eat and drink as practised in the castles of the Old Land as well as the new land, for she is a native of the United States. In reply to her interviewer Lady Thornton said she took her occupation because she could not be idle, she likes the work, and it was really necessary for her to engage in business. Her territory is the whole of the United States and the first task she had, and a difficult one, was to arrange for the transportation of her goods through the various states, each state having different laws as to the handling of liquor, and different license fees.

"A YEAR AGO I hadn't a care in the world. I had or could have had, every luxury that money could buy. Houses, cars, race-horses, expensive trips abroad, all these were part of my every-day life." Early in 1933 thus wrote one of Edgar Wallace's popular novelist, who died suddenly in Hollywood of pneumonia while supervising film production of one of his mystery detective stories. Mrs. Wallace went on to tell of her horror at finding after her husband's death that their fortune died with him, that they had been literally living from hand to mouth, and now she had to go to work. She did, and made good, but death caught up with her suddenly and she joined her lover across the Great Divide. Edgar Wallace made much money and made it fast, but he was a hard worker; and would turn out one of his thrillers in a few hours not stopping to eat or sleep until the thing was done. Then he undertook journalistic work which would have staggered any ordinary man. His relaxations were expensive, especially his stable of race-horses, and his betting on the races. He overworked, lived too high, and died poor—his wife tried to start all over again and would have made good if her health had held out. Both were bursting with ambition and energy, both tried to burn the candle at both ends to reach their goal quickly—both are dead now—and the problem is up to the children.

Review Favourable Year For Royal Bank of Canada

STRONG POSITIO N MAINTAINED

Sir Herbert Holt, Preside nt, Takes Strong View That Canada is Now Definitely on the Upgrade

Morris W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager, Reviews Strong Statement.

The annual meeting of the share holders of the Royal Bank of Canada marked the close of a most successful year.

Sir Herbert Holt, President, in his address struck an optimistic note when he stated that he considered that Canada was now definitely on the upgrade. Its progress, however, was being hindered by the high taxation and the cost of maintaining so many Governments in the country was rapidly becoming unbearable.

Morris W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager, in his address reviewed the outstanding features of the strong statement of the Bank. The feature of paramount importance in connection with the possible formation of a Central Bank, added Mr. Wilson, would be the quality of the bill contract.

President's Address

Sir Herbert S. Holt, President, in moving the adoption of the Directors' Report, said in part:

The 64th Annual Report and Balance Sheet submitted to you today discloses the strong position of the bank. While Balance Sheet figures are somewhat lower than those of a year ago, this reflects a falling off in business conditions rather than contraction of Canadian business. In fact, a notable feature is an increase in Canadian Demand and Savings deposits during the year. The Note position is eminently satisfactory. As you would expect, the restricted field for profitable investment, and the resultant increase in our holdings of Government securities in the form of Dominion and Provincial bonds and treasury bills has combined with other factors to reduce profits. On April 1st the dividend rate was reduced from 10 per cent. to 8 per cent., and the last quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. was paid at that rate. The improvement which has taken place in business during the last six months, has already had a beneficial effect on earnings.

Referring to the situation in Canada, the President said: "I am glad to say that since we last met there has been a distinct improvement in the Canadian business. I have had the opportunity of seeing this country recover from depressions on various occasions during the last fifty years and the present movement appears to be taking place along the accustomed lines. As soon as world trade as such commences to revive there is an improved demand for Canadian raw materials, Canadian exports increase substantially, surplus inventories disappear and general activity in the principal exporting industries provides additional employment with a consequent improvement in purchasing power and domestic trade. This has been the sequence of events in Canada during the last six months."

The Railway Situation

Dealing with the situation of the Government railways, Sir Herbert expressed the opinion that the time for half measures had passed and that bold and courageous action was required. He felt that the views expressed at the last Annual Meeting that enforced co-operation between the two railway systems would not be a satisfactory remedy had been confirmed by the experience of the past year and is still to the opinion that the maximum of economy can only be obtained by some form of administrative amalgamation.

"Every trade cycle a strong demand for a reduction of Government activities and particularly of the cost of maintaining too numerous governments, Federal, Provincial and Municipal, was becoming embarrassing. Such a reduction effectively in business will reduce unemployment, produce increased revenues and relieve the burden of disbursements for public relief. Advantage should be taken of such favourable events to reduce debts rather than increase them."

Conditions In Other Countries

In referring to conditions in other countries he expressed the view that the most optimistic of the countries of the world. The latter part of 1932, said Mr. Holt, saw a definite and general increase in international trade. Recovery in the United States was made as follows:—"While business in the United States commenced to improve about the middle of 1932 it was not until the end of the year that banking difficulties and the hesitation and uncertainty which precede a change of administration. The last March quite material progress was made. It is difficult to fully analyze the effects of their policies and impossible to foretell the result to come. Their central idea that an increase in the price level must be obtained is a good common sense one and is now quite generally accepted by the business men of the country.

Note Issue

Mr. Wilson expressed the strong opinion that the recommendations in the Report with respect to the gradual withdrawal of the note-issuing privileges of the Chartered Banks did not appear to be in the public interest. Retention of these privileges would not hamper the Central Bank in its efforts to control credit. In this connection the quoted an editorial which appeared in the London Economist in the effect that the Central Bank would not be in the least weakened by allowing the Chartered Banks to retain their present issues under the present restrictions. Mr. Wilson went on to say: "I think, therefore, that we should view the abolition of bank note issue not as a step which must inevitably accompany the creation of a central bank but as a separate matter entirely. The only question is whether the government desire to have banking service maintained by many small profit-motivated the country or to appropriate the revenue at this juncture for themselves. I believe that the gain to the Government would not offset the loss to the public through curtailment of banking facilities. Unquestionably there are many places which could no longer support a branch bank if note issuing privileges were to be withdrawn. The operation of a number of small branches at a bare margin of profit is characteristic of banking in this country. We have a system which in many of its aspects is native to the Dominion and which has enabled us to be very cautious in advocating fundamental changes."

In conclusion Mr. Wilson said: "At our last Annual Meeting I ventured to anticipate the prospect of further improvement in the coming year. I am very much more hopeful than it was the previous year. That prediction has been borne out by developments. For the first time in years an attitude of quiet but confident optimism is in evidence almost everywhere. Many problems still have to be solved but I have full confidence in the ability of Canada to share in the continued improvement in economic conditions which I believe lies ahead of us."

SIDE-SLIP OF PLANE CAUSES ONE DEATH

Merrill-McMullen Dies on Way to Hospital, Pilot Hurt

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Plane Rises Only 400 Feet Before Going Into Side-slip

Toronto, Jan. 15.—Sixty seconds after taking off from the Toronto Flying Club runway Sunday afternoon, a red-winged Moth plane went into a spin and crashed nose first from a height of 400 feet, inflicting fatal injuries on Merrill Joseph McMullen, 37, and injuring the pilot, Sydney B. Cleverley.

Terrific crushing about the head and body, McMullen, a crack pilot, died on his arrival at the Toronto General Hospital.

Seated in the front seat, he received the full force of the impact when the machine dived swiftly to bury its propeller deep in the snow. Cleverley escaped with concussion and minor cuts and bruises.

Cause Unknown

What caused the plane to stall and crash was a mystery to flying club officials last night. Cleverley is an experienced pilot, and McMullen was also known as an expert at the controls. The pair have flown together many times, and last year competed in the races for the United States with considerable success.

George Anderson, flying club official, was unable to throw much light on the tragedy.

"The plane is a government one, leased to the club," he said. "I think it was in first class mechanical condition and had been flown a half hour before he and the pilot started for Old Hardy. As far as I have been able to learn, there was nothing at the plane crash.

"The machine took off at 4.40 o'clock for a short spin. Flying conditions were good at the time. The plane went down the runway and lifted into the air and started a left hand turn, which is in accordance with government regulations overplane's take-off.

"What happened then is something we don't know. Cleverley does not know, apparently, or else the concussion has temporarily deprived him of all recollection of what took place. But after turning to the left the plane went over on one wing and apparently side-slipped.

"There was much speed, as the 400 feet up. Once the spin started he was helpless. The plane just went down in a straight dive."

The crash took place 100 yards outside the airport, and created a half-mile northeast of the clubhouse. A clump of trees which marks the limits of the flying field was barely missed as the Moth swept to destruction. The fuselage was a mass of twisted metal and splintered wood. The gas tank was torn from its position, and protruded from beneath the front cockpit.

The plane did not rebound after the sickening impact. It stayed where it crashed, the body sticking straight up in the air. The engine behind the cockpit crushed in. Gasoline leaked from the broken tank, and no one was allowed to light matches near the wreck.

Would Turn Switch

Asked if there was any possibility that the ignition switch had been turned off prior to the plunge, Mr. Anderson said that although an inexperienced pilot would immediately "switch off" in the event of an engine failure, an experienced pilot would immediately "switch on" in an effort to prevent the gasoline igniting when the plane struck earth.

"Unless they were practising forced landings they would not previously have turned the switch," said the official. "In making forced landings for practice, the gasoline must be cut off to the feed line. There was no reason to suppose that they have been turned off, if this had been done. But it do not believe this was the case.

Cobourg worked 10 minutes for a tally and earned it, but Trenton have no one to blame but themselves for the play should not have been around the net with such a few seconds left and one of our own team assisted materially in Cobourg's score.

FAN DANCER, PILOT, SAFE

Forced Down on Way From North But Repairs Made

Winnepegosis, Man., Jan. 15 (CP)—Winging their way to Winnipeg, Fay Baker, fan-dancer, and Bill May, pilot of the Northlands aeromarine, missing almost a week, were expected at the Manitoba capital today.

They arrived here yesterday from Whiskeyjack Island, 90 miles to the north, where they were forced down due to engine trouble on a projected flight from the Pas to Winnipeg.

Miss Baker—Mary Nebel is her real name—came through the trying ordeal suffering no ill effects and apparently in good spirits. Landing at Whiskeyjack Island, the plane's under-carriage was badly damaged and May made temporary repairs with scrubs and fish cord, which enabled him to continue their journey to this fishing settlement.

The vivacious entertainer had just completed a tour of the Northern Manitoba mining camps performing for the miners and trappers. She is a resident of Waterton, Wis. Her brother C. W. Nebel, Jr., arrived at Winnipeg yesterday and on his return to Minneapolis the two will leave for their home.

FASCISM IS FAVORED BY LONDON MAIL

London, Jan. 15. — The London Daily Mail came out strongly today for adoption of Fascism in Great Britain.

A three-column article by Lord Rothermere lauded the methods of Mussolini and Hitler.

"Hurrah for the blackshirts," said the three-column headline. The editorial which followed lashed the "fair-weather gentlemen" politicians of the old parties, and made an appeal to the youth of England to support Sir Oswald Mosley and his blackshirts.

They were urged to "break the stranglehold which senile politicians have so long maintained on our affairs."

Lord Rothermere's creed of Fascism had hitherto been regarded as more or less of a joke by the general public, despite the support given the movement by devoted blackshirt followers.

"The blackshirts practice the part which the old politicians will never preach," the editorial read, "that the new age requires new methods and new men."

The Mail, which is an avowed opponent of the present government, said it was certain that Mosley could "do more in a conference at Berlin to straighten out the kinks in Anglo-German relations than any half a dozen elderly politicians from the Baldwin period could accomplish in fruitless missions to Geneva."

Expects Roosevelt to Level Dollar Between Fifty and Sixty Cents

Delivers Message to Congress Soon on The Subject

MAY TAKE ALL GOLD

Move Seen as Forerunner to Resumption of Conference

(By Sam Robinson Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

New York, Jan. 15 (CP)— The long-herald revaluation of the dollar appeared today on the United States doorstep.

Speculation filled the air pending delivery by President Roosevelt of a revealing monetary message to Congress, probably around noon with most of the commercial reports holding the revaluation would be really be devaluation. A definite official ed anywhere between 50 and 60 cents was widely rumored.

In the words of a White House statement, the subjects under discussion had night, when the President gathered with the financial minds of Congress with his administration, were "the methods of taking into the treasury the title to and ownership of all monetary gold in the United States, and also the general subject of revaluation of the gold content of the dollar."

In London, financial circles said revaluation of the dollar was seen as a forerunner of resumption of the economic conference. International monetary reform would be the conference aim.

Acceptance of the $2,000,000,000 now held by the Federal Reserve banks was the initial step ahead of the President. Under the terms of the gold reserve act of 1934, $2,000,000,000 of the $4,000,000,000 already held in the Federal treasury, quarters in close touch with the situation believed dollar revaluation would quickly follow.

A 40 percent devaluation to a 60-cent dollar would net the government, around $2,500,000,000. A 50-percent devaluation in the gold content of the currency would yield $4,000,000,000 on the treasury books.

Dean of Faculty of Medicine at Laval and Prominent Surgeon

Quebec, Jan. 15 (CP)—Dr. Arthur Rousseau, dean of the Faculty of Medicine at Laval University, and one of the most prominent surgeons in Quebec, is dead at his home here, after an illness of five days. He was 61 years of age.

Dr. Rousseau, regarded as in the leading rank of French-speaking surgeons of Canada, was to have presided at the French Medical Conference to be held here next summer at the same time as the Jacques Cartier celebrations. He was widely known in France, being the first Canadian to be elected a member of the Pasteur Institute. The French government honored him some years ago, creating him a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

The distinguished surgeon was taken ill last Tuesday while attending the funeral of his old friend, Senator Jules Tessier. Death occurred Saturday.

Dr. Rousseau was born in 1872 at St. Casimir, Portneuf County, son of the late Dr. L. T. E. Rousseau and Alvina Allard. Educated at Laval, he studied at the Quebec Seminary and Laval University, from which he graduated in 1895. He then spent two years in Paris.

Prominent in Car Industry Years Ago Returns to Take Over Plant

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15.—A quiet spoken man who more than forty years ago had a tiny machine shop in his father's machine shop into one of the first real automobile factories today was again an active participant in the industry which he fathered.

The man is Ransom E. Olds, prominent figure in the industry during its infancy. Sixty-nine years old and active as he was back in the eighties when he was tinkering with gasoline engines, Olds has returned to the city of his birth to resume control of the Reo Motor Car Company. He in Olds return.

The CANADIAN COOKING SCHOOL

A complete Cookery Arts Course in 12 Lessons dealing with all the Fundamentals of this Important Subject. Thoroughly practical to the beginner as well as to the experienced Cook who is interested in the newer, better, more economical methods.

Prepared by - - - - Anne Lee Scott

Fully Protected by Canadian Copyrights

In twelve separate lessons, each one devoted to its own special topic, I am going to teach beginners how to become good cooks.

Can it be done? I believe so. Most women can all little girls like to cook. Most women like to know the easy and same way to do things—and they like to understand why it is that one method is better than another, or just why a certain small point may make a difference between success and failure.

In twelve carefully planned lessons, I think I can help you. But first, you must want to know. And when you study a lesson, you must put it to practical use; make dishes that will illustrate the points in the lesson, see for yourself just how things work out, and why.

If you make up a dish that is not satisfactory — look up your lesson on that subject; read it through; perhaps you will find the exact reason why you are not getting right results; you would like. Maybe it's a matter of the proportion of liquid to ingredients; or something in the way you mix them; or the kind of cooking.

Did you ever realize that to be a good cook, in fact to enjoy quite a reputation, one need not be able to make a very great variety of dishes? Nor is very difficult ones? But to be able to cook the foods of every day so as to make the most of simple things—this is the real foundation that every good cook should have. . .

This course of lessons is planned for the beginner or for the uncertain cook. For the young girl, whose mother would like her to "start right" for the business girl who has not yet kept house, for the home-maker herself, who is dissatisfied with her cooking—never sure whether a dish is going to turn out well or ill.

It will deal with simple things. Each lesson will have its explanations—and some recipes to show how the advice works out. Then, when you want to go a little farther, have more examples of each type of dish, you will find some recipes of each kind in the various little books of the new Easy-Way Series. You will find in those books, how to carry on the simple foundations of cookery (as I shall teach them in these lessons) — how to apply them to dishes that are a little more complicated.

There will be help for your entertaining—for those charming yet easily-given parties that make modern hospitality so delightful. "Planning The Party" and "The Easy-Way Cake Book" will both aid you.

There will be information about the wise buying and the clever choosing of foods—about planning meals for all occasions. We cannot "make" bricks without straw—that was proved away back in Bible days. We cannot cook without having the right kind of ingredients —which means that we must know something about the food materials we buy. I hope every student who takes this course will be sure to get the little book on "Marketing and Meal Planning"—it will tell you just the things you want to know about choosing foods and comparing values.

Besides materials, we need certain equipment. All through these lessons I will indicate at times some of the little tools and gadgets that will help you to get good results. Be as good to yourself as you can; in some of these small matters—for they can have big results.

Learn to be a baking, without proper measuring utensils—whatever else you may have to do without. They cost only a few cents—and they will benefit many times! All of the recipes in these lessons and in the new Easy-Way Series will be based on measurements made with a regulation eight-ounce measuring cup and a set of standard measuring spoons, graded from ½ teaspoon to 1 tablespoon. Any cook who is at all told will buy them—but they're worth their weight in precious metal.

How to Measure

It is understood in all standard recipes, that the measurements are level.

To measure a light dry ingredient, it should be well stirred up, then measured level with the rim of a cup which has its "cupful" mark right at the brim.

Fine powdery substances have a great tendency to "pack" in their container, or into a cup if we used it to "scoop out" the material. So not only do we loosen the mass well, but we fill the measuring cup lightly with a spoon, heap it a little—then with the straight edge of a cup which has its "cupful" mark right at the brim.

The same way we level off the measuring spoon that we have lightly filled with baking powder, salt or soda, for instance.

And now for a very important point.

Flour, which has a very great tendency to pack, should not be sifted once before measuring.

When we measure cupfuls, the measuring cup (which is usually marked in quarters on one side and thirds on the others), should be set on the table and filled to the required mark. It is much more convenient to measure that a measuring cup for liquids is better to have some extra height, so that its "cupful" mark is not right at the very rim; then it will not overflow when a cupful is measured. This kind, however, is not good for dry ingredients. It is a great convenience to have a cup of each kind —speeds up your work, too.

Liquid fat is measured the same as any other liquid, that is, in a special method for measuring solid fats, such as butter, lard, etc., to measure half a cupful, put one half cupful of solid fat in cold water —then drop in pieces of shortening until, with all the shortening beneath the water, it rises to just reaches the "cupful" mark. Drain fat and pat on absorbent paper. To measure ½ cup shortening, start with ½ cup water, and so on. Even to measure a cupful it is easier to measure half-cup measurement by this method, than to solidly pack your cup with fat and scoop it out. To measure fat by the spoonful, scoop it up in the spoon, press firmly into the bowl of the spoon with your spatula or knife, then level it off with a straight knife-edge.

We Measure Heat, Too

Very often, it is just as important to cook a dish at a certain temperature, as it is to put the right ingredients into a mixture.

Therefore, I will be sure about your heat measurement is to use a thermometer. If you have a modern range, you probably have at least a part of a good thermometer on it, perhaps an excellent one. Sometimes these range thermometers set on the outside of the oven door or the range body, do not indicate the inside temperature exactly—but experience will soon show if your indicator seems to register above or below the true inside temperature. If there is no good thermometer built into your range, you will find great comfort in using a good oven-thermometer that you can set right in on your baking rack. A good one may be had for little money—and it will be a tremendous help to you in all your oven cookery.

A really good modern range will have a good heat indicator. The most helpful will be the "Monarch" one, with an automatic heat control, which holds your oven indefinitely at the temperature for which you set it.

For sauce-pan cookery, there is another useful thermometer. It has a panel back, with a clip to go over the edge of the saucepan. This helps you to make boiled icings exactly right—candies, too, if you are interested. It is also a great aid in deep fat frying, for most of the failures in making doughnuts, croquettes, etc., are due to having fat at the wrong temperature.

Cooking Temperature

We speak usually of four degrees of oven heat:

Slow—250° to 325° F.
Moderate—250° to 375° F.
Hot—400° to 450° F.
Very Hot—Above 450° F.

Testing Heat Without Thermometer

If you have no thermometer to indicate oven heat, I suggest some flour on a baking sheet, and note the time it requires to change color in the oven.

In a slow oven (250° F. to 325° F.) flour will brown moderately in 5 minutes. In a moderate oven (350° F. to 375° F.) flour will turn golden brown in 5 minutes. In a hot oven (400° F. to 450° F.) flour will turn dark brown in 5 minutes. In a very hot oven (above 450° F.) flour will turn dark brown in 3 minutes or less, if temperature is very high.

Temperatures For Deep Frying Fats

Uncooked foods (fish, fowl, etc.) 365° F. to 375° F. (or hot enough to brown a cube of bread in 60 seconds.)

Cooked foods—390° F. (or hot enough to brown a cube of bread in 40 seconds).

Fluid Mixtures (doughnuts, fritters, etc.)—360° F. to 370° F.

(b) Sauces—Soups—Gravies—Fowl, Fish

Now, if you have grasped these points—important all through our lessons—you will be well on your way to successful cookery.

No person can be considered even a fair cook, until she can make several types of sauce, with accuracy and a reasonable ease and speed.

A very few fundamental principles should be mastered first. Then, with simple additions or changes, you can make a great variety of sauces from them.

Most of our sauces are thickened with either a starchy ingredient, or eggs, or both. In this lesson, we will show you how to use both—and get a perfect sauce every time.

Starch Thickened Sauces

The principal thing that we need as to know about making sauce, is how to have it always absolutely smooth, free from lumps. When we employ a starchy thickener (flour, cornstarch, etc.) we must remember that there is a tendency for all starchy grains, if they are given an opportunity, to group themselves together in lumps. Successful in doing that, the result is a small lump. The way these lumps are formed is the way they don't get started, is an astonishing thing!

So we must keep all of our starchy material so as to separate all the little starch grains until they have had a chance so burst, and in doing so, to thicken the liquid. And there are two ways to do this thickening for the savory sauce.

Starchy Thickening

First Method—If your recipe tells you to melt fat, as it may be butter, dripping, oil, etc.), as there is flour in any sauce of the white or brown or similar type, (in simple kinds for which flour is our most useful thickener), you will find this method excellent.

Melt the fat, remove pan from fire, blend in flour by rubbing it into the fat with a wooden spoon (a handy small one you will like for such purposes); very gradually stir your liquid, hot or cold (hot will liquid thickens sooner); return to heat and stir constantly until mixture thickens smoothly. Remember that you must not stop stirring for a moment during this stage, or else the starchy grains are quick to take advantage of a few seconds' stillness and you will find them massing at the bottom lumping and even burning there, if not stirred continuously. This method will give you the basis for a good many sauces and gravies which are finished in various ways.

Second Method—Where the amount of fat is far much less than the amount of starchy material, follow this method:

Measure the prescribed amount of flour and the seasonings into a cup or small bowl, and add to it very gradually some cold liquid, usually water or milk. Add liquid until you have gradually thinned the mixture to a pouring consistency. Then the main liquid for the recipe to scalding point and then according to directions, thinned flour into it. Cook and stir constantly without ceasing until the sauce is smoothly thickened. Stir in the fat.

Eggs As Thickening

Third Method—Applying only to sweet sauces, such as sugar and starch, first, and will be covered in lesson 10.

Eggs enter as at least the partial thickener in many of the finest of many sauces. The method is usually as follows:

Beat the egg lightly or other of the foregoing methods—there will probably be a smaller amount of liquid needed to the liquid, because the eggs will help to thicken it. In thickening—and of course, in some cases, the egg supply will help the thickening. A too long cooking would curdle the egg, it is added immediately after removing from the heat. The sauce finished up to the point where the egg is to be added in a double boiler. The egg yolk or whole egg may be beaten by hand, or beaten slightly or according to special instructions, then there is the addition of the hot mixture, slowly stirred into the egg; never is the egg added to the hot mixture, for that would be too much sudden heat for the egg and it would be apt to set in tiny hard particles. The mixture is returned to the heat and stirred a few moments to thicken the egg.

Useful Foundations

We have two sauces that we use as bases for many delicious sauces — white sauce and brown sauce; another useful standby which we will use in combination with a number of other sauces—a tomato sauce which is a combination of white and brown sauce. With these three as foundations, and a little thorough understanding of just how and why we get our results, you will be in a good position to quite spread yourself in the matter of variety in tempting sauces.

White Sauce As a Base

The liquid for white sauce is usually milk; ½ may be fresh milk, evaporated milk diluted with an equal quantity of water, or powdered milk in the proportion given. But I greatly prefer to make the white sauce for delicate mild-flavored vegetables such as celery or asparagus, with half milk and half thin cream. Follow the general directions—for I like the added flavor and character that this gives to the sauce.

Similarly, when making a sauce for stewed chicken or veal for fricassee, or to serve with sweetbreads, I invariably use half milk and half chicken stock; the stock is full of meat flavor, and has been seasoned nicely as the meat simmered; when suitable, you can add besides salt and pepper, such things as a few sprigs of parsley, a carrot or two, some celery or even celery tops, and a suggestion of onion.

Drawn butter is a variation of white sauce, the liquid in it being delicate white stock or water in place of milk. A little lemon juice is usual.

Basic Recipe

2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, seasonings, 1 cup liquid.

Melt the fat, blend in the flour and seasonings thoroughly, and slowly stir in the liquid; continue to stir without ceasing until the mixture simmers. Then cook over heat, the liquid is already heated, the stirring time will be much shorter; but draw from fire while adding milk.

The above quantities are for a medium thick sauce. We increase or decrease the amount of thickening to make a thin or thicker sauce—and we step the quantity of fat up or down according to the amount of flour used, and the richness desired.

Thus for a thin white sauce, we use: 1 tablespoon fat, 1 tablespoon flour, seasonings, 1 cup liquid. This is the sauce that we find useful in the making of cream soups.

For the thick white sauce, we use: 3 tablespoons fat, 3 tablespoons flour, seasonings, 1 cup liquid.

Learn to use this foundation to use a very thick sauce—chiefly in the making of croquette mixtures. Here we use 4 tablespoons or more of fat, with 4 to 5 tablespoons of flour. The extra proportion of flour to fat is so much greater, we will find we must add the liquid to these two together and adding the liquid a little more slowly; it is safer here to blend the flour smoothly with part of the measured liquid, then add the smooth liquid to the rest of the liquid, then to the thickener slowly; stir until the sauce has thickened and boiled, continue to cook stirring occasionally, until all starchy taste has disappeared. Add the fat, salt, pepper, seasonings. Although for the sake of speed you may add the fat to the flour, your thinner sauces over direct heat, give it your closest attention. I always advise against the attempt with a thick sauce because it is greater danger of lumping and scorching.

This method should be followed for the thick sauces, which are especially less butter than flour is being used.

Foundation Brown Sauce

We use this sauce often, in fact, whenever we make gravy in our roaster. It is the sauce we need for it is usually a good brown meat gravy. If you have never tried it and are using the well-browned settlement you have in your pan after roasting a piece of meat, you will have to fall back on boiling water—in which case you have a very tasteless extract will certainly add seasonings, but you will not be at all plan to keep these on hand for use in emergencies, and as a short-cut to the making of good flavour is also excellent—and provides valuable utensils as well as speedy.

In the quantities I am about to give you, I think the experience that you will note that the proportion of flour to fat is greater than that usually used to get sauce of the same medium thickness. This is because when brown flour is used the power of its thickening value, and because this is true, you must have the flour browned flour and fat together in the proportions given. Remember that 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup brown stock, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Melt the fat—if you are partial to the touch of onion, add about one tablespoon minced onion may be cooked in the fat, and the onion then removed or left, as you prefer; a little chopped green pepper, when available, also adds to the flavor. If it is in your roaster, leave in the pan that you are using, pour off the extra fat very gently, so as to leave all in the brown settlement.

Blend the flour into the fat, working it well with your spoon to avoid lumping; brown richly but do not burn; remove from the heat, add the hot liquid very gradually, and cook, stirring until smoothly thickened. Season, and lastly with Worcestershire sauce, onion juice, tomato or mushroom catsup, or any favorite herbs, any vegetable flavoring (perhaps you will prefer celery salt as your liquid, green peppers, gravy salt and so forth.

Milk Gravy

With roast chicken, turkey or veal, and perhaps with pork tenderloin, fried chops, etc., cooked either in the oven or the frying pan, a milk gravy is very delicate and appropriate. Make it just as the brown gravy, the sauce (which we follow when we make brown gravy in the roaster pan)—but use milk instead of water, and season carefully.

Tomato Sauce

2 cups canned tomatoes, 2 cloves, 2 slipice berries, 2 pepper berries (if on hand), piece bay leaf, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 3 tablespoons bacon dripping, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Cook the tomatoes gently with the spices and onions for 10 minutes (cover closely). Press through a sieve. Measure and add water to bring to 2 cups. Blend flour, salt and pepper into bacon dripping, stir into the fat from meat you are roasting and season nicely. Stir in the hot stock gradually; stir and cook until thickened and until no trace of raw flour remains.

Note—The onion may be browned in the fat for distinctive flavor, and green pepper, when in season, is a delightful addition.

So much for the basic method of making sauce—when you have learned well, and practised them, you will be able to make an immense range of sauces on the same ground-work.

"... when it calls for 2 cups of pastry flour ... use MONARCH"

... A baking expert stresses the importance of flour more than any other ingredient. And when it's pastry . . . you must be certain of the uniformity and goodness of your FLOUR.

The finest of recipes, the greatest patience and care, the best baking oven possible —none of these are worth the trouble if your pastry flour is not of uniform quality.

• For that reason, when the recipe calls for a specific amount of pastry flour—use MONARCH. It will never fail you.

Some profit-taking appearing in the distillery and brewery shares and the best morning prices were added moderately. Walkers Common at noon was off 3-4 to 56 3-4, Distillers Seagrams was up 1-4 to 25, Industrial Alcohol up 1-2 to 19 1-4 and Brewers and Distillers up 1/8 to 3.85.

All groups responded to the measure of inflation found in the Washington plan to cut the gold contents of the dollar, with exception of the distillery issues which weakened a little under profit selling. Walkers Common dropped about a point around noon and Distillers Seagrams a half point while Industrial Alcohol held unchanged.

Interlisted shares moved strongly. Ford A, Brazilian and C.P.R. showing gains at mid-afternoon of 1-2 to a point and Nickel was up 20 cents.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 15 (CP)—The announced Washington plan to revalue gold at a higher price gave the Canadian yellow metal stocks only a mild boost in the early session of the Standard Mining Exchange today. Gains up to about 75 cents were registered by the big producers and advances of 1 to 3 cents came out in the cheaper list.

Hollinger, Dome, Lake Shire, and Teck Hughes turned over in much better volume than in recent sessions. Base metals also made headway on smaller volume, Nickel, Noranda and Hudson Bay coming out at higher prices.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 15 (AP)—Speculative markets celebrated the President's monetary message to the United States Congress today with one of the broadest advances of the past several months.

Stocks, with the exception of the Alcohols, spurted 1 to 3 or more points. The ticker tape was several minutes late in the early hours.

Secondary bonds moved up substantially and even U.S. Government securities were fairly firm.

Canadian shares gained moderately. McIntyre, Dome, Canadian Pacific and International Nickel rangeforth higher. Gains in the curb Lake Shore Mines firmed 4 Point and Hiram Walker improved nearly as much. Dominion Bridge most delegations were steady. The Canadian dollar was 1-16 of a cent higher at 100-15/16.

Position Most Important In the Proper Execution Of Modern Dance Steps

Beginner Must Also Know Three Fundamental Rhythms And Be Able to Lead And Follow

THE 1933 DANCE POSITION

With the winter dancing season in full swing, it is appropriate to make a brief study of the latest dance steps, and the fundamentals of ball-room dancing. Miss Marsh will contribute further articles on this subject.

(Written for Central Press and Ontario Intelligencer)

New York, Jan. 13.—Poets may be born, but dancers certainly can be made with proper study and practice. To qualify as a really good dancer today, you must know three fundamentals: rhythm: Foxtrot in 4/4 time, waltz in 3/4 time, and the tango in 2/4 time. You must, also, have at your command suitable steps for the slow and fast foxtrot, and be familiar with variations like the dansen style suggested from Cuba. The very lilting dance from Spain, reported to be very popular in Berlin at present, is also being successfully introduced now in America.

You must also master a smooth, gliding movement in the promenades, canters, two-steps and waltz steps. You should be able to cross and uncross your feet in the weaving pattern of the dance so that you never get them tangled or in your partner's way. Since it is smart to indulge in pauses in the dance as well as in the music, you must have the arch steps in your repertoire. You do this step by standing with the weight on one foot, while the other foot, the toe touching the floor and held raised, is poised close to the ankle of the supporting foot.

Some Fundamentals.

The point step, balance, rocking step and pivot are fundamental standbys for you to have on call, but the paddle turn is the one that is featured at the moment. To practice the paddle turn with the weight on the left foot and push yourself around by the right foot, which, as it gently touches the floor, describes the circumference of a circle. This may be done in a forward or backward circle, using the left or the right as the pivotal foot.

Discreet bending and dipping are sophisticated steps above that you still have a claim on youth.

With a full list of interesting steps and rhythms in your repertoire, you are now ready to dance with a partner. The subject of the dance position is important. Don't forget that your dance position has a great deal to do with your credit able appearance on the dance floor.

The Correct Position

There is no one and only correct dance position. The acceptable ones are many, but they all embody good posture, good lines and appropriateness to the steps. The accompanying illustration gives the latest position representing attractive posture, good lines and ease that should be characteristic of dancing positions.

The grotesque posture of the younger set have been the chief cause of the ridicule heaped upon dancing on this continent by people of other countries. One common example of a bad position is the one in which the male places his right hand at the back of the girl's neck and pulls her toward him so that she is forced to bend forward at the waist. To indulge in this for very long, it is necessary to lean the heads together for support, and to keep the lower parts of the body far apart. The silhouette of such a couple resembles a tent. The twisted, awkward, strangle-hold varieties are very uncomfortable and tiring, as well as being extremely bad taste.

A Good Leader

Having determined upon a good position, the next essential is for the man to guide his partner with ease and the girl into a good follower. To be a good leader, know your steps, so that you can do them accurately and definitely. Any uncertainty in your performance or in the choice of step should be avoided. You soon discover that long, gliding movements are the easiest for the girl to follow, and that only very excellent dancers can hold a close dance position and dance successfully. Be sure to give your partner a clear lead before changing your step. This does not mean telling her in so many words. Instead, you place your foot taking the step preceding the change firmly on the floor. This restores your balance and sets the punctuation mark in the written phrase. Always sway slightly in advance to the side toward which your next step moves. Tighten the right arm position for all turns. Place the accent in the dance where the accents occur in the music. Combine short spans of forward, backward, side, and turning steps with pauses, so as to introduce variety into your dance.

To be a truly ideal partner the lady must learn to follow perfectly. This means that you must not lean on your partner, never hold on to your partner, let him hold on to you. Keep a receptive attitude of mind to what thinking steps you're dance. Be sure not to guide, teach or criticize your partner. You are incapable be it. He will gain confidence, dance better, and think of you kindly if you maintain a tactful attitude, and dance his way.

With the foregoing points well in hand, remember to dance with joy and enthusiasm, and you will have style.

CENTENARY W.A.

The Woman's Association of Centenary Church held its January meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rollin on Thursday with twenty-five present. Mrs. F. Johns, President opened the meeting. A very hearty vote of thanks was tendered the pastor, Rev. Mr. Plant for his kindness in typing the correspondence for the whole year. Thirty or more in number. Mrs. D. Thrasher was the lucky winner of the patch work quilt kindly donated by Mrs. F. Glover. Twenty-seven patches in all were sewed on the apron, the amount enclosed being $4.82. The secretary read a letter from Mrs. G. Sutherland thanking the members for letter of sympathy received at the time of the death of her dear mother, Mrs. D. Roblin of Belleville. Receipts for the day $5.65. Mrs. Roblin as hostess with the members served a bountiful dinner at noon

Eyestrain Will Mar Beauty

(By Helen Follett)

Of all foolish mortals the women who is suffering from impaired vision and won't wear glasses because she fancies they will dim her fatal beauty heads the list. There are thousands of her kind.

In many ways, through vanity, they make for their own inefficiency. Snoop around a telephone, the office is never topnotch. Eyes, kept under strain and at a tension, trying to do work for which they are not qualified, weaken as they would if the old specs were there to give assistance.

Aside from form, tissues around the eye sag. Eyelashes suffer. Redness of the lids often results and burning, smarting orbs are a common trouble.

Specialists claim that every woman who has passed her fortieth birthday should have her soul laterns examined.

Though hairdressers cried down the platinum craze, it is still going pretty strong. Hollywood took a great shine to it, and Hollywood is a big factor these days in fashions and beauty products.

The hair must be bleached to the very limit of endurance, then the platinum rinse is applied. The touch up is sometimes given every two weeks. Treatment is expensive and the overhead keeps right on. All right for the money flingers, but no indulgence for the girl who must count her quarters.

Deep breathing —you can do it any time, and you should do it several times a day—has a refreshing effect upon the complexion because it accelerates circulation and rouses the tiny capillaries just beneath the surface of the skin.

It aids chest development and increases bust measurement. It puts moonlight in the eyes and starlight in the face.

To the fretted, nervous system it is a restorative. When nerves are howling and bothersome, lie down, close the eyes, take twenty slow deep breaths. Inhale through the nostrils, expel the air through the lips.

Don't you love those new grape and berry shades? Deeply blue grays and purple grays? Very pretty. But you must mind your complexion then. The orange tones and the pink stick that look so well with the black dress don't make for harmony in the general color composition when the new tones are worn.

TWO BANDITS CAPTURED

Sturgis, Mich., Jan. 15—(AP)— Two bank robbers were wounded and captured in a gun battle seven miles southwest of here this afternoon after four men had robbed the First National Bank of Burr Oak, here, of approximately $1,000. The two other men were believed to be surrounded by State Police.

Young People—Mrs. E. Farnsworth.

Bible Class—Rev. E. Farnsworth.

Pianist—Mrs. Oxley and Mrs. Donaldson.

At the close of the meeting, the Secretary, Miss Hilda Macdonald read the following address:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Farnsworth,

"Having assembled here to present reports of the various branches of the church, for the past year, we feel it would not be complete without in some way conveying to you, our appreciation of your work. Through all conditions of the weather, we are sure of finding you present to teach your Bible School, as well as to conduct the public services of worship.

"Your willingness to help with everything undertaken in or in connection with the church, also deserves much praise, which we express your ready wit, Mr. Farnsworth and Mrs. Farnsworth's splendid work in the choir, are also indispensable at our social gatherings.

"Almost every Sunday morning, during the year, you have had the sunshine steals across the church, perhaps not in the literal sense but it makes one feel that God is very near and we trust He will spare you for many years to endure your great work.

"Your sincere sincerity has been a wonderful inspiration and example to us.

"A fitting little poem to express this, is one by Anne E. Hamilton, who says:

"This I learned from the shadow on a tree,
That to and fro did sway upon the wall.
Our shadowsires —our influence —
Where we ourselves can never be,"
(Signed by the congregation.)

150 MILLIONS SURPLUS OF BRITISH BUDGET

May Reduce Present High Income Tax

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Jan. 15 (C.P. Cable) — Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will be able to announce a budget surplus of about $150,000,000, according to the unofficial announcement credible parliamentarians in touch with the British treasury.

The income tax is coming in well and it is possible the unofficial estimate will be covered by the official figures.

Naturally the Chancellor has had plenty of counsel how to dispose of the surplus. The taxpayers anticipate with some confidence a reduction of sixpence in the present income tax of five shillings to the pound. Observers who knew Neville Chamberlain are, well inclined to think his primary anxiety will be to follow the principle adopted when the financial crisis fell upon the nation in 1931 and sacrifice was demanded of all classes alike.

Accordingly the Chancellor is expected first to restore the salary cuts made among government servants of the lower ranks.

To restore completely recent cuts in unemployment relief and wage reductions and at the same time take sixpence off the income tax would clearly be beyond the Chancellor's capacity.

BARGAIN IN LOVE

by JANE DIXON

"Quite right." The flaring nostrils dilated. "Family matters are stupid — I shouldn't have mentioned them except Mr. Henschler seemed quite upset. But I'm not here to talk family. I'm her to ask you a question. How much do you want to di- vorce Jeffrey? Quickly and quietly."

"Divorce—Jeffrey?" Sue, blinking her eyes. Faces in the restaurant, objects seen through a haze.

"Why yes. You expected as much, didn't you? Jeffrey leaving you— I thought you'd understand. I'm prepared to take care of you rather handsomely, under certain conditions, of course."

"But I don't want anything to divorce Jeffrey. If it's money you mean, I couldn't possibly—"

Mrs. Randall Mathilda interrupted. "Let's know about this very handsome offer. Did Jeffrey Randall authorize you to negotiate with Mrs. Randall?"

Sue, gulping water. The haze was a black wall. Nor a red wall. She pushed back her hat. Jeffrey had met this woman. See, whom he professed to despise, sent her by taxi back his freedom. Divorce. Since morning he'd been mad. Fine feeling in her ears. Divorce. Had the whole material world gone mad, and in which bonds flew asunder as wrath is roused by a touch, leaving a gaping wound where grass and flowers and fruits might have grown?

The waiter returned with the orders. Then he was gone. Beatrice Randall leaned forward and said between listening ears, "Speech, Sue," asked Santry- a question."

"Mrs. Randall," Sue's voice corrected.

"Mrs. Randall—after a fashion," Beatrice Randall's laugh was a suspicious as her orchids. "You are Sue—Secretary?"

"I am," Matilida attacked her bisque.

"Interesting. One would suppose a business woman, like Miss Santry, quite capable of looking after her own affairs."

"Mrs. Randall is capable, but not in the mood. And you haven't answered my question. Do you, by any chance, represent Jeffrey Randall?"

Cunning pinched the dark face to seven more sardine thinness.

CHAPTER 30

"Am I representing Jeffrey Randall? On that point," Beatrice Randall made a gesture, "I must refer you to Judge for yourself."

"We've already reached a decision," Matilida announced. "If Jeffrey Randall wants a divorce, he'll come to his wife — and all he pe- ha."

"At the cost of any sum you might name?"

"Ah, the cost of any sum you might name?"

Beatrice Randall pulled the silver fox close under her chin. Her black eyes were smoke pits of fiercest desire.

Then I'm afraid poor dear Jeffrey will have to go a-head on his own," she sighed. "You that he'll have any difficulty, other than the scandal—newspapers and all that. With the Hume alienation suit and — lifting a miniature watch on a diamond and platinum chain—Oh it can't be so late, possibly. I'm devastated at leaving you so abruptly- but I must get on. I'm seeing Mr. Burton, Mr. Jack Burton, you may remember him — from Green Springs. He has so many unsounding tales to tell of the Springs."

She, the red wall rising again, blotting out her vision.

"Ask Mr. Burton to tell you how, acting under your orders, he staged what appeared to be- a petting party on the riding trail." Sue said distinctly.

"How unique!" Beatrice rose. "I'll nod the remotest notion what you are insinuating, but the love interest— I am will leaving that. Jack makes love to every woman. It's his specialty."

Beatrice Randall was gone. Silence. Matilida tried. Still the silence. Broken by Sue. Half rising, she leaned across th table, staring at the place vacated by the woman. A bill lay beside the plate of mushrooms. Sue lifted it and studied the corner.

"Careful, Matilida said. "It may explode. Or a tarantula will jump out and bite you."

Sue smoothed the bill on the table. Five dollars. Beginning at the left she shredded it rapidly, wadding the shreds into the palm of her hand and dropping them into the coffeepot.

"You can't put in jail for destroying currency," Matilida rebuked.

"It's only a question of time until it'll be put in jail for destroying human life," Sue said. /

Sue, slipping a steak under the broiler in the flat over Larry Hunt- son's garage.

"So- you contemplate murder in the first degree," Matilida, scrutinizing the salad dressing. "Any specific victim?"

"I'll begin with Bea," Herman is first. Then Mrs. Mansfield, third, Mrs. Hume."

"Splendid program. Any favorite methods?"

"Oh yes. Strangulation."

"Not bad. Be sure to wear gloves so you don't leave finger prints."

"Matilda, I think I'll telephone Tommy."

"What for?"

"I need to hear his voice."

Matilida [illegible] her wrist watch. "In about an hour," she said. "He's at supper."

Telephone ringing.

"You answer, Sue. I'll watch the steak."

It was Larry. "Pop across the hall, will you Sue? We're splurging. Steak for dinner."

"So are we. It's under the broiler- this minute."

"All right, but this is a particular steak. Pop wants you to take a peek at it." And she's done some kind of pudding or what have you she's all steamed up about. At least the pudding is."

"Okay." Sue, clicking the receiver. "Matily, Dolphine's been cheering Larry's heart. He sent her big box of medals."

Sue, the silver polish along to shine 'em. Any girl who can live through a marriage like Dolphine's ought to get Congressional Medal. And put on gear coat. Yours truly headed from the broiler and it's draughty in the hall.

Sue, opening the door. Delphine went in for subdued lights.

"Oh, Larry!" She would have to get back before her own steak trimmed. There was Larry, over by the window, his head forward, lying Larry to the kitchen. His hand.

"Not Larry, Sue."

She stood still.

"Jeff!"

"Yes."

"But you can't be here—Jeff— you're in Mexico. You must be—"

"You must be sitting down in this chair, Sue." Jeffrey persuaded her into the chair he vacated. "You're to remain there until I've finished, is it a bargain?"

"You mean is it another bargain?" Sue managed. Jeffrey! The stubborn look at the back of his head. The freckles, unutterably dear. The jaw that thrust out to make him look rugged. When he was just a boy.

"Call it a new deal." Jeffrey took both her hands. "I've been in Mexico. In and out. I came back the day Matilida wired me Henry Hume's wife had gone hay-wire. It took me a while to get back, too long, unfortunately, to prevent many axes grinding. My plane crashed and laid me up."

Sue, tightening the handclasp. Making sure the hands were real.

"Well, you should have let me know about the plane. You're all right? You're not-hurt?"

"There seems to be hope for me." Jeffrey's quizzical eyes, searching Sue's. "And now about the new deal. I have an idea. We start on a basis of elimination. You mention names, in the order of their import. Mine as a means to the firm, and I'll supply the answers."

"Sounds fascinating." Sue, jotting down mentally her list. "Are you sure you know the answers?"

"I have some good ones."

"Then we'll begin. All ready?"

"Shoot."

"Private Enemy Number One— Beatrice Randall."

"Caught. Red-handed. Bea too, red the bust of Uncle Grimly as you Sue. Persons told me. He was at the other end of the hall and saw her throw it. He tried to tell you but didn't have a chance. He was being watched either by Bea or one of the servants in the pay. Bea arranged for the accident on the Boston Post Road too. The driver of the truck has been blackmailing her. He came to the house drunk one night, looking for her, and spilled the whole plot to Persons. Bea paid Jack Burton a thousand dollars and expenses to stage the petting party-and on the trail at Green Springs. I have the cancelled check. Burton has disappeared—by request. Next item—"

"Private Enemy Number Two— Herman Henschler."

"On his way west. Left at noon today. Herman's been educated. For example, he's learned that so long as he treats you right, he'll have enough money to see him through. Always providing he keeps a 'hands off' policy with Tommy. Next—"

"Private Enemy Number Three— Mrs. Henry Hume."

"Oral confession of guilt and plea for mercy of the court. Henry broke his promise to you, Sue. I went to him and he told me the whole story. He's making his wife go through with the divorce. She doesn't want it, now, but she's got to take it. His offer of marriage is still open to you. Next name."

"Private Suspect—Mr. Clifford."

"Case dismissed. The suspect, Clifford, has testified that he was misled. False information was furnished him by Private Enemies One and Two. This information led to bias.

He judged you were in the marriage racket for the—well, for the money, and the position. Then you went back to work in Hume's office and Clifford kept track of you. He knows where and how you live. He watched your checks in the National States Bank. A few for Tommy. She was a kind friend, so none for yourself. So he revised his judgment. Now that he has the truth about the Hume affair, he's ready to lay down, roll over, sit up on his hind legs, and beg your pardon. Next name."

Sue, relaxing, suddenly, in her chair. Lightness. She was a feather, floating. She was a bird flying. A laugh on her lips. A song in her heart.

"There aren't any more names, Jeff. You've finally enemies are eliminated."

Jeffrey cleared his throat in the approved legal manner, assumed an air of extreme formality.

"The case is adjourned," he said, "will Madame Judge permit the prosecuting attorney to address a question to the court?"

"Sue, catching his mood: "As you like prosecuting attorney, sir!"

"I am.

"Then the prosecuting attorney may address a question to the court."

Jeffrey was on his feet. His eyes, his mouth, his body and the soul of it an impassioned plea.

"Sue, do you love me?"

There was nothing dignified about the conduct of the court for the next few minutes. Unless the action of a prosecutor lifting a Madame Judge from her chair, clasping her in his arms, murmuring love against her lips, her eyes, the dimple in her chin, the curls behind her ear, comes under the head of dignity.

As for Madame Judge, she did not seem to mind at all. In fact, she appeared to encourage this extraordinary conduct on the part of the prosecutor.

The beige coat. Sue nestled a cheek against the soft fur of the collar. Her cost of destiny.

Morning. Sun peering behind the blinds of the late Cass Femina over Larry Rumson's garage, in Rumson, N.J. Vagrant breeze stirring the white ruffled curtains at open windows.

"Jeff, I sniff coffee. I'll bet Matily's sneaked in from the Rumsons across the hall and is doing something about breakfast."

"Dearest, do you love me?" Jeff's arms about her.

"In love in the new deal?"

"I'll it. Clause I,' Paragraph A, and all other clauses and paragraphs."

"Then—I adore you. I love you so much—"

Telephone. Sue, scurrying toward the living room.

"I'll answer, Jeff. I've a feeling it's Tommy."

It was Tommy. If only she could tell him how happy she was, how unbelievably, inutterely happy.

"Tommy, darling, however did you happen to call me this morning?"

"I don't know—I—well I might as well tell you—I dreamed Jeff. He's been to see me a couple of times lately, Sis, and he's got some kind of a crazy notion you're sorry you married him or something."

"Tommy! He couldn't have—Joe, child! How ridiculous!"

"That's what I told him. Only I got to thinking about it and—you know—Jeff's the best ever—" Of course he is, darling. The very best."

"Is he there now?"

"Why, Yes—yes naturally."

"Then I can ring off. My math lesson today's a stinger. Say, Sis, wait till you see the saddle Jeff brought me from Mexico. He's sending me a horse, too. My own horse. One half jump. And I made the football team. Quarterback."

"Tommy, NO!"

"What do you mean, no? Didn't you think I'd make it?"

"I didn't mean no. I meant oh, darling, I'm a stinger- I don't know what I mean."

"You sound like—well, anyhow, gee, girls are funny. Guess I'd better get to boning that math.

"Tommy, Jeff just called to me. Your horse will be up tomorrow. Ring me and tell me all about it."

"Where will I ring?"

"Here at our flat. Our honeymoon flat. If we should be out, call Matily at the Randall home. You have the number. Matily will be there cleaning house."

N.H.L. Teams Closely Bunched at Half Way Mark With Leafs Sure Team for Playoffs

Amerks Hold Toronto to Tie But Lose to Hawks

RANGERS WIN

Now Hold Top Position in U.S. Section With Chicago

(By the Canadian Press)

Pausing today to take stock after swinging into the second half of their 48-game schedule, National Hockey League teams found their ranks virtually unbroken by the battling that has waged since the first puck was faced off in November.

Each one of the nine clubs has a chance, and a good one, to cut into the extra-series magic but only the Toronto Leafs seem sure of a playoff spot. The wide-open race today found four teams grouped within six points of each other in the Canadian section and another quartette separated by only seven points in the United States division.

New York Americans and Rangers shot up in the standings for weeks have blossomed out as real contenders. The World Champions are disputing first place in the U. S. division with Chicago and Amerks, though still in last position in the Canadian section are within easy striking distance of three other teams.

The battling over the week-end did little to clear the air. Americans showed their recent strong games were more than flashes when they held Toronto to a 2-2 tie, their second draw in the N.H.L. competition in three days. They lost to Chicago, however, on Sunday by 4-0.

Rangers Going Strong

Rangers continued their good work with a 3-1 win over Montreal Maroons and Detroit shoved Boston further down in the U. S. cellar with a 2-0 beating. Montreal Canadiens played a scoreless draw on the fifth game.

Americans' recently found reputation for providing thrilling hockey brought a 2-2 draw in the game at Toronto Saturday night. A larger turnout than Americans have drawn for years. They saw Lorne Chabot, the New Yorkers in a dull first period and Roy Worters, Amerk goalie, save his team-mates from defeat in that scoreless session.

It looked like another win for Toronto along the lines of their 9-1 and 7-3 efforts over Joe Simpson's men earlier in the season up to that point but everything was changed after the first rest. The New Yorkers outplayed Leafs all along the line for two periods and then forced the game in overtime. Leafs were without Charlie Conacher, their big right winger, out of the game with boils.

That old master of strategy, Tommy Gorman, knew just how to handle Americans when they came to Chicago Sunday to meet his Black Hawks. He won them down with frequent changes of lines, sending new forwards on almost every minute, and the tired Simpson-men couldn't take it.

Goldsolly Scores Twice

Johnny Goldsolly scored two of Chicago's goals in the second period after Lionel Conacher had scored the only first session marker. Paul Thompson made it 4-0 in the final frame. Goldsolly's second was Charlie Gardiner's screwin and left him in the lead over Lorne Chabot by one game.

Frank Boucher's veteran Ranger centre, showed there's life in the old boy yet when the New Yorkers took Maroons to Sunday night. Both his markers, one in the second period and another in the third came on brilliant individual plays. Butch Keeling and Hamer other score in the second and Jimmy Ward scored Maroons' goals after the Rangers had quit.

Another Frank, Carson of Detroit Red Wings, duplicated Boucher's feat at Detroit, getting both goals his team was credited with. The veteran wing gave Wings a lead early in the second on a perfect pass from Happy Emms and got the other in the third after crabbing a loose puck at centre and outracing Dit Clapper to the net.

Bill Beveridge, Senators' young goalie, was given much of the credit for Canadiens' failure to score against Ottawa Saturday night. He had only 25 pucks to stop but many of them came in touch ends with team-mates in the penalty box.

TECUMSEHS IN CELLAR AFTER HECTIC WEEK-END

Bulldogs Win From Buzz and Syracuse

(By the Canadian Press)

Two week-end victories by Windsor Bulldogs pulled that team from the cellar of the International Hockey League and dropped London into it. At the same time losses by Syracuse, Cleveland and Buffalo left those teams standing second, third and fourth in that order. A single victory by London Tecumsehs failed to stop their fall.

Windsor's two victories came within the slimmest of margins. The bulldogs downed Buffalo Saturday 1 to 0 on a goal by Paul Raymond scored the only goal of the game. His tally came in the first period and the Bisons failed to clear the defence put up by Ellis Prinsle, Harold Starr and Goalie Jack Furbey.

Paul Runge's single brought the Bulldogs' victory last night at Syracuse in a hard fought contest that saw no scoring until the last frame.

Tecumsehs got a 2-1 victory out on a rough Saturday night encounter with Cleveland Indians. London's first goal came in the initial period when Greg Hill got a pass from Ouellette. His shot was deflected into the corner off Bill Regan's skate. Ouellette was credited with his second assist of the evening when he passed to Jean Pusie who scored. Again, the goal judges said, Regan got his skate in the way and deflected the puck into the net.

BABE RUTH TO SIGN TODAY

Receives Smallest Salary in 1934 Since Joining Yanks in 1921

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.— (CP) — Babe Ruth was ready today to open a contract calling for the smallest salary he has received from the New York Yankees since 1921.

Terms agreed to at a conference last Friday, Ruth and Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, were to meet in the Colonel's Brewery for the formal signing.

The exact figure at which Ruth and Col. Ruppert agreed was not revealed at that time but probably was $35,000, a drop of $17,000 from the $52,000, the 40-year-old home run expert received last season.

The Babe himself is not worrying about anything but 1934. "We'll take that pennant sure," he said. "The Senators just slipped in last year."

TWEED WINS FROM MADOC

Disputed Goal Stops Madoc From Tying And Possibly Winning

Madoc Jan. 13 (Special)—A disputed goal in the final minute of the game robbed Madoc of a tie and possible victory. Despite the mild weather, Caretaker Hailstone had a good sheet of ice ready for the game. The first period produced the best hockey with Madoc having a distinct advantage and gaining a two goal lead. West opened the scoring when he attackandled his way thru the entire Tweed team and beat the goalie cleanly. The second goal was a pretty piece of passing when Yare drew the Tweed defence to one side and passed to Henderson who made no mistake.

The second period produced some very bad hockey. Penalties to the Madoc team proved very costly, two goals being scored when Don Whytock was in the penalty box. A fine forward pass from Rashote to Meraw resulted in Tweed's only scored goal. The score at the end of the second was 4-3 for Tweed. In the third period Madoc began to force the play resulted in a game of shinny with the referee having a difficult time to control the game.

Madoc were not able to score but just before the bell rang a goal was scored from a scramble but the goal umpire refused to put up his hand and as the referee did not see it, no score was counted and Tweed won 4-3.

Scoring:

First Period

1—Madoc, K. West.

2—Madoc, J. Henderson (R. Ware) assists.

Second Period

3—Tweed—Merraw (Rashotte)

4—Tweed Merraw.

5—Madoc—J. Henderson.

6—Tweed, Merraw

7—Tweed, Rashotte.

Third Period

Final score, Tweed 4, Madoc 3.

The line-up:

"BUBS" BRITTON TO BE MARRIED

Former Queen's Student Now at Port of Spain as Commissioner

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 13 (CP)—James C. "Bubs" Britton former star flying wing and captain of Queen's senior intercollegiate rugby team, becomes a benedict today. Word has been received here that Britton, who is Junior Trade Commissioner at Port of Spain, Trinidad, is being married in New York today.

Britton came to Queens from Toronto, where he had played on the Balmy Beach team and he was a star with the intercollegiate champions here. He was equally as prominent in hockey, being a stellar defence player for the Tri-color for several seasons. The former Queen's star was appointed to Port of Spain about a year and a half ago.

BASKETBALL

When the Royal Military College Basketball Quintet, Senior and Intermediate, pay a visit to this city, Wednesday evening, the two local teams, who oppose them will need to be at their best. The Kingston "Y" team which is an old time gregarious foe by Bob Elliott, were able to defeat the Cadets by only a few points in a practice game and were forced to come from behind in order to do that.

Over at the Campbell St. Gym both the Deacon A. C. Juniors and the "Y" Intermediates have been practising Outlaws, for the Wednesday's encounter. Great improvement is being shown on the part of both teams and they look to give good account of themselves, when they open the Home Series mid week. Saturday night both teams indulged in a joint practice lasting for a couple of hours and early this evening the final practice before the game will take place at the Y. The Deacon A. C. Juniors are the same team which captured the second round of the "Y" House League but instead using the Lake Shore, Bridge St., they have adopted the name of their class leader, Mr. F. S. Deacon. This year's "Y" intermediates are considerably revamped but when the various players have had just a little more experience in playing together they should floor one of the strongest teams, that has ever represented the Y.M.C.A. Extra seating accommodation is being provided at the Campbell St. game in order to look after the additional crowd of spectators, which the "Y" officials expect will be in attendance.

Current Sport

Day By Day

Sometime ago we were in receipt of a letter from S. R. "Sandy" Burrows relating to a hockey game that was supposed to have been played between Belleville and Kingston many years ago during which time the Frontenacs downed the locals by a 33 to 3 score. Mr. Burrows was prompted to send along a letter, received by him, from G. S. "Stan" Flagler, an old Belleville sport fan, now residing in Montreal in which was enclosed a sport note clipped from "Rex" O'Meara sport column in the Montreal Star which reads as follows:

"Old Man Hockey" was talking about scoring feats when the discussion drifted back to the old timers. "I remember none when Frontenac's beat Belleville 23-3 on one game then 24-3 in another," he reminisced. "Scotty Davidson must have scored sixteen goals in that game. We didn't keep secondary records, but I remember we figured he had bummed in half those scores." "Old Man Hockey" is Jim Sutherland than whom there is no greater storehouse of hockey information in the country. Out in Regina as often as he can be, he has that intense loyalty to the old home town that has made that people of smaller places such as Belleville, Brockville, Brantford, Cornwall, Barrie, Moncton, just to name a few, join couldn't Lions' roar any other sporting scoring feats among the amateurs, didn't know whether the record of eighteen in one game at Smith's Falls credited to Steve Vale was official or not. He recalled seven goal splurges by Marty Walsh and Davidson that had official credit. He was tracing the early history of a number of pro hockey clubs. He has a warm spot for the great even though he has often locked horns with governors over legislative matters, has seen all the players come and go, for he goes back deep into the top roots of the game.

Neither Mr. Burrows or Mr. Flagler could recall any such scores ever having been registered against a local team by Jim Sutherland's charges, we also queried a number of local veteran hockey players and fans, but who are quite skeptical regarding Jim's statement.

Mr. Burrows, however says—"we beat Kingston, when they had the best team of their entire career with Wahls and Richardson starring but, it may be possible, that during the reign of Scotty Davidson, the Frontenacs did give the locals a sound trouncing but, I cannot recall any such game as refered to." Eddie Thomas who for years has been a local hockey enthusiast, could not recall any such score although numerous old timers well remember the night a Peterboro team downed a local aggregation of pacsaking by something like a 21 to 2 count but, all seem to agree, that such a feat was never accomplished by a Limestone City club. Then again a Belleville team, with the same night against Trenton and emmaged 20 goals in their opponent's one or two.

Another new night has been added to the already full list of Ulster Stadium loop, which informs us that six of the Intermediate clubs have been mentioned as being fitting into the fold. First it was proposed that the six clubs now composing the loop include Oshawa, Peterboro and Belleville, also forming an eight teamed organization. After that, it has been rumored, along comes a Hamilton club, Galt and Guelph with a prospective Toronto club, making a league and drop the Eastern Ontario clubs. Then shoot the circuit far westward the Ulster Stadium crowd naturally sat back and have been studying the situation from inside their seats without having come to a decision, if any, to the wide world.

Following the recent meeting of the Ulster crowd, during which it is reported that a few nosey and inquisitive persons enquired just what was meant by "incidentals" in their annual report, that the one hundred odd dollars were chalked up to the "incidental column." It might be well for all locally concerned to assume a skeptical attitude and await the ultimate results of the present Toronto project, if such is the case.

The long-looked for cold spell, that arriving over the week end gave the ice-makers at the Arena a chance to add a little more ice to the surface, but not a great amount being lost during last week's mild spell. The local skating club enjoyed a period of recreation over the week end and considerable practice for their Tweed demonstration was the result. If the present cold snap continues, skating will be enjoyed by all from now on. Most likely Eddie Thomas' juniors will hold sway every night this week in preparation for, their initial game of the season scheduled for Thursday night.

Tonight, where the local "Oilmen" take to the ice in the first game of the final play-offs in the Kingston City League, Bill Sherry is expected to be back in the line-up. Bill has been nursing an injured leg for the past two weeks but is expected to return to the local lineup this evening and team with Braddock and Earl McDonald on the defence. Mass Rigby will accompany the team to Kingston today and is prepared to step into the place in case the Ex-Port Hope junior is unable to play however.

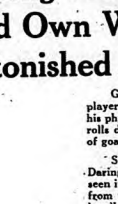
Amazing Amerks Held Own With Astonished Leafs



Goalkeeper Worters startled the players and fans and reporters with his physical jerks and lily flips and his rolls disproving the Leafs of a number of goals.

So we gave him a star for the most Daring diving exhibition that has been seen in these parts since Speedo sailed from the top of the tent into a damp handkerchief.

The other two awards went to Gentlemanly Joseph Primeau for his all-round play and Buzz Boll, who was performing on right wing with a left-handed stick in a very, very clever despite the fact that he often had to circle the rink several times at top speed to get untangled.

After a first period in which it looked as if the teams were going into a Lady Esther serenade, the struggle suddenly sailed into high and the over-time period was especially full of swoosh. In catching a tip with the crippled but capable Leafs, the Amerks proved that since their last visit here they have improved fast enough to qualify for a patent medicine ad.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

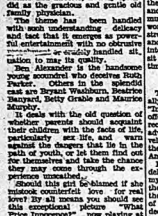
AT THE CAPITOL

"WHAT PRICE INNOCENCE?"

A human, moving photodrama that treats of a subject hitherto greeted with lifted eyebrows and shocked, hushed voices, is now on view at the Capitol Theatre under the pertinent title, "What Price Innocence?"

It's a story of modern, pseudo-sophisticated youth. The theme centres about pretty Ruth Harper, 17, and "blessedly innocent" as her doting mother puts it. In love with Tommy, a young rotter, she is bewildered by the strange, overwhelming sensation. Eager to learn, to discover what to do, she is repulsed by a self-contained Puritan, local mother who just knows that "no daughter of mine would ever do wrong." But tragedy does stalk into little Ruth's life.

Jean Parker, lovely little brunette, is excellent in the role of the tragic little heroine. Minna Gombell is not the stereotype in the unsympathetic role of the mother, and Willard Mack, as picture's author and director, is truly spleudid as the gracious and gentle old family physician.



The theme has been handled with such understanding delicacy and restraint that it emerges as powerful entertainment, while no obtrusive [illegible] are crudely handled sit-uation to mar its quality.

Ben Alexander is the handsome young scoundrel who deceives Ruth Parker. Others in the splendid cast are Bryaud Washburn, Beatrice Banyard, Betty Grable and Maurice Murphy.

It deals with the old question of whether parents should acquaint their children with the facts of life particularly sex life, and warn against the dangers that lie in the path of youth, or let them find out for themselves and take the chance they may come through the experience unscathed.

Should this girl be blamed if she mistook counterfeit love for real love? By all means you should see this exceptional picture "What Price Innocence?" now playing at the Capitol Theatre, Monday and Tuesday with gift days for Royal Princess Dimmware—fruit dishes this week.

The balance of the program includes a big comedy, cartoon, travelogue entitled "Oriental Cocktail and Capitol News.

Jean Parker in "What Price Innocence?" at the Capitol Today.

AT THE BELLE

A bevy of beautiful chorus girls; a cast which includes such outstanding names as those of James Dunn, Lilian Roth, Cliff Edwards, June Knight, Charles "Buddy" Rogers, Lillian Bond, Dorothy Lee and Lona Andre; a story of song writers, who have written tunes which will go your feet to tapping includes "I Never Took a Lesson in My Life", "New Deal Rhythm", "It's Only a Paper Moon" and "Stars in My Eyes Sweet", and the expert production of Messrs. Laurence Schwab, William Rowland and Monte Brice, combine to make Paramount's musical extravaganza, that enjoyed a run of fifty-two weeks on the stage of Broadway, one of the delights of the current screen season.

"Take a Chance" which opens at the Belle tomorrow (Tuesday), is a delicious mixture not to be classified as just another back-stage romance. Its scene range all the way from a carnival side show through a swanky gambling club, out of the homes of the society elite on Long Island and back to Broadway. Beautiful music, beautiful girls, outstanding work by the all-star cast and a story crammed full of thrills, laughter and nonsense are carefully blended into a picture that is a pleasure to thoroughly spend, not once but several times.

"India Speaks" Gripping

The wonders of India, dramatically brought to the screen in "India Speaks," the second feature offering in the same program, are recounted by Richard Halliburton, adventurer, author, lecturer and traveller, who has experienced one of the most extraordinary careers in American letters.

For "India Speaks" Halliburton delves into fertile Hindu lore and mysterious regions! He takes us to the Temple Festival and its orgies, the Holy Ramadon feast, a purging of pestilence in Mother Ganges, the dedication of a child and a dance by jungle combat between a lion and a tiger. His tales explode, as set forth in the film parallel his previous thrilling experiences recorded in the best-selling "The Royal Road to Romance", "New Worlds to Conquer", "The Flying Carpet" and "The Glorious Adventure."

Halliburton's real life of a prisoner on Devil's Island and made his living for a month playing a hurdy-gurdy in Argentine and Brazil. He swam the Panama Canal and the Hellespont. He ran over the original Marathon route and lived on an island in Mykonos Cyclades fashion. He climbed Matterhorn and Fujiyama, was waylaid by Chinese bandits, and has vagabonded in Bali and Kashmir. A funny Collegiate comedy and the popular Belle Current News will be exhibited on the same program.

Marie Dressler Tonight

Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore are appearing together in "Her Sweetheart" to be presented at the Belle tonight for the last times. It is a screen treat.

The big quake, which rocked all India, recurred at the time and had been predicted some time ago by Hindu astrologers on the basis of the convergence last Saturday of seven planets in Capricorn, a sign of the Zodiac.

Impressions of Visit to Penitentiary Given by Rev. Peter Bryce D.D.

Speaks at Rotary Club on Observations of That Visit

CHANGES MOOTED

Believes Changes Mentioned Would be Advantageous to all Concerned

Portsmouth penitentiary at Kingston, which has been very much in the limelight during the past year or so, following the serious riots there, necessitating the calling out of military forces and subsequent trial of convicts accused of conspiring or taking part in the disturbances in the penitentiary, has aroused widespread public interest and demands from various organizations for a Royal Commission or other form of governmental investigation with a view to administration changes.

A visit to the Portsmouth penitentiary by Rev. Peter Bryce, D.D., of Toronto, one of the executive leaders of the United Church of Canada, formed the basis of a very interesting talk to Belleville Rotarians, Monday, in which the speaker related what he saw and his impressions, also his ideas of possible changes in the administration of the institution tending to make the reform of the criminal more important than the punishment, in the best interest of all concerned.

Every facility for observation and inquiry was placed at the disposal of Rev. Dr. Bryce by the warden, Lieut.-Col. W. B. Mcloughlin, K.C., who had been in office just about one year at the time of the riots.

"The warden offered to send an officer with me, and to arrange that everything of interest that would be opened up for inspection. I asked, however, that he accompany me, if convenient, in which he readily consented. I desired to sense the attitude of the warden to the men and their attitude to him, and I wished to gain through the afternoon with him some conception of his own grasp and ability. New prison regulations are important, but their value can only be fully realized if the warden is human in spirit and wise in judgment."

Penitentiary Population

With a penitentiary population of 4,000 in Canada, Rev. Dr. Bryce said institutions in Canada the problem of how best to handle the criminal is very important, but the trend of events in the United States in the treatment of the criminal is toward reformative methods and rehabilitation of the man, rather than punishment, said the speaker. Two penitentiaries in the United States recently been added for the more hopeful offenders and first offence men, to the end that they may be shielded from injurious contact with hardened criminals. One of these new penitentiaries is at Collins Bay, the other at Mt. Vernon in St. Paul, Quebec.

Scenario Written by Reality Starring John Gilbert Not in Approved Style

Hollywood, Jan. 16—(AP)— His arms have encircled some of the world's loveliest women, but his lips have whispered to them: "I love you."

But that was in motion pictures, and the scrip assured a happy ending.

The scenario written by reality and starring John Gilbert has not followed the approved style of Hollywood films. Four times, he has been married to young and beautiful women. Each time the union failed.

When Hollywood learned his fourth wife, Virginia Bruce, had left him, filmdom asked:

"Why can't the screen's greatest lover be a success with love in real life?"

"Temperament," answered Lea-rice Joy, his second wife.

But Mrs. Ina Claire, stage favorite and the actor's third wife, said Gilbert was "irritable and moody."

But his fourth wife, Miss Bruce, who with their five-months, old daughter, Susan Ann, recently left their Beverly Hills home, said she had "no fault on record as 'being the staunchest friend Jack ever had."

TRAGEDY AND GALLANTRY GO HAND IN HAND

One Drowned, One Presumed Drowned and Three in Hospital

REPORTER HERO

Members of Olympic Diving Team Rescue One of Party

Victoria, Jan. 16 (CP)—An epic of tragedy and gallantry had been written today about the storm-beaten waters of Victoria Harbor. One man had given his life in an attempt to save another, another was presumed drowned, three were in hospital.

In swift moving drama late yesterday, the lives of men and boys struggled in the dark in turbulent seas, some went to rescue and some had to be rescued. Men and boys formed themselves into a living chain to save the drowning. A member of the Canadian diving team at the last Olympic games, Arthur Stott not only displayed high courage, but his general athletic ability enabled him to pilot the smallest of the rescue crafts to save a life.

Dead: Dr. Fred Harding, 47, dentist, succumbed to heart attack following shock and exposure.

Presumed drowned: Llewellyn A. Hinder, 40, accountant, last seen clinging to the bottom of his upturned boat in the harbor.

In hospital: Mrs. Clifford Bales, 27, shock and exposure; Hugh Valiant, 35, face badly lacerated, shock and exposure; Arthur Stott, 28, high school teacher, shock and exposure.

Trip for Fun!

Hinder made a trip to Trial Island for fun, and seeing Mrs. Bales on the beach, told her of having locked a good supper of fish. They made a second trip, but on the return a squall churned up the swirling waters of the tide rip between the island and Oak Bay shore, upsetting their boat. Others saw them in the rescue, Dr. Harding, a powerful swimmer with a record record of life-saving to his credit and Lewis Hinder, a boy of 16 years who tried. Their boat upset and though they were drowning, Harding heart gave out after the struggle while Hinder stayed with him.

John Rennie went out and his craft overturned as he tried to get to the two. He reached shore with difficulty.

Arthur Stott and Jack Kemp were also upset when they set out. They were saved only by a living chain of men and boys who reached out from the shore into the water with Roderick Wilson, 14, at the outward end.

Rescuer Is Hero

Meanwhile, Stott, nephew of Dr. Harding and reporter on the staff of the Victoria Daily Times, in his tiniest craft of all, a dinghy, reached Mrs. Bales and brought her back and room only for the woman. He took her ashore, while Harding went for his own boat. He could not be found today.

The whole scene took place at a locale known locally as Chinese Beach, where the spirit of individual heroism were enacted by persons unknown.

Aid. Harker Introduces Notice of Motion to Pay Taxes in 3 Installments

First Business Meeting of New Council Short And Snappy

COMMITTEES NAMED

Whether taxes will be paid in three installments instead of two as at present will be decided by a vote of the council at the next regular meeting. A notice of motion was introduced by Alderman J. B. Harker at the session on Monday night which read "that arrangements be made to have all 1934 taxes paid in three installments viz, June, August and November, and that a discount of three per cent. be allowed on the first payment, two per cent. on the second payment and the third payment be at par with one per cent. added at due date first thirty days and two per cent. added on the unpaid balance after said thirty days." At this writ a notice of motion the discussion was allowed. The council, however, passed a by-law at the session for the collection of taxes for the year and provided the penalties, also discounts if paid in advance and in this by-law only two installments were mentioned, the same arrangement as was in force last year.

Little Business

There was little business to transact and only one delegation appeared before the council. A resident of East Moira street asked the council

Man Wearing Stolen Coat Ordered From Court

Hull, Que., Jan. 16—(CP)—When Hull police decided the law is supposed to put him behind the bars, today, he made a mistake. The Governor had a man thrown out of the courthouse for pestering him and disturbing the court. But the offender at the time of eviction had on his back a fur-lined coat he had just purloined.

Very red of face and highly embarrassed the governor later explained to court stenographer Arthur Pepin—owner of the coat—that he had not recognized the fur as belonging to the defendant of the building. The police are looking for the thief.

Calcutta, India, Jan. 16. — Earth shocks continued intermittently throughout India today as the total known dead in yesterday's big quake mounted to 69.

CARLOS HEVIA IS INSTALLED

Cuban President Becomes Heir to Problems of Former Rulers

Havana, Jan. 16 (AP)—Cuba's new provincial President, Carlos Hevia, took up his new duties in Cabanas today amid rumors of a revolt in the army and fears of another revolution.

Swept into office amid rioting and wild disturbances yesterday, he inherited all of former President Gran San Martin's problems and his own leftist tendencies provided more.

Sporadic outbreaks, including two bomb explosions, disturbed the cultural during Hevia's first night at the palace. Peeling ran high after demonstrations around the palace in which three supporters of Grau were shot yesterday.

Whether Hevia would be able to command the support of a majority of the important political factions was problematical. His statement that he had won over C. Mendieta and his Nationalists, indicated that he was making progress.

Some factions still were reluctant to fall in line with the provisional Junta and Cabinet which named Hevia to succeed Grau, but Col. Fulgencio Batista, leader of the army, declared the new regime would have his support.

REPORT GARBO IS MARRIED

With Her Director, Pair Travelling Through Arizona Incognito

WILLIAMS, Ariz., Jan. 16—(AP) Greta Garbo and Reuben Mamoulian, her director, travelling as "Mary Jones" and "Robert Bonji", left only dust and doubt behind them across Northern Arizona today.

Whether the Swedish film star was a bride as Hollywood rumors hinted or incognito, they remained unanswered. The couple today identified after they had registered under their assumed names at the El Tovar Hotel, Grand Canyon, fled from all who sought to question them.

They sped westward toward California, after passing through Williams, last night, in an automobile driven by a negro chauffeur. Scores of amateur sleuths, who joined the attempts to solve the mystery, if any, of the incognito trip were forced to confess failure.

No Record of Licence

At the El Tovar Hotel, "Mary Jones" and "Robert Bonji" were registered as from Santa Fe, N.M. No record of a marriage licence was found in Santa Fe or in Arizona.

The couple's secretaries, Miss Garbo and Mamoulian were discovered at Grand Canyon by a Navajo Indian guide who recognized a friendly conversation. The flit-ting couple returned at once to the hotel, where they had taken a suite of three rooms, changed into travelling clothes and departed.

The trail then led through Williams, where they stopped for gasoline, and on into the night.

Shortly before the plant was scheduled to open today, police received word that illuminating gas was escaping somewhere in the zone plant. The Gas Company was notified and sent a crew of workmen to try to locate the leak.

They had been working some time when Lomas entered the building. The explosion occurred only a few feet from him, tearing a 12 foot opening in the 16-inch brick wall. The gas crew, further from the source of the blast, escaped injury.

It was believed that a spark from an electric control panel ignited the gas fumes.

Remarks attributed to Vice-Admiral Suetsugu, commander-in-chief of the combining fleets of Japan in a Tokio publication to the effect that Japan is preparing for war on United States in the belief that conflict between the white and yellow races is inevitable, have been discredited in Washington as a move to increase the fears of the Japanese people to assure support of a heavily increased naval program. In the interview, Suetsugu charged that recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States "involves a scheme to enhance Japan for military purposes" and asserted that construction by Russia of submarine bases, the movement of large numbers of troops and war materials in the Far East is proof positive of such a scheme to surround Japan. He further asserted he has no fears about Japan's ability to defend herself, declaring that the Japanese air forces and navy are strong enough to resist the combined forces of three nations. Reading of the interview given by the officer were that a truce was between Japan and the United States in the Far East, now in progress, will lead to such a conflict, and also that "If the whites consider themselves superior we must fight them."

REASON GIVEN FOR HIGHER PRICE

City dealers today explained their reason for the ice coast advance in the price of coke, now retailing at $10.50 and $11 per ton. The chief reason, explained one prominent dealer is that the wholesale price of the coke has been put up by the Wholesalers, and the only quantity which was caused by the recent cold weather, which used an unusual amount of fuel was necessary. Stocks were depleted but it became necessary to order at a higher price. The above prices are expected to be maintained throughout the remainder of the winter. These prices are the same as Toronto prices at present.

CONDITION OF HIGHWAY NO. 7 IS VERY BAD

Deep Rutted From Passage of Heavy Trucks

Questioned by the local, Chamber of Commerce regarding the reported closing of No. 7 highway to traffic since the last heavy snowfall, Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P., stated today that the condition of the road was very bad, caused, he said, by the wheels of the heavily loaded transport trucks which had left deep ruts which are filled with heavy snow and ice. Traffic along the highway is possible, it was stated, but lighter vehicles would receive considerable pounding from the high hummocks and ruts.

On No. 37 highway between Kalador and Pembroke, on which a number of Belleville men are now at work, excellent progress is reported by Mr. Tummon. Trib road when finished will make a short cut between Belleville and points lying on the upper Ottawa River. The distance of 150 miles which now exists between Belleville and Pembroke will be shortened to approximately 105 miles when the road is completed.

5,064 Transients Housed in Police Station During Past Year

Falling-off Sequel to Closing of Canteen Last Spring

Startling statistics confronting the local police department this morning when after a complete check-up of the year's activities it was disclosed that during 1933 5,064 transients had been afforded shelter in the police station during the year 1933. These figures show an increase of nearly 10% per cent. over the last 9 months of 1932, when from April 1st to December 31st 1932 there were 4,584 transients afforded shelter in the police station.

A daily average for the entire year of 5952 of fourteen transients were sheltered each night during 1933. According to police there has been a steady increase in transients since last November, however.

When asked what he credited the general falling-off of over-night tramps, Chief Ketcheson replied reporter that this was due to the fact that no soup kitchen had been organized in Belleville since late last spring. "When the transients know he can be afforded a warm bed and adequate food in a city, he certainly will take advantage of it, but we have had a general falling off of transients in Belleville ever since the Red Cross canteen closed.

Even during the recent cold snap there were fewer transients driven in from the country for shelter than were registered one year ago now. The relief project camps in the vicinity of the city are proving a tendency to relieve the transient situation as large numbers of men are today employed there.

POLICE COURT

Activities proved quiet in local police circles during the past twenty-four hours with no automobile accidents being reported. One case of a breach of the L.C.A. was presented in the magistrate's office this morning but enlarged for one week.

Motor accidents on the highways are at the minimum as not a single major accident was reported to the traffic officer on duty. The various highways leading out of Belleville were searched by the highway department last night assuring safer vehicular transportation. Numerous cars were seen skidding from various ditches in and out of the city owing to the icy condition of the roads yesterday but no accidents of a serious nature were reported.

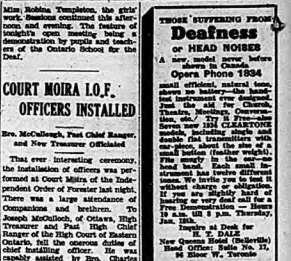
MONOTONY IS WORST FEATURE OF CAMPS



Boys At Read Camps Ask For a Radio and Literature

Belleville boys now quartered at Camp Read, and engaged in the construction through the north, have settled down to routine camp life and report conditions at the camp very favorable, according to latest information received in this city.

"We're not overworked," stated the writer of one letter, "and on the whole we are treated very well. One of the hardest jobs some of the men have is to keep the camp fires going."

"In rough weather we don't have to go to work and can have the day to ourselves, pretty much," stated the writer of another letter received. "The food is good and the camps are comfortable."

One of the worst features of the camps, it was stated, is the monotony of the evenings when the men's books, and even a battery radio is made by the men.

GROUND HOGS ARE OFTEN SEEN IN WINTER

Don't Wait For Candelmas Day to Make Appearance

Ground hogs don't always consult the calendar, or wait until Candlemas Day before they come into the open during the winter, and the habits of the little furry creatures prowling in the open in January is not so unusual, stated an old-time resident of Carnilton to the Ontario Intelligencer today.

For seventy years this veteran has been keeping track of the vagaries of the ground hog, and has noticed that even in the coldest weather they are often abroad. Even in severe weather they have been seen some distance from their burrows in which the average man fondly imagines they spend the complete winter in a comatic condition, states the old resident.

Such hasty animal, however, are the exception and the general run are good hogs or woodchucks are well behaved animals, adhering to the custom popularly credited to them of spending a certain of truth in the old saying that if the little animal come out and see that the heavier part of winter is over, he will stay out for good, stated the observer.

Collections for this district amounted to $242,254.97 for the period from April 1st to December 31st 1933, $211,382.54 for the like months of 1932-1933.

EVIDENCE IS SUMMED UP IN WINDSOR CASE

Ira Humphries Gives Recital of Evidence to Commissioner

NOT PROSECUTOR

Tells Commissioner He Has Difficult Task on Hands

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 16—(CP) — Reviewing evidence and conflicting evidence as to the treatment of children at the Windsor District Children's Shelter, given by witnesses at the commission enquiry into administration of the institution, Ira Humphries, commission counsel, today summed up testimony of witnesses as the prolonged investigation drew to a close.

Addressing Commissioner M. A. Arnoldi, Mr. Humphries outlined the stories of mistreatment of shelter wards as given by employes of the institution and uninterested parties. He pointed also to contradictory evidence given by other witnesses.

The last five to appear before the commission hearing today gave favorable accounts of the conduct of the shelter, of treatment of the wards and care of them by matrons Magdalene and Catharine Strang.

Not Prosecuting

"I am not prosecuting anybody," said Mr. Humphries in opening a resume of the evidence. "There is no person on trial. I am not taking sides, it was my duty to present all possible evidence impartially and I hope I have carried out my duty."

Some of the evidence had pictured conditions at the shelter that one could hardly believe, he pointed out, while some had corroborated and some had not. It was for the commissioner to decide which was to be believed and which was to be discredited, he added.

"The local superintendent and inspector have given you details regarding children and how they were placed in homes.

"Mr. Humphries drew attention to the purchasing of drugs—some of them poisons—by the shelter matrons and the keeping of these drugs in a locked drawer. "It will be for you to decide whether due care has been taken," he told commissioner Sorsbie.

Reviews Evidence

Reviewing evidence in connection with the punishment of shelter wards, Mr. Humphries said: "Mr. Miller, an independent witness, testified he saw Miss Strang strike a boy over the head with a yardstick for actions at the table. He had no reason to misrepresent. You have heard a great deal about forced feedings and re-feeding of children. It is difficult to believe that such actions could be taken by any person and denial has been given by the Misses Strang."

"Is it possible", he asked, "that a matron would take a child up by the heels and put her head in the toilet? The matron says it was not done but the assistants declare it was. Did they make a speech right and give it as sworn testimony?"

It seems almost impossible to believe that any matron would take girls of 15 or 16 bathing boys of 14, but evidence was that it did take place, he asserted "It is a very serious situation and you have to reconsider here as you have the do- of the Misses Strang."

No Spite Action

There has been considerable evidence that the Strang sisters were kindly and affectionate. This was given by those who adopted children or others who had visited the shelter, the Commissioner noted stated.

"Does the visitor always get the real pictures of what happens in any home? Is it not natural for any person to be kindly and affectionate in the presence of guests?" he asked.

"Who gives the picture behind the scenes in this case? There has been a bit of truth in the evidence given by so many unable to contact? Are they all wrong? Are they all liars? We have tried to get at the truth and you will have to act all this evidence and you have a difficult task," he told Commissioner Sorsbie.

There was no evidence, he claimed, which indicated there was any spite on the part of the witnesses which might have led them to give false testimony.

In concluding his case, Mr. Humphries stated the evidence had been presented as fairly as possible and that if there was any point to be cleared up, he would gladly do it.

RESIDENTS WARNED AGAINSTRABBITDISEASE

Some Shot in This District Known to Have Been Infected

Danger of contracting "rabbit disease," known in medical circles as tularaemia, is pointed out by veterinary surgeons of the district following the discovery of several badly diseased carcasses of wild cotton tails shot in this district during the past few days by local sportsmen. The intestines and organs of the rabbits were found to be infected with the peculiar white blisters characteristic of the disease.

Doctors in the district have also warn of the danger of infection from the rare meat which might be acquired by absorption of the germs through a cut or an abrasion of the skin, while cleaning the dead rabbit. The disease while not necessarily fatal to man is painful and lasting, and consists for the most part of a decided swelling of the infected members. The disease is also communicated to dogs and other animals who may be fed on the meat. Cooking the meat, however, destroys the germ, it is said. The disease may also be found in domestic rabbits.

WOMAN KILLS HUSBAND, SELF

Domestic Trouble Believed Cause of Murder And Suicide

Port Dover, Ont., Jan. 16 (CP)—Police believed today the mysterious shooting here yesterday that developed into a plain case of murder and suicide. Mrs. Bruce Gamble and her husband are dead. The woman shot herself in the head when police visited her home yesterday and died last night. Her husband's body, the arms bound with rope, was found in a chicken coop nearby. A post-operation examination revealed he had been shot through the head.

For many months there had been domestic difficulties between the two. Both had been charged at various times with breaches of the liquor control and excise acts. The woman had served a term in prison for driving while drunk.

Jack Hind, a 13-year-old schoolboy, found Gamble's body. There were marks about the neck as though the man had been hanged or strangled. Police were puzzled for a time, but the post-mortem revealed a bullet wound, which had caused death.

The police then went to the house after a cursory examination of the body. As they entered, Mrs. Gamble fired a single shot from a rifle. The bullet struck the man's temple and swept through her brain. Never recovering consciousness, she died last night.

OBJECT TO STATEMENTS

Department Stores Heads Reply to Minister of Trade and Commerce

Toronto, Jan. 16.—Representatives of two of Canada's largest department stores had protested today against statements of Hon. H. H. Stevens Minister of Trade and Commerce, regarding the way such establishments carried on business.

Mr. Stevens, in an address before the annual convention of the shoe manufacturers of Canada yesterday, charged the department stores, among other industries, with crushing competition through ruinous price-cutting, and with being partly responsible for "sweat shop" conditions.

Col. R. Y. Eaton, head of the T. Eaton Company, challenged Mr. Stevens to name the stores to which he referred. "In buying goods, when the quantity is great," he said, "the retailer sometimes asks manufacturers to quote prices on the basis of quantities, much in the same way as the Ottawa or Ontario governments ask for tenders for supplies. This is generally considered an equitable way of doing business. In ordinary buying, the smaller purchases from the same manufacturers season after season, providing the supplier can give him satisfactory service."

C. L. Burton Objects

"It is rather too bad that a Minister for the Crown should make such general statements, for they are quite wrong as far, at any rate, as our company is concerned," commented C. L. Burton, president and general manager of the Robert Simpson Company Limited. "It is to our advantage to see that our suppliers make a sufficient profit to pay decent wages, for if they did not, purchasing power would be cut and we would suffer."

J. S. McLean, president of Canada Packers' Limited took exception to Mr. Stevens' statements regarding low cattle prices resulting from the packing industry. Commenting briefly, Mr. McLean declared the remarks were "irresponsible and unfair."

"Mr. Stevens' charges are utterly without foundation," said Mr. McLean. He said Mr. Stevens had made a similar charge some time ago and that the matter had been put to the packers of the present position of the cattle industry.

SWEATSHOPS ARE ASSAILED

Mass Buying and Other Practices Will Ruin Economic System

Toronto, Jan. 15—(CP)—Hitting out at sweatshops, mass buying and nation-wide organizations that crush competition, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce told the annual convention of Shoe Manufacturers of Canada today that unfair and unethical trading practices might be the ruin of industry in general.

"I challenge the business men of Canada to name any trading and sale evils that have developed like cankers in the economic system," explained the Trade Minister, "and I warn them that unless these evils are eradicated they will destroy the system itself."

Among the "glaring abuses" were the following:

(1) The practice of mass buying and the use of this power in the distribution of the small retailer and the crushing of the manufacturer who will not accept price dictation.

(2) The extent to which the mass buying industry of Canada is responsible for the low price of beef to the farmer.

(3) The organization by the flour-milling industry of bread-baking subsidiaries of nation-wide extent, thus crushing competitors, or of forcing them into the purchase of flour.

(4) The practice of some clothing manufacturers who deliberately sell their products at prices which cannot pay for the goods with a fair remuneration to the worker and who are driving out of business scores of manufacturers who endeavour to observe decent business practices and respect minimum wage laws.

(5) Introduction of sweatshop practices in the clothing industry.

Another Strange Creature Makes Its Appearance in Tennessee Mountains

South Pittsburgh, Tenn., Jan. 16.—A mysterious animal as "fast as lightning" and like a "giant kangaroo" is spreading terror through the Hamburg community.

The creature first appeared Saturday night. It killed and partially devoured several German police dogs. The next night it killed other dogs and some geese and ducks.

Farmers are carrying their shotguns to the fields for fear of the beast and others are going about their daily work armed with pistols.

The Rev. W. J. Hancock, negro minister, saw the animal. He said "it was as fast as lightning and looked like a giant kangaroo running and leaping across the field." It had just killed a large police dog and had left nothing but the head and shoulders of the victim in the owner's yard. Frank Cobb also saw the thing. He said it was unlike anything he had ever seen but that it resembled a kangaroo.

A searching party tracked the animal up a mountainside to where the trail disappeared near a cave.

Bossy Falls on Boy Sleighriding as Attempt is Made to Go Underneath

The next time William Petill, 10 year old Enterprise boy feels the urge to coast under a cow with his heavy bob sled, he's going to remember what happened to him on Monday afternoon when he tried that difficult trick on a steep hill near his home in that village.

William was sleigh riding after school by the appointment of his friends and up and was preparing for another coast. A large cow wandered into the path at the bottom of the hill and William, after pushing off from the top with considerable speed, attempted to pass under her. Just as the sleigh reached the boy she stepped ahead and was knocked down on top of the boy. Besides a severe shaking up, and numerous bruises, William received a severe gash on the head from contact with the heavy sleigh. The cow was unhurt.

SUGGESTED AMENDMENTS

An odd situation has developed at Stratford where a resident who had been an alderman for years and was elected for the mayor, was forced to resign because for some property which he owns the city is paying rent on behalf of a man on relief. Steps are being taken to have the law amended so that such a man may be protected.

Certainly the law should be flexible so as to allow that ex-mayor to hold office. Does all his taxpaying of the past years go for nought and do all his services become wiped out because it happens that a man he has taken in as a tenant gets out of a job and is forced upon relief so that the municipality has to pay the rent (and a very small percentage at best at that) of which the city contributes only one-third)?

The situation is one which has arisen, of course, through the depression and may not arise again but still such an unfairness in the law is really of no advantage to the municipality.

Woodstock Sentinel Review discussing this comments also upon the law which penalizes a one-man business when the owner takes office in a municipal body, while the council member who is a member of an incorporated firm sees no interference with the usual flow of business to his company. This rule arises out of the intention to protect the municipality and other business men from unfair competition. Whether the law givers will change that remains to be seen though it does seem unfair that the incorporated business can carry on relations with a municipality, while an individual business man is penalized for many "get around" this law.

THE LAWYER AND THE DOCTOR

London Advertiser quotes an Edinburgh lawyer as stating:

"It was his interest that people should quarrel and litigate, it was his duty to try to reconcile them.

"It was his interest that crimes and disorder should abound, it was his duty to suppress such measures as would eventually stamp them out.

"It was his interest that deeds should be unintelligible and statutes confusing, but his duty to provide for every possible case and to use clear and exhaustive language in all the wills and documents he was employed to draw."

The Advertiser points out that the lawyer's position is not very different from that of the doctor who makes his living because there is illness but whose duty is to cure and prevent disease. The editor points out that the natural inference would be that the doctor's position will gradually become worse as diseases and ailments lessen the opposite is really the case, because quackery is being driven out. Of the lawyer he says that there is no conflict of interest because the man who gets the lawyer to draw a will or a deed is not usually the person who would profit by litigation or by obscurity.

The editor further notes that a lawyer who tells a client he has a bad case and had better settle is really the most trustworthy because he takes bad cases generally wins a reputation as a poor lawyer.

FLEET FLIGHT TO HAWAII

Something akin to the Balbo flight was the mass flight of U.S. planes from the United States to Hawaii, distance of nearly 2,000 miles. The U.S. fliers set a record, exceeding the Balbo flight's longest hop of 1677 miles from Newfoundland to the Azores and ranks third to the 1931 miles from West Afrlcn to Brazil in 1931.

Slowly the airways are developing and new accomplishments are being made.

CLOUDY JANUARY

Perhaps even while we sit in the darkness of clouded skies a new record is being made. January has a long list of days on which the sun has not shone and undoubtedly more will come. It is running up electric bills.

November is usually credited with being the dullest of all months and February gets a bad reputation for unfavorable weather and darkness.

Whatever days this month will deprive us of sunlight between now and spring, one fact remains—we know that the days are becoming longer and that spring is getting nearer by every dark day and every bright day.

Still in a winter made up of many changes, the unusual cloudiness is something to excite comment.

MYSTERY

How strange, when most we strive to see
Through changing veils of place and time
The world about with clarity.

To set life's jargon into rhyme
Whose measures like a pulse-beat flow
Through words that ring and chime.

Then most, the truths which we would know
Recede to far, untraveled lands
Wherein no mortal foot-can go.

Our seeking eyes, our groping hands
Clutch floating mists and empty air:
One truth we grasp; none understands!

Yet, even so, comes no despair:
Though years afford no chart, no key,
Life still is lovely, loved and fair.

The unknown girds us like a sea,
And we ourselves are mystery!

SEA SERPENTS and fresh water monsters are grabbing the Front Page now, Scotland leading by many laps with a prehistoric survival in a monster which is said to inhabit Loch Ness and come out occasionally to browse on some human or animal caught unaware on the bonnie, bonnie banks of Loch Ness. Scotland's monster is big and awesome and is authenticated by nearly two hundred people who claim to have seen it. Now, folks, as a rule, do not see pink elephants and prehistoric monsters on that potent brew which carries the breath of the heather and the smoke of the moorland peat fire—hence the Loch Ness mystery is receiving world-wide attention.

NOW IS THE TIME for all good men and true to come to the aid of the party, says Police Magistrate Mikel, who is boosting a celebration in honor of Belleville's one hundred years' progress from a Police Village. If Toronto is going to have a centennial, why not Belleville? Magistrate Mikel is generally prolific in publicity ideas—how about importing a sea serpent to play round the bay and perhaps a few smaller ones to disport under the Bridge Street bridge for the edification of motorists on No. 2 Highway, who would talk about it from Dan to Beersheba and back again. Just a suggestion, old chap—if the supply of sea serpents has run out perhaps John Ringling would find his famous sea elephant, now that he has to count his pennies.

SLOWING DOWN PREVENTED BY KEEPING WELL

Each And Every Individual is a Problem Unto Himself

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1934, Consolidated Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A person who is perfectly adjusted in every way is indeed a rare individual. Everybody needs more or less tuning up, that is like the adjustments made on automobiles so that they may run at maximum efficiency.

Our minds change from day to day. It is a mistake to believe that our mental processes remain static. They are markedly dynamic.

Circumstances, our work, the environment in which we happen to find ourselves, all change us. This constant change—usually so subtle that it goes unrecognized—creates the necessity for mental reactions that harmonize, if the individual would be contented and happy.

When we want to get the highest of a car, the mixture of gasoline and air in the carburetor must be just right and it must be fed to the engine in just the right way.

When we want to get the highest efficiency out of ourselves we, too, must develop the right mixture. Additions to the facts of life in a way that will not waste energy and that will place the least possible strain upon us.

Therefore we need exercise, recreation, play, reading, diversion, music, many mental exercises and stimuli, in order to keep a right balance in the mixture. Things grow old over and over again in the same way chokes and stops the mental mill. It is often as bad to work too hard and too fast as it is to work too slowly. On the other hand, working at topmost speed may be exactly what is necessary to get best results at the moment.

Then again, constant sticking to a problem does not necessarily bring the best results in the end. Often a rest period is what is needed.

Returning with a fresh mind, what seemed so baffling before, becomes as simple as two plus two.

Sleep is an absolute requisite to highest efficiency, yet too much sleep at a stretch is not the best.

The person who brags that he or she always goes to bed at the same identical manner, believes that regularity is important and is proud that he has discovered the fact.

Well and good! Practice does make perfect. Too much monotony, too can also make "imperfect." Too much practice leads to an automatic, mechanical type of existence that defeats its own end.

Practice with interest in what is needed. The practice, the usual way of doing something and in every now and again be modified to suit the changing conditions of the work as well as of the mind itself.

If a housewife always starts cleaning a room by moving all the furniture against the wall, she will start sometimes by moving the pieces into another room. Instead of irritate variety to a routine labor, it will enliven her interest and make her work more effective. Not fortunately, no rules and regulations can be laid down as to how to proceed and wanting the task which will make take them to be the top step. Too risky for their own car, the father pointed out.

"But, dad, why can't we go by train just once?" asked the boy.

"Now, what matter?" asked dad. "Don't you like the bus?"

"Sure I like the bus all right. But, dad, whenever we go any place we always take the bus or the car. Ang I've never been on a train in my life."

The surprised father did a little checking up.....and found it was so.

By-Election Caused by Death of Former Party Leader

Calgary, Jan. 16.—(CP)— W. Harry Ross, Standard Bearer of the Calgary Liberal Association, today filled the vacancy in the Alberta Legislature caused by the death of the Liberal party's leader, Alexander Lucas King, and the retired away from his nearest competitor in the Calgary by-election yesterday, Miss Amelia Turner, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation-Labor candidate, by a majority of 799 votes to her even 9,000.

Two other candidates, H. H. Starr, Progressive-Labor and C. F. Jamieson, Reconstruction, forfeited their deposits, having been eliminated on the second round under the proportional representation plan.

The victory left the Liberal Party's standing in the House unchanged at 11. The United Farmers of Alberta, which has 40 members in the Legislature, and the Conservatives, with five, fill the contest by-election. The total of 63 seats in the House is made up of seven more, four Independents and three Labor.

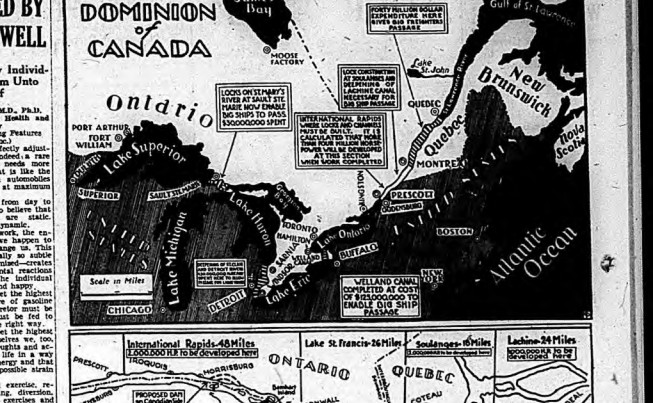
YOUR NERVES CONTROL YOUR HEALTH

Every organ and tissue in your body must receive its normal quota of life force from the nerves in order to function properly and maintain 100% good health.



Pressure upon nerves at the spinal column produced by misplaced segments diminishes the quota of life force, impairs the function of organ and tissue, hence disease.

A chiropractor can easily locate these misplaced segments and correct them. Thus removing the real cause of disease.

Our office is equipped to give the painless neurometer service and we use Dr. Spier's painless method of making corrections.

St. Lawrence Waterways Treaty May be Passed This Year

With the statement by President Roosevelt recently, and expressions of confidence from Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine for Canada, the St. Lawrence seaway, which will make possible navigation from the head of the Great Lakes to the sea, would appear to be nearing ratification by the U.S. government. The Canadian government will wait until such time as it has passed in Washington before placing it before the House. The treaty, already approved by both governments, calls for an expenditure by Canada of $22,000,000 with the United States paying $272,453,000. The total cost of the waterways has been set at $343,420,000. It is estimated that more than four million horse power would be developed from the international section on the St. Lawrence which would be one of the richest sources of income from the new seaways. Analysis of the work to be done reveals the probability that 15,000 men would be employed at the actual building of the canals, etc., and 40,000 employed in various other contributing industries. Canada has already spent $128,772,000 on her share in the enterprise, while the United States has spent only $14,461,000. Canada therefore has a total of $142,233,000 to her credit which $102,900,000 is to be borne by the provinces of Ontario and Quebec and would benefit by the hydro power developed. The rest cost to the Canadian government has been set, enlarged to allow big ship passage, therefore at slightly less than $40,000,000. The treaty was actually signed by Premier Bennett and ex-President Hoover in July, 1932. The actual passage across the entire scheme, the lower map showing the international section of the river where the greatest amount of development is needed. In addition, the locks at Sault Ste. Marie and the channels on the St. Marys and Detroit rivers must be dredged and CHANGING TIME.....

The boy who once yearned mightily to be a locomotive engineer now has a son who has yet to ride on a train. Time in whirling fashion has changed conditions on, and in the wake come other customs and manners for a growing generation to follow. Up on the east side of the city the other day a well known professional man was preparing for a business trip to Toronto. Accompanying him on the trip was his nine year old son. They were packing and awaiting the taxi which would take them to the bus stop. Too risky for their own car, the father pointed out.

"But, dad, why can't we go by train just once?" asked the boy.

"Now, what matter?" asked dad. "Don't you like the bus?"

THE STARLING—

Of late years the flop-winged starling has been reviled and cursed by agriculturists of the country who have also racked their brains for some sure means of controlling the alleged pest. Into this classification is now to be placed the excluded the bunchy little sparrow which is found frequently in company with the large, birds. But perhaps no better defense of the starling and the English sparrow exists than that printed in the Pennsylvania Game News. Conceding that at times they are a little destructive, the editorial publication says: "It is the old story of all created things. Very few creatures are wholly bad. Before we can pass judgment we must strike a balance to find whether we are better off with or without them." He states that after examination of the stomachs of thousands of birds of various species, made by the same commission, the starling was found to be one of the most useful to the farmer's best friend. with the sparrow a close second. So far and a single starling in the insect feeding season has been found guilty of an occasional Japanese cucumber, Mexican bean, Asiatic and Hawaiian fruit. Cut worms, grubs and countless other pests are grabbed by the starling's mill. After a dozen beetle bug grounded for a year, examination of a fresh batch of stomachs showed the feed had been the injurious clover weevil. Also, says the authority, do starlings ever drive away other birds. Starlings, robins, meadowlarks and doves were watched for months nesting within a few feet of each other with perfect amity. The only bird none would allow near was the brown thrasher.

DEVELOPMENT OF CHILDREN IS DISCUSSED

Mrs. Logie, Miss Templeton Address Home and School Club

Featured by addresses on the development of the child at the monthly meeting of the King George Home and School Club was held on Friday evening, Miss Scott the president, being in charge.

Miss Thompson's room won the pianists contest. At this meeting the two oratory competitors who were tied at the annual contest gave addresses to decide the winner. While both girls, Kathleen Riches ad Syrita Foster, acquitted themselves well, the former was adjudged the better.

A vocal solo by Mrs. Houston, accompanied by Miss Brown was greatly enjoyed.

The Topic of the evening, the development of the child, was announced by Miss Boyle and two speakers, Dr. E. D. Logie and Miss Templeton were introduced, who approached the subject from the angles of mental and spiritual development. Miss Logie gave her audience much food for thought and she presented her material in a clear, concise manner. The aim of education and mental development of the child is to enable it to become the best possible citizen, to be best fitted for making a living for himself and his dependents, to do his duty in regard to others, his favourably situated than his self; thus by his efforts to make the community a better place in which to live and out of this to get the maximum amount of real happiness.

The parents' duty is to provide as nearly as possible an ideal environment for the child, the intelligence to bear on the rearing of their children to help them as much accumulated knowledge as humanity study.

"Now the child a happy atmosphere in which to live the speaker advised. It is not to be the victim of cold or slap a child continually or busy in home or school activities. This has no good effect except to provide an outlet for the irritability of the parent. Avoid hasty action in punishment. Calmly consider the fault and its correction. Let the parental authority be firm and undivided. A child should never be encouraged on any aspect of training or think of one as a funny incident in the child's hearing.

Do not discuss the faults and virtues of a child in his presence. The child's realization is to be the development of self consciousness, an intelligent interest in personality.

Develop a routine from the infancy of the child. This solves many problems of behaviour and makes their adaptation to the discipline of school and later of character. Prepare the child for new experiences by discussion and emotional crisis may be avoided. To old children the speaker advised not to interrupt them when absorbed in anything unless absolutely necessary.

Miss Templeton brought out many interesting points in her inspiring address. Mothers, she said, have a divine opportunity in influencing children and helping them relate themselves to the world and events. Even if mothers feel that their child is limited in mind and vision, with God's guidance they can accomplish wonders. Develop a routine from the infancy of the child. Four Thousand Convicts

In 1920 there were 1,800 persons in Canadian penitentiaries, now there are 4,000, the prison population having been doubled in twelve years. In 1920 the net cost of maintaining these institutions was approximately one million dollars annually, now it is over three million annually, the lowest sentence is two years the average is six years.

One Hundred Years Old

Kingston penitentiary is one hundred years old having been built in 1834, sog it is one of the largest of Canada's several penitentiaries with accommodation for 700 prisoners, normally a prison population of 800 convicts.

Neat And Smoke Period

A clear description of the various buildings, cells and departments of the penitentiary was given by the speaker; these include the workhouse, carpenter, tailor, blacksmith, paint, printing, store and mail bag shops. The output is for use in this and other government institutions. In all these departments the men are fully employed. In some instances, said Dr. Bryce, the men may have smoking and chatting. Two rest and smoke periods are arranged for each day.

A Book a Day

Proceeding to the library a group of men were found busily occupied repairing books, cataloguing, etc. The books are housed in three library number thousands. Each prisoner may take out one book in addition each day, and two non-fiction each week. Some of the best magazines in circulation are available, and the librarian is a qualified and trained teacher. The Queen's High School Entrance, a year ago, is in full swing, there are 35 in twenty classes and all passed.

No "Athlete's Foot"

Change room and laundry were visited where the men have their baths, for showers baths, change clothes, shoes, and get their shave. A complete set of underclothing is provided each week. In the laundry there is a washer that there are no cases of "athlete's foot" among the men. Two wooden slats upon which the men stand when taking the shower baths are sterilized frequently.

At the prison hospital was found an operating room, clinic, cots, and the patients. The cots are in cells, similar to ordinary prison cells, but not in wards like city hospitals. The prison attends to the dental needs of members of the medical department of Queen's University.

"The Black Hole"

Cells beneath the ground level for confinement of unruly prisoners gave Dr. Bryce the impression that human beings being housed like beasts, a musty, smelly place, and the speaker said that in his view of punishment, for serious offenses, the man was not the beast, but the unspeakable offense, another had committed, and that the punishment in a fit of ungovernable temper. Three men were found in these dungeons, but in an attempt to organize a riot, Ten to twenty days is the period of these punishments.

Shooting and Laughing

"In the courtyard men were shouting and laughing as they playing baseball, others were pitching horseshoes, and other games were in progress," said the speaker.

In periods of thirty to forty-five minutes groups of men have their recreation and physical exercise.

"Hospital patients were walking in the courtyard enjoying the sun's rays one another. Out-of-door work was going on also. The prison has 1,200 acre hundred acres of land attached to the institution," said the speaker, "providing a pleasant interlude".

Paddle and Lash

"I saw the cell and new "paddle" and "lash," said Dr. Bryce, continuing. "The paddle is a long piece of leather attached to a stout wooden handle with little holes in the leather. The lash is six or seven strips of rope-like material attached to a wooden handle. Judges and magistrates sentence men to so many lashes, or so many strokes of the paddle. The prisoner is strapped to the paddle or the lash, but this is only done in extreme cases, according to the present warden, and where any other method of punishment would fail. The impression is that he did not know of a case where the lash or paddle was resorted with blood," or unable to walk to his cell."

Religious services, both Protestant and Catholic, are provided for in the chapel.

The Woman's Prison

A distinctly favorable impression was made upon Dr. Bryce at the Woman's Prison, there are no bars or less homelike air, quite different in its equipment and atmosphere from that of the men. There were thirty-five women in the prison from all parts of Canada," said the speaker, "and with few exceptions each woman has a little room of her own. Whereas the cells of the men are stark in their entire absence of anything of a refining nature. The women's quarters have an appearance almost of daintiness. The beds have white coverings, pictures are on the walls, photographs on the tables, surrounded by little knick-knacks. Small rugs, prison made, are on the floor. The women are engaged in kitchen work, in fancy work, sewing, and other useful employment. They may have books and magazines, as in the case of the men."

Baby Born In Prison

"During my visit," said Dr. Bryce, "a baby was brought on a visit to her mother. The baby was born, I understand, in the prison, and is now in the care of the Children's Aid Society at Kingston. Every woman with a cage is happy in the little child.

Two Life Tragedies

"One girl, there with a life sentence, stated, 'I have murder in my mind,' said Dr. Bryce. "In neatness of dress, manner and general appearance she will compare favorably with the girls in the offices and stores. In one room, surrounded by little evidences of love for pretty things from her friends, a woman of young girls. The mother of the girls, who occupied the room, is sentenced to life imprisonment."

Warden's Attitude

"In his conversation with me Warden Ponsford showed that he was deviden kindly and considerate attitude towards the men," said Dr. Bryce. "He had quite strongly the conviction the problem relating to his task. He is laying out for himself a course of study with the object of better understand more fully that part of his office which relates to the reformation of the prisoner. His responsibility to the public would, he said, be informed me," said Dr. Bryce."

"First, to keep them confined in the cells.

"Second, to take such measures in their treatment as will lead to their reformation.

In the work through the prison several institutes approached the warden with a view to interviews which were granted. "I believe that the attitude of the men to the prison warden is that of confidence," said Dr. Bryce. "He is approachable. He is a sympathetic dealt.

Dangerous Propaganda

"There is a new atmosphere in the prison," said the speaker, "I found evidence of it everywhere I know, brought about by some new influence. This is due largely through the personality and policy of the new warden. He has also been a very difficult one because of conditions he inherited. Moreover there is a feeling of unrest in the penitentiary each week, and they being news of the penitentiary regarding conditions in Kingston. Some of these reports are untrue and some of the newcomers that the warden is doing everything in relation from the prisoners to emphasize the need of reform."

Reform From Without

Reform must come from without as well as within, said the speaker, who said that crime has been reduced to a science. Criminals know when it is really a social disease, and when it is a matter for the department. Political appointments to prison boards, he said, are dangerous. Such grants are poorly paid and have too many positions to political ends, and are without scientific training which the position demands. Moreover there has been very little attempt at the classification of prisoners, he said. Attempts at intellectual and industrial training in the past have been inadequate, and the men have had little to do of a constructive nature. The men have gone insane in the dreary and deadening influence of the cells. Many suicides have been due to prisoners who have been driven insane through brooding over their families have had to beg.

When prison days are over many have become unfitted in mind and body for work. Others eager to begin life anew find that the most impossible to get it." Continuing Dr. Bryce gave some schemes have failed to arouse and interest public opinion on this question. To do so has been part of their responsibility in the Christian, said the speaker, and the churches the church's particular contribution to the problem of crime, a contribution has been appointed as other officers have been largely because of political influence.

Two Kinds of Justice

Much of the unrest in prisons is due to the discrimination of prisoners that the system of justice is not equitable, that political or other influences, favoritism and partiality, evidenced at times by a two years sentence for a minor offense, against only, while a man who stole thousands received no more. The relative ability of lawyers also enters into the case.

There is unrest, also, said Dr. Bryce, because the prisoners believe the Parole Board is influenced in its decisions. They think the prisoner who has political or social influence has consideration not granted to those without friends, and said Dr. Bryce, he thinks there is much belief has no foundation in fact?

Referring to the appointment for a Royal Commission Dr. Bryce referred to the report of the Royal Commission reported to the government in 1914 on the eve of the Great War, which swallowed up their recommendations. Another commission reported in 1920 on the state of change in government and that also many into the discard of forgotten things.

Brigadier General St. Pierre Hughes, Superintendent or Penitentiaries, in his annual reports, has made many recommendations, one of the most important calling for the segregation of prisoners. This led to the new prisons at Collins Bay and at St. Vincent de Paul created by valuable reports, said Dr. Bryce, with recommendations that are available and at the disposal of the government.

Personal public opinion calls now for whatever further action should be taken for the reclamation of the prison population of our country.

Recommendations

In conclusion Dr. Bryce, submitted for consideration of his hearers and the public generally his own conclusions on the subject, as follows:

1. Appointments on the staff of penitentiaries should be those of merit, not through political patronage.

2. Guards should go through a course of training.

3. There should be an advisory committee to the penitentiary to represent the public in its administration. To be one of such a committee should be to make recommendations to the Parole Board.

4. Educational and recreational facilities should be greatly increased.

5. Productive labor should be provided on a large scale and men with trades should be kept at their trades labor. I understand organized labor, Alderman Wooley and Mr. Bryce do not believe their opposition is well grounded.

6. Juvenile and first offenders should be segregated from older and more hardened criminals.

7. Mental cases should be moved from the penitentiary to the asylum.

8. The "dungeon" cells should be in a temporary, not in cells.

9. The "paddle" and "lash" should be abolished.

10. Greatly during, I submit that an examination into our judiciary costs of indictents to the municipality.

11. Abolish the system of political appointments.

12. Appealing for more sympathy and assistance for the unfortunates in penitentiaries, Dr. Bryce quoted the Bobbie Burns:

"There but wean yir brither man,
Still gentler sister woman.
Tho' they may gang a kennin' wrang
To step aside is human."

"As years pass by," said Dr. Bryce, "we condemn less and pity more. We come to understand better our own shortcomings. We learn, too, that violence breeds violence, and harsh and cruel measures do not reform. The whole trend of prison administration the world over is toward the reformative and away from the punitive. Let us remember, in the mind of the people of Canada, if all residents on that street were being made to pay their oiling bill. He stated that a petition had been circulated among the residents of the street but that the street was oiled. He paid his oiling bill but had been informed there were some on the street that had not paid and he thought it was only right that the council was going to do about it. Alderman Donahue informed the resident that the street was oiled and that a good job was done, all residents had been billed for their oiling and the money would have to be paid as requested against the property.

Standing Committees

The standing committees for the year were passed and the following will make up the personnel: Property Precident and Claims, Mayor Tice, Aldermen Woodley, Donahue, McCreary, Domenico, City Engineer Gallery and solicitor; Old Age Pension Board, Ald. Alderman, D. A. Bennett, Alderman Marshall, W. J. Hall, Arthur Wright and Mrs. Lyrell; Belleville Hospital Board, Mayor Tice, Alderman Wallace and Mrs. Lyrell; Representative on the V. O. N., Alderman Bert Sidey; Belleville Agricultural Society, Mayor Tice; by resolution from the Oshawa City Council the request for a delegation there was concurred in by motion of Alderman Donahue and Alderman McCreary moved that a rider be added to the by-law that the speed limit shall be lowered in accordance with the reduced cost of living." Alderman McCreary explained to the council that living was cheaper but that the costs of indicents to the municipality had not been decreased." There are other hospitals besides the general in Belleville to which we are paying accounts and I think there should be a general reduction in this charge," said Alderman McCreary.

An add will be run in the High School "Review" at a cost not to exceed $15.00. Tenders were received for a new adding machine and typewriter in the city clerk's office from the Toronto firms in the assessor's office. These were opened in committee and discussed and the following resolutions adopted. The tabled and passed by the council of the whole. A. B. Commercial Co. inch carriage, was purchased from The James Teets for $132.50 and the Remington now in use in the assessor's office. A new Underwood typewriter was purchased from Bills Stationery for $170.00 and a new adding machine at a cost of $60.00 and the machine now in use in the clerk's office was purchased from Laurie Levis. The recommendations were passed unanimously and were sponsored by Alderman Thomas Marshall, chairman of Market and City Property.

Granted Request To Breed

Ex-Alderman Harold A. Armstrong was appointed by by-law to fill the vacancy on the Board of Education occasioned by the resignation of Mrs. Angus McPee. A by-law to borrow certain sums from the bank for current expenses pending the time as the taxes are collected was duly passed. Alderman McCreary enquired of Chairman of Finance, Alderman Woodley and the Mayor if the manager of the bank had been interviewed with respect to the lowering of the rate of interest charged. "If such is not the case," said Alderman McCreary, "I wish to strengthen the hands of those who will no doubt seek a reduction in the interest rate on the current account. The Mayor and Alderman Woodley thanked Alderman McCreary for the assistance and informed the council that a conference would likely be held on the matter and the bank manager and they were glad to know the council were behind them in their efforts to get the rate of interest extending the time for the collection of taxes. Alderman Harker said there were no enquiries and no motions and the notice of the meeting was called. Present at the meeting were Mayor Tice, Aldermen Donahue, McCreary, Donahue, Foley, Brickman, Wills, Domenico, Cushing, Harker, Harker and Marshall, with Alderman Harry Hill in the chair for the committee of the whole and on by-laws.

SMALL BOTTLE CONQUERS MOTHER'S COLD AND BANISHES BABY'S COUGH

Here is just another instance amongst thousands that goes to prove there is "nothing like BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE" for coughs, or colds. But we'll let Mrs. Reid, of Lower Sackville, tell the story herself.

"Recently, I had such a cold I couldn't speak. I got a small bottle of BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE and in the course of days my cold had disappeared. My 18 months old baby developed a severe cold at night. I gave him a few drops of BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE on sugar. It stopped his cough entirely and now he sleeps the night through."

That is one great feature of Buckley's — you can give it to a baby with the same perfect safety as you can to a grown-up. If you have a cough, cold, or bronchitis, get a bottle of this remarkable remedy today—It acts like a flash—a single sip proves it. Buckley's Mixture is sold everywhere. Refuse substitutes.

"Arms and the Man," George Bernard Shaw's famous play, whose plot formed the framework for the equally famous musical comedy, "The Chocolate Soldier" is the Belleville Collegiate Literary Society's choice for its annual play.

"The scene is laid in Bulgaria. The settings and costumes are colourful and romantic.

At the beginning of the play, Captain Bluntschli, a fugitive Serbian officer, takes refuge in the home of a gentle Bulgarian girl, Raina Petkoff. She feeds the starving man chocolate creams, protects him from discovery and sends him away, disguised in her father's coat. The man who is sway fighting. In spite of the fact that Raina is engaged to the dashing young officer, Sergius, who has just defeated the Serbs she falls in love with the fugitive and slips his picture in her photograph on which she has written "Raina to her chocolate cream soldier." Some days later, her father and lover return from the war, and Bluntschli discovers that he is free to return the coat. All sorts of complications follow. The photograph is discovered in the coat pocket by the mystified father who cannot imagine who the "chocolate cream soldier" can be. However the mystery is finally explained. CALL 2200

WOMEN VALUE LOVE HIGHER THAN MEN DO

Love is an Integral Part of Woman's Nature

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Very seldom does it happen that a woman will admit she is receiving all the love and affection she craves.

By far and large, many women are heart-hungry. The men seem too busy to make love. They give too much attention to promoting their business or profession. Often their main object is the making of money.

Sometimes, indeed men will tell you that making love is absurd and silly. All the while, however, like wives, are overlooked, and the rest of the girls who have no one to care for them, are expected to stand by and to wait patiently until some "lord and master" finds it convenient to be attentive.

Am I exaggerating when I state the case this way? I think not. From what one hears I would be inclined to believe that I am under, stating it.

Nothing rouses love and affection. It is an integral and inherent part of their make-up. Hence it does not loved become morose and unhappy. Often they actually develop nervous disorders.

No woman can prosper and flourish as she should unless she is admired, courted and loved. To a woman the emotional life is more important than the intellectual, while to a man intellectual life is far more important to him than his emotional side.

What is why men belittle emotion, al expression. That is also the reason why they often feel downright embarrassed and — ridiculous when they show emotion.

But let us be very frank. For instance. Women don't mind it a bit. They rather enjoy it.

Men dislike appearing dependent upon someone. Women glory in such dependence upon a man they love.

Men don't laugh as much as women. Men do not display emotion so frequently as do women nor do they usually reveal the depths of emotion that women do.

Women almost live for emotional experiences. It is a never ending, amusing side line.

After the men shower upon women all sorts of luxuries they think their duty is done. But there is something else which they have had to choose, would not choose love and affection. That is the difference.

Certain coquette types would not care. Women of that type shift their affections quite easily. They lack stability. A man does not crave egotists. They think only of themselves.

But the regular she-woman is different. She coquettes only long enough to find a man who best brings out her feminine attributes and her maternity, her self-sacrificing tendencies. He becomes the adored and admirable lover. And by him she gives the deepest love of which she is capable.

And so with the lucky man, however. He still retains all the essentials of his manhood. He takes a lot, but so far as his emotional nature is concerned he gives up relatively little.

But it is up to the women to teach the men how to make love. In the last analysis, if women do not get love it is because they do not know how to give it.

DR. BISCH'S DAILY DIET HINT

Carrots are becoming popular as the result of the belief of many that they contain Vitamins A and C, but it has been found they are rich in "carotine" which is also found in runner, or mother, of Vitamin A. Carrots are the richest source as well as general health. They are excellent as a part of a reducing diet. They should preferably be eaten raw. In a salad either mineral oil or olive oil may be used. It is claimed the carrots ever help to cure colds.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

(Copyright 1934 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"In my senior year in high school I fell in love with a boy in my class, and he loved me too. I guess it was because we were both rather shy and not popular with the principal and the English teacher, who were surely a fierce pair. We had to take so much from these two that we must have fallen in love in self-defense, I guess and thanked the old crabs, because we really were so happy.

"Our problem was that my family is very poor, and my father drinks and raises rows, so I could never have the boy come to our house. He lives on the other side of the railroad tracks where all the high-toned people live, in our city, and we live on the wrong side of the track where all the poor people live.

"At the end of his freshman year in college he will very much in love with me, and it was then his mother pulled a fine deal on both of us. She invited me to lunch at their home.

"My clothes were dreadfully shabby, but mother (she's a darling) bought me a new hat and a nice pair of gloves and had my best dress cleaned. Well, Miss Fairfax, when I got there it was a great big, swell lunch of twenty girls, nearly all debutantes who got their names in the society column most every week. I nearly died.

"Some of these girls knew me by sight, because I had a very poor job round the railroad station—and did they high-hat me? Only one girl was nice to me, and I'd die for her any day in the week. Lord, it was awful, and I knew that from most of their own ground.

AUGUST OUSTS LEAFY JUNE

And April is Month of Most Deaths And More Births

The mouth of June, hallowed by custom as the most popular month for blushing brides and embarrassed bridegrooms, came in a bad sixth in this city during the year 1933, with the laurels going to the hot month of August for the largest number of happy weddings.

During 1933, also, you stood a greater chance of dying in April, while conversely June was the month of the least deaths during the year.

But if April led the months in number of deaths, it was more than counter-balanced by the fact that during the same months of April the largest number of births were recorded.

Belleville is also getting younger and healthier, according to the complete census of vital statistics for the year. During 1932* a total of 362 births, as against 221 deaths. Marriage for the year were totalled at 177. Deaths, it is shown, occurred mostly between the ages of 50 to 70 years, while between the years 10 to 18, only three deaths were registered. Infant mortality was fairly low during the year, indicated by the fact that 16 were stillborn and 17 died before the age of one year.

Births by the year were: Male 168; Female 194; Total 362.

Marriages: 1932-Total; 1933—177.

Deaths: 1932—262; 1933—221.

his had done the whole thing to make she wretched. Well, it had it to her; she succeeded!

"So I called up the boy, and told him I thought he'd better give me up. He was very square about it, and said he didn't want to, but I noticed a difference in his manner after he had seen me with those other girls.

"Well, I cry myself to sleep every night now, but I feel a separation was the best thing for us both. I'm a high school graduate, and I should love to have more education, as I realize that's the only way I can better myself. I don't want to marry beau an accountant or cashier, but what on earth is there for a girl in my position to do?

—Irene F."

I'm not going to hand you out any long-distance comfort, my dear child, which is so easy for people who have not been through your very real distress. But you've got your chance—one that your mother and grandmother never dreamed of having. If you want to overcome your education, the United States Government is willing to lend you a hand through the offices of the Emergency Education Program, which is part of the Emergency Federal Relief.

Get in touch with the city superintendent of schools, or the state superintendent of education—he may be the capital. Each state has worked out a different program, but all are pledged to help those who are anxious to help themselves.

Your letter shows that you are intelligent, and if you take the training open to you, I hope it is only a question of time before you are able to meet those snobbish girls on their own ground.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 16 (CP)—A wave of profit-taking checked the advance on the Standard Mining Exchange at the end of the first hour today, the senior gold shares showing the effect of unloading by traders who had purchased lower down. Trading was at a lively pace throughout the morning session.

In the senior gold group Dome took a net loss of 75 cents to $34.75, Lake Shore 75 cents to $45.50, McIntyre $1.25 to $41.50, Wright Hargreaves 5 to $7.20 and Teck Hughes was up 5 to $6.10, Hollinger also [illegible] a small gain.

Nickel moved actively and retained about half of the morning advance, selling around $22.75 at noon. Noranda lost 10 to $34.65 and Falconbridge at $3.25 was up. It developed later that they had merely acted on advance information that Washington was about to call a halt to the purchasing of gold on the London market. Losses in the group ran up to $1.50 by early afternoon.

International Nickel worked back to $22.50 and Noranda $34.50.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Financial markets hurtled profit-taking barriers at a fast gait today and, aside from a few stumbles, managed to hold fairly steady on a slippery trading track.

Many members of the speculative contingent were apparently unable to resist the temptation to cash in some of their gains of yesterday's sharp upturn. There was a renewed demand for a number of the rail and steel stocks, but elsewhere there was considerable churning. Secondary bonds again pushed forward.

Shares of Union Pacific got up 4 and Santa Fe gained 3 points. Other carriers up fractionally to a point or more included N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna and Illinois Central.

National Steel and U. S. Steel Preferred were up 2 each, American Rolling Mill 1 and U. S. Steel Common and Bethlehem were a bit higher.

In the Canadian list McIntyre and Dome dropped nearly a point each and International Nickel and Canadian Pacific yielded small fractions. On the curb Hiram Walker and Lake Shore mines were unchanged. Dominion Government Bonds were steady. The Canadian dollar was off ⅛ of a cent at $1.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 16—(CP)—Despite some profit-taking in the beer, distillery and other interlisted shares, gains far out-numbered losses at noon on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Trade was in heavy volume throughout the morning.

All the leading construction stocks forged ahead well, Cement Pfd. showing the way with a gain of 4 points to 49 1-2, Canada Cement Common was steady at $10.

The big interlisted issues moved higher in the first hour but settled back in the second. Nickel returning to $22.75 where it was still up 15 cents, and Brazilian unchanged at 13 1-4. Ford retained 3-8 of the morning advance, holding at 18 1-8. Smelters had a net loss of a point to 7.35 1-2.

In the distillery group Walkers was slightly off at 55 3-4, Industrial Alcohol dropped 3-8 to 18 5-8 and Distillers Seagram at 24 5-8 was off 1-8.

The market exhibited signs of exhaustion after yesterday's flare up and while the morning session was marked by some action on the up side, particularly in the steel, oil and construction stocks, profit-taking and the influence of a mild sell down on the New York Board gave the list a moderately weak appearance in the afternoon.

Distillery stocks and some of the beer issues were off under profit-taking but recessions in most cases were limited to fractions.

Ford A was outstanding in the day's operations, turning over in heavy blocks at a fractional advance.

ANNUAL REPORT OF FIRE CHIEF WILLIAM LYNCH

Fire Chief William Lynch submitted his annual report to the council at their session Monday evening. The report was read in its entirely at the request of Alderman Harry Hill, Chairman of Fire, who was in the chair, as he thought some of the members should know what was actually being done in the department. The usual data as regards loss and number of calls made were given and also some recommendations from the Chief that will probably be acted upon later in the year. The report is as follows:

Belleville, Ont., Jan. 8, 1934.

His Worship Mayor Tice and Members of the City Council
Belleville, Ont.

Gentlemen—

I beg to submit herewith a report of the activities of the Fire Department for the year ending December 31st, 1933.

The department responded to 162 calls during the year, classified as follows:

Dwellings 22; Business Places 9; Factories 1; Garages 1; Grass 23; Cars 15; Furnace 1; Oil Burners 2; Barns 2; Chimneys 30; Stove Pipes 17; Out of city 7; Miscellaneous 23; Gas 1; Hotels 1; False Alarms 3; Test Runs 4.

In responding to these calls the Department laid 17,500 feet of 2½-inch hose and raised 925 feet of ladder; also 100 feet of chemical hose. Chemicals used: Soda and Acid 200 gallons; Foamite 7½ gallons; Pyrene 1 quart.

There were 110 inspections made in the business district and most of the places were found to be satisfactory. We also filled 92 fire etinguishers for the merchants, facextinguishers for the merchants, fac-

Several fire drills were held at all the schools in the city.

There has been one accident to the Department during the past year. Two men were hurt and one truck was damaged considerably.

For the purpose of comparison of fire losses I submit the following:

1929—131 calls; Property Value, $1,017,140.00; amount of loss, $125,365.00.

1930—147 calls; Property Value, $805,376.00; amount of loss, $31,881.95.

1931—164 calls; Value of Property, $463,670.00; amount of loss, $18,645.95.

1932—125 calls; Value of Property, $465,700.00; amount of loss, $40,737.00.

1933—162 calls, Value of Property, $426,179.00; amount of loss, $32,429.00; insurance $308,710.00.

We had our most serious loss at McGie and Symons' Block, Front Street. This amounted to about $24,500. Had it not been for this fire our loss would have been around $8,000, which would have been exceptionally low.

The Water Works Department has given special attention to the Fire Hydrants and none have been found frozen or out of condition during the past year.

The members of the Police Department have given full co-operation at all times.

The use of tarpaulins which were purchased in the past year was a big help in keeping down the loss for the year.

As a means of strengthening the efficiency of the Department might I be allowed to suggest for your consideration the following:

The purchase of a Triple Combination Pumper of standard make which has passed the Underwriters' Test; the purchase of 500 feet of 2½ inch standard hose, 150 feet of 1¼ inches chemical hose for chemical tank, also 500 lbs. Foam powder for fighting gasoline fires. I would suggest to the Chairman of Water Works that he have several hydrants raised as they are a disadvantage to the department since they cannot be found when there is snow on the ground.

The Underwriters' report to which I would draw your attention is as follows:

1. The present alarm system should be changed so that all alarms would come direct to the Fire Stations instead of to the Police Station.

2. The Fire Chief should be supplied with a small car.

I would like to draw to your attention the property known as the Old Ferry House on South Front St: from which I understand there is no revenue derived. As it is most hazardous and in the centre of the gasoline storage district, I would recommend that it be torn down at once.

I should also like to recommend that there be no more gasoline pumps erected on the Front Street curbs and that a bylaw be passed to govern gasoline in the city.

In conclusion I beg to express my appreciation of the general co-operation and courtesy met with from all city officials and citizens of Belleville in assisting in the discharge of the duties of this department.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WILLIAM LYNCH.
Fire Chief.

Letters to The Editor

BOATMAN'S PROTEST

6 Strachan street,
City,
January 15.

To the Editor, Ontario Intelligencer,
Dear Sir,—

With reference to the report of Yacht Club in last Wednesday's issue of your paper, reprinted from the Toronto Star'

Don't you think that was a little hard on the men and youths of this city who worked so hard during the summers of 1932 and 1933 to revive the sailing interest in this district, to read that a sailing club will be started this year, as much as to say, that their efforts were nothing. Then again I wonder what Ralph Boulter, Maurice Callaghan and Matt Weir thought when their boats were referred to as "scows" also the builders of the smaller boats. Then again "King" Rogers, Capt. Watson and the committee, I wonder what they thought when reading that their races were run catch-as-catch-can, go-as-you-please affairs. No doubt there are a lot that can be improved upon, but instead of ridiculing our efforts why not these people come in and help or if they cannot give a boost, quit giving bad knocks, as it appears from the Toronto write-up, that several must have been given, Lou Marsh didn't dream them.

May I say here, that if a separate Yacht Club is formed in the district, the sailing section of the South End A.C. will be ready at all times to co-operate and help it along or better still, they will be willing to amalgamate. There is one objective of the S.E.A.C. and that is to help amateur sport in this district. If this can be done, then the members of this club are satisfied but anything in the way of knocking another club is taboo with us, and we don't expect it from them either.

Yours faithfully,
Charles J. Jeffs,
Secretary-Treasurer,
S.E.A.C.

EXTRACT FROM STATUTE READ

W. C. Mikel, K.C., Addresses Y's Men on Early Life of City

At the meetings of the Y's Men's Club at the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening, Magistrate Mikel gave an address on some early history of Belleville. He read an extract from the Statute that was passed on the 6th of March, 1834, incorporating Belleville as a Police Village, which was as follows:

Chapter XXIV

AN ACT to establish a Board of Police in the Town of Belleville.

(Passed 6th March, 1834)

WHEREAS from the great increase of population of the Town of Belleville, in the Midland District, it is necessary to make further provision than by Law exists for the internal regulation thereof: Be it therefore enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and assembled by virtue of and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, entitled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign entitled "An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of the Province of Quebec in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province," and by the authority of the same, That there shall be in the said Town of Belleville a Board of Police, to be composed and constituted in the manner hereinafter described, which shall be, and is hereby declared to be, and is Corporate and Politic in fact and in law, by the name of the "President and Board of Police of Belleville," and by that name they and their successors may have perpetual succession, and be capable of suing and being sued, impleading and being impleaded, in all Courts and in all actions, causes, and complaints whatsoever; and may have a common Seal, and may alter the same at pleasure and shall be in law capable of purchasing, holding and conveying any Estate real or personal for the uses of the said town."

Reuben White Was Member

At the time this Statute was passed, James Hunter Samson, the first lawyer to practise in Belleville, and Reuben White were members for the Constituency of Hastings and Northumberland.

Before this Statute was passed Belleville was a mere unincorporated hamlet, the name having been changed from Myer's Creek to Belleville in 1816 when James McNabb was member of the Legislative Assembly for the County of Hastings and the Township of Ameliasburg.

Among those early residents who took part in selecting the name were Captain McMichael, James and Simon McNabb, Roswell Leavens, William Wallbridge and S. Nicholson.

Margaret Simpson who kept the first tavern in this section of the Province exerted a considerable influence upon the development of Belleville in the early days. She was a woman of strong character. The first Masonic Lodge met in the Tavern. Social gatherings were held there, also Courts. It is said that the late Right Honourable Sir J. A. Macdonald when a young lad paid a visit to the Simpson Tavern with his parents on a number of occasions and some even say that George Washington who knew the Simpson's before the war also called at the tavern on the occasion of a visit incognito to this country. Lieutenant-Governor Gore of Upper Canada also stopped here. General Hull, the United States Commander at Detroit who was captured in the War of 1812 and taken prisoner to Montreal also stopped here on his way down with his escort after having been captured by General Brock on the 16th of August, 1812. General Brock is said to have stopped at the old tavern on his way up to Detroit when he captured General Hull and three thousand United States soldiers.

Helped Abolish Slavery

It is also said that Margaret Simpson exerted considerable influence in the support of the abolition of slavery in Canada which was abolished in 1793, seventy years before the slaves in the United States were freed. She also used her influence effectively in helping to bring about Constitutional Government in Canada which was introduced in 1791.

The speaker suggested that on the evening of Tuesday, March 6, next, that an old time fancy dress ball or entertainment be held at which some of the well known early characters of the village and the Province might be represented.

With President Earl Boyd in the chair Alex Gordon supplied the musical programme of the evening.

Cities Service and Hemlocks Battle to 2-2 Tie in First Game of City League Finals

3,000 Excited Fans Watch Brilliant End to End Playing

LOCALS OUTLUCKED

Claim Second Goal of Hemlocks Scored After Play Stopped

After battling seventy minutes in one of the fastest and most thrilling games yet played in the Kingston city league the Belleville Cities Service pucksters were out-lucked when they were forced to accept a two to two verdict in the first game of the final play-off in the Kingston city loop played at the Jock Harty arena before nearly three thousand rabid and hostile fans last evening. No quarter was asked or given during the entire seventy minutes with terrific bursts of speed by both teams participating, reigning supreme to thrill the fans filled to over-flowing arena. Both clubs opened hostilities travelling at top speed never open to relinquish their offensive attack as play raged and swept up and down the ice, both individually and in rather poor condition, showing patches of wear and making the carrying of the puck most difficult at some points.

Manager Dudley trotted out his regular team intact with Earl McDonald and Jerry Bradd defending Les Tice. Figuratively speaking the two-giant stoppers themselves with glory when Bradd starred in the early second period by saving what Earl McDonald rose to heights defensively as the game progressed. As usual Bradd, with his stumbling block to the Hemlock forwards with his accurate saves, had the brought rounds of applause from a hostile crowd. Of the starting Hemlock line, Roy Covert stood out head and shoulders above his team mates in his out-play and out-stick handle all players to appear in either uniform. His efforts were thoroughly appreciated while his playing was nothing but phenomenal as he swept in, around and fro to eclipse all efforts of his opponents. Harry Nicoll supplied the bulk of the play for the second line with Jerry Bradd also playing a most steady game to an advantage. One incident to mar the local's defence occurred in the second period when Pete Morgan sustained a severe cut over his left eye from a flying skate as he fell. The wound soon was closed and Morgan returned to the ice to assume the offensive. The local wing players kept Peterson and Patterson well in check throughout.

Gowsell Starred

For the home team Bill Gowsell in the nets turned in a sterling performance and was capably supported by Howard Murray. The front line of Mathison, Peterson and Patterson was smart throughout with Carl Peterson, the ex-Newmarket junior starring for the light blue and Thurlby and Mathison looked the best of the alternates used.

The Play

Belleville lost the toss and the choice of ends. Patterson opened hostilities by testing Tice from close in but the local goalie brushed the rubber aside. Both teams were travelling at top speed as play raged continuously up and down the ice. After five minutes of play Bradd broke away, passing to Nicoll at the Kingston blue line, the local centre slotted left and tore in on the unprotected Gowsell to ride the rubber past him into the lower left-hand side of the net. The play was undoubtedly the outstanding feature of the night as both Bradd and Nicoll timed their plays perfectly in the early stages of the second period both goalies were called upon to stop continued onslaughts as the teams continued at their break-neck clip. Half way through the period, Fred Bentley raced down the centre, hit the defence and shot as he was tripped by Earl McDonald, the puck going into the upper left hand corner of the net. Arguments followed when the local team objected to the goal being allowed on the grounds that the referee's bell had sounded for the trip before the puck had gone into the net. Eventually the goal was counted and McDonald took a rest in the "goose pen". Four minutes later Bradd was camped in front of the Kingston net and rifled Roy Covert's pass-out into the net to make the score 2 to 1 for Belleville. The homesters were two short after the play when Robert Mathison and Bentley to the penalty box. Although the locals pressed hard and kept the play entirely inside the Kingston blue line for two minutes, they failed to score in the most hectic two minutes of hockey seen this season in Kingston. The third and tying goal was undoubtedly of the flukiest nature. Wilson carried into a corner and as he passed the puck out to a team mate the rubber caromed off Tice's stick and dribbled into the net, much to the surprise and chagrin of the "opponent". Both goal tenders finished the period handling seasonable shots saves to thrill the 3,000 fans present. The overtime saw cautious hockey being played by both teams, however.

10 BOUTS ON AIRPORT CARD

Proceeds to be Used For Camp Comforts For The Men

The first boxing card of the year at the Trenton Airport will be held on Thursday, January 18th. Trainer W. Adams believes in starting the year out right and has arranged ten high class bouts, each bout a slow in itself. The entire vicinity has been combed for boxers to match up with the Project boys. Several new faces will be seen on the card. Boys from Campbellford, Brighton, Colborne and the course, several from the S.E.A. Club.

A month's lay-off, instead of harming the boxers at the Port, has rounded them into fine shape. Trainer Adams has been working out his boys each night and is no easy man to please. Consequently we expect certain thrills in the feature bout of the many previously held. Some of the men on the card are: Howard Cole, who will be seen in action again after a two month's lay off due to a broken hand. Cole still packs the dynamite in his left and has trained faithfully for his go with W. Furgus who is well known in and around Picton. The Cherry Valley boy is now invading Hastings County and feels confident he will add this bout to his laurels, while Cole is all set to score his fifth straight win. Bill Gilbert, Howard Wheeler, ... will be seen in action again and with him it is real action. He will meet, Han. Brown of Brighton, who holds the bantam weight title of Eastern Ontario. This bolsters main interest, when the Little Giant goes into action. This bout has been arranged, especially for the fans who have been clamoring Bill Adams to see Wheeler box again.

One of the most colorful bouts of the evening will be the one between John (Sunfish) Anderson of Colborne, by Paddy O'Connell. No introduction is needed for Anderson, who has been associated in Sporting circles in Trenton and Belleville for the past fifteen years, baseball, hockey and last but not least, boxing. Sunfish admits he may be getting on the age, when mags can sit back and brag about their deeds. But Joe, with Anderson, in the ring is still as good as those younger men in the age, when mags can sit back and brag about their deeds. But Joe, with Anderson, in the ring is still as good as those younger men in the ring. Joe is going somewhere over tuilop. Paddy doesn't care to talk odds on this one. Some believe it's not safe for an Irishman to try and win on points, so I knock it out. O'Connell has had a varied ring career, boxing in India, ... in India, while with the Imperial Army.

Art Angell meets Bill Crawford again after having fought him to a draw at the Kiwanis Carnival in Belleville last winter. Both these boys are anxious to settle the question and it has the earmarks of a real Anrell of a bout.

BASKETBALL

The first game of the house-league at Albert College was played last evening, Rathbun's defeating the winners of the rugby at the College, bowed to defeat at the hands of Rathbun's 24 to 19.

It was a fast game in which both teams were evenly matched. The half time score was 9-8, in favour of the losers. In the last half Al. Bishop found his canny eye for basketing and registered 3 baskets to give his team a hard earned victory. The stars of the game were Macfarlane, Driscoll and Roland for the Bensals and Bishop, Al. Bishop and L. Day for the Wildcats.

Line-ups:

Wilcats—Macfarlane, C. Driscoll and Summers, Forwards; Roland and Grahl, Guards. Subs, McDonald and Greene.

Bengals—Al. Bishop, C. Warint and Day, forwards, Barnard and Hodder, guards. Subs, B. Lane and Bishop.

Referee—Bishop and Dunnington.

UP AGAIN — By Jack Sords

Leafs Lead in All Departments at Half Way Mark of N.H.L.

Has Best Marksmen, Most And Least Penalized Player

Toronto, Jan. 16 (CP)—The cold, cold figures which come from the office of President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League permit you to lay down the superlatives at the halfway mark in the two-division race like this:

The strongest team in the league is Toronto Maple Leafs.

The best marksman is Charlie Conacher of the Leafs.

The most-penalized player is Red Horner of the Leafs.

The least-penalized player among the top scorers is Joe Primeau of the Leafs. He hasn't been penalized at all yet.

Leading all defencemen in point-making is King Clancy of the Leafs.

The Leafs have won more games than any of the rest, scored more goals, lose fewer than any other Kingsmen and have the cold figures.

The fun of it all is that when these Leafs have paraded into the league playoffs in March, having accomplished all these stirring feats, they will be the Stanley Cup team with five other teams that shuffled up to the real starting point with much fine commending. It has been established that these five are highly over-rated along in March.

Then the early successes have not all belonged to the Conn Smythe-Dick Irvin brigade. Some high-class doings have been taking place elsewhere to make up for some surprising flops.

Other Features

Some of the features, bright and otherwise:

Earl Roche's fast getaway in goal getting with Ottawa Senators that seems to have winded him on the back stretch.

Charlie Gardiner's superlative goal tending for Chicago Black Hawks. In 34 games he had permitted 48 goals. Andy Aitkenhead of Rangers, is next, having allowed 39.

The brilliant work of the freshmen from Niagara Falls, Max Kaminsky and Cecil Dillon, with Ottawa.

The fact Howie Morenz has scored only six goals in 35 games.

Little Rabbit McVeigh's smashing rise to prominence for the Leafs as American in his 12th, big league season.

The slump of Boston's Bruins, not a very strong outfit at all without Eddie Shore.

The mediocrity of the Cook-Boucher line of Rangers and the brilliant Bill Cook's drop from the heights.

Johnny Sorrell's first-month scoring spurt which appears to have been well stopped.

Chicago's spirited campaign with Gardiner and Lionel Conacher playing the starring roles.

The very ordinary work of Dit Clapper, once a defence ace, and Ace. He used to rack up goals four at a time. So far he has counted two this season.

"Bill" Cook Would Vote Leafs as All-Star Team of N.H.L.

Have Everything Says Brilliant Right Winger of Rangers

By George Maguire, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Jan. 16 (CP)—If William "Bill" Cook were a sports writer and asked to vote an all-star team of players from the National Hockey League at the season's halfway mark, his selection would be:

"What's the use," said the captain and high scorer of the Rangers when "doing a lot of poring over the records when you have a team like that. They lead the league in everything—the best man and Joe Primeau's way you look at it, for the season is individual games. And then, too," he added with a grin, "Horner's the best man and Joe Primeau's got a good chance to take the Lady Byng trophy for clean play.

"Of course," Bill proceeded, "I don't mean by all this that the Leafs are going to walk away with the Stanley Cup. I think the Rangers are going to have something to say about that before they let it leave the Garden."

The elder of the Cook Brothers, a player who has been chosen right wing on Canadian Press all-star teams since their inception, was then the game's most-valuable player on the Leaf squad.

"Hmm," grunted the Ranger star as he stroked his chin thoughtfully. "I'm going to let Joe Primeau, who will say this much though young Harvey Jackson is the greatest left wing in the league. I pick him over Joliat (Aurel Joliat, Montreal Canadien star) because Jackson is younger, 23, and bound to get even better. Joliat like myself must help but start slowing up a bit before long. There is no doubt, Joliat is the trickiest stickhandler but Jackson can backcheck with the best and what is more he is a player who can and does score goals. He has size, speed and weight, he gets the call."

KI-Y LOOP

With the return of colder weather two games of hockey were played in the Ki-Y-M-C-A league at Queen Belleville Arena last evening. The games had been previously scheduled but owing to inadequate weather conditions were postponed. In the first game Cories of the Red Wings and the Continentals played a five all tie, with no overtime being played. Dot Lee, possibly filling the duties of referee. In the midget series the Red Wing midgets downed the Nationals by a 3 to 2 score with Bill Storms acting as the official. Both games were keenly contested and taking into consideration the lack of practice afforded the players, the ice at the Belleville arena is in excellent condition for skating at present necessitating the playing of Ki-Y league games every evening this week, previous to the usual starting period.

Current Sport

Day By Day

Up in Trenton they are bewailing the fact that tonight's intermediate O.H.A. game has been postponed. Apparently those calm men behind the "black and white" clad outfit are supporting the motto of a squawk and blow off a lot of steam yesterday.

According to what information we could gather in the case all clubs in the group agreed to postpone any group game, that is, interference with the Kingston and Belleville city loop. Apparently the Trenton fans forgot their promise which included one all gives until the home-and-"Oilmen" agreed not to use Les Tice in the group this season. Trenton, Campbellford and Cobourg all bonded together, when the locals were admitted into group No. 2, and protested the use of Les Tice by the locals. Manager Patterson agreed not to use Tice in group games if in return the clubs concerned would postpone any games, that might interfere with the Kingston City League play-offs. All left the group meeting satisfied, so why all the bellor from Trenton now. Of course if Trenton wish to retract their promise then Manager Patterson reserves the right to use Tice, whenever he pleased.

Manager Eddie Thomas had enough junior material at his initial practice of the season to enable him to assure the local junior club of sufficient strength, if not quality for 1934 O.H.A. competition. The youngsters will work every night this evening and on Wednesday in preparation for their opening game versus the Hastings-Norwood-Campbellford amalgamates here Thursday. When such a large number of aspiring youngsters turn out for practice it is hard to say who deserved last evening, the future of the game is in safe hands according to this community. Even players from outside O.H.A. representative limits were on hand to battle for a position on the local junior club.

After an absence of two year from the O.A.B.A., the Belleville Y.M.C.A. cagers returned to provincial basketball circles and make their initial local appearance Wednesday night versus the strong R.M.C. intermediates, while the local junior Y.M.C.A. representatives, the Deacon A.C., battle the R.M.C. juniors in the other of the hostilities. Basketball is fast becoming a major sport indoor sport with two intercollegiate teams in competition along with the two O.A.B.A. teams. In the Bay of Quinte basketball group this year are junior and senior teams from Trenton H.S., Picton C.I., Albert College and Belleville C.I. and V.S. Coach Geo. Laughlin is quite impressed with his local school cage teams, both junior and senior being of the high-est type of calibre.

We are laying a small wager to the effect, that within two weeks the Oshawa "Imp" juniors will be strengthened by the services of Morrison and Lamoreux, who have been repeatedly refused cards by the O.H.A. We are not at liberty to say, as yet, our informants from but, if it be so, the "Imps" will be the team to beat for the junior O.H.A. title, 'tis safe to wager.

After staging a hectic seemly climax contest in the case of 3 to 2 neither the local Clifes Service or the Kingston Hemlocks were much further ahead at the end of hostilities down in the Limestone City last evening. Judging from the number of fans reported, local fans have been played in the Kingston loop this season they should change their attitude and call it the 'extra-minute loop."

Both teams traded strictly to the "Hockey" game last night with only one flare up throughout that sixty minutes. Manager Murray decided to take "Red" MacDonald out of the game after the latter's mix near the Kingston net. A small riot occurred without no particular damage being reported, but Red Murray was banished so was Mac-Donald. Earl McDonald is the mainstay of the local contingent. The "secret top" of the Kingston team was referred to as a peace-maker during hostilities as he was "thumbed out," so that's that.

Captain Les Tice still swears by all that's good and righteous that he was "robbed" when the first penalty was notched after the referee's bell had sounded. Referee Smith ordered Bentley as he shot and the question was settled by the bell sounding before the play was completed? Nevertheless, it was the opinion of the official ruling was right and proper but, the Kingston players took exception to the goal was scored. "Oh! for the life of a hockey referee."

FIRST DEFEAT IN 3 STARTS

Madoc Downed by Campbellford in Clean, Fast Game

Madoc, January 16 (Special)—Madoc juniors suffered their first defeat in three starts when Campbellford stepped into Madoc and defeated the locals by a score of 5 to 3. Only 7 penalties were handed out. The first period was close with Campbellford scoring the only goal of the game when West interfered with Lambert's shot and Nickle was unable to stop a bouncing puck. Only one penalty was given in this period. Akey being put off for boarding Holmes who crashed into the boards and was knocked unconscious. The second and third periods produced little good hockey, Campbellford resorting to a defensive game while Madoc could not get organized. Alexander skated all over but was not able to score. Akey and Armstrong show that they are slipping too much hockey and were not able to get going. For Campbellford Bush was the most effective player but Boy Green in the net played a marvellous game, stopping shot after shot and making seemingly impossible saves. No mistake could be laid to given the Campbellford goalie.

PRE-GAME PREDICTIONS

By The Canadian Press

A slipping Ottawa team that hasn't won a game in two weeks—since they humbled Montreal—are on the spot tonight along with two high-riding United States clubs that, at the moment, possess distinct possibilities as Stanley Cup prospects.

Senators, striving to start a winning streak that will keep them in competition for a play-off berth, seemed likely to possess that answer when they meet the Chicago Black Hawks at the Ottawa auditorium. Boston Bruins, leading the International Section, and the League's leading scorer, is out of the game with boils.

New York Rangers and Chicago both feel the necessity of a win tonight, they are tied at the top of the United States division standing. When Rangers play Americans in New York they'll be keeping one eye on the result of the Hawk game against Canadiens in Montreal.

Canadiens, who have seen their lead over third place teams dwindle to the four points that separate them from Maroons, probably will have taken a crack at Boston Bruins lately. Playing in the Ruin, the Frenchmen will be out to edge up closer to Leafs and at the same time rank Bruins farther into the United States section cellar.

$500.00 Purse for Aurel Joliat When He Plays His 500th Game

By Central Press Canadian

Montreal, Jan. 16—If Aurel Joliat of Les Canadiens plays every game on his team's schedule between now and February 8, on that Thursday, he will have played his 500th game for the famous Flying Frenchmen of Montreal.

Joliat, mighty midget of hockey is only sixteen by his fellow-wingers, dubbed the "Old" hockey's parade of the stars.

That is his thirteenth consecutive season with Canadiens, and if affiliating he is playing better this season than ever before. One seldom picks up a report of a Canadian game without reading that Joliat was one of the stars. He gives his all, and takes the knocks without a whimper.

Born in Ottawa 32 years ago, Joliat is one of the smallest players in the big time game. Only five and a half feet tall, he weighs in comfortably about 130 pounds, stripped. He did weigh more. In fact when he first broke into hockey he weighed 135, but those strenuous play-off games with Victoria Cougars, way back when, took off a few pounds and he has never been able to make it up.

Known as one of the cleanest and gamest players in the game, Joliat is nevertheless one of the greatest stick handlers in the National League. Because of his weight, he is forced to rely on his speed, stick-handling and shooting to keep out of the way of the big fellows.

He is a marvel. The big fellows see him coming, get set to clean a body check, and Joliat is gone. Before they can, he fades away, to be seen again skating around them.

This is the man who, when he plays his 500th game will be honored by the other teams of the league with a purse of $500, a collar for every game he has played in to the final man in hockey ever to have compiling such an amazing record.

And at the rate he is going, Joliat will reach the five hundred mark when he plays his last game for Les Canadiens.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

CHAPTER 1

Proximity, that matter of unromantic crowding, or a need to bow down some idol, often starts an upset that makes a scramble for a bride's bouquet. At least that is the sentiment with Geoffrey Field because by her brushing his elbows as a child and later hazing, then, by other temple.

She was a lusty little piece when she first knew him, with nothing between her and nature but a heavy screening of ugly ducklings. Geoffrey, six and a half years her senior, hailed "all the kids" of the charmed dancing school that his mother made him attend, and especially "the little ones". Chilly Ann, yes, was a very little one, but she was not too little to genuflect before an idol. The feminine attendants at Miss Michard' school of dancing collectively worshipped Geoffrey who had been expelled from a conservative prep school for fisticuffing his chief rival in studies, sports, and had done other unforgivable things.

From night Chicky prayed, and evidently, that Geoffrey would dance with her, "next Saturday, if you haven't anybody else". Chicky had never have danced with her, if two other little girls had not been "mean to her" several days in advance for fair play cause him to stoop.

To Chicky's mother, who had come to take motherhood most casually, after a first, fierce rebellion against it, Chicky talked with an intensity that mystified her. Geoffrey was having a "yellow dress with ruffles on it" the little girl whom Geoffrey danced with was having a yellow dress with ruffles on it, too. Chicky's mother was not the sort of person who looked for the tender roots of a request, or who would know, indeed, that such may exist.

"A. yellow dress!" she echoed sonnedly, as Chicky made the request for perhaps the thousandth time, across a stricture of throat. "Dear child, you'd look like a soft boiled egg! Utter pallor and sandstone-gray! No, and don't bother mother now! You funny little thing—I don't know why you didn't get my looks!"

"Yvette, who served Chicky's mother her coffee and toast, and they made her say, "She with be salty beautiful soon day!" the child, "Mrs. Geoffaby," she told "them" often in the kitchen and with many resentment, and she wondered with the rest of the kitchen, what would come to Chicky who knew almost none of love and too much of her mother's company (except Mrs. Lathby Eden and Mrs. Brant Sewall, Chicky's mother had been known she was Mrs. T. Clyde Archer, and sensed often before Chicky at meeting friends who had not kept pace with her marriage and who hailed her by the name of a man whom she had discarded—as easily as she would discard a new fur or a frock that no longer "quite pleased." Chicky listened to these lists, her deep, violet eyes wide, her lips level. "Such a sober child!" Mrs. Archer complained, her brows raising for her second dismay! "I can't understand the child!" She feared she confided further to her and Mrs. Sewall, but Chicky would "go in for spirit or something equally dreary, you know!"

Each week Yvette took Chicky to see Miss Ellen, Chicky's father's sister, who disapproved of divorce, and remarriage and the first brother's wife; and the latter quite naturally, for Chicky's mother had confidently what the divorce had done to her brother, who was dying his wife decided Chicky would "go in for spirit or something equally dreary, you know!"

Miss Ellen Chicky listened to lectures upon "one's duty to life", which incorporated the edict that one must, married, remain married. And even at ten Chicky sensed the whole-heartedly.

"Life, of course, is what we make it, Ann, sweet dear, that's a very sweet little frock!" Miss Ella might remember, and then would smile and then suddenly she would pat her small hand or shoulder. Miss Ella's wandering in bypaths amused Chicky, who from a tiny child had revered a thought as a beagle follows a scent, but she did not want to be patted by her aunt when her aunt did not intend to be witty. And her being amused at the beneficial brashboard she a tenderness that said, "I do love you," she would say, from no more than having wanted to smile. Her feeling of apology drew into the open her love for her aunt, while her loyalty to her mother made her wince at Miss Ella, too obviously, tried to "instill some kind of ordinary or pert decency in the poor child!"

Quite naturally, at ten, she was unnaturally mature. Her mother had never treated her as a child; her aunt, in her effort to combat what seemed to her unnatural in Chicky as she would an old lady; and Chicky's devotion to Geoffrey Field added a good number of her mental years.

Albion Carter Marshall, too, made his impression upon Chicky to add a layer to her unnatural maturity. He had been a close friend of her father and he knew the qualities that had been Chicky's father's. Huge traits that had been suppressed from Chicky by the stricture of circumstance. "Poor little devil!" he thought often as she perched on his knee in order to have close connection with the human machine that broadcast fairy tales. "And, by the by, it is usually some man who makes the feminine quicker of age believe in magic! 'Poor little devil!'"

Albion had no manner of use for Chicky's mother; he knew what she had done to Chicky's father, and thus, what she had done to Chicky's mental fabric. And whether Chicky's mother would make Chicky assume the burden of motherhood, or disregard of life and others' rights in the end, he could not say.

Small Chicky seemed to have designs of a sort that pleased him and he did his best to strengthen them.

"The thing is, Chicken, to see a thing through, no matter what you have to do. Understand?"

"Yes, Uncle Albion."

"That's the girl! You do that and, horse or human, you get a blue ribbon. Sometimes it doesn't show but you know you're a thoroughbred and that's what counts. Follow me, Chicken?"

"Yes, Uncle Albion."

Albion Carter Marshall's methods were not the simple ones of Miss Ellen. She thought Chicky that he was telling her that marvelled, and dazed that it did not appreciated his veiling the critical point of her conduct. I love you!" she said often to him. And always grew anxious when her eyes met, as he answered the child's confidence to that. Chicken, I love you!" Albion's relationship which but occasionally sometimes between Chicky and himself. Chicky almost told him of her love for Geoffrey Field. Her soul wanted to and most frightfully, but she was afraid. And even Uncle Albion might laugh so many people laughed at her, to make her blush, grow awkward and shy.

After it happened she did confide and a hashed, "Oh, Uncle Geoffrey Field! She simply couldn't keep that in!

She had danced with him because Geoffrey stood with a lot of boys who were near "The girls". (A story of getting male tip on "The girls"). Chicky was seated next Geoffrey and she knew full heaven as he walked upon the bow of her pasteboard slippers.

"I wonder whether it will always hurt to be so happy," she thought, who was too young to know the blend of ecstasy and pain.

A summary of that afternoon and her question was to follow her and gossing impressions may if delicious or keenly applicable.

"I'm going to school in France next year," she said at length, breathlessly. She thought it might impress him.

"I wouldn't go to that rotten country!" Geoffrey answered. "They eat snails. Ithankyhitchyhoo-pleasure-dance."

It was over, the music had stopped. Geoffrey took her to her chair, he bowed stiffly, awkwardly, his eyes fixed above her head, and then with relief he turned away.

"The waltz," said Miss Minchard: "One, two, three, one, two, three. Music, please!"

Chicky sat out the waltz two little hours long. Geoffrey's two besties, taught two little girls—the left out one!—that it was all unfair and that women must have charm to win! Chicky Chicky sidled sitting out, but this dance she found it pleasant at, sat, wriggling crushed toes in flattened slippers, eye, hair bright, smiling. She had danced with him!

By the hour that turned Chicky Eden twenty, her ugly duckling days with history; the sort of history that mothers with plain children fervently upon beautiful, as they studied their own, to remember Chicky who made beaux bow and brightening or jealous eyes linger on her. Chicky's own mother sat constantly to Chicky. "Poise" she always at young girls!" And she was beginning to wold appreciate to poise. He with Chicky. Too, Mrs. Archer was often acidly sharp with the girl who was beautiful in more than one way. The child's mother who was denying age found it disconcerting to hear her admirers answer her absently the while they stared in a staggered way at the girl who was discreetly annoyed by such homage.

When Mrs. Archer scattered it was to advise Chicky to get some frocks, which, in a shop window, looked as if it would be expensively, unbecoming to anyone. Chicky accepted her counsel with that with the utmost docility: one of her most fervent wishes—and one that was rarely granted;—was for peace, yet the frocks did nothing to mute Chicky lustre; they made her whom women murmur, "Dear, do you mind telling me where you picked up that enchanting dress?"

And hearing this, and seeing the spread of "that appallingly hideous model," Mrs. Archer always would rise to choke her, to make her shallow blue eyes metallically hard and to increase the sharpness of her nagging. There are certain women who do not retire gracefully to live upon a pension made of prettily romantic memories. Mrs. Archer, painted, forcedly gay, strove with a feverish energy to hold her court, and anyone who threatened to usurp her throne was rewarded by that hale which thirsted best in a mind of shallow soil.

Her tortured, thinning, dyeing hair changed color with the seasons. The man who saw her playing at the bridge with Mrs. Weld said he knew known her, as her mask knew her, with decks well scrubbed and ready for the day.

Chicky hated it—the futile, silly masquerade and the lack of depth that is in a woman's life. Sometimes she sat, then must be for her a life dignified by purpose, a life that would honor her parents who knew it, and children; more than a succession of hotels, and "going on," but with whom one "going on," but with whom one could be friends, and friendship between flights.

Mediterranean Cannes, Deauville, Lido, Rome, all in the proper season London in May, of course Paris at the pre speed clothes Egypt and Sheep, pearls, or and oil or a temporary home on Montmartre, with only one played bridge as usual. This was Chicky's life since the sixteenth year; she was well used to it and yet she felt that somewhere there must be for her a life dignified by purpose; this faith sustained her.

To Chicky's acute embarrassment when she thought of this life—a house that meant a home to every, who knew it and children—she thought too of Geoffrey Field. His association with the thought was strong for her to deny, always made her cheeks burn. "Silly very probably married," she decided "it really is no secret" but Geoffrey's presence in her hope prevailed.

In her twentieth year and at that hour when, [illegible] Chicky appeared to increase Chicky's difficulties, Chicky wrote a despairing letter to Albion Carter Marshall, to ask him advice between going to Paris or not. Her usual illusions done with, she scrawled, "Shall I, Uncle, going to marry a Scotchman named Angus Pond, or can't like him as I would, which makes it a trifle difficult, and yet he is wise for her to say with her mother, If her mother married Mr. Pond. No, it would not be wise.

He wrote her immediately; two weeks later Chicky read, in his magic warmth and sunshine, a letter that had been written in a mean, harsh snow.

She hurried through his advice; she who reread that letter. She was bunking a room with Geoffrey Field. She found 'in it but—sant satisfaction. However, she felt Uncle Albion was the wrong and again; it kept them human and possible. Uncle Albion, "My child, I know more than I wish to of Geoffrey Field he is or the Eden that crushes anything delicate; I shudder to think of you young with butterflies! To be brief, the unravelled Englishman would regard him as a typical American, quite as the untravelled American regards the Englishman with dread and a monocle as the typical Englishman. He has that which is erroneously called 'push and enterprise,' which means that he gives every energy to annexing all the money that is within his reach and more that he not. He is going to be one of the wealthiest men in New York, or die in the attempt. But I have no hope of his dying; those who encounter him in the way, die instead. He is a product of genus Americanus that I do not like. He offends the old order because he lacks the fine qualities that make a knowledge of others' needs. He is unmarried and I am told that young persons of his sex, who are married, bear a handsome and un bon parti."

Chicky remembered the last expanded of the information, the fact that he was married, and it lifted her heart. It made her even unusually patient with her mother, who was, that day, a "man as a woman can be who knows her man would wander.

BRINGING UP FATHER

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Jason and Thoar traveled downward into the swamplands of Pellucidar. The two had become mutually attached to each other by their search for the beautiful Jana, whom they believed, they would find in the lowlands of the Fisli people. Tarzan of the Apes, neither of them expected to see again. At all this, while the ape-man had been living in the care city of the Clovi. As obeying the command of Jana, the woman, entered the dark cavern, a guard was posted before it.

There were ordered to keep Tarzan a prisoner until the council had determined his fate. As the ape-man accustomed his eyes to the gloomy interior he saw it was of vast proportions. Upon pallets of straw, covered with hide, lay many warriors and a few women and children wrapped in slumber. In the subdued light coming from the entrance the ape-man already moved along the cavern's walls, searching for the girl from Zoram.

There came to his ears a low whistle and moving in his direction Tarzan saw the Red Flower of Zoram. "You, too, are a prisoner?" she asked. "Thia, then, is our end! I do not know what they will do to you. I already know my fate, but I tell you, neither Carb nor any of his tribe shall have me!" As they talked, presently a warrior near them awakened and stretched himself. Walking around the cave he aroused the others. Thereafter, saying to each, "Come. It is the time of the council."

Now in silence Tarzan and Jana awalked the doors that was to be pronounced upon them. Outside on the hide the warriors sat in a great circle. There was much talk, boasting and argument such as even the lawmakers in this inner world thought necessary before a thing was decided. Suddenly Coran, the chief's son entered the cavern. Quickly he discovered Tarzan. Coming to him, in boy's whisperings. The council has reached their decision. You, they would kill and the girl goes to Carb, the warrior who captured her."

Students Present Concert to Augment Relief Funds

Well Known Resident of Tweed, Dies at Kingston

Tweed—On Wednesday evening a fine crowd of interested parents and friends of the pupils of the Separate School assembled in Quinn's Opera House, to hear their concert given under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League, for the purpose of raising money for relief purposes. The efforts of the youthful performers were warmly applauded by the appreciative audience.

Joseph McElroy, one of the Entrance pupils, made a very capable chairman. The program opened with a chorus by the girls, "The Old Sheep." This was followed by a brilliant piano duet by Dorothy Quinn and Bridget Roshork, former members of the school. Dorothy and Mary Marwar captivated the hearts of the audience by the winsome manner in which she recited "A Christmas Wish."

The Commencement Play, "The Graduate" was much enjoyed by all as given by Wilma Meraw, Leah Roshork, Peggy Marwar, Rosetta Mahoney, Frances Renaw, Olive Cosier and Elaine Gehan. These young actresses carried out their parts in a manner which reflected great credit on themselves and the Sisters who trained them. The play was followed by a song by the Primary Class and "The Old Tobogan Glide" by the boys. These numbers were very applauded. In a mastery style Eugene Day recited "Tobacco."

One of the most pleasing numbers of the entertainment was a Ball Drill executed with precision by 12 little girls dressed in white and carrying red balls. This number drew rounds of applause which it well merited. The action "Little Miss Contest" was given in the true Highland style by Henry Lajoie and was appreciated by all.

The play, "Midnight and Christmas Eve" in three scenes was then staged by Jean Chapelle, Harold Morraw, Elaine Gehan, Hazel Chaisly, and Verna Robert. Between the scenes Dorothy Marwar sang solos, one by Terrance Mahoney, "Swiss and Yodel" and "Our Lady's Last Christmas" by Frances Merrow. The splendid program was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Lela Wallace Read

An old and respected resident of Tweed district passed away at the home of her son, Wallace Shook, who died in Kingston General Hospital at the age of 62. The late Wallace Shook was born April 10, 1871, in the Allen Settlement where he lived and attended school prior to his marriage in Marmora to Miss Minnie Ann Hall in 1901. The deceased was a staunch Conservative and was a member of the Anglican Church. Mrs. Shook (Mrs. Val. Mc) is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Chas. Thomasburg and Mrs. Wm. Blake, Tweed.

The funeral service was conducted on Saturday from his late residence about two miles south of Tweed, by Rev. W. O. Hone Pryor, Rector of St. James Anglican Church, Tweed, in Victoria cemetery. Other relatives are two brothers, Thomas Shook, Bellrmond, and Louis of Porterville, and Mr. Chas. Shook, Napanee, and one sister, Mrs. Richard Chalk, Napanee. Mrs. Chalk of Tweed who also were in attendance at the funeral of the deceased were Messrs R. T. Good, Wardell, A. Webb, Fred Blakely, Murney Grills and George Hall.

wife of General Chiang Kai-Shek, the strong man of the Nationalist government, now warring on the rebellious Fukien province, is playing a dating role in the great drama now being staging in China. The wife of the general is the official peace negotiator for the nationalist government, and it is in this capacity that she risks rebel territory and receives the peace overtures from outlaw leaders. of his transfer to Burke's Falls, Ont. During his sojourn in Tweed, Mr. Calvert has made a host of friends especially among the young people who deeply regret his removal. He was a member of the Young People's Society of the United Church, and was also a valued member of the choir of the same church. He was also closely identified by this organization and by the quartette composed of Dr. M. O., Dodds, Mr. Calvert, S. R. Connor and H. Grier. In this quartette he will be missed greatly and will be difficult to replace His best of friends and every success in his new location, and assure him of a hearty welcome whenever he returns to Tweed.

Tweed Team Defeated

The first game of the High School League was played at the local arena on Friday evening between Marmora and Tweed. The experiment of the schools was just too much for the locals to cope with and were completely overcome by a score of 2 to nil.

Boys are with one or two exceptions the same as last year and are fast improving in having R. Neal as coach. Mr. Neal is Marmora principal of Marmora High School, is deeply interested in sport and is not a stranger to the game. He is also a member of the school as candidates for the hockey team and expects to take a certain standing before being furnished by the league.

The first period, which was scoreless was featured by fast hockey by both squads with the locals having the slightly the better of the argument. McGuire and Luffman bombarded the Tweed net shots off Callery's pads. Marmora had a couple of chances in the play, only good work by Reeves, who brought a excellent game in goal, keeping Shannon and Hewitt off the score sheet. Penalties in this period were handed out to Hewitt and Shannon of the visitors and Leal of the locals.

After drew a penalty shortly after the second period opened and for the visiting team sent four men on the ice. McGuire broke it up and got away but was heavily bodied by O'Neill. After returned before any damage was done. Mc-Guire drew a penalty for holding and Marmora pressed hard but without result. McGuire and Leal missed a good chance to score on Bishop's perfect pass out from the corner. Marmora continued to rain shots on goal but there was no shots which reached them due to close checking and sticky ice. They were finally successful after 39 minutes of play in lodging the puck in the twine from a scramble, O'Neill getting the goal and Shannon an assist. Reeve had no chance on this one as his defense was too slow in clearing.

Tweed boys turned on the power as the final stanza opened but failed to pierce the stout Marmora defense, although McGuire and Spackman tried hard. Tummon was effective in the back checking and looked very good on his play following a four-week' near the goal, being unlucky not to get in the pack. Bishop looked a hot one from the sting but Reeves handled it with ease. In an effort to secure the equalizer the locals sent a man on the attack and when O'Neill broke away he had no one to beat but Reeves who had no chance to score. Luffman and Smith drew penalties as the game was fast and the game was remarkably clean as all penalties were for minor infractions of the rules and accidental offences.

Tweed boys were without the services of seven members of last year's team but with a little more practice will doubtless turn the tables on their opponents when they meet in Marmora on January 26. Mr. Ken Wilson of Marmora, former O.H.A. referee, handled the duties of referee-in-chief very capably and was assisted by T. N. Reilly of Tweed.

After the game the visitors were entertained at the High School by the staff and students.

The line-up:

Marmora—Goal, Callery; defense, Smith, O'Neill; centre, Shannon; wings, Hewitt, Lovelace; subs, Peaquet, Lamoine, Linn.

Tweed—Goal, Reeves; defense, J. Arber, H. Leal; centre, McGuire; wings, Luffman, Spackman; subs, Bowen, Marwar, E. Tummon; T. Rashotte.

"TAKE A CHANCE"

Six new hit numbers have been concocted by the battery of song and lyric writers who worked on the score of "Take A Chance," the musical which Lasalle Corbell, William Rowland and Monte Brice have written for Paramount and which is at the Belle today and Wednesday, matinee daily.

Jay Gorney, Lou Alter and Herman Ruppell wrote the music and Al. K. Hartzell, Billy Rose and Arthur Swanstrom composed the lyrics for the score and the following snappy numbers: "I Did it My Little Way" written by Gorney and Gorney and sung by Cliff Edwards against a gooy travelogue background showing how "Uncle Sam" escapes from various perils by means of the instrument.

"Here Comes Heaven," written by Harburg and Gorney and sung by James Dunn, June Knight, Lilian Roth, Cliff Edwards, Lona Andre, Edwards and danced by the chorus.

"It's Only a Paper Moon" written by Harburg and Harold Arlen, the latter the composer of the famous "Stormy Weather" number.

In addition, Lawrence Schwab has written new lyrics for "Eadie Was a Lady" which sounds like the stage version of "Take a Chance," which was written a few years ago and will be sung in the film by Lilian Roth.

Ethel Merman, Irene Bordoni and Sid Silvers will also sing "Should I Be Sweet," another hit by Arlen and Harburg. The musical production in which she created a sensation on the stage several years ago.

"Take a Chance" must not be classed as just another back-stage story. Dancing girls range all the way from a carnival side show, through a swanky gambling club, and finally to the specially built set on Long Island and back to Broadway. Beautiful music, beautiful girls, outstanding work by the cast and a host of scenes more full of thrills, laughter, and are beautifully blended into this pleasing picture.

It was while on this trip that Halliburton gathered the material from which he wrote his latest book "The Flying Carpet." AT THE CAPITOL

"WHAT PRICE INNOCENCE?"

"When a picture can combine splendid entertainment with a powerful and much-needed lesson on one of society's most vital problems, it makes decent the highest credit. They have accomplished something of enormous importance. Such a picture I have just seen, and I congratulate those who produced it."

The speaker was Judge Ben B. Lindsey, famous founder of the first Juvenile Court in the world—that at Denver, Colorado—and worker with youth and youth's difficulties for the past part of his brilliant career. Judge Lindsey was visiting the Colonial studio where had just been shown a photoplay which aroused his enthusiasm.

This was "What Price Innocence?" —the story of a sweet and lovely young girl who met a and fate because her mother was one of those "self-centered women" and Puritanical, who tell the world, as well as to their children, that sex can never happen to a child of mine!" The picture is currently showing at the Capitol Theatre.

"Unfortunately there are many such women in the world," Judge Lindsey said. "They are in the minority, it is true—but they are far too plentiful. I hope and trust this picture will awake many of them to a sense of their duties as parents, and their duty to young daughters the full benefit of their own knowledge of the world, and not let them pass through the dangerous period of adolescence in what is called, hypocritically, 'blessed innocence.' Innocence is not blessed; innocence of the plain facts of life is absolutely criminal when it can easily be displaced by knowledge."

Willard Mack, famed actor and playwright, wrote "What Price Innocence?" He also directed it and has an important part in it.

"I have known scores of cases in real life like that of poor little Ruth Harper in this picture," Judge Lindsey continued. "Such a double case, has Mr. Mack, 'What Price Innocence?' is simply packed with entertainment and drive to embodies there in a social lesson. Mr. Mack and Miss Harper deserve that which produced the picture, are to be doubly complimented.

"Ten years ago, perhaps, this picture would have been banned because of its subject matter, but now-a-days we are learning more and more liberalized and less afraid to face the facts of life.

"I hope every mother and father and daughter and son in America will go to see "What Price Innocence?"

Judge Lindsey is now a resident of Los Angeles where he practices law, lectures and writes. He is 65. Most of his efforts are still devoted to the affairs of youth.

An excellent comedy, Western musical and Oriental Cocktail, go Capitol News complete this week's entertaining program. Pruit Taylor today for the ladies at matinee and evening performances.

WINTER VACATIONS IN CANADA

CLOSELY linked with winter, life in Canada is the enjoyment of a multiplicity of outdoor sports which can be adjusted to one's inclination and capability as a participant or participant the individual may taste their joys to the full. The tinkle of sleigh bells, the ring of skates, the clash of sticks in play, joyous shouts, cheery laughter, all are music to the lover of winter sports. One forgets depression while gliding along on skis, tramping on snowshoes through snow-decked woods, skating on smooth ice sheets or speeding with breath-baking swoops down the tobogran slides. Steadiness and skill are tested on the curling rinks, excitement is rampant at the hockey games, and on Dog Derby day one naturally follows the crowd. In contrast, golf and other summer sports may be enjoyed during winter in areas lying at the Southern end.

The general inclination is to spend one's vacation when the days are long and warm. The National Parks of Canada of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, a government service which supplies information to intending visitors to that country, reports that there appears to be an ever-growing tendency to enjoy outdoor life during the winter season, and that a few days' relaxation when the weather is cold and bracing is now considered as conducive to the recreative side of health and well-being as is the usual summer vacation.

Weather has much to do with the enjoyment of winter sports, but with those of winter it is almost a negligible factor. All the winter sports enthusiast asks for is plenty of snow and a thermometer which flirts with the zero mark. It is an agreeable surprise to discover on one's first experience of a Canadian winter that the temperature is not only bearable but pleasant, that extremely cold days are the exception, and that the clear crisp air and brilliant sunshine add splendid natural assets and exhilaration to healthful exercise.

PROBABILITIES
Moderate to fresh northwest winds; mostly fair and continuing cold today and most of Thursday. Then moderating; probably light snow in west portion.

CONSTABLES EXONERATED

Inspector Finds Dead Woman Did Not Back up Complaints

London, Ont., Jan. 17. — District Inspector T. W. Cousans of the Ontario Provincial Police today completely exonerated two constables of negligence, charged in a letter left by Mrs. Ina Gamble, written before she allegedly killed her husband and then herself at Port Dover.

"I have carefully investigated the charges made and find that the officers were not negligent in their duties," the inspector told reporters. He returned today from Port Dover where he questioned Constables Shipley and Taggart, to whom Mrs. Gamble's letter was addressed.

Investigation into the charge was ordered by Attorney-General W. H. Price of Ontario.

The Port Dover woman's letter, in which she told of plans to kill her husband and commit suicide, said: "If you two fellows had done you to do on Tuesday and protected me, this tragedy would not have happened. I repeatedly asked you to assist me with this terrible beast I have been married to."

Inspector Cousans said he learned that Mrs. Gamble had frequently complained to the constables. Several times they answered her calls only to find she would not back up her complaints when they visited her home.

Mrs. Gamble said she asked for "protection". In her letter, found in the home where she died, she discovered fatally wounded on Monday. The body of her husband was in a chicken-coop at the rear of the house.

IMPORTER'S LETTER STIRS TARIFF BOARD

Official of Page Hersey Company Says No Permission Needed

IMPORTATIONS

Bombshell Hurled Into Board by Montreal Letter

Ottawa, Jan. 17—A bombshell was cast into the otherwise placid proceedings of the tariff board here today when A. R. Golding, for the boiler manufacturers of Canada, read a letter from the Montreal importing agency, the purport of which was that the consent of the Page-Hersey Tubes Limited of Toronto, must be secured before boiler tubes could be imported into Canada from Great Britain. The name of the agency was not stated.

The reading of the letter followed the evidence in question put to Mr. Goldie by Milton N. Campbell, member of the board. Three months ago, Mr. Goldie said, whether British manufacturers of boiler tubes would enter into any price agreements on a competitive basis.

"Why?" asked Mr. Campbell. "Are they not selling in Canada today?"

"Under certain conditions," said Mr. Goldie.

"Just what are the conditions?" asked Mr. Campbell.

"That we get permission from Page-Hersey to sell in here only," reply.

"What's a most amazing statement. "Do you mean to say," declared Mr. Campbell, "they will sell here only by the consent of the Page-Hersey people?"

Letter Read

For reply Mr. Goldie read the following letter:

"As already explained to you, we are unable to quote on boiler tubes for sizes from 3½ and 4 inches. We note that you state that contracts have been placed but that material may prevent you using Page-Hersey tubes, and if possible suggestion we can make is that you advise us fully of the circumstances, and we would then refer these conditions to Messrs. Page-Hersey with a view to our quote and hope to be able to supply you British tubes."

"Then what is the use of Mr. Near coming here?" asked G. H. Sedgewick, chairman, of the tariff board.

"I'm entitled to an answer," said Mr. Sedgewick, as he finished reading the letter but about the fact Can't these people buy British boilers and use without consent?"

No Consent Needed

"Mr. Goldie replied that she can buy British boiler tubes without our consent," that, then

"Then why does any man write that sort of a letter?" asked the chairman.

"It may have been written by an agent," Mr. Goldie said. "I don't think it was written by our agent."

With this answer the chairman abruptly adjourned the hearing until 10 a.m. today.

"There are some things we have to consider," he said.

RESIDENTS ENJOY BRIGHT SUNSHINE

The beaming rays of a bright sun shining from cloudless skies today pierced the gloom of Northern days of almost complete darkness, and as a record for one day of hours of sunshine so far established in January. The sun, blotted by lowering clouds for the past fourteen days during which time hardly a feeble ray of the sun has been seen, had received up to Tuesday night just six hours of welcome sunshine, reported on the sun track of the province at the local Canadian Entomologists' Laboratory on Bay Dundas street. Wednesday, however, will probably be the last day with a greater percentage of sunshine, that has been recorded so far this month. The sun tempered the biting winds laden with cold temperatures which swirled through the district throughout the day and the evening before. Just how was the lowest mark registered.

NOT OFTEN DOES THIS HAPPEN

GASOLINE STOLEN FROM REAR SHED

Gaining entrance by means of breaking an outside door, burglars entered a shed at the rear of Foy Bros' hotel bottling works and stole twenty gallons of gasoline some time Monday night. A quantity of copper wire was also stolen. The robbery was reported to the police yesterday and after investigating Constable Evans ascertained that the powers had driven an automobile to the rear of the building, later escaping with their loot in the same vehicle. The burglars broke a lock on a 40-gallon drum of gasoline and extracted about half of the contents. No clues as to how or in what containers the gasoline was removed from the building were forthcoming.

MEMORIALS FOR LEADERS

Former Pastor of Holloway St. Church Makes Suggestion

"The founders of Toronto, both conservative and radical, were not afraid to venture from the village pump but they had definite aims and responsibility," declared the Rev. Charles W. Watch of Toronto, when he spoke yesterday afternoon at the opening of the Year Pioneers at 32 College Street, Toronto. His subject was "Toronto, Little Pound-ers—Wise Men who Build Upon a Rock".

"There were no hidden convictions among the leaders of that day," he said. "All stood and fought, religiously as it were—some believing it their duty to preserve what they held for the people in trust, others believing it their duty to fight on behalf of a neglected portion of the people. Never mind their differences. We must enshrine them in memory," the speaker said as he gave character sketches of such leaders as John Strachan and William Lyon Mackenzie and asked why the city had not a memorial to each of these men.

"What shall we say of the women of those days? It is true they did not take part in public life, but their home life led to exaltation of the standard of community life and the forsaking of those examples which have always led to tragedy."

Rev. Mr. Watch is remembered by many in Belleville as a former minister of Holloway Street United Church, Mr. Arthur Watch, now living in Belleville, is a son of Rev. Mr. Watch.

LONDON LIFE GAINS STEADY

New Business Sold in 1933 Totals Over 92 Millions

Many points of interest to the general public are embraced in the report of The London Life Insurance Company for the year 1933, which has just been released. More policies were issued than during any year in the Company's history; the largest total of new insurance sold amounted to $92,178,625. The total Insurance in Force has reached the sum of $411,000,000. One of the substantial gain registered maintains the London Life's unbroken record for an increase in business in force each and every year over the past forty years.

The assets of the Company are $44,516,221, and reserves, $37,971,992, over 1932. In addition the investment reserve, representing increases and all bonds and stocks which depreciated in value during the year, $1,000,000. The total mortgages on improved real estate amounted to 57 per cent. of the total assets. It is noteworthy that on this class of investments the gross overdue interest is only 1.06 per cent. of the principal outstanding—a striking tribute to the care exercised by the Company in this phase of its business. Investment grade bonds and debentures, chiefly government and municipal, now make up 36.4 per cent. of the total; preferred stocks, 2.6 per cent. of the assets, while real estate including the Company's premises, stocks, and mortgages on same make up the balance of 7.6 per cent.

The income from interest was $56,653—which represented a substantial gain within the investments to living policyholders amounted to $6,775,000. Over $1,706 was paid to the beneficiaries of deceased policyholders.

Through the policy of maintaining strong policy reserves has resulted in an interest rate much greater than is required by the Dominion insurance law. The total of all surplus funds in excess of legal requirements amount to $11,386,262.

These figures are particularly significant in view of the fact that the year 1933 celebrates its 60th anniversary this year, is the largest Canadian life insurance company to have built its business entirely within the Dominion. Its progress during the depression years can be regarded as a definite indication that the Canadian public as a whole are acutely conscious of the importance attaching to the future, and are cognizant of the necessity of arranging for same in which life insurance provides the best means for solving the individual financial problems. The record number of policies written in the London Life in 1933 is evidence that this consciousness is on the increase.

Mr. Arthur Hunter, President and Managing Director, in reviewing the Company's operations for the year 1933 stated: "The progress of the Company last year, was considerably better than that recorded in 1932. We are entering 1934 under happier circumstances than existed a year ago" he stated, "in full expectation of steadily improving records from now on."

WARNING OVER MILK BOTTLES
Heavy Loss Sustained By Belleville Milk Dealers
In an effort to stamp out the loss of milk bottles from individual dealers' yards, dairies in the city, a letter which warns all milk men on delivery routes that a close watch is being kept of individual bottles, and that search of delivery wagons may be made from time to time by police has been sent to various individuals and companies by Crown Attorney R. C. Donnan.
Although no bottle exchange has been set up where bottles of various companies may be distributed to their owners, milkmen on their routes stated today that they were swapping bottles back and forth from the wagons and trucks as they met on the streets. There are only six milk dealers, it is said, who use lettered bottles.
"A milk bottle lasts for about three trips. That's the average life of one," stated one milk shipper daily man today. "After a bottle has made its third or fourth trip it is generally has to be replaced."
One milk dealer stated that in three years he had spent over sixteen hundred dollars for bottles.
The letter which is sent out by the Crown Attorney follows:
"Frequent complaints have been made by millmen in this city concerning the improper appropriation by other millmen of bottles, which are stamped with the name of the owner.
"Under the provisions of the Criminal Code, the use of bottles marked with the name of the owner by persons, who are not authorized so to do is an offence punishable by a serious criminal offence and the filling of bottles is declared to be prima facie evidence of the commission of the offence.
"With a view to preventing this practice in future, I am calling the provisions of the Criminal Code to your attention and at the same time advising you that the police officers will be instructed to inspect delivery wagons from time to time and to lay charges against any and all offenders.
"This letter is being written to all the milk dealers delivering milk in the City of Belleville and a list is intended to be an allegation that the dealer to whom it is addressed or his employees have in their possession bottles the property of other dealers."
With a view to preventing this practice in future, I am calling the provisions of the Criminal Code to your attention and at the same time advising you that the police officers will be instructed to inspect delivery wagons from time to time and to lay charges against any and all offenders.
"This letter is being written to all the milk dealers delivering milk in the City of Belleville and a list is intended to be an allegation that the dealer to whom it is addressed or his employees have in their possession bottles the property of other dealers, but merely for the purpose of informing you of the law on the subject and of the contemplated action."

W. H. IRELAND GOES SOUTH

Takes Rest For Several Weeks in State of Florida

Mr. William H. Ireland, M.P.P., Trenton, who is chief Conservative whip in Ontario, has gone south for a couple of weeks to recover from a recent attack of bronchitis. Mr. Ireland, it is stated, has been indisposed has been improving of late and has taken the opportunity to go to Florida for a rest, before the Legislature opens.

The United Empire stated today "if the rest should be prolonged, the whip's duties will probably be taken over by Mark Vaughan, assistant whip."

An important caucus of the Conservative members of the Legislature is to be held in a few days, it is rumored, at which Premier Henry is expected to reveal the course the government and he will take concerning some local matters of policy. No hint has yet been given of a freer sale of beer and wine program.

1933 HITS BOTTOM FOR BLDG. PERMITS

A steady decrease in number of building permits issued during the past five years is indicated by the latest report of the city engineer for that period. The year 1933 hit the bottom, with a total of only $170,800.00 in permits, a comparative total cost of $329,700.00. Of the five years 1929 was the best year with a total of 290 permits, amounting to $483,900.00 in construction. By years the following figures were issued: 1929—290 permits, total $483,900; 1930—277 permits at a total of $370,800.00; 1931—223 permits, total $227,800.00; 1932—113 permits, totalling $187,360.00.

LOVE CHATS BARED

An affidavit containing intimate telephone conversations between Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee and Garfield (Gary) Leon, actor, shown above, has served as a basis for the ruling of the New York supreme court in London that Mrs. Vallee's suit to restrain her well-known husband, Rudy Vallee, radio crooner, from divorcing his chanteuse, could continue. Mrs. Vallee alleged that the conversations had been recorded by a dictaphone attached to the telephone for the Vallee apartment in New York City.

MISSILE MISSED DRIVER BUT CRASHES WINDOW

Believed Fired From Small Gun or Catapult

Crashing through the closed door glass of his car as he drove along Everett street, early Monday evening a mysterious missile fired by some unknown person narrowly missed Mr. Jack Penny, well known local resident. The stinging projectile after demolishing the plate glass window through an opposite window on the other side. With Mr. Penny in the car was Mr. Carl Kiser. The slowly moving machine was brought to a stop and both men investigated the neighborhood, but no evidence of where the flying object came from was found.

According to Mr. Penny, he had just turned off Catherine street to Everett and was about half way between Jane and Bridge street when the incident occurred. The time was placed at about 7.15.

Probably the most commented Mr. Penny, when questioned, "it might have been boys playing with a gun. They weren't very nice to have it come that close".

An investigation of the neighborhood made by Constable C. Arnott shortly afterward failed to produce evidence of any air rifle or gun owned by any youthful resident of that section, and the theory advanced by the constable is that it may have been a catapult.

MORE CHEESE PRODUCTION

Mr. J. L. Irwin Says Increase Needed For Export Market

A special meeting of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association was held Tuesday afternoon in the Council Chambers, City Hall, with a representative attendance of members from throughout the district. Mr. John Flanagan, president, occupied the chair. The meeting was called for the election of officers for 1933, as an error had been made at the annual convention, December last. In naming two new directors, and directors are responsible for the choosing of officers.

The secretary, Mr. F. H. Dudgeon, presented additions to the constitution of the Association, which met with the approval of the meeting, as did a resolution, which after the endorsation of the Eastern and Western Cheesemakers' Associations will be presented to the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

J. L. Irwin Speaker

Following the election of the five directors for 1934, Mr. J. L. Irwin, district cheese grader, was called on to address the gathering. Mr. Irwin pointed out the decrease in cheese production in Ontario during 1933. Central and Western Ontario were responsible for a decrease of some 70,000 boxes whereas Eastern Ontario had a decline of only 4000 boxes. He urged the necessity of greater production, with the present price that the decline continued for four or five years more, Canada would be out of the export market altogether. Ontario was producing the best quality cheese, and there should be no fear of it losing that line. A few factories yet manufactured poor cheese, and perhaps there will always be a few of that kind, said Mr. Irwin.

He was hopeful that a "Cheese Week" would be inaugurated in Canada this year and this is under consideration now and plans were progressing. The National Dairy Council was favorable to it and he trusted the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association would make the initial formative move. It means a big thing to the cheese industry, concluded Mr. Irwin.

A fine discussion followed Mr. Irwin's remarks bearing on several vital subjects affecting the industry and the cheesemakers' craft. The meeting was unanimous in endorsing the "Herd Competition" for another year.

Also on after meeting of the new directors the following slate of officers was elected for 1934:

Hon. Vice-President—J. P. Griffin, Toronto.

REQUEST DOUBLING OF TAXES ON CHAIN STORES

Profits From Stores Four Into Toronto Says Delegation

TORONTO, Jan. 17.— (CP) — Doubling of present business taxes paid by chain stores was urged upon the Ontario Government today by a delegation from the Ontario Municipal Association.

Sponsors of the proposed legislation stated in an interview before the meeting with Premier George S. Henry, that profits from chain stores elsewhere, in Ontario pour into Toronto headquarters and they desired both to keep some of the money in the communities where it was made, to assist local merchants in meeting chain competition.

CHARGER THAT BORE CURRIE DIES ON ONTARIO FARM

Ridden by Late C.E.F. Commander Over Bridgehead at Cologne

Montreal, Jan. 17—Barely a month and a half after his master died, mourned by the multitude that knew him in war and in peace, General Sir Arthur Currie's cherished charger—Kilcoo—also unknown but anybody in his stall at Sir Arthur's brother's farm at Strathroy, Ont., it was learned here.

Brock's glamorous days—when his sister rode him through battlefields and reviews and when, a few months after armistice, the Canadians marched past their Commanding Officer at the Cologne bridgehead to an end upon the return to Canada of Sir Arthur,

Since that time he had led a life of comparative ease at the farm of John Curtis, the General's brother, looking forward to the rare visits of his General—become educational. On these occasions Brock would snuggle his muzzle in the hand of his master and search for a lump of sugar the General always had with him.

Brock was 28 years of age. Like his master, he gained his early days on the Pacific coast. At the outbreak of war, a mutual desire temporarily parted him to the Dominion. He was sent to France and became the pride of Canada's war-time Commander-in-Chief.

Brock was too old to walk behind his master's casket in the memorable funeral given Sir Arthur at Montreal. A younger charger took Brock's place.

Audience Walks Out on Aimee Semple McPherson as She Starts a Sermon

Seattle, Jan. 17.—(AP)—To the strains of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," more than 2,500 Seattle residents arose from their seats and "walked out" on Aimee Semple Mc-Pherson, Evangelist, just as she was about to deliver a sermon.

Exodus of about half of the audience followed her announcement last night from the platform that her debate against Clarence Jones, Seattle, Atheist, had failed to arrive. She was to have debated with him on "there is no God."

When word reached the auditorium that Smith was still in Portland his phone having been turned off by foe, Mrs. McPherson announced to the audience: "I'm going to make you a proposition. I'm going to preach one of my very best sermons. The Second Coming of Christ.' Any of you who do not care to remain may have your money refunded at the box office, while we join in singing 'Onward, Christian Soldiers'."

By the time the final verse was being sung, the lobby was jammed with anxious clustering about the box office.

ALONG MAIN STREET

THE HANDYMAN—

"It isn't the job I mind so much, it's what goes with it that takes up the time," complained the editor as one of the buses which serve one of the little northern municipalities on the county on a regular schedule. During the past few weeks since the snows have been piling up the roads rough, residents of the village haven't been able to get to town to buy a lot of things they need. Consequently the bus driver has been pressed into service as a buyer for housewives there. And the stuff he has had to buy for the busy mothers would bring a rose glow to the cheek of even the most hardened bus driver. Items included eg one of his last trips: personal feminine attire, with the proper sizes marked; baby food and special nipples for a youngster; safety pins, needles and thread; one pipe to be repaired—for an old resident ;a sample of cloth to match for dress goods, and the usual number of letters to be posted. And it's all done without a hitch or even a mistake, report his customers.

DEADWOOD DICK—

"Deadwood Dick" of dime novel fame has just made his postmortem redskin leap into the air and bite the dust. He is being installed with all his yellow-back pals on the fourth floor of the new book room in the Library of Congress at Washington. And just one generation ago he saw his devotees tracking the trail to the woodshed, lashed by an irate father grasping the famous prints. Dick and his pals fared forth offering their adventures for a dime—sometimes a nickel—and like everything that comes too easily to humans, he was thrown away so carelessly that he has almost disappeared from the scene. So he became "rare", and then the librarians discovered that the dime novel holds much that is authentic about pioneer days. Then the files of the copyright department had to be rearranged, and the director of the rare book room found Dick. The director made his debut under the sponsorship of Erastus Beadle in New York, in 1860. But somehow, parents thought their children should be reading Shakespeare or Emerson. So "Deadwood Dick" and his energetic girl "Calamity Jane" had to sneak into the house unseen. Certainly the dime novel could not be criticized on the grounds of morality. The dime novel didn't even "stretch their legs". They "eased their limbs". They remained true to their own true loves, and were always "properly clothed". Now gray haired men can revive the dear dead days by walking unashamed through the portals of the Library of Congress and demanding the little yellow-back with the magnificent head that reads:

"I'm Montana Sam, the high Muck-a-Muck, or E. Pluribus Unum. I can yell louder, run faster, ride faster, handle cattle, jump higher, tell bigger lies, eat more bull, and paint outside the lines more delightning than any other two-legged critter as ever were pupped".

THE SEASONS—

Thoreau said that if he were ever to be taken for an indefinite stay to another planet, where he would lose all track of time, and then, he suddenly set down in the woods of Concord, he could tell not only the month of the year, but the day of the month. The flowers of the Spring, Summer, and Autumn always keep time by the calendar. The crocus opens at their appointed times, yet today if you walk the fields or go through the woodlands it might be December, January or February. Only by the place of the sun or by the procession of the stars can one tell the winter season. For then there is no Winter's pause. Even now the sun, each morning rising a little more to the south on the eastern horizon, gives the age old promise that "next time and harvest shall not cease".— Cincinnati Enquirer.

IRRITANT—

The after-Christmas shopping season reminds us of the clerk who returned home after a hard day at the store to find his son studying his chemistry lesson.

"What is a counter-irritant, dad?" he asked.

"A woman who shops all day, but doesn't buy anything," replied his father absently.

THE TRUCK DRIVER

In a winter of many changes, unusual situations have developed on the highways and during the recent spell of fairly mild weather and the very light falls of snow, the attention of the public has been attracted to the transport truck drivers as well as to the driver of the automobile, though more to the man in charge of the transport.

Putting along their mighty loads on truck and trailers over the highways, these men have one of the most difficult tasks of the winter season. Those who have watched these servants of the new age of transportation, as for instance at Murney's Hill, have nothing but praise and sympathy for those whose ingenuity is taxed to the utmost to get their trucks up the hill. Light falls of snow destroy the grip which cinders and sand have provided and during the past week or ten days, struggling transports day and night are to be found on that incline. Sometimes drivers have to leave their trailers "blocked" part way up on the hill and take the first trailer up and then return for the other. The other night a transport with its van laid up wait after fruitless efforts to climb the grade until a supply of sand was brought by the drivers in order to make the hill-climbing possible.

There is nothing but admiration for the way in which these men meet the obstacles they face.

Anything the city can do in reducing the difficulties by sanding the hills is surely appreciated. Almost daily treatment seems necessary during the mild weather and while there are light snowfalls.

HARBOR PROBLEMS LOOM LARGE

Deeping of Kingston harbor and approaches is advocated by the Canadian Navigators' Federation (Kingston Harbor) who will present the matter to a meeting of the Grand Council at Montreal, urging the deepening of the Kingston harbor and dredging af the foot of Wolfe Island. Deep channels have now going to Prescott must go by way of Cape Vincent.

Kingston is also urging a government dock, all the docks being at present privately owned.

These facts indicate how large the water trade is likely to become as a result of the development of the Welland. Towns west and east of Belleville are also advocating improvements to bring ocean trade to their doors. Belleville, too, has been in the van in the movement for the deepening of the "channel."

Belleville may well hope that Kingston's efforts in the harbor line will result in a deepened susected not only for the sake of Kingston but for the advantage it would mean to Belleville, the route to which is by way of Deseronto.

Work is ahead for those who have intimate knowledge of the needs and a vision of possibilities. The Chamber of Commerce and the Crusaders will with the co-operation of the City Council and the Harbor commission look after the taking of the proper steps to make Belleville's facilities the equal of those of any town or city on the river, lake, or bay, especially because Belleville is a key position in regard to Central Ontario.

A BRIGHT SPOT

Belleville Hydro System should be the apple of the eye of the citizens of Belleville. A plant bought some years ago at $176,000 is steadily being paid for by the retirement of debentures as the dates of maturity appear and by advance payments. With the payment of six thousand dollars due on March 1st. and the advance payment of nine thousand dollars to retire the debenture of the date 1940 as decided upon at the Monday meeting of the Hydro commission, there will be outstanding only $37,000 of debentures against the plant. This speaks well for the management and control of the local system of the Commission.

The advance payment means a saving in interest and an earlier completion of the debenture issue.

In the not-distant future, Belleville will have its plant free of debt, all the while the rates have been reduced by reason of the thousands through the reductions in rates which have been ordered by the Ontario Commission on the advice of the local board and after study of the local situation.

What the local Hydro which has been doing so well during the slump period will achieve in the days of recovery is one of the brighter spots which the man who likes to look upon the future will take pleasure in contemplating.

YOUNG AT HEART

I met a friend the other day
One I had known when young.
With laughter ever on her lips
And glad words on her tongue;
But oh! how changed that smiling face
With furrows deep of care,
The youthful fire that lit the eyes
No longer sparkled there.

She was not old, but time had left
Its mark upon her brow,
The years that once I knew
Held no illusions now;
But when I met and clasped her hand
And spoke with her apart,
I found the years had left no trace
Of age within the heart.

A CLUB FOR EX-CONVICTS has been organized in Ottawa, inspired by a retired member of the judicial bench of Canada, it is said—and this club extends the helping hand to other ex-convicts as they leave prison and endeavour to make an honest living. So Belleville Rotarians—were told by Judge Deroche Monday following that very interesting address by Rev. Peter Bryce, D.D., upon the Portsmouth Penitentiary at Kingston, as seen from the inside.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA, one hand holding a pork chop and the other a bottle of Scotch, was illustrative in real life recently, approps of Uncle Sam's offer to trade a million dollars' worth of pork for a million dollars' worth of whisky. Here's the story as told at a Washington dinner in Washington this week: R. Walton Moore, Assistant Secretary of State and a native of Virginia, presented a Virginia ham to Sir Donald Lindsay, Ambassador from Great Britain, the other day. The British Ambassador sent back to the Assistant Secretary of State a bottle of Scotch whisky. And so, as Capt. William Schuster would say, they're all doing it now, since the Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders of the Bay of Quinte district pointed the way with the offer to trade Belleville cheese for South and Welsh coal, with the vision of golden argosies sailing from the home land and steaming right up to Schuster's new and greater dock at Belleville and the new and greater warehouses at the head of the lake, equipped with the latest in unloading machinery—and vice versa. If the nation without vision perishes, so does the city without vision—and so does the individual, for a person might as well be dead as without vision. Selah.

GOINGS-ON IN GOOCHVILLE

While coasting on Blair Hill, Saturday afternoon, young Austin Trevis encountered Mrs. Willie Speck, who admits to 250 pounds and a number of years, just as the two proceeded on down the incline until the sled lacked the assistance of a guiding hand in handling the load. Doc Brown treated Austin for three broken ribs, Bill Judkins, the blacksmith, repaired the sled runners, Mrs. Speck was not visibly affected.

There is a rumor around town that Caleb Prusten, who has been studying chemistry by mail, has isolated vitamin D. If the rumor proves to be the truth, Mr. Prusten's fortune and fame are assured. He is said to be keeping the vitamin isolated in the attic of his home and is busily engaged in the horsehair furniture and the like until he can make satisfactory arrangements with certain capitalists of funds to put it on the market. The American public will then surely gobble with avidity this great unknown element, which heretofore has been the only vitamin to escape quarantine.—Fred B. Mann.

HOW DOES THE 'LIE DETECTOR' DO ITS WORK?

Can You Imagine Yourself Strapped to This Instrument?

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph. D., Fellow, American Institute of Health and Psychology

(Copyright 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

In the Dr. Wynekoop case it is said that the "Lie Detector" played a prominent role in wringing a confession from the accused.

The Lie Detector, so-called, has been variously named. It has been designated as an "Emotion Galvanometer"—for such it really is—as the "Psychometer" and even as the "Soul Machine".

Nowadays such an instrument usually measures the accused's heart-beat rate and the like, in addition to registering the delicate inner emotion experienced by the subject.

Following is a description of one of the first such lie detectors employed in crime detection. In fact, it was employed by the writer at Police Headquarters in New York City in 1916.

An ordinary galvanometer — which is an instrument that measures the slightest electrical currents—is usually constructed with a dial and needle, by which one may read the amount of electricity passing through the apparatus.

The emotion galvanometer is constructed upon the same principle except that a vertical mirror, suspended at the top, is substituted by fine wire, and rotating in a vertical plane, so as to reflect and reflect a ball of light (from an electric light bulb, usually) of red color upon a screen in front, and about a dozen feet from the instrument.

Now, when an ordinary galvanometer is used, the electricity passes into the instrument through one wire or pole, then through the indicator, then "hot again through a second wire or pole, from which one is, of course, connected with whatever motor or generator is manufacturing the electricity.

But in measuring the emotions no electrical force from a mind comes in contact with the machine. The two wires leading into the instrument each terminate in a copper plate. Each copper plate is placed on a table and the individual whose emotions are to be tested, places the palm of each hand upon one of the plates.

When the subject is attached to the psychometer and you tell him a story, or anything that arouses his emotions, the mirror begins to rotate and the light on the screen between swings backward and forward in wide excursions. The more emotional he becomes the wider the excursions of the light.

How does it work? Well, emotional force is not identical with electricity, but it is somewhat very much like it. When we experience emotion—even if our facial muscles does not reveal it—something akin to electricity is manufactured in the sweat glands and it is this which is tapped by the copper plates and is transmitted to the galvanometer.

The psychometer has been employed in police work as a means of "third degreeing" and is very reliable. It's a fascinating instrument, however.

Can you imagine yourself strapped to this instrument? You are asked a question—whether you are left to love perhaps. You, the examiner has no right to ask you such a personal question, but he has you on a hot spot, you think. You put on your best "poker face", but—

Little Benny's Note Book

We was eating breakfast and ma said to pop, I wonder if it rains this morning and I dont know whether to berden my self with a umbrella or not. The weather seems very changeable and I dont like to doesn't rain on every cloudy day by any means, she said, and pop said, Well, I dont either and I dont like to get wet on the clouds brake and the sun comes out.

And still of course a cloudy sky is no indication that it is going to come, ma said, and pop said, The tents fee groes on a hot day is no indication too.

The point is, I dont want to take my umbrella and risk leaving it somewhere if it's not going to rain but on the other hand nothing is more unpleasant than being caut in a sudden downpore and realizing that you should of taken your umbrella and you dont, and you looked up the weather report in the paper I was to a certain extent showers, but that's very vague to say the least, I mean in the last analysis showers are always possible she said, and pop said, That's a fact by golikes, if the weather ever got to such a pass as that showers were impossible the farmers would have a very gloomy outlook. They'd all half to raise cactus and the prohibitionists the hardest for it he said.

Or else it's too problematic for me, I leave it to you. Willyum, shall I take my umbrella or can I safely leave it at home? I ma said and pop said, There's only one method of precedence, if it's going to rain take it and if it's not, dont. But thats like it, you can stay doing, how do I know, how can I tell? ma said. That just leaves me in the very same lurch, she said, and pop said, I think if I was in your predicment I'd stay home and wait and to find out if it took till midnite, I'd. Just then the sun started to come out and kept on coming. O shaw, I dont need your old advice, I'm going to leave it home.

When she did.

TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS IN BANK FORGOTTEN

Forgotten Account Brought to Depositors Attention by Bank

TORONTO, January 17.— How would you like to wake up some day and find that you had $10,000.00 in the bank and that you had forgotten. This does not seem possible but it actually happened in connection with one of the banks in New Liskeard, Ont., recently, a coal mining centre on the lines of the Canadian National Railways. The bank in question wrote to a Pictou County man asking him to call and have his account checked up. He replied he did not have any account with the bank but the bank officers were insistent that he had. He figured they must be crazy but if anyone knew he handled that kind some money in the bank he would not dispute the matter. He decided he would call and when the manager he was mistaken so he dug around around his old papers and found an old bank book which showed that he had deposited $10,000 in 1913 and then proceeded to forget all about it for the next twenty years. But the bank had not forgotten and the interest had been compounded and the principal and compounded just amounted to $10,000.—Oh boy!

2,000 GARMENT WORKERS QUIT

Higher Wages and Shorter Hours Demanded by Employees

Toronto, Jan. 16 (CP)— More than 2,000 garment workers went on strikes here today, completely paralising the industry, with demands for higher wages and shorter hours which at least one manufacturer conceded was reasonable. But he said employers were unable to do anything without government intervention.

Samuel Insull's residence permit in Greece expires on January 31. Whether or not this will enable U. S. authorities to bring him back to Chicago to answer charges in connection with the Public Utilities scandal in which thousands of Chicagoans lost heavily, Samuel has been fighting fiercely every attempt to get him back to the scene of his ruined financial kingdom. He is reported as saying: " If you were 74, would you go back if your life was in danger of being suddenly cut off?" Meanwhile his brother Martin, also wanted, is fighting extradition in Canada, where he went following the crash. Samuel Jr., son, alone remains on the scene, battling to regain the prestige lost in the scandal that wiped out hundreds of investors. Samuel Jr., and his wife live far more modestly than when he was making millions, but he is vice-president of two large corporations. Concerning opinions among the "man-in-the-street" in Chicago is that Samuel senior will be given a very unpleasant reception if and when he returns. Samuel junior has managed to hold his place in Chicago's social register.

An important ANNOUNCEMENT to car owners regarding PASSENGER TIRE GUARANTEES

BEFORE 1933

Previous to January 1st, 1933, tires made by the companies whose names appear below were guaranteed against faults in material and workmanship only.

DURING 1933

One year ago, on January 1st, 1933, announcement was made that all straight side passenger car tires for use in private service would be sold after that date under a written guarantee against all road hazards, except punctures and running flat, for a period of twelve months or nine months, depending on the grade of tire, and that a certificate of such guarantee for each tire would be issued to the purchaser.

Tires purchased previous to the introduction of the written guarantee carried the former guarantee until the end of 1933. This period now having expired, no further claims can be considered on any passenger tires used in private service unless they were purchased since January 1st, 1933, and are accompanied by the guarantee certificate.

AND NOW

If you purchased, during 1933, tires made by any of these companies, and did not receive a written guarantee, you should at once see the dealer from whom such tires were purchased, and get a guarantee certificate, giving date of purchase of each such tire.

IN FUTURE

Purchasers of straight side tires for private passenger car service hereafter should be sure to obtain from the dealer a written guarantee with each such tire purchased. Purchasers of cars should get a similar guarantee for each new tire on the car at time of purchase.

After this date dealers, branch offices and service departments of all companies can entertain no claims for adjustment of such tires unless ACCOMPANIED BY THE WRITTEN GUARANTEE FORM.

DEVIL'S ISLE NOT SO HARD

Mining Operator, Returning Home Says Stories Exaggerated

Montreal, Jan. 16.—Devil's Island, French penal colony the very name of which is synonymous in the popular conception with horror and privation, is not such a bad place after all, according to W. J. Willems, mining operator in the nearby territory of British Guiana.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Willems in an interview, "Devil's Island is a hospital colony and contains the sanitarium and other buildings. It is really quite a nice place and very interesting to visit. It is the island of St. Laurent where the desperadoes who have made several attempts to escape, and are regarded as hopeless cases, are put to work in chain gangs, like they did in the Southern States of America.

"It isn't really so difficult to escape from Devil's Island," he added. "All the stories about the rigorous discipline and almost brutal supervalence to which they are supposed to be subjected applies only to St. Laurent, from which escapes are never made, I believe.

Stories about man-eating snakes in British Guiana were similarly debunked by Mr. Willems. "It is true we have a few big snakes in British Guiana," he said, "but they so had to do this in self-defence. have never been known to attack human beings, much less eat them."

Blames Authorities For Delay in Investigation

PORT DOVER, Ont., Jan. 16.—(CP)—Five days Mrs. Eva Gamble covered in her home beside the body of her husband after shooting him because of his brutality, then she dragged him to the chicken coop to conceal him, returned to the house, and fired a bullet into her own head, police learned today from a lurid note found on her property.

Discovery of the note enabled police to reconstruct the fatal drama of which they first gained knowledge Monday afternoon, a 13-year old schoolboy discovered Gamble's body lying across the sill of the chicken coop.

"If you had done as I asked you to Tuesday and protected me this tragedy would not have happened," reads the note addressed by Mrs. Gamble to Provincial Police Officers Shipley and Taggart of Simcoe. "I repeatedly asked you for your assistance with this horrible brute that I have been married to. He has repeatedly threatened me lately, speaking several times of killing me and I also asked them in the Government Liquor store but no avail. Only other people. After their prosecutions and convictions in court I could not stand, it any longer. He wouldn't work, either, and he has been living on me. Please notify my sister, Mrs. Wesley Card, at once, and she will look after my affairs as I wish to be buried next to my mother, Mrs. Jim Kitchen at Springfield, Vienna."

Shyness Is a Handicap To Child

May Lead to a Sense of Inferiority in The Years to Come

BY LISA GRENELLE

SHYNESS and self-consciousness are among the most prevalent and painful of human weaknesses. And no child is more in need of patient, careful help than one suffering the torments of self-consciousness.

Do you recall, when you were very young, ever coming home from some adolescent party or childish affair wishing in all sincerity that you were dead—because you had not been popular?

Have you ever watched a child suffer—a part of a group of others, yet apart from them—overwhelmed by an agony of shyness? Seen a little girl turn into an unnatural mess of arms, legs and giggles; or a little boy lose an offensive "show off"—both totally foreign to their own natural selves? And all because of shyness?

I really believe that nothing anyone can go through in later life will cause him more acute suffering than this first awful "shyness"—this feeling of unpopularity and failure.

To the shy, self-conscious child is never popular. Paralyzed with fear, he must be not only unnatural but often offensive, saying the wrong thing, doing the wrong thing, active when he should be still, sitting quiet when he should act, and usually making an awful fool of himself.

A Form of Fear

Can you save your child this pain? Yes, I believe that you can invariably, yes. But you must begin early, possibly as early as at the age of three.

Shyness is a form of fear, just as jealously is. It comes from a sense of inferiority, or from a feeling of strangeness.

We are all afraid of that to which we are not accustomed. If a child is not used to seeing much of other children; if he is not accustomed to coming in contact with people outside the family, he is naturally shy and when first thrown "on his own" he suffers agonies of self-consciousness. With all strangers he is ill at ease, bound to make a poor impression.

But if a child is used to meeting strangers from babyhood, he is at ease with anyone when he reaches maturity. He can skilfully and tactfully handle any contact. He is not afraid.

Let Him Meet People

So make your child a social factor from infancy. Get him accustomed before he is six to meeting strangers in his own home. Let him come down, if only for a moment, to meet father's business friend. Bring him in to tea, after bridge and introduce him to the members of the club. As a baby let him get accustomed to meeting your friends and acquaintances. Teach him from the beginning how to conduct himself in the presence of the enemy—people not predisposed in his favor—people he must win.

For a child first to acquire the necessary social sense with the background of his own home is easy and it gives him a sense of security and freedom, helping him over his first hurdles in shyness.

Let your child learn to be a host before he ceases to be a guest. Give him the importance of this superior position to foster his self-confidence, but insist that he assume also its responsibilities. Teach him to be a good host, considerate and generous, giving way to the wishes of his guests, as you would.

No matter how small your means, try to make your home a social centre for your child's sake. Rid your child of all tendency to shyness before you send him out into the world.

154 PIECES TO MAKE A WATCH IN SHOW WINDOW

The display in the north show window in Angus McFee's jewelry store is of considerable educational value and is attracting interested attention. The jewelry-watch and repairing watches and jewelry is shown and as they are separated, entirely 154 pieces in every watch and it is easy to see that skill and experience are required in taking a watch apart and assembling it again. In the window a watch entirely apart is on display. Two machines are shown which are reminiscent of bygone days before the production of modern movements was so highly mechanized. This was before mass production into existence. Besides, declaning a watch each individual part is cleaned separately and goes through three separate processes before assembling. This is also explained in the display. A crucible in which the fine gold is melted, old watches, rings and other jewelry is shown and a large replica of melted gold as formed in the crucible, is on display. Among the array of precious and semi precious stones are shown some uncut diamonds as they appear after being mined, also diamonds and rubies in the rough and when finished. An extensive display of birth stones is also made. The display is of interest to everyone but students at Belleville's various educational institutions will find that they can obtain much valuable information from it.

Fashion Flashes

TAKE TIME OUT in the form of a watch fob that is a wooden clip. Nice for sports wear, as it can sit unobtrusively on the edge of a cuff, or on a pocket flap. It is available in different woods or combinations of wood and metal.

STRONG HINTS of the new hat fashions are to be found in many of the new models. One new beret with an off-the-face line is done in beige rough silk tulle with all over rings of narrow straw braid in the same shade. Simple trimming is plain bows of the fabric.

CHECKS ARE ENDORSED for Southern wear. A smart suit on strictly tailored lines made of red and blue checked linen is worn with a dark red linen blouse.

A REAL PET is the white woollen coat with its fluffy collar of white fox that frames the face in Italian fashion. This type of coat is a good investment, since it is good for resort wear right through the year as well as for town use.

NO USE LIVING without one dark dress that is right for all afternoon occasions. Such is a model in black crepe marocain, beautifully cut with intricate seaming. Its bib of gold cloth is placed like a necklace hanging in front.

TURN BACK your hat from the face if you would be truly smart. A new and charming model is done in soft felt in green. The rolled back brim is caught with a long, flat bow of the felt. The sides are rather long.

Advice to the Lovelorn
By Beatrice Fairfax

WANTED TO DISCOVER IF HE WAS CLOSE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I went "strong" with a young man for three months, and he had the reputation of being a lighter. I wanted to discover if he really was mean or not, so told him my birthday would be the following week. He sent me a lovely gift, and I was too cowardly to tell him I was joking and that it wasn't my birthday at all.

Somehow or other he found out from the rest of the bunch that it was all a put-up job, to find out if he was close or not, to be had considerately to see me. When I met him on the street the other day, he just called me hard and went on.

Now I feel very sorry, because I have found out the reason he is close is that he has to help out at home. Since the second combine, I have discovered that I really care a good deal about him.

Anna.

You can't blame the young man for feeling irritated under the circumstances, particularly as he insisted in spending came from having to help out at home. I believe your conscience would feel better if you wrote him a little note and told him you were sorry for taking part in this hoax. Then, my dear, you've got to wait patiently and see if he forgives you or not.

HE'D LIKE TO BECOME BETTER ACQUAINTED

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am deeply in love with a girl who was a member of our graduating class last June. I was not well acquainted with her when we were in school together, and I did not show any sign of how much I loved her. Our homes are quite a distance apart, and I do not feel I know her w... enough to call without an invitation. Do you think it would be all right if I were to send her a card, preferably one with a picture of our school on it, and ask her if she remembers?

Student

I think that would be a very good way, indeed, to renew your acquaintance with this classmate. And why stop at the picture postal—why not send along a box of candy, too?

He Hasn't Learned to Live Within His Income!

DISPOSITION gone sour, nerves ready to snap, existence a misery. Life one round of unpaid bills—of stalling off the butcher, the tailor, the rent collector.

He'll have to get out of the mess himself. But he need never get INTO it again. For economy is a matter, first, of budgeting—of balancing income against expenses IN ADVANCE.

Does this mean exchanging misery-living for MISERLY-living? It does not! It means careful day-by-day buying; it means hunting for values and value-events where they're always found; it means BETTER living at LOWER cost; in a word, it means shopping and saving through the Ontario Intelligencer Ads—BY READING THEM EVERY DAY!

Distillery Group Develop Active After Midday and Recessions Are Converted Into Gains — Ford A, Brazilian and C. P. R. Recover Part of Early Losses—Mixed Sent iment on Wall Street Canada Might Construct St. Lawrence Canal and Leave States Out

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 17 (CP)—Selective buying was the order in the early session of the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Volume of trading showed a marked falling off from that of the two previous sessions.

Ford A. alone of the interlisted leaders held its up 4|8, selling at 18¼ while the others were depressed by unsteadiness on the New York bourse. Brazilian and C.P.R. were off ¼ to¾ each and in the distillery group, Walkers preferred and Canadian Industrial Alcohol eased ¼ each and Distillers Seagram was unchanged. Walker's common held a gain of ¾ at noon, selling at 51½.

A little profit-taking came along in Cement fol. and the price sagged more than 2 points while the common went back ¼. Gypsum, Standard Paving and Building Products retained fractional gains.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—Action in the Distillery Group on the Toronto Board developed soon after mid-day and recessions up to 3-4 were converted into gains of half a point or more for Distillers-Seagrams and Canadian Industrial Alcohol and more than two points for Walkers' common.

The general tone of the interlisted group improved in the third hour of the session as the New York market hit a more confident stride. Ford A, Brazilian and C.P.R. firmed and recovered part of their early losses and in the old group British American and International Petroleum registered gains.

The Industrial share-market was again on the up side at the close, gains showing a ratio to losses of 39 to 34 on the Toronto Exchange. Strong groups in the late trading were the Distillery, Utility and Food shares with volume heaviest in these as well as in the oil and consumer-goods issues and also Nickel, and Ford A. The Canada Cement Stocks recorded under profit taking.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 17 (CP)—Irregular movements developed in the Standard Mining Exchange market today, the cheap issues showing the best action when the leaders in all groups eased slightly. The senior gold issues dragged and recorded more declines than gains. Base-metal issues were mainly unchanged. Lake Shore lost 50 cents to $45, McIntyre 50 cents to $41, Wright-Hargreaves 25 cents to $7, Pioneer 20 cents to 11.90 while Teck was up 5 to 6.10 and Hollinger 10 to 12.45.

Active trading appeared in Sylvanite, Reno, Bidgood and Sudbury-Thlenobit. Reno rising to 1.13 from which point it slipped back to 1.06, unchanged from yesterday's close. Sylvanite held a small gain while Sicoe gained 2 to 1.54 and South Thlenobit, 1.50, unchanged at 24.

Noranda and International Nickel boarded only a few broken lot sales and prices were unchanged.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 17.—Speculative sentiment in financial markets was almost as mixed today as Wall Street's interpretations of the government's new fiscal program.

Stocks churned about a little less actively than in the previous session with many of the leaders holding to a rather narrow range. There were a few obviously easy spots but the list, as a whole, did not give very much ground on the strength exhibited by a number of specialties. Bonds were fairly steady.

Shares of Celanese and Armour Preferred were three points each and gains of around two included U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol and Western Union. American Telephone was unchanged while General Motors, U. S. Steel and N. Y. Central eased.

Slight irregularity dominated the Canadian list. Dome mines was steady but small dealings occurred in International Nickel and McIntyre. On the curb Aluminum Wares and Lake Shore Mines ruled about unchanged. Dominion government 4½'s and 5's were fairly steady while the 4's eased ¾ of a point. The Canadian exchange was ¼ of a cent lower at 99.75 cents.

Strikers Begin To Pick Lumber Camps

Chapleau, Ont., Jan. 17—(CP).—Over 100 strikers from lumber camps on the Dalquine River, 30 miles northeast, arrived here shortly before noon today and immediately began picketing to prevent work there from going in to the camps. About 300 more are expected to arrive during the day, leaving only about 40 employed in the three lumber camps where trouble first broke out last Thursday.

"PICKING UP" AT CORBYVILLE

Large Shipment Leaves And Many Older Employees Back

One half of a solid train load of whiskey drawn from the bonded cellars of residents south of the border will leave Corbyville today for an unnamed destination. The shipment is composed solely of whiskey, that had been aging in the huge vats of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol, and marks the first shipment sent from there since repeal of the 18th Amendment in the United States. Other shipments are expected to follow, although how much has not been stated by officials of the company.

Likewise a new era in industrial activities at Corbyville were consecutively ushered by officials of the plant today to be "picking up." Almost 100 of the former employees of the company have been returned to their respective jobs with each department of the vast plant reporting increased activity.

When questioned at the plant, it was stated that the present period of employment would be "fairly permanent."

DESERTED BY BOTH FATHER AND MOTHER

A harrowing tale of the north land was revealed by Inspector T. D. Ruston of the Children's Aid Society, during his return to the Shelter in the city today from Millbridge with the two sets of circumstance, a deaf mute boy of 9 years, and a small girl of 4 years. The children have been placed in the local Shelter where they are at present being cared for.

Some years ago the father of the children left home, and deserted his wife leaving the youngsters behind. Unable to stand the strain of caring for them, the mother also packed up and left lately leaving no trace. The children were left behind, dependent on the care of an aunt, who has since looked after them.

ISLAND WORK PROGRESSING

Zwick's Island Taking Shape Advocated by Landscape Artist

With a pleasing, far-reaching vista of the upper Bay of Quinte already obtained since the removal of the high hills on the south shore of Zwick's Island which have steadily fallen under the combined attack of two hundred picks and shovels by as many relief workers during the past several weeks, the island during the past week or so has rapidly taken on the final shape recommended by the landscape artist, Mr. W. H. Moogk, retained by the city on park planning.

Today the groups of men, split into fifty in a gang, are at work on the new road, which will encircle the island, leading across the marsh on the course of the old road to the Picton highway. Others are still attacking the remaining high knolls and using the earth taken from these locations for filling in the low spots, and the re-making of a beach on the south shore where the location of the bathing beach has been placed. Part of the marsh which encircles the island is also being filled in where it is convenient to haul the material by barrows.

Grade stakes planted by the city engineer guide the workers, who are filling in the low spots with the material taken from the higher levels.

It is expected that the landscape artist who is now completing plans for planting will arrive in the city with the diagram of the island at the end of the month, when first steps will be taken to plot the final details for planting of trees and shrubbery.

ALSO WANTED IN HAMILTON

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 17 (CP)—Inspector W. T. Moore of the local Provincial Police stated today that he holds a warrant for the arrest of John Carson, Toronto, who appeared in police court today charged with the armed robbery of the Westdale branch.

The new warrant charges Carson with the robbery of the Bank of Montreal at Bronte on April 21, 1933 when $1,600 was stolen.

TWO INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Roy Woodbeck and Geo. Shorey Slightly Cut by Glass

Stirling, Jan. 17—(Special)—Roy Woodbeck, driving the paper delivery truck, received an injured knee and was cut by flying glass, a passenger, George Shorey of Campbellton also being cut with glass, when the car in which they were riding, collided with a car driven by Maynard Shaw of Wooler, one mile south of Stirling shortly after ten o'clock this morning. It is understood, Shaw, who was ahead of Woodbeck and proceeding towards Stirling on the Belleville-Stirling highway made a left hand turn, allegedly without giving a signal, of his intention and the driver of the Woodbeck car, probably due to the slippery condition of the highway was unable to stop the car before striking the Shaw car. The Woodbeck car was badly damaged. Mr. Woodbeck and Mr. Shorey were taken to the surgery of Dr. Carleton, for medical attention, later being allowed to proceed to their own homes. Traffic Officer Byles investigated and as yet no charge has been laid by the department.

PARASITES OF SAW FLY NOW BEING CULTURED

Shipments From England Received Daily by Laboratory

Winged allies, of entomologists throughout the country to be used in combatting the destructive European elm saw-fly in the western wheat fields during the coming summer are arriving at regular intervals in the city, it was stated at the Dominion Entomological Laboratory today.

The tiny insects, parasites of the saw-fly, are being cultured at the local laboratory during the cold months and will be dispatched to the west in the spring where they will be liberated in the growing wheat. By attacking the saw-fly they will greatly reduce the numbers of this growing pest, and have done much in recent years to control them.

The little insects are being sent from the Northumberland Royal Laboratories in England, packed in carefully insulated boxes.

Appointment of Excise Inspector

Commenting on the recent appointment of Major A. C. McFee, formerly of this city to the Dominion Inspectorship of Excise "The National Revenue Review" in its January issue says:

"Allan Cameron McFee has been appointed Dominion Inspector of Excise vice Wm. Caten, superannuated. Mr. McFee entered the Inland Revenue Service at Belleville, Ontario, in 1896 as a 3rd Class Excise Officer. He was promoted to 2nd Class Excise Officer in 1902, and to 1st Class Excise Officer in 1904. Two years later Mr. McFee was transferred to the Toronto Division where he served two years, after which he was returned to Belleville. In 1914 Mr. McFee was appointed Collector of Inland Revenue for the Division of Belleville, and seven years later he was reclassified as Special Inspector of Customs and Excise. On January 1st, 1932, Mr McFee was transferred to Ottawa for temporary duty under the direction of Mr. Caten, receiving his present promotion on January 1, 1934.

The new Dominion Inspector of Excise was born in Belleville in 1876. He saw active service overseas in the early part of the war, returning to Canada in August 1917. Mr. McFee brings to his new position the experience of over 37 years service and a confessedly wide knowledge of Excise affairs."

SUDDEN DEATH OF E. W. PLEWS

Kiwanis Club Gives Stamp Albums to Boy Collectors

Picton — Suddenly on Monday, January 15th, at his home on Paul street, there passed away one of Picton's most esteemed citizens, in the person of Edward Thomas Plews, Mr. Plews was born eighty-three years ago in Hallowell township, Prince Edward County, a son of William Plews and Mary Ann Thomas, U.E. He was for many years a successful farmer in the Township of North Marysburgh, Twenty-eight years ago, he retired from farming and made his home in Picton, where he was engaged in the implement business, with Mr. Thomas E. Waring. For the past few years, Mr. Plews had given up active business, with the exception of his work, as a director and valuer of Quinte Agricultural Mutual Fire Insurance Co. In early life he married Jane Rose, who survives him. A son Will Plews of Cressey, and a daughter, Mrs. Howes of Kingston, also survive. The funeral takes place Wednesday afternoon, at his late residence, with Rev. David Wren conducting the service. Interment will be made in the family plot in Glenwood Cemetery.

David and Will Campbell and Karl and Bernard Hogan, are among those who have left for work at Trenton airport.

Master Douglas Bowerman, Cressey, is spending a few weeks at the home of his grandfather, Mr. Jack Dayton, Owen street.

The Kiwanis Club presented stamp albums to the boys of the boys of the Stamp Club at Saturday's meeting of the Club in the Public Library.

Night policeman, B. Ryckman, has been confined to his home with grippe, for the past week. Constable Fred Legge is on night duty during his illness.

Since the injury of Maurice Ferguson, whose leg was broken while sleigh-riding on the Picton Police have been busy keeping the boys from riding down the icy hill roads of the town.

Mrs. Beverley McDonald is very ill at her home, Main Street East.

The Girl Guides' tea, on Monday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. E. H. McLean, was a delightful affair. An interesting feature of which Mrs. Hare admitted the guests, who were present in the "reception hall" by Mrs. McLean and Miss V. McLeish, Captain and Lieut. in charge of the tea.

Mrs. Geo. Haddon looked after the guests in the drawing room, and Mrs. Berg-Tulley directed groups to the dining room, where tea was served from a lovely buffet table with a lace cloth, done complete-ly in silver. Mrs. C. E. Wright presided at the tea table and was assisted in serving by Miss Beth McMullen, Miss Katherine Hepburn, Mrs. Geo. Hepburn. In the evening the Guides entertained at a large bridge at Mrs. McLean's, at which a gratifying sum also was realized.

POLICE COURT

Activities proved rather serene in the local police circles during the past twenty-four hours. Not a single automobile accident was reported in the city although the streets were quite slippery and covered with a thin coating of sleet. Not a single arrest was registered at the police sergeant's desk.

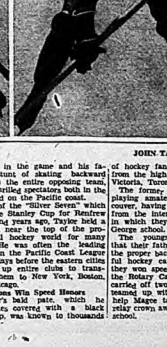
A youthful resident of Stirling faced a charge of issuing a worthless cheque when he appeared before Magistrate Mikel this morning. Restitution was made by the youthful father but sentence in the matter was deferred for one week by His Worship.

Chief Kidd has in his possession an honor coin issued by the Toronto Board of Education. The coin-appearing medal was turned over to the police yesterday, having been found on the street. Apparently it was awarded to a scholar attending public school in Toronto as a signal mark of distinction. Besides a coat-of-arms the words "four years good conduct, punctuality, regularity, diligence", is enscribed on the coin or medal. It awaits its owner at the police station.

PRINCE NOT COMING

LONDON, Jan 17.—(CP Cable) Although it was suggested today in the "Gossip" column of the Daily Telegraph the Prince of Wales might possibly go to Canada this year, the Canadian Press learned authoritatively such a trip had not even been discussed.

JAPS RUSH SHIPS, LA ND MARINES IN CHINESE TROUBLE CENTRE



Fearing disorders at the Chinese city of Foochow (shown above) in the expected collapse of the Fukien rebellion, Japan has sent two additional destroyers into the area and landed marines in the city. The destroyer Hokaze Maru was dispatched to the city from Mako, the Jap naval base in the Pescadores islands nes., Formosa. The Akikaze Maru is en route to the city of Amoy, also threatened with disorders. The cruiser Kuma Maru and the destroyer Sinnie Maru are already stationed at Foochow. Reports from Shanghai state further that the presence of the Japanese ships would be welcome, as the rebels, getting panic-stricken, might loot and terrorize the town.

Fukien rebellion is progressing rapidly, but actual facts of the military situation still remain obscure. Officials asserted that the city of Foochow, capital of Fukien province, is isolated by the Nationalist troops. If this is true, it is expected that the presence of the Japanese ships would be welcome, as the rebels, getting panic-stricken, might loot and terrorize the town.

Famed "Cyclone" Taylor's Sons Following in Father's Footsteps

FRED TAYLOR

JOHN TAYLOR

By Central Press Canadian

Vancouver, Jan. 16—Two young Vancouverites lack but fair to carry on one of hockey's greatest traditions.

They are Fred, 17, and John, 16, the sons of famous Fred "Cyclone" Taylor, hero of many a Stanley Cup battle. He is the man whom Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers, has called "the greatest player of all time."

Cyclone Taylor retired in 1923 after a season with Vancouver Lions, during which he played only home games because of the pressure of business. He is chief commissioner for the Canadian department of immigration for Vancouver. He was one of the speediest and trickiest centres in the game and his famous stunt of skating backward through the entire opposing team, often dazzling spectators both in the east and on the Pacific coast.

One of the "Silver Seven" which won the Stanley Cup for Renfrew years and years ago, Taylor held a position near the top of the professional hockey world for many years. He was often the leading scorer in the Pacific Coast League in the days before the eastern cities bought up entire clubs to transplant them to New York, Boston, and Chicago.

Sons Win Speed Honors

Taylor's bald pate, which he sometimes covering with a black skull cap, was known to thousands of hockey fans, who looked down from the high seats of Vancouver, Victoria, Toronto and Montreal.

The former star's two sons are playing amateur hockey in Vancouver, having recently stepped up from the inter-high school league in which they starred for King George school.

The youngsters demonstrated that their father has given them the proper background for successful hockey careers recently when they won speed skating honors at the Rotary Carnival. Young John carried off two junior titles, and teamed up with Brother Fred to help Magee take the high school relay crown away from King George school.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

by

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

Angus Pond had said, and too tenderly to Cicily, "Isn't our little daughter humorous, with us?" and he had laid a hand upon Cicily's suddenly stiffened arm. From that apathetic aversion, Cicily had learned a full loathing for him, this person who would be her fourth father! She responded politely that she was going to a party, and left the little Kitridges and their mother, to hear Angus' over-voluble regrets.

She would pay for Angus' regret, Cicily knew, as earlier she had paid, with a stoic acceptance of petty insult-finding for the man from cook-out-of-her. Her mother had grown somewhat used to that, but she realized that her mother would never grow callous about Angus Pond's wanting her with whom. Life was not always for the rich, the simple, romantic love affair that is described in certain books. The wrath of the Kitridges had been aroused by a matter which is sometimes mistakenly coupled with plenty: of course he, Peter, worked, so he helped the young Kitridges to build a sandcastle on the shifting sand. Mr. Pond would realize that a special attention was unwelcome to her, to refrain from it. And as she decided this, Cicily knew that Peter's children will be plenty of opportunities for me to see her alone."

He did not plan to cause the least of hurt to Cicily; he knew only that to look on her made him smile, feel young. He would like to have him he wanted to help her, wanted to find through her the feeling of family unit which he had dreamed in a somewhat sentimental manner.

He did not take into account his own weakness where women were concerned the fact that there are in autumn, days borrowed of April. He saw Cicily as ripening to an idyllic relation Cicily depending upon him, bowing her sweet head for his fatherly kiss (delivered on the brow) and seeking his counsel. Had he indulged thought, as he did realizing, he would have realized that something he hadn't reckoned with a man thinks all the while of one woman—the girl—as plans to marry another.

A month later, and in Paris, Cicily for the third time saw her mother married to realize that for her mother the song would be "Love a life four lover." After the wedding Cicily returned to the apartment she had shared with her mother while her mother picked up "the little her necessary things" which had been packed with difficulty in five capacious trunks.

Cicily was to be alone in Paris for the duration of the honeymoon and the problem of a month, during which she could learn if she pleased with no more chaperonage than that of an adoring maid, indulge her close to tremulous. No lodging, no apologizing for people's thinking of her, no criticism from anyone. It would be heaven!

She was the result of the marriage; not an easy task, but at least she could do it without bearing her mother's scorn-seared. Writing your esteemed aunt? Such open-lings for the scorn and bitterness that feed upon family peace, to diminish it. Her mother's ability to destroy it—was one of the hazards which grew of her mother's way of living life, Cicily realized, as she started a letter. If she married she would stay married, to build a united family. No children of hers would have to hide the love for their father's sister, or for any near relation. I've married she would stick to it—even if it killed her!

She flushed suddenly....she had had a flash of the face of the boy called Geoffrey Field. "It's absurd, she reasoned—and— it clung!

CHAPTER 2

Ten years and a half later Geoffrey Field looked across [illegible] table. Above a low bowl of shell-pink roses and framed by two tall candles was the loveliest girl he had ever seen. She was listening with an almost ardent attention to some long-winded old Blond, who told every one he could detail of his trip to Africa in 1927. Geoffrey heard him, loud, ponderous, dull: "And lub to that romantic, my pure young lady, no white man had ever set foot up-that spot!

He strained his ears to catch her reply, but some queer sudden laugh muted it. She probably had a calliope voice or sauterell; there must be some flaw, he reasoned. The girl on his right demanded his attention for a few—long—minutes. Then again he looked across the roses to the girl's profile. "My goh!" he thought. She was "having above a mop and hand had drawn on his hostess' best dinner cloth". Geoffrey heard: "The king of the jungle was here, and here, of the jungle was here, and here, dense bushes. I stood over my black boys were grouped around, here, here—

At that point she raised her head and turned her face to meet Geoffrey's concentrated appraisal of her. She nodded, and smiled a bit uncertainly. After a moment of blank staring he returned her nod and her flash but that she was "on to her" he not knowing her.

"By the by" he said suddenly to the neighbor girl he'd taken in, "I can't remember the name of that golden-haired girl in the golden dress. Who is she?"

"Miss Cicily," she answered, "Miss Mia Eden's niece. She's living with Miss Eden now. I don't know a thing about her." the girl paused to laugh unpleasantly, but Geoffrey made no response he had heard her vaguely and as men often heard other women when first assailed by the beauty that was Cicily's.

Geoffrey nodded, turned to the girl he had taken in; he had been scanning that her dreams and all her thoughts of him— had been "quite too absurd!"

She must not show him how she felt! She stiffened and a layer of ice was added to that which was often upon her while men admired.

"Look here, may I come to see you?" she heard. She answered with a studiedly casual, "I'd be charmed to have you come."

"When?"

"Say—some time next week?"

"Oh—look here! (He moved quickly in his chair) "Next week it is a hundred years away and the nights are going to be endless for me. Now for the motion the days!"

"Well, if you'd like—"

"I want to come tomorrow," he interrupted.

"It's tea!"

He considered that, his eyes for a moment leaving her face and memorizing as he fixed them up a wall where he saw, listed, the timings of "the do's". He knew now that he had never loved before and knew now what love could mean.

He thought first of his next day and of what he must do in it.

"Could I drop in for a few moments at six? he questioned. He made it a rule not to let even the utmost in pleasure interfere with business."

"And is that wise," she asked, "or is that ico personal a question?"

"Nothing's too personal for anyone to ask," he responded, who felt no need for the hidden chamber for himself or others, "but I know my favorite reason common sense, and that the one I've chosen is the only one that gets you there—there are always gillies and as good as you crowding you to get your place if you lose your foothold for a second. But—you didn't answer me; tomorrow at six? Again his eyes were upon her face—"A most inviting and steady gaze," she thought and "magnetic!" She had hoped dreamed, even when he stood, a youthful god upon her altar, that he would grow to be quite so arrestingly handsome in a hard-muscled, masculine way. She put aside her half promise to go with Miss Ella to Brooklyn in order to spend the afternoon and evening with "dear old Miss Brooklyn"

"To-morrow at six," she agreed. Hiding [illegible] Cicily pondered, at length and from all angles, what she would wear for her appointment of the morrow at six. And when a woman assembles the prettiest of her wardrobe to wish it were prettier, love has flown into the window and—the picture.

Geoffrey, that night, did not sleep well, but the next morning he was up at eight and after a cold tub he felt better. "I'll have to close this deal in a hurry," he thought grimly, as he knotted his tie. "I can't be diverted, once I've set my mind on—for business!"

The ends of his tie differed in length, one hanging almost four inches below the other. "Damn!" he muttered, his frown increasingly. He jerked the knot open angrily, pulled the tie harshly around his collar, repaired its damage. He knew, to the minute, "exactly how long" it took him to dress; but the "how long" allowed for no hands that were thickened by thoughts of a girl....Yes, he'd have to close it in a hurry....Then, selling, after a little time, in a decent rush, he could give every ounce of energy to business. He must send her flowers.

As the whistles shrieked noon and the tall buildings, which the worshippers of speed call "temples of business," spat from their vast cavernous mouths a tangle of languid, jaded and sullen workers, Geoffrey remembered Cicily for the first time since he had realized he must speed up the ordinary or.....allow more time for dressing.

"Miss Marks?" he said to his befallible secretary.

"Yes, Mr. Field?"

"Miss Marks, I want you to order some flowers sent to Miss Cicily Eden; the address is in there. He coerned a small book while speaking which held addresses that passed some streets his late mother would not have known. "Something very nice," he ended, "but you'll know—"

His brows tightened for a second as he tried to recall what Cicily had said about flowers. She liked hot-house ones? Damned if he could remember anything but his satisfaction in the texture of her skin. "Orchids and sweet peas and lilies of the valley, that pained ended.

"Yes that they're very nice, Mr. Field, Do you want any message on your card or merely the pre-sent from Geoffrey?

He wanted to write a message, but he looked at the clock, to know that writing the message was "impossible."

Revaluation of Canadian Dollar Predicted Due to Move of Roosevelt

Would Stabilize Exchange Between Canada and U. S.

15 TROY GRAINS

Prices Within Canada Might be Raised And Private Debtor Helped

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—Parliament will by naked before the end of the session to approve a government bill reducing the gold content of the Canadian dollar. It was believed in cabinet circles today, following the announcement of President Roosevelt's plan for a 60-cent dollar.

The major portion of Canada's external trade and financing is carried on with the United States and the United Kingdom and there are widespread demands from exporters, as well as importers, for the early stabilization of our fluctuating exchange with these countries. Canadian importers hesitate to make commitments for more than thirty days ahead, and the uncertainty with respect to exchange has had a restricting effect on trade quite as serious as the high tariff walls which have been erected in all countries.

Dollar Already Down

The value of the Canadian dollar of 100 cents has recently represented a value in the legal gold standard varying between 60 and 70 cents. In other words, the dollar has been depreciated by more than 30 per cent. following the abandonment of the gold standard. The government of the United States has deliberately effected a depreciation in the gold value of the United States dollar. The Canadian dollar, instead of representing 23.22 troy grains of pure gold, as provided by the statute of Canada, now represents less than 15 grains of pure gold.

There is now an agitation in favor of parliament fixing a new gold standard of, say, 14 grains for 100 grains of pure gold to the dollar, so that the nominal value of the dollar may more closely correspond to its actual value expressed in gold, or in the currency of countries such as France, which still adhere to a gold standard.

The pure gold content of the dollar may, of course, be changed in the discretion of parliament, and action would be taken on the initiative of the government, which is now understood to be giving serious consideration to the question, reinforced by the recent action yesterday of President Roosevelt.

Lighter Debt Burden

The adoption by statute of such a lower gold content of the Canadian dollar would, undoubtedly, have a wide-spread reaction. It would in due time reduce by one-third the burden of all indebtedness payable in Canadian currency, and would tend to increase prices of commodities in the domestic trade of Canada in a similar proportion.

There has also been strong propaganda in Canada in favor of the Dominion government increasing its present note issue by about $100,000,000 and using the extra issue of about $100,000,000 of notes in payment of current government indebtedness, instead of issuing and selling to the public Dominion bonds for that purpose. It is said to be believed, will be raised at the approaching session of parliament. However, Prime Minister Bennett and some of his leading ministers like Hon. C. H. Cahan are convinced that parliament will not approve of the unlimited issue of Dominion notes for the purpose of defraying the expenses of government. Mr. Bennett believes that kind of inflation would lead to national insolvency, that turning to the printing press would be fatal and would lead to a fiscal paralysis. He still stands for sound money.

BODY KEPT FOR 4 DAYS

Police Hear Witness Who Entered House, While Body Inside

Simcoe, Ont., Jan. 17 (CP)—Police delved still further today into the death of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gamble of Port Dover, and announced a witness would be called at the inquest next Thursday who had entered the Gamble home while the body of the man, supposedly shot by his wife, was lying on the floor covered with newspapers. Mrs. Gamble shot herself fatally when police entered the house.

The couple had had numerous domestic difficulties. A coroner's jury cutting through the Gamble lot Monday found the body of the man in a chicken coop. Rope was bound around his ankles and neck. He had been shot in the back of the head. According to a police theory, Mrs. Gamble kept the body in the house for four or five days, and later dragged it to the chicken coop with the rope. Then, when discovery neared, she shot herself.

The name of the witness has not been divulged. She has been questioned by the police, who declared she would not be held but would be asked to appear at the inquest.

Weston, Ont., Jan. 17—(CP)—The youths of today use their brains more than their fathers and mothers did, according to A. Pearson, principal of Weston's $500,000 vocational school. "They take a more intelligent interest in their work," he said.

CHAIRMAN OF LOCAL HYDRO IS SPEAKER

tock was fined $2.00 for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk. At present he is manager of the Belleville Fruit Company and an Alderman in the City Council. Not many will know that Frank was a Flight Lieutenant in the Air Force and was ready to proceed overseas when the Armistice was signed.

Finances of Club Good

The financial statement of the club was given by Chester Smith and although the balance is not as large as in other years, yet the Club carried out many projects during the year and were able to break on the right side of the ledger. The speaker of the day was introduced by A. B. Collins, K.C., and Rotarian appropriately was requested by George Cole. In opening his remarks Hydro manager, Mr. Reid explained that he was always in favour of the city owning their Hydro system, and that he was a friend of the Hon. Robert Cooke with Harry Hill and Colonel Ponton, to get the system. He spoke of the disagreement with the commission on paying the exchange between Canada and the United States on Hydro power, but the sanctioning of the former opponent to the extent of $1,000,000. He has practically all paid back. 46 per cent in January, 1933, leaving the entire balance since. The Ontario Commission in 1932 made one million between the pound sterling and the Canadian dollar and $1,400,000 between the American and Canadian dollar as quoted by Hon. Mr. Cooke.

Web Purchase

The chairman of the commission gave figures to show that the city had got the purchase. The plant cost in 1929, $192,327.66 for improvements by the addition of the Belleville Electric Power Co. plant, 158.70-making a total of $228,336.30. There is outstanding $52,000, making an expenditure of $176,366.30. The present value of the plant is $246,-231.44 and with equity in the Ontario Commission of $47,919.61, making a total of $281,231.57. The liabilities less liquid assets are $19,-230.73, which give a net value of $262,980.73. The total profits from 1929 to 1933 not including the amounts paid on debentures is $315,-785.50. "This year" said the speaker, "we have paid off for $15,000 more, leaving a balance to be paid of $37,000.00. The rebate to the city this year was $3,873.35 with a network deficit of $981.45 making the net cheque back to the city of $2,891.90. The commission has reason ended to the council to equip Bridge Street east, Victoria Avenue, and other streets with the new lighting but the council is not bound to act as each body is corporate and separate." All this has been accomplished without asking the citizens for one cent in taxation, although the City Council guaranteed the bonds for the purchase price.

Touched on Rebates

The speaker then touched on the rebates that had been given to the different organizations in the city, the Kiwanis Club being one to have returned to them a large sized cheque. Mr. Reid quoted the rates in 1929 in comparison with 1933. That is the domestic, commercial and power, and showed that the citizens were being well treated. Mr. Reid stated he objected to taxes being placed on the Hydro property as it belonged to the citizens and should be as free from taxation as the City Hall. Ninety water heaters have been placed in the city and the Hydro paid out $585.00 in wages for installation. Mr. Reid told the club if they contemplated bringing in a midway next summer to first come to the Commission and talk the matter over before signing any agreements.

In conclusion the chairman stated that Hydro was just in its infancy and that the future was exceedingly bright and Belleville was in a most favorable position. He said the illumination of Front Street was worthwhile and suggested that next year Bridge Street from the lower bridge to the Quinte and Armourles be likewise decorated.

EXAMINATION FEES CUT BY HON. MR. HENRY

Dollar Per Paper in County And Lower in Districts

EXPLAINS SYSTEM

Fees Paid by Local Boards With Some Rebate Made

TORONTO, January 17—Premier George S. Henry in his capacity as Minister of Education, announced to the Province, a reduction in the scale of 1934 examination fees. Concurrently, the Premier issues statistics showing a reduction during the past year of $13,000 in net cost to the Province on account of examinations.

Dollar Per Paper

"The Minister of Education announces that the fee to be charged candidates in the departmental examinations of 1934, have been reduced from $1.50 per paper to $1 per paper in the county and from $1 to 75 cents in the provincial districts," says the official announcement.

"During the past two years the cost per examination has been greatly reduced not only by the policy of accepting the reports of teachers on the standing of pupils, but also by reductions made in the amount paid to those charged with the conduct of the examinations.

"The net cost to the Province on account of all examinations, after deducting the share of fees received in 1931, was $275,877; in 1932 $145,729 and in 1933 it was $100,066. The amount of fees received in 1931 was $138,525; 1932, $170,976; and 1933 $157,865.

Two Reasons Given

"The decrease in the amount of fees received in 1933 as compared with those of 1931 was due mainly to two circumstances, the transfer of the lower grade examinations to local High School Entrance Boards, and the broader understanding of the fact that upper school certificates in all except three subjects carry with them middle school standing. Pupils can be promoted throughout the courses in the schools of this Province without writing any departmental examinations.

"The local cost of examinations are paid by local Boards of Trustees, which receive the entire amount of fees paid by lower school candidates and 40 per cent. of the fees paid by those of the middle and upper school. The amount received usually reimbursed boards for expenditures and net cost of the larger schools where the examination hall contains a maximum number of candidates, but a comfortable balance is not unusual. The Department of Education makes a grant on account of the lower school examination to any centre which accepts fall short of expenditures."

SCHOOL BOY GIVEN 18 MONTHS IN PRISON

Found Guilty of Causing Bodily Harm to Companion

Moose Jaw, Jan. 17 (CP)—Without emotion Joseph Robert Birch, 15 year old farm boy, today had heard Judge H. Y. MacDonald sentence him to 18 months' imprisonment at Regina Industrial School for the shooting of a school companion.

Three charges were laid against the young lad, one of attempting the wounding of Lawrence Bishop, 16, on his father's farm last October. They were attempted murder, unlawful wounding and causing grievous bodily harm. A jury deliberated 50 minutes before returning a verdict on the last count.

The hearing, believed to set a precedent for Saskatchewan, was held in Kings Bench court. The Saskatchewan Juvenile Court Act provides for the trial of juveniles in open court where seriousness of the case warrants.

PERSONAL

—to a lady

THIS evening when your husband comes home, what would he think if you greeted him in the wedding dress you wore a good many years ago? One thing sure—he'd silently wonder how you could have seemed so lovely then in an outfit that looks so old-fashioned now.

We wonder if your husband realizes there has been as much change in furniture as in wedding dresses? (Remember what you told him the other day, "Most of the furniture in this house was bought right after we were married.")

There is no better time than now to greet him in that wedding dress—and then show him the furniture advertisements in the newspaper! Today you can read about and see pre-views of the furniture shows that will be held next month, so close at hand. And it will probably surprise you to learn he is as interested as you are. Men don't like to go through the stores to shop. But it's quite easy to get them to read over the advertisements in the quiet of your home.

Wouldn't today be a good time to get him to say "yes" about that new furniture you've been wanting?

'Rabbit' McVeigh Scores Winning Goal For Amerks

(By The Canadian Press)

Ken Doraty, a mite of a man, who has what it takes to get overtime goals, is at it again. The little fellow, hero of the Boston-Toronto National Hockey League title series last year with his extra-time scoring punch, sharpened his eye for the playoffs last night with three overtime goals that gave Toronto Leafs a 7-4 victory over Ottawa Senators.

Aided by Hec Kilrea and Bill Thoms, Doraty sent Ottawa crashing to its fourth defeat in five starts after the Senators had led by two goals twice during the game. His play was the highlight of an N.H.L. night, that saw the season scoring record twice equalled and three of the leagues reigh in upsets.

Rabbit McVeigh's overtime goal gave Americans a 3-1 win over their intra-city rivals, Rangers, which, with the victory, at least, lifted them out of the cellar for the first time in many a moon.

Two rookies, Bill MacKenzie and Russell Blinco, scored a pair of goals each on Charlie Gardiner at Montreal and Marcoux came through with a 6-5 overtime win from Chicago. Boston won their first game this year, grubbing Canadiens 4-0 at the Bruins' home.

Eight Thousand Victory

Eight thousand Ottawans saw visions of a victory for their favorites when Albert Leduc and Max Kaminsky scored in the first overtime period after a scoreless first session. Then Joe Primeau, the Toronto Ball line went into action in the third and scored the tying goal in the 11 up in less than five minutes.

Ottawa hopes rose again when Busher Jackson got loose. Roche made it 4-3 with less than six minutes left to play but Doraty came through with a 6-5 overtime win from Chicago. Boston won their first game this year, grubbing Canadiens 4-0 at the Bruins' home.

HARD TASK TO PICK A TEAM

Belleville Juniors Will Wear Familiar Red and White Sweaters

After a lapse of a number of years the Belleville Juniors are to be restored to their old colours of red and white when they take to the ice in their initial game of the 1934 O.H.A. hockey season against the speedy Hamilton Juniors on Thursday night. Not since the days when "Gunner" Arnott, "Pete" Whalen, "Bowser" Holway, "Bill" Green and "Soup" Goyer teamed with the local hockey celebrities has a Belleville team appeared before a home crowd decked out in the old "red and white", the uniform worn during so many past hockey matches when the name of Belleville rang clear and often along the horizon of provincial hockey circles.

It was following the recent enthusiasm of local junior talent shown that prompted Manager Ed. Thomas to return to the old love, the red and white uniforms, for his charges. Every evening this week the Juniors have been holding swap at the arena from seven until eight o'clock during the preparation for the big game on Thursday night. Every fortnightful aspirants appeared at the arena on Monday night when skipper Thomas weeded out the misfits from the chaff and held a lengthy workout of about 25 players yesterday evening. Again the segregating process was put into effect with the result that that twenty will be on hand tonight when the kids hold their final workout. Two goal tenders are battling for that position with "Shiner" Binfield holding the inside position owing to his previous experience over "Curly" Churchill.

Team Nearly Picked

In all probability the 1934 edition of the Belleville juniors will be picked from the following aspirants: Coal, Binfield or Churchill; the defence will be picked from such players as "Shad" Embry, Bob Greer of Wellington, "Stew" McElrath, late of the B.C.I. and V.C. junior second scholastic squad as is Jim Kokesh, another defenceman. The forwards on hand are Don Lee and George High, centreman, Dominguez of Albert College, Cy Barrigar and a lad named Murphy, both hailing from Napanee. Several more "green" stuff on the two L'Heureux brothers, Bill and Morris, whose brother is a player in Canadian hockey circles and judging from their showing thus far his sons are following in their father's footsteps, Jimmie Ling, Stitt, Boulter and Freddie McGuire of the last year juniors as well as a few others are facing the final elimination test at practice tonight.

The Hastings Juniors have the pick of all ten age kids from Hastings, Norwood and Campbellford and are expected to be a fast aggregation of seven of youthful puckchers. With the majority of the local contingent facing their initial season of O.H.A. hockey a keen game of hockey is looked for in the fixture when Belleville Bill Green drops the rubber on Port Colborne's team in the opening tilt in local junior O.H.A. circles this season.

CURRENT SPORT

Following the recent Campbellford-Belleville hockey game we appreciated Referee Ross Burtt relating to big stand in the matter of operations of ten minutes, with no rest period following the expiration of the regular sixty minutes. Referee Burtt was quite confident that the amateurs were playing the same rules as were the pros, thus necessitating no rest for the players before the overtime started. Being slightly skeptical we duly sent copy into the wastebasket and after leafing through the 1934 C.A.H.A. rule book discovered yesterday that Mr. Burtt is "all wet" as rule number ten fully explains that there is to be a ten minute rest period at the termination of the regular sixty minutes. The teams then play ten minutes, five each way, and if no score is registered they halt hostilities. (Attention Mr. Burtt).

While witnessing the Hemlock-Belleville game on Wednesday night we observed that the new goal creases, recently adopted by the O.H.A. as a protection for goal tenders from attacking forwards, had been laid out at the Jack Harty arena. The creases form a six foot square directly in front of the goal mouth, in which no attacking player can enter without the puck in his possession. Incidentally these creases were a minus quantity at the Campbellford Maroons played here recently, so lets hope they are in place for Thursday night's game.

"Tommy" Thompson who coached the B.A.A.A. juniors back in 1932, returned to the city yesterday and intends taking up residence here for the winter at least. "Tommy" tells us he has been doing considerable refereeing in the Mercantile League in Toronto this season and is anxiously waiting a few O.H.A. officiating appointments in Eastern Ontario.

Hemlock "Dairy" and the local Cities Service tie into it again this evening down at Kingston when they will try and decide who will draw first blood in the league finals. Incidentally the local fans who can make the trip will be amply rewarded for their attendance as these play-off games have been featuring the fast school. Apparently the warning issued by the Kingston officials has filtered as the players on both clubs tendency to be a bit overly fighting and played hockey throughout.

During the absence of Flying Officer Laurie Wray, who has been in charge of all sport activities at the Trenton Airport, flying duties, he has resigned to have been named as his successor. The pilot officer is to be reported to-wards the welfare of the boys at the relief camp.

Basketball makes its initial appearance in Belleville this season when the C.M.C.I. team meets the Deacon A. C. kids in the opening game of a double-header that sees the Y.M.C.A. intermediates in the high-card affair at the Y.M.C.A. As it has been some time since O.S.S.A. basketball has been seen locally a large crowd of fans will welcome this speedy brand of sport back to Belleville. We understand that the B.C.I. and V.S. senior football squads will hold their informal dance at the armouries tomorrow night when the silver trophy emblematic to the senior championship of the C.O.S.S.A. football title will be presented.

Manager Riddle Thomas seemed quite satisfied with the showing of his kids on Monday night when us that Belleville has the makings of a real team in the making here in the rough. The kids make their initial bow before a home crowd on Thursday night when they meet the Stastings "Amalgamates" in a regular Junior O.H.A. fixture.

Judging from the number of ral birds all last night's practice the fans are somewhat interested in the welfare of the local junior squad as fully 250 fans watched the kids perform. Aspiring youngsters were on hand from various points around the district, some coming all the way from Napanee to try their luck with the "red and white". Thursday night, however, will tell just how strong the locals are but judging from the manner in which Glen Ketcheson drilled will have an up-and-fighting team at least.

Regarding Monday night's game at Kingston the Limestone City sports commentator says: "Every Belleville player a section of the fans expect to see one of the Morgans go on a rampage. He didn't last night and played good, hard and clean hockey all the way through. Next why some fans should pan players when they are willing to play hockey minus the rough stuff is more than we can understand. Last night a few or the rabid fans were calling out to "get Morgan". Such stuff is, to say the very least in as mild a form as possible, unsportsmanlike and uncalled for."

HAMILTON TIGERS STILL THREE POINTS IN LEAD

Hamilton Tigers today were still three points ahead of Toronto Maple Nationals in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association standings, for they had to stage a real fight on Port Colborne ice to maintain their lead when the crippled Sailors forced the issue into overtime last night before bowing to a 3-1 score.

While the Tigers were fighting the sailors, who held them in check for three periods without the services of the defence stars Morelli and Heid, West Toronto, Nationals were smothering Kitchener with a 6-3 beating. In the third battle of the night the lowly Toronto Varsity crew were being firmly cemented to cellar position by dropping a 5-2 decision to Niagara Falls.

New York Giants to Have Practically Same Line-Up

Youngsters Have Not Much Chance to Break in This Year

New York, Jan. 17—(CP)— You won't have much trouble recognizing the world champion New York Giants when they begin their bid for another National League pennant in April.

The official roster lists 22 players for the spring training trip to Miami Beach and only three of these were not wearers of a Giant uniform at one time or another last year. Two of them, George Grantham and Resco Thompson, will need no introduction to major league fans. The other, Joe Bowman, six foot two, inch right hander bought from Portland, is the only real newcomer listed.

Manager Bill Terry plans to start spring training with 11 pitchers, two catchers, 10 infielders and five outfielders. Nine of these will have to be cut off the payroll by May 16 when the player limit becomes operative.

Barring accidents or developments, it appears now the Giants will have the same infield that helped win the pennant a year ago —Terry, Hughey Critz, Blondy Ryan and Johnny Vergez.

Same Outfield

Melvin Ott, Joe Moore and George Davis will patrol the outfield assisted although the liveller National League ball may mean the return to regular duty of Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, a fine hitter who found the end ball of 1933 a sad handicap.

Gus Mancuso will do the bulk of the catching with Virgil Davault and Hal Schumacher, Roy Parmalee and Fred Fitzsimmons will divide the "goat" of the mound staff and Bill Clark, Adolfo Luque and Carl Hubbell heading the relief squad. Bowman, Bill Shores, Al Smith and Johnny Gabrean will make it out for the vacant spots on the pitching staff.

George Grantham, brought in a trade from Cincinnati, Travis Jackson, and perhaps Thompson, former second baseman for the Phillies, possibly will be carried as infield replacements and leaving Manager Dressen, Jo Moore and Joe Martin practically left at the bottom before spring training gets starts.

Homer Fred Fritz Lieber and Ethan Wentzinger can battle it out for one reserve outfield post and Frankie Demaree, Fred Richards and Harry Danning for the extra catching job.

All in all, it looks practically impossible for any of the youngsters to crash into the regular lineup.

Rev. John R. Kovalevitch Tells of Work in All Nations Church Situated in Toronto

Interviewing the Rev. John Roberts, one of the five pastors of the Church of All Nations, people now in this city conducting the mission during the Bay of Quinte Conference Winter School being held this week at Bridge Street Church, is one of the easier tasks a reporter is called upon to perform from time to time.

It was at, the close of the afternoon program held for the young people in the church on Tuesday afternoon that the vitally human, dynamic and interesting pastor personally conducted the writer a number of questions regarding his work and that of the Church of All Nations in the larger city. Briskly he led the way to a quiet room off the main chancel as the formalities of introduction were over.

"In the first place," remarked the pastor, almost before the note book had been produced, "perhaps I had better give you my correct name. It is John Robert Kovalevitch. Call-cian," he added, anticipating the question. "I was born in Eastern Galicia. The shorter version of my name, however, appears better on church announcements and programs."

With a clipped correctness, but with a fluency which is given only to few born a man's language later in life—he first took up the study of English at the age of nineteen—the Rev. John Robert Kovalevitch outlined the work that was being carried on quietly in his church at Toronto.

Make Home For All.

"The Church of All Nations," said he, "has been a part of the evangelism of changing times. Our object has been to make a home away from home for all classes who enter Canada. Perhaps we could say it, perhaps, internationalization of Christianity. Any person of any nationality can find a welcome and a home. Actually the largest number is composed of the Scandinavian races, including Norwegians, Finns, and Danes. We also have large number of Galicians, Hungarians, Poles, Germans, and even a few Japanese who have become Christianized."

"And the Greek Orthodox?" prompted the questioner.

"Yes, we have them. We came the answer in a flash, so typical of the Canadian spirit. "Friends where religion is banned; where churches have been despoiled and caricatured. Where people are starved upon. Religion is fast becoming lost in that country. But we have many many in this country of the Greek Catholic Orthodox faith who still retain their services in the same manner in which they were carried on in the old. Many, when they came to this country, have kept up the customs of their faith in which they were born, but the newcomer, the native born, are losing much of their faith." There is a noticeable drift trend to other religions, however.

Five Pastors At Church

"Our church in Toronto is a large one," stated the pastor after a brief pause during which his fingers drummed a tattoo on the table top in an effort to work off some of the nervous energy so apparent. "We have five pastors who conduct services for their own particular race. The church may be said to be divided into five sections, with two chapels attached for Sunday service. Each pastor has certain hours in which to take charge of his flock on that day, so you see that Sunday is a busy one for us."

The church follows the usual form of United Church services for all races. Although services are held separately on Sunday, owing to the fact that the language is different, we are an integral unit on week days—an amalgamation perhaps you could say. Into this church, as I have said before, all are welcome. Much of our congregation is composed of transient worshippers who are finding it hard to become used to their new country. Slowly, oh so slowly, they are being taught the customs here and the newer customs of their adopted country through the medium of the concerts and church socials we are holding all the time. Then, too, we have the universal service for the whole congregation at various times in the church."

18,000 Ukrainians

Some idea of the immensity of the task of caring for these foreign-born residents is given in the statement by the Rev. Robert Kovalevitch that a recent census has approximately ten thousand Ukrainians residing in Toronto. The other races are represented in a corresponding ratio. It is among this class of resident that the Church of All Nations primarily appeals.

"At times, especially during the past few years," we have found it hard to keep going," admitted the pastor when the question of finances was introduced. "However, we have been assisted greatly by the regular parishioners who are generally generous in their contributions. It is by this means, and the holding of special concerts that we are able to keep up."

As a change from the regular concerts and programs, a series of "international fairs" are held from time to time. To these fairs come representatives of each race, bearing articles which are typical of the race, articles peculiar to the country of their origin are hung on counter-like fairs and the curious and eager buyers of all races flock to the booths to secure the coveted bargains. Proceeds of the sales are turned back into the church funds.

"You would be surprised to see the many helpfulness that exists among the members of the congregation," added the pastor. "We are, indeed, a family, and when they do much to let each individual of the race know they are interested in him."

The Rev. John Robert Kovalevitch, who was born in eastern Galicia left Canada a few years ago to journey to South America where adventure beckoned. At the age of nineteen he was living in Buenos Aires, learning the customs of that country and the Latin language. After residing there for some years he again felt the urge of adventure and sailed for Canada. He settled in the west in Manitoba for a time and then returned to Toronto where he attended school.

Could Speak No English

"I couldn't speak a word of English when I came to Canada, but after a year or so here I gradually caught on, and since then I have had little difficulty," stated the smiling pastor. His precise diction of today bears out the statement well.

After studying in Toronto some time, John Robert Kovalevitch then journeyed to Bloomfield, New Jersey, where he again took up his studies. Finishing school there he again returned to western Canada, when the first call of the ministry was felt. He returned then to make it his life work and studied for that end. In 1924, at the Manitoba Conference, he was ordained, and given charge of a circuit which included five churches or missions, composed for the most part of members of his own race. The settlement in Saskatchewan was made up for the most part of Ukrainians. The Rev. Kovalevitch was forced to take a train to cover the territory allotted to him.

Always, he confided, however, he had harbored the thought of some day having a church somewhere where newcomers to the country, or even older residents who had not yet absorbed the customs of their adopted land could be cared for. It was a hazy scheme of "Christianizing Christianity". Here, he thought, lay the goal of his endeavors, and to that end he worked.

It was about four years ago that the Rev. Kovalevitch got the chance to return to Toronto and pioneer the work of the Church of All Nations. In company with ordained ministers of the same United Church faith, but formerly representing a different language, he went to work. The start was slow, but it appeared sure. The church has prospered. Success seems within. But still the fight goes on. The Rev. Kovalevitch, youthful and full of purpose and energy bids fair to make the Church of All Nations just one of many before his life's work is over. Some day, who knows, the movement will have spread until its branches will have been distributed more widely in the country than the little missions in the settlement he covered so long ago.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL
"THE WRECKER"

What is a man to do when he discovers that he controls the destinies of two people he hates: his unfaithful wife and the false friend who stole from him? Shall he allow them to perish or shall he use the knowledge that only he has to save them from death?

This is the perplexing problem that confronts Stephen Lord in "The Wrecker", the dramatic photoplay opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. Cast as the erring pair are Genevieve Tobin and Charles Bickford, whose latest appearance was in Columbia's "Cocktail Hour".

The devastating earthquake that shook Southern California early last year provides the powerful climax to the screen story and furnishes the highly dramatic setting for the situation described above. Albert Rogell, who wrote the story, also directed it.

Following the quake, the illicit lovers are entombed together in the ruins of a flimsy school structure erected by Blackmer with below-grade materials to increase his profits. Only Holt, "the wrecker", has the expert knowledge necessary to free them from the ruins.

This is perhaps the strongest dramatic role Holt has ever had. He receives able support, too, in the semi-comic, semi-tragic portrayal by George E. Stone of the role of the ambitious little junkman.

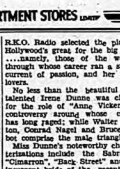
See the earth tremble before your eyes—thousands scurrying to shelter—buildings of steel collapsing —EARTHQUAKE!

And on the same program we offer you another type of feature.

KEN MAYNARD RETURNS

Billed as a "riot" of western, Universal's rip-roaring, rough, riding "King of the Arena" with Ken Maynard which opens a featured run at the Capitol Theatre Thursday, that is to be claims in a sensational manner.

Ken Maynard has what it takes to give every member of the family a hot pulse and a refreshing evening of entertainment. It's literally a circus—because the action starts in a circus tent and before the intrepid Ken and his famous horse, Tarzan, have the big tent, plenty has happened. Plenty more occurs during the ensuing action tingling reels when the handsome Texas ranger runs down criminals into the desolate hills of Mexico and has to fight for his life to come through.



Hoot Gibson, ever great in his show, of course, with their spectacular and unequalled exhibitions of manship and furious action. but a laurel and hardy thriller in the pretty blonde head of Lucille Browne, sees in the feminine lead.

Take the kiddies, Mother, Sister, Sweetheart, Grandpa — or if you're single, take the whole family. It's a don't miss this red-blooded picture!

And tonight will positively be your last chance to see a drama that will take notice as it applies to our modern youth and age. Rachel Waters renowned Blues Singer of radio fame in an excellent comedy musical: An Oriental Cocktail. The last Doris-Sonbey entertainers and Capitol News of the Day—yes it's a show you must see.

RKO. Radio selected the pick of Hollywood's great for the big roles ... namely, those of two women through whose career ran a strong current of passion, and her three lovers.

No less than the beautiful and talented Irene Dunne was chosen for the role of "Anne Vickers", a controversy and sensation she has long raged; while Walter Huston, Conrad Nagel and Bruce Cabot complete the male triangle.

Miss Dunne's noteworthy characterizations include Sabra of "Cimarron", "Back Street" and the tearful bride of the recent hit "The Silver Cord". Miss Dunne, whose work has attracting the favorable comment of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, not only was considered in this circles the ideal choice for the strong and sensational role, but also has earned that confidence.

Miss Dunne made the choice for the part of a state Supreme Court Judge who tries to take a middle path as conflicting forces even while dispensing justice with strict impartiality, and who in the midst of disgrace is sustained by the loyalty and love of Anne. Huston most recently played the idealistic President of the United States in "General Hicks".

Conrad Nagel, long one of the screen's favorites, and Bruce Cabot, rising young screen luminary, were cast as other men who figure in Anne Vicker's eventful life.

Edna May Oliver, elongated comedienne, Ralph Morgan, half of the pretty blonde head of Lucille Browne, sees in the feminine lead.

NOT NECESSARY TO TURN GOLD IN

Gold Notes Not Redeemable But Can be Used as Seen Fit

Ottawa, Jan. 18 (CP)—Holders in Canada of United States gold coin certificates need not concern themselves whether they must turn these in. Of course as regards gold notes they are in the same position as any other U.S. currency, not now redeemable in gold, and can be used as the holder sees fit.

In the case of U.S. gold coin, there is no law in Canada to force the holder to turn it in. It is against the law to melt the coin down and sell it as metal. A statement reported from Canada without a permit and holders therefore, can only use the coin as U.S. currency for it. A five dollar gold piece will only bring five dollars in U.S. money if turned in, it was explained at the Finance Department today.

TRADE TREATY WITH GERMANY IS SCRAPPED

French Reprisal Against the New German Regime

Paris, Jan. 18.—The French tariff war reached fever heat today with the scrapping of the Franco-German tariff treaty pending negotiations tomorrow as a reprisal against new German discrimination.

France sent a note to Berlin in which the Government declared that France was forced to regain her freedom of action and to apply her general tariff making more complicated the already difficult Franco-German relations.

WOMEN SAVED THROWN INTO TOSSING BOAT

Three Women Survivors Fall Into Arms of Sailors.

LIKE WHEAT BAGS

Men on Smoking Yacht Then Jump Into Lifeboat

New York, Jan. 18 (AP)—Three women survivors of the yacht Alamuth were thrown like sacks of wheat from the deck of the sinking craft to the arms of sailors in a wave.tossed lifeboat.

The story of their rescue, along with that of 11 men, in a sea so rough that no boat could tie to the, Alamuth was related today as soon as they arrived on the Coast Guard Cutter Thetis.

The Alamuth, a 100-mastedd auxiliary schooner of 66 feet long, was abandoned by its small company at 11 a.m. yesterday, when water was pouring into its hull so fast that pumps could no longer save it.

Mrs. Ethel Murray, whom was executed by the tanker Gulfland, 75 miles south of Fernand, B.C.

The Gulfland put out a small boat. It was too small to ride the great waves and it had to return. A 50-passenger life boat was launched, and set out under command of Chief Officer Martin Tannic.

Daring Rescue

So rough was the sea the life boat could make no contact with the Alamuth. It boarded the apparent runaway. The sailors in it braved themselves, held out their arms and to them were hurled the three women, one at a time.

Then one of the sinking craft were able to leap across the space. It was a perilous feat, they said. Mrs. Conklin was clad only in pyjamas Mrs. Nelson Bell wore a sports suit. Mrs. Franklin Kobbe was clad in a dress for dining ashore.

With great difficulty the lifeboat was rowed back to the Gulfland. Even then rowing was waves whipped the sides.

The transfer later from the Gulfland to the Cutter Thetis was almost as difficult.

Byrd Reaches Flagship Travels at Low Speed

Little America, (via MacKay Radio)—Jan. 18.—(CP) — Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his Antarctic Expedition arrived here at 4.M. (E.S.T.) today.

(Unusual static interference made it difficult for the Byrd flagship to communicate with civilization).

The flagship was forced to travel at a reduced speed Tuesday night owing to a blizzard. But yesterday the sky cleared slowly and the waters of the Ross Sea became deep blue.

The expedition intended to depart from the site of the old camp at Little America, which Byrd left four years ago.

Provinces to Become Responsible for Their Own Financing Plans

Taschereau's View on the Possibility of Recovery of West

BOARD IS FAVORED

Subsidies to Maritimes Suggested For Study By Conference

Ottawa, Jan. 18 (CP)—A gradual shifting back to the Provinces of the entire responsibility for their own financing is apparently the desire of the Dominion Government, and of the older Provinces of the east, according to meagre information secured here soon after adjournment of the Dominion Inter-Provincial Conference today.

It would appear that Mr. Bennett, Premier Murray of Ontario, and Premier Taschereau of Quebec find themselves on common ground with regard to provincial financing and future seller operations. The Ontario and Federal Governments agree in principle to the Taschereau plan of long term financing for relief and public works operations, relieving the municipalities, and removing as far as possible the system of direct relief.

Mr. Taschereau also placed before the Conference a suggestion that a Royal Commission be appointed to investigate the financial recovery possibilities of the four western provinces. It is believed they were in debt beyond hope of salvation and only a Royal Commission could adequately study and seek a solution to their difficulties. To continue farther as affairs have been conducted, it was said, would be impossible.

Financial Discussion

The delegates concluded discussion of finances this morning and a committee will prepare a report for the conference to deal with tomorrow. Excise and customs taxes on liquor, placed on the by Premier Pattullo of British Columbia was taken up shortly before adjournment.

The Maritimes were heard this afternoon on a plea by Hon. Angus L. MacDonald, Premier of Nova Scotia, who sought support from the Ontario conference on his plea for complete implementation of the Duncan Commission report.

Premier MacDonald asked that the question of unemployment in the Maritimes be studied in line with the Duncan report and an adjustment.

12 MILES OF EXHIBITS AT INDUSTRIES FAIR

Special Low Rate Excursions From Points in Ontario

(By T. T. Champion)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Jan. 18.—(CP)—There will be a total of exhibits at the British Industries Fair which, for the 20th year in succession, will be opened under the auspices of the Overseas Trade Department on February 19th. The Fair is divided between Olympia and the White City, London, and is the only exhibition held for the heaviest industries in the United Kingdom.

For the first time cheap travel rates by train will be available at Fair in France, a valuable aid to the Fair in view of the many obstacles which have in the way to reach London through that country. It was only in the last year that excursions were first made available, and then only by five nations.

So far the largest number of acceptances have come from buyers in Holland, the Irish Free State, Germany, Denmark and Belgium in that order.

15 BELOW ZERO AT CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

Toronto, Jan. 18.—(CP)—A little cynical since surviving the New Year's blast of zero weather that lowered all-time records in many points, the East newspapers pulled up its coat-collar today against temperatures that were down below the zero line.

Only a scattering few were left with the second cold spell of the year. Temperatures were as low as 15 below at Ottawa; 12 below at Montreal, and 15 below at Peterborough, Ont. Association in the extreme easterly district, thermometers recorded bitter cold weather.

UNIFORM RATE OF HAIRCUTS

Fly-By-Night Barber Has Foes in Master Barbers

Toronto, Jan. 18 (CP)—A uniform rate of hair cuts throughout the province is sought by the Master Barbers' and Hairdressers' Association at the forthcoming session of the legislature. The cost of haircuts, from rental of barber shop to the actual work, will be laid before the Private Bills Committee by the association in an effort to prove it is impossible for a barber to cut hair for 25 cents or less and still maintain a sanitary shop and pay fair wages to his assistants.

Under a suggested amendment, the City by-laws would allow one comes into a town and opens a shop without proper sanitary equipment in compliance with established barbers who are living up to the law will be eliminated.

18,000,000 FISH EGGS FROM GLENORA

Eighteen million whitefish eggs, received at Point Edward Hatchery, Sarnia, are today being shaved in their containers by Adam Lashing-head and his staff. The fish were shipped from the government hatchery at Glenora and they will be distributed in containers holding about 100,000 each and will then be carefully packed about ten days before being placed in the lower end of Lake Huron. The eggs when shipped are packed in snow, which gradually melts and furnishes a sufficient supply of water. When ready they will be dumped into what is known as the mossy beds, a natural feeding ground about four miles from shore.

CAN COMPETE ON THE SMALLER JOBS

Can the sleigh, slower moving work horse hold his own with the faster motor trucks on odd jobs?

Yes, states John Henderson, foreman of city works.

Teams are cheaper and better than trucks for short hauls. They're handier and more economical and they're not so temperamental in cold weather as the trucks," adds the city foreman.

When possible, it was pointed out, the department will be given an even break with the trucks. Owners of the horses have been instructed to care for their teams during the past few years, has been hard to secure. Even when they have not been employed the expense goes on just the same. This fact convinces the fact that teamsters must live as well as the truckers and attempts to keep them on the same footing when possible.

DIRECTORS OF Y'S MEN DINED

An executive meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y's Men's Club was held last night in the new offices of the Continental Life Insurance Company, Kresge Building, upon invitation of Harold Crowe, district manager.

Activities of the club for the next few weeks were discussed and arrangements made for the annual ladies' night in the near future.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, the directors present were pleasantly surprised by their host, when he conducted them to a local restaurant where a well planned supper was served.

RELIEF WORKERS TO REGISTER AGAIN

A complete re-check of all relief workers will be made by the office of the central relief bureau following the posting of a notice calling on all relief workers so to register at the office as soon as possible. The following notice has been posted at the office for the relief workers:

"All men working for relief work who registered before January 1st, 1934, are required to call at the relief office and re-register for 1934 immediately after coming off relief."

It was pointed out by the office that this does not apply to any residents other than those who are at present registered on the list.

OBITUARY

LATE WALTER CRANSTON

Walter Cranston, one of the best known farmers of the Napanee district, died at his home on the Cranston Road, early Monday morning. He had not been in good health since last autumn, but had had a severe illness, but his death came unexpectedly. He had risen, as usual, in the morning to attend to the fires and had returned to bed, when he suddenly expired.

Mr. Cranston was well known to a large circle of friends. In his own neighborhood he was looked upon as one of the best of neighbors and a staunch friend. He was born sixty-three years ago in Loughboro Township in Frontenac, but had lived practically all his life in Lennox County. For some years he farmed at Hawley later at Hay Bay and for twenty years previous to his death, on the Deseronto Road. For some years past he had been particularly interested in breeding purebred Holstein cattle.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Hannah Prink and two daughters, Mrs. Roy McGreer of Napanee, and Mrs. Victor McGreer of Sydenham; one son died over twenty years ago. There are also two brothers surviving, Clayton Cranston of Napanee, William Cranston of Wellington and Mrs. Ed. Mottus of Kingston and Mrs. Ed. Brooks of Aurora, Ill.

The funeral was conducted on Wednesday at two o'clock at the house; Rev. R. T. Richards, minister of Grace United Church, of which Mr. Cranston was a member, was the officiating clergyman.

The pall-bearers were all neighbors. Messrs. Christie Kellar, Harry Cranston, Percy VanVlack, Harry Oliver, Claude Alcombrack and Hiram Shaneen. Interment was made at Riverside cemetery.

Trenton, Jan. 18.—(Special)—The Anglican Young People of St. George's, Trenton, held the installation of their newly-elected officers at the weekly meeting last evening in Canterbury Hall. The meeting was closed by prayer by the rector and an hour of dancing was enjoyed by the members.

Picton Team Fails To Show Up

Picton hockey team, after arranging to play here last night failed to show up.

This was a very unsportsmanlike deal after the local executive had advertised the game extensively and the players had spent the past two days personally selling tickets.

Cold weather was no excuse as the local team practiced when the ice was in just such weather a few weeks ago.

Then it was not till almost game time that the local club were notified, after several players had laid off work on the night shift at the cotton mill to appear on the line-up.

No one at Trenton knows who is responsible but the local hockey club sure were ridiculed when the cash customers arrived at the arena to be told that the game was off. Such is life!

Captain Johannes Larsen Mott, Danish sea captain and descendant of Leif Ericson, immortal Norse explorer, tells an amazing story of how he discovered the Mountain Peak Islands of the lost continent of Atlantis. Captain Mott, 50, weather-beaten, and with a straight look in his eye, has just returned from a voyage of discovery into the Gulf of Mexico. He made the sortie in a small yawl, and for this reason, perhaps, his story may cause controversy. "But I shall show proof at the proper time," Captain Mott said. "It is necessary to keep the exact location of the islands secret until our plans have progressed . . ." He plans to establish an independent industrial nation on the islands.

FULL VALUE IN POLL TAX

Magistrate Tells Dozen Men What They Get For Five Dollars

Twelve more poll tax delinquents appeared before Magistrate Mikel in Thursday morning's police court cleared with failing to pay for 1933. Various reasons and excuses were presented by the accused youths for their inability to pay the statutory tax. Some called incapacity to do manual labor, others could find no employment while one asserted that he was a sailor and for that reason was exempt from the tax. The cases were presented by Assessor T. E. Ketcheson while City Solicitor A. B. Collins argued the various cases before His Worship. All cases this morning were enlarged until March 1 in order to give those summoned an opportunity to procure the much needed five dollars.

His Worship pointed out to the accused men that the tax collector had no alternative but to endeavor to collect this tax as the names were placed on the assessment roll. "You men must understand that there is a reason for such taxation," stated the bench. "Our police department protects some 14,000 people, ten million dollars worth of property in buildings, ten million dollars worth of real estate and an equal amount in value of private property. You have the protection, excellent ways, lighted streets and up-to-date sidewalks, paved streets and other advantages of a modern community that our forefathers never dreamed of," pointed out His Worship as he stated that persons could readily afford money for amusement but seemingly let such things as a poll tax, which gives them more return for their money than any amusement, pass unpaid.

"Why it is worth many times five dollars to live in such an up-to-date community. I would venture to say that many Europeans would gladly pay many times the same protection and privilege we enjoy," stated the Magistrate as he urged the young men appearing before him to pay their poll tax before March 1.

Suggests Madoc Associations Sponsor Toxoid Treatments

Dr. Eagleson Addresses Community Club at Dinner

59 WERE PRESENT

Madoc, Jan. 18 — Fifty-nine were in attendance at the Community Club dinner which was held in Blue's dining room on Monday evening last. The club has started off the new year with a bang and from the enthusiasm shown by those present it is to be a banner year in the club's history. Previous to the meeting a canvass was made for new members with the result that the club has a membership of 68. Unfortunately it was impossible to canvass all before this meeting but another canvass will be made when it is expected that the membership will reach nearly a hundred.

New Members

During the dinner community singing, which was led by Ernie Bedford, was enjoyed after which the new members were asked to stand and were welcomed to the club by the vice president, Mr. G. West. Mr. West in his remarks outlined the history of its organization four years ago and the growth of the club from a membership of ten till that of seventy at the present time.

Two numbers by the quartette comprising Messrs. Hawthorne, Fletcher, Bedford and Reddick and a solo by R. Wellman were much enjoyed by all.

President's Message

The newly elected president, Mr. J. L. Rutherford was in the chair and in a few well-chosen words outlined the uses and benefits of a club of this kind. He asked for the co-operation and assistance of all present and said that if such was given the meetings would be profitable and enjoyable to all.

Dr. Eagleson, the speaker of the evening was then called upon and gave a very interesting and instructive talk on toxoid treatment of diphtheria. He explained how toxoid was obtained and gave several instances where treatments had been given and the results obtained as proof of its usefulness in preventing diphtheria where a number of children are treated at one time the cost is small and he suggested that either the Women's Institute or the Community Club might take this work up. Children should be given treatments before they come of school age as there is no re-action. In children from six to fourteen years of age the re-action is slight and is passed in one or two days.

A vote of thanks which was moved by R. Reid and seconded by J. Irwin was extended to Dr. Eagleson by the president.

The following committee was appointed to make arrangements for the holding of a minstrel show in the near future. Messrs. Bedford, Hawthorne, Fletcher, Anderson and Wellman.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid: Fred Curry, candy $45.00; M. W. Conner, Sec. North Hastings Review $5.15. The meeting adjourned at 8 p.m. sharp.

Mission Band

The regular meeting of the Maple Leaf Mission Band was held on Monday, Jan. 15th. The meeting was opened by singing hymn No. 453 followed by the Scripture reading by Billy McBain, after which the Lord's prayer was repeated in unison. The roll call was called followed by a work period. The Band is now making a poster showing what they share with China and what China shares with us, after which the meeting was brought to a close.

Madoc President Injured

Mr. Karl Stockdale while working on No. 7 Highway on Tuesday afternoon had his right hand badly crushed and it was found necessary to amputate one finger. He was putting a chain around some rocks when the whole mass of several tons moved suddenly and caught his right hand.

Trinity Y.P.S.

The regular meeting of Trinity Young People's Society was held on Monday evening with Miss N. Fair in charge.

After a short business period Miss Eileen Kelly, Missionary convener, took charge of the program. Scripture lesson from Acts 4 3-31 was read by Jean Phillips. Jean Spencer led in prayer. A very delightful piano solo was rendered by Ethel Wickens and was enjoyed by all present. The Topic "World Christ Send Missionaries Where They Were not Welcome," was given very ably by Miss Aleatha Fleming.

A poem for the new year, read by Miss Eileen Kelly, was followed by a vocal solo, "Sunrise" by Lillian Connor. A paper on Current Events in the field was given by Minnie Perruson.

The meeting was brought to a close by singing hymn No. 92 — "Whosoever Heareth" and repeating the Mizpah Benediction in unison.

THOMAS H. COOK

Following an illness of two weeks' duration Thomas H. Cook, well known in this city and district, passed away Wednesday afternoon at his late residence, 227 Earl St., Kingston. He was born in Belleville, 78 years ago, the son of the late John and Elizabeth Cook and lived here till his removal to Deloronto many years ago. For the past 26 or 30 years his home had been at Kingston, where he was employed as a commercial traveller for Crothers and Co.; he retired from business several years ago. The late Mr. Cook was a member of the United Church and a man highly and affectionately regarded by all who knew him. Last summer his wife predeceased.

Immediately surviving are three sons, Harry in Toronto; Hubert at Kirkland Lake, and Kenneth in Kingston; two married daughters, also resident in Kingston; one brother, Charles of this city; and two sisters, Mrs. George Skinner of Oshawa, N.H., and Mrs. J. P. Thompson, of Vancouver, B.C. Mrs. W. S. Cook, Charles Street, is a sister-in-law of the deceased.

MRS CHARLES H. VANDERWATER

Sidney township lost one of its most esteemed and loved residents and the Marsh Hill United Church one of its most devoted and wholesouled workers when on Friday afternoon, when Mrs. Charles H. Vanderwater passed away at her home in Centreton. Mrs. Vanderwater was largely responsible for the erection and completion a few years ago of the new Marsh Hill church, after the old edifice had been destroyed by fire. She had ever been active in the social and welfare life of Sidney township, and to the forefront always, in every worthy cause that promoted the betterment of mankind. Mrs. Vanderwater at the time of her death was serving as a member of the Hastings County Mothers' Allowance Board. She will be most sincerely sadly missed in the community where she had so long resided, and by scores of devoted friends throughout the Bay of Quinte district. The sympathy of the countryside goes to those bereaved in her passing.

The late Mrs. Hope Vanderwater was the elected wife of Charles H. Vanderwater, and was born in Sidney township 68 years ago, the daughter of the late William Sidney and Madora (Vandervoort) Yates; all her life has been spent in the township where her death occurred. She was of United Empire Loyalist descent and took a most active interest in all things connected with U.E.L. history, and events, tending to mark the coming of the Loyalists to this district.

Following her schooling in Sidney, Mrs. Vanderwater attended and graduated from the Belleville High School and previous to her marriage taught in the Praboro public school. She was a most devoted and ever active member of Marsh Hill United Church and a past president of its Women's Missionary Association. When her son, Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, D.S.O., V.D., commanded the Argyll Light Infantry of this city following the close of the war, his mother was regent of the Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E.

To mourn the loss of a loved and honored member of their family remain, the husband; one son, Col. Roscoe Vanderwater of Chatterton; two sisters, Mrs. Fred Sweetser Hendricks who resided with her sister, and Mrs. Angus Lawrence of the second concession of Sidney, and three grandchildren.

ICE HARVEST IS WELL UNDER WAY

Prevalence of Weeds Delays Progress in Work

Carrying Place.—Though weather conditions are not the best, the annual ice harvest has begun. Mr. Vernon Westfall, assisted by several others, men have been busy for several days cutting and hauling ice from the Bay of Quinte to Westfall's icehouse. A considerable amount is needed to keep the ice cool enough to soft drink supply in good condition during the summer at the local store. While the ice is thick the report is that the ice is so full of weeds near the shore that cutting has been delayed at times while clear ice is located.

Hold Party

A very enjoyable party was held on Saturday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barker on the Murray Canal, by roads and bad weather kept so many away, however, that Mr. and Mrs. Barker decided to hold a second party on the following Wednesday evening. Games, cards, dancing and refreshments were all enjoyed by the young people attending.

Mrs. A. H. Norrington and Barry returned on Sunday from Picton after spending several weeks as guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hogle and of Mrs. A. Norrington. Mr. Norrington motored down for them on Saturday.

The Leader Announces

The Revolutionary NEW CHEVROLET

Embodying the Greatest Advances in Low Priced Car Design Since the Pioneer Chevrolet Six of 1929

DO YOU remember the pioneer Chevrolet Six of 1929—the car that changed everybody's ideas about smoothness, comfort and performance in the low-price field? Now we urge you to see and drive another revolutionary Chevrolet — the new Chevrolet for 1934! We have given it "Knee-Action" front wheels—so that now you can enjoy a true FLOATING RIDE. We've developed an advanced design of the famous, proved Chevrolet engine — giving more power and greater performance with actually less cost for gasoline and oil. Chevrolet engineers have perfected safer, more positive-acting brakes. They've built a new, stronger YK-frame—lengthening the chassis and redistributing the car's weight so that the sturdy, airstreamed Fisher Bodies are larger and roomier than ever. Fisher has designed an improved, built-in system of quiet No-Draft Ventilation. Drive the 1934 Chevrolet just once—compare it—and you'll never be satisfied with any other car in its class. Because only Chevrolet—Canada's outstanding sales leader—backed by the practical design-ideas of 60,000 Canadian motorists*—could build one low priced car with all these great advancements.

*Gathered through General Motors "Customer Research" questionnaires.

THE FLOATING RIDE

Because of stiff front springs and rigid front axle, conventional cars bounce when meeting a bump—jarring you. Now the front wheels of the new Chevrolet rise and fall like knees, conforming flexibly to road irregularities while the car and passengers float steadily ahead on "Knee-Action" front wheels. Other features contributing to THE FLOATING RIDE include . . . Balanced Springing; Double-acting Front Shock Absorbers; Greatly Improved Steering.

With Knee-Action Front Wheels

MORE POWERFUL ENGINE

New "Blue Flame" cylinder head insures complete combustion of fuel. Thus, horsepower, smoothness and acceleration are increased, while gasoline consumption is actually lower.

PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE

The provincial-federal conference which has opened at Ottawa will attract more than ordinary attention for the breadth of the agenda which has been prepared for the meeting. Unemployment and relief formed the first big problem attacked Wednesday and in this day this is one of the biggest matters with which the government at Ottawa with the provinces has to wrestle. An extensive public works campaign has met with favor from the western delegates.

The financial position of the provinces, the enactment of a uniform companies' act, the question of taxes and customs on liquor, the railway problem as applying to the Pacific coast province, the question of marketing, assistance in land settlement, agricultural credits, and the question of lotteries for charitable purposes as proposed by Premier Taschereau's government in Quebec, are among the matters set down for discussion.

THE MAN WHO NEEDS

Though there is no organization to deal with the men who drift about, yet many citizens are accosted by men seeking a bite of bread while they go to the police station to sleep.

This class creates a difficult problem which is yet to be solved though the government is doing much in the construction of roads and in providing work and shelter and maintenance at the Trenton airport.

Still some of these men come along and being without food must forage about until they are given something to eat. Of course there is danger that in the strain they face they may fall from good citizenship so that social workers feel that something yet remains to be done for these poor unfortunate victims of the backwash of trade and business in recent years.

DICKENS AND LEACOCK

Charles Dickens is set upon a new pedestal by Stephen Leacock as an exciting the accepted supreme master of the art of letters, Shakespeare. Leacock, the Canadian humorist and wit, finds the reading of the Victorian novelist still is playing a large part in the education of the people of this late age who delight in the characters and the intense humanity of those scores of delightful beings who walk the imaginative streets of the Dickens' world.

Prof. Leacock says that full justice has not yet been done Dickens as a master artist, as comic writer, and revealer of the lives of the common people.

Here is how Dickens whose art of being funny and great at the same time so charms the new biographer, appeals to Leacock as compared with Shakespeare. "In all schools and colleges, where literature is taught as a study and not read as a diversion . . . whole courses are devoted to Shakespeare, a man, or a collection of men —of far less genius. But Shakespeare wrote about kings, at the time a great advance from writing about gods. Milton seems to the colleges profound, because he wrote about hell, a great place, and is dead. In short, the whole college estimate is based on theme, on scholarship and on deadness. Dickens is too recent, too ordinary, too easy to be understood.

How much Leacock means this to be taken as truth and as a fair estimate remains to be discovered, he is himself a humorist, but there is no doubt that the Dickens he has an admirable subject to deal with.

Critics of course will differ with Leacock's estimate in the case of the choice of one or the other, Dickens or Shakespeare for they occupy realms so far apart that it seems difficult to place them side by side.

But books of this kind do not harm. This one challenges the reading public for the cause of the popularity of their favorite author.

A critic in the New York Times declaring that in the real sense Dickens lacked imagination because he was so intensely practical, so energetic and so filled with the "sloughing canker of the soul" and an unparalleled sense of humor which enabled him to disinfect the fetid results of that canker, sees in Dickens an opportunist.

Delving into the Dickens' biography, Leacock is one with critics in the view which assails the novelist for his treatment of his wife. "The story of Dickens' broken marriage has rather sad reading," says the Professor.

Returning to the Dickens' work Mr. Leacock sees "People reading Dickens and everywhere the mind enthralled, absorbed, uplifted; the anxieties of life, the grind of poverty, the loneliness of bereavement and the longings of exile, forgotten, conjured away as there rises from the magic page the inner vision of the fields and lanes of England, and on the one the murmuring sounds of London, the tide washing up the Thames, and the fog falling upon Lincoln's Inn . . . Dickens lived and wrote in a world that is visibly passing, the age of individual eminence, that is giving place to the world of universal competence."

"Never was fame and glory so sure and fall and are forgotten. Dickens stays. Forty years ago newer writers were replacing Dickens; and thirty years ago, and twenty. The world today does not knew their names."

The case may be overstated for the novelist but the biography makes fine reading and challenges attention.

LOVELINESS

For thou art lovely, thou are lovelier far
Than moonflower opening on dewy night,
Whiter than stainless snow on snowy height;
Lovelier than lovely ships laid near the bar,
Whose sails are furled, whose white wings folded are
After the long, storm-breasting ocean flight.
And thou art lovelier than the lovely light
That tells the coming of the evening star.

CONTROVERSY HAS ARISEN over the meaning of the word "dogie," as used in "The Last Roundup," a once popular song depopularized by being radioed to death. Most folks were of the opinion that "comealong little dogie," meant come along little horse, cow-pony, as the case might be. Will Rogers, cowboy humorist said in a radio broadcast that "dogie" means coyote, and that the coyote ambles along beside the cowboy, charmed by his singing. Will has been challenged on the subject by a number of drugstore cowboys and others who claim that dogie does not mean coyote. Will comes back with the assertion that he has seen the coyotes ambling alongside of the singing cowboys as they left the ranch for the broadcasting station to do their daily dozen or more songs and sayings for the edification of the unseen audience. Will offers to leave it to any genuine cowboy like Bing Crosby or Rudy Vallee if he isn't right. It has been said that it was cowboy singing that made outlaws so vicious—and a coyote is no downright mean and ornery that it just might like to hear such singing as the bronk busters are capable of.

MY, WHAT A THIRST! Uncle Sam is running short of booze and intimates that he can take twenty million gallons more of that good Canadian whisky, American type. Well, Samuel, we hope you don't hurt yourself, but by jingo you should buy our whiskey after we closed the border to rum runners at your request and shut off millions of dollars of profitable business from Canada, besides throwing hundreds out of work. Drink up, and have another, Sammy, Boy.

THE MODERN CHILD

The parents of small Walter had taught the child to call them by their given names, Myrtle and Jack. He had never called them mother and father, for his mother thought it would make her feel too old.

A number of guests were present one night after supper, and presently a lady called Walter to her side.

"Son, go and tell your father to come here," she said. "I want to speak to him a minute."

The child looked at the group of men on the other side of the room, then looked at his mother.

"Myrtle," he whispered in a voice that could be heard throughout the room, "which one is my pa?"

EVEN UP

The ranch visitor, accustomed to the methods of big business, could not believe his ears.

"Do you mean to say," he demanded of the old-time cowman, "that you and your partner have a joint bank account and keep no record of your personal expenditures?"

"Sure," agreed the old-timer, unperturbed, "we don't bother none about that."

"But tell me," insisted his visitors, "how do you keep your records straight? How do you know that one of you isn't skinning the life out of the other?"

"Oh, I guess we about even up," drawled the old-timer. "You see, I smoke and he wears socks."

At a shooting party in Yorkshire a favorite talking parrot was reported missing. Nothing was heard of it for several days when, during a drive on the moors, a dense pack of grouse came over the guns, and suddenly a voice was heard coming from the centre of the pack and saying: "Hi, stop pushing, you fellows, stop pushing!"

WHY USING OF BAD LANGUAGE IS SENSELESS

Profanity Kills Personality. And Undermines Character

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology.

(Copyright, 1934 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Profanity is becoming more and more common. To believe one hears it more frequently on the streets than in former years. One certainly hears it more among women.

Profanity is rarely such a senseless form of emotional expression. Of course, it indicates defiance. It's safety valve. It is supposed to imply that you do not care a rap for anybody or anything.

But it's all bluff at best. As a matter of fact, cowards curse a lot, and the general use of profanity means, psychologically, that the user is employing it to keep up his courage.

You need never be afraid of a man who habitually uses bad language. He talks big and he makes loud noise, but you know all there is to his threats and damns.

The bully always swears. The person with inferiority feelings invariably resorts to it. All the "Smart Kedeks" in the boys' books do like-in it to appear mannish. The vulgar swear in public and you may be sure they are equally vulgar when not on public exhibition.

To be sure, there are degrees of profanity. These run all the way from the mildest form of cuss words to the foulest and filthiest sort of language imaginable.

Women, as a rule, do not indulge extensively in it. They feel that they do, nor do they fall addicts to the worst expressions. But even in profanity, however, soon becomes habit, and that of itself should make it taboo.

All tricks of speech, the habit of saying the same thing over and over again, are distinctly bad. To say "dizzenist" for "crazy," or even the seemingly innocuous "dear me" all the time, or your language of any charm it may possess.

It may seem a small matter, but it is a fact nevertheless that originality in speaking is largely destroyed by frequent repetition of the same speech habits, whether they be profane or not. Profanity, moreover, frequently to lose one's temper, which is inclined when swearing is resorted to, weakens the conscious inhibitory forces that all of us possess by virtue of our training and bringing up.

Lack of inhibition means not only lack of self-control but also a lowering of cultural standards. And there can be no question but what self-control is the basic foundation of personality, of charm and of efficiency.

Profanity kills personality. It undermines the character. The individual who swears—man, woman or child—admits by the choice commands he has of the language. Note how refined people even when they cannot find the proper word to express themselves.

Profanity is, of course, easy to acquire and that is the reason why many foreigners learn swear words before any others. They too, lack language ability. Swearing makes up for their deficiencies.

Be careful about acquiring the profanity habit. It's so much easier to acquire than to overcome and it's about the quickest way of making people gain a false impression of what one really is.

Dr Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Because men on the average, are taller, more muscular and more active than women, it is true that they require more food each day to keep the body machinery going. But when men and women the sexes are compared while at rest it is found that men and women of the same height and weight require about the same number of food calories daily to maintain health. Whatever increases are necessary are brought about by increase of muscular or brain exertion.

Too Much Publicity Deplored by Listowell

Listowel, Ont., Jan. 18 (CP) — About 150 people were assembled in the musical hall here Tuesday night to hear the report of W. J. Crawford, municipal auditor for the province. The chair was occupied by Mayor W. A. Johnstone and after considerable discussion on the part of a number of prominent citizens the meeting in motion of Hugh Richardson and W. After the adjournment of the school board last night the members present were invited to partake of the hospitality of the chairman, Mr. William Johnson, at his residence on Bridge street. A supper supper was prepared and other delicacies served upon the table for the refreshment of the guests. Appropriate toasts were offered and the responses made were of a very pleasant character. A departure from the ordinary rule was noticeable in that the toast to the hostess was nicely responded-to by the lady herself. The event was indeed a very enjoyable affair.

To Every Advertiser in Canada

The Most Responsive and richly concentrated markets of Canada are the cities where DAILY NEWSPAPERS are published

They contain 35.25 per cent. of the customers and do 65.57 per cent. of the retail trade of the whole Dominion. The new census figures reveal that 53.71 per cent. of Canada's population is urban.

These cities where daily newspapers are published are surrounded by supplementary—and just as desirable—markets, namely, suburban towns and country.

The Daily Newspapers have always given the advertiser a wonderful contact with the Canadian market from coast to coast. During this autumn and winter, when the business tide will be slowly and steadily rising, the newspapers will stand out pre-eminently from all other advertising media.

Where daily newspapers are published there is a yearly per capita buying power of $503—almost double the national average, which is $274.

The census shows that sales, as made in daily newspaper cities, are as follow:—

76.71 per cent. of clothing and apparel.
67.30 per cent. of drugs and toiletries.
64.35 per cent. of food.
60.84 per cent. of automotive sales.
58.50 per cent. of general merchandise.

These daily newspaper markets are outstanding, and the roads to them are clearly marked. The local newspapers, metropolitan or provincial, give daily and intimate access to the homes where this buying power is massed.

Does your selling plan need the concentration of special sales effort on specially desirable territories?

Are you trying to acquire the widespread support of dealer and consumer goodwill?

Do you need speed, coverage and control with economy of expenditure?

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Jan. 18 (CP)—Narrow price advances were chalked up in the early session of the Standard Mining Exchange, the senior gold shares making a little encouragement from the substantial rise in the London price for par metal. Base metal issues showed few price changes.

A gain of 45 cents to $34.50 appeared for Dome. Hollinger was off 5 cents to $12.40; McIntyre lost 25 to $40.75, Lake Shore improved 25 to $45, and Teck and Hughes remained advanced 10 cents each to $6.10 and $7.05 respectively.

Base metals were mainly unchanged with Nickel at $22.50 and Noranda at $34.50.

Senior gold shares reflected mildly the higher London metal price today, Lake Shore, Hollinger, McIntyre, Teck Hughes and Hargraves recording a little better. Base metal issues all found in the early afternoon on the support provided by a small increase in the New York copper price. Nickel, Noranda, Hudson Bay, and Coast Copper all registered gains.

Secondary and penny gold issues were moderately erratic in spots.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 18 (AP)—Recently advancing financial markets hesitated today as the United States dollar spurred in the early afternoon on the support provided by a small increase in the New York copper price. Nickel, Noranda, Hudson Bay, and Coast Copper all registered gains.

Secondary and penny gold issues were moderately erratic in spots.

Shares of Kennecott, Anaconda, U.S. Smelting and American Smelting got up around a point. Gaines of fractions to a point or more also included Chrysler, American Telephone, Goodyear, U. S. Steel, U. S. Rubber and Santa Fe.

Canadian exchange moved at a fairly even gait. Dome and Canadian Pacific were about unchanged while International Nickel and Mc. Intyre gained slightly. On the curb Blue Ridge Walker showed a shade. Dominion Government bonds were unchanged except the 4s which eased ¼ of a point. The Canadian dollar was ⅞ of-a cent lower at 96.87⅛.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Jan. 18.—(CP)—Prices maintained an upward trend with volume heavier. Base Metals, Nickel and the Distillery and Oil Shares today on the Toronto Stock Exchange. After a first-hour sag the tone improved with a pick-up in the New York market.

International Nickel firmed around noon to 22.70, up 30 cents. Brazilian dropped AQX 1 to 12 1-8 and Ford A, in heavy trading held at 17 7-4, up a fair point.

Cities Service Display Too Much Speed, Punch to Win Second Game from Hemlocks

Score 2-1 and on Play Margin Should Have Been Greater

FISTICUFFS ARE SEEN

Players and Spectators Mingle in Donnybrook on Ice

One up and one to go.

Cities Service 2, Hemlocks 1.

That was the heading on the score board at the conclusion of the second game for the Kingston City League hockey title staged in the Jock Harty arena in Kingston on Wednesday night.

The score represents the play although Belleville should have had a couple more goals on the night's play.

They still stage their fisticuffs and the players take their hockey seriously.

Belleville is always blamed for every fight in which their team participates but last night the shoe was on the other foot and Matheson who was given a five minute penalty midway of the second period was definitely to blame for what followed.

The "silmen" started out to make a runaway of the match but the Hemlocks went along with them for a period but after that they faded and the Cities Service boys were the driver's seat but were forced to play a sound defensive game to stave off the belated rush of the "dairymen". It was thrilling in spots and the 3,500 fans present cheered themselves hoarse as the fortunes of war passed from one team to the other.

Goelies Starred

Standing out in the win was Les Tice in goal and Gowsell who tended off the sticks at the other end of the ice palace. Both were nearly impeatable and Gowsell stopped many harder shots than he took that beat him. Tice was out of the net when Hemlocks secured their lone counter and the defence allowed Wilson to wander around the back of the netting and slip the rubber into the open net.

The fight that occurred took place before any counters had been made and it looked as if the teams were going to fight to another stalemate. Up till this time the game had been clean, the penalties being for minor offences and checks that looked to be illegal. Wasted man power could not be tolerated for the teams were too evenly matched. The "silmen" staged a power play and Matheson and "Red" Morgan were in close to the Hemlock goal. Matheson was covering Morgan too closely under the rules and "Pete" was trying to get out in the open. Probably forgetting Morgan was going to hit first, Matheson deliberately struck Morgan in the face and the party was on. From all corners of the rink spectators hopped the fence, the players grabbed their men, the majority of them trying to preserve order, while the spectators simply edged them on. "Red" MacDonald was struck by the manager of the Hemlock team and what he was on the ice for has not been figured out yet. His reason is still unknown for "Red" had no idea of fighting and never made any motion to do so.

Finally order was restored with Matheson and Morgan drawing a five minute rest. "Pete" was on the way and went to the dressing room while brother Harry went to the penalty box to serve time. So proved to be the "sport" fans in the say old city that Harry was subject to a riding ride and received two or three smacks on the head from small iron rings that were thrown from somewhere near the penalty bench. Again the action of the fans was demonstrated when Les Tice was knocked cold when hit by a puck drive behind the ear from the stick of Thurlby. "I got a bit dizzy but I'm out of the game," was heard around the press row and even the Kingston crowd took exception to the slurring remark.

MacDonald Scores First

When the teams were at full strength after the fracas, Red MacDonald took a neat pass from Nicoll and drove the hemic. Up to this time the "silmen" were much the better team and had not only several fine chances and Peterson raced from end to end to be thwarted by a belly drive. Before the goal was scored Sherry went from end to end and only Gowsell making a perfect save averted a goal. Shortly after the goal was counted, Nicoll, who was good going both ways making a shot at the defence and Gowsell simply was lucky. Carl Morgan took a pass from "Pete" but was on the wrong side and could not make the play. "Pete" Morgan missed a pass from Harry Matheson as he took the rubber, with no one to beat but the goalie. At the fourteen minute mark Covert coasted down centre and drawing the defence over poked a hiey on in the left hand corner that Gowsell did not see. Two minutes later Wilson made his play and from then till the end of the session the "silmen" played a strictly defensive game, breaking away only when the opportunity presented itself.

For the Cities Service, Tice and Covert were standouts with Bradd next in line. Peterson was the best man for Hemlocks, although he was well bottled up with the checks out and simply was lucky in not counting. Patterson on the right boards was oddly watched and every play of the Hemlocks was sent down through centre to be easily handled by the defence.

The line-ups:

Cities Service — Goal, Tice; defence, Bradd and Morgan; centre, Covert; wings, "Pete" Morgan and C. Morgan; subs, Hunt, Donald, H. Morgan, Nicoll and Sherry.

Hemlocks—Goal, Gowsell; defence, Roberts and Bentley; centre, Matheson; wings, Peterson and Patterson; subs, Thurlby, Card, Wilson, Murray and Aldridge.

The Summary

—First Period—

No score.

—Second Period—

Cities Service—MacDonald (Nicoll) 16.50

—Third Period—

Cities Service...Covert 14.00
Hemlocks—Wilson 2.00

7 FINE BOUTS ON CLUB CARD

Knockdowns, Knockouts, and Close Decisions Featured Every Bout

Knockdowns, knockouts and close decisions in every bout featured Wednesday evening's regular bimonthly series of boxing bouts held by the South End Athletic Club in their new clubrooms last evening. Seven rippling bouts which brought out the cream of the juvenile feather pushers of the city afforded the largest crowd of the season plenty of excitement.

Matched with Bob Cook in the 118-pound class, Goodie Morris, Eastern Ontario flyweight champion, provided the fastest bout of the evening in the heavier class. It was purely an exhibition affair, but both boys provided plenty of spice for the evening's entertainment.

Johnny O'Neil paired again with Andy Knotz for the second appearance fought to a close draw. Only greater experience in ringcraft saved O'Neil from considerable punishment from the up and coming Andy Knotz.

Stepping into the lighter classes, "Zoog" Kellar in the featherweight division, in a boring scrambled attack on his opponent, Lawrence Cooke, managed to gain an easy win. The tiny boxers were given the most applause of the evening. Kellar will now meet Rush for class title.

One technical knockout was scored by "Murphy" Anstiline in the bout with Fred Jay when he connected a swift uppercut to the opponent's nose, ending the bout in the first round.

Spirited Bout

Joslyn and DeCote again put on a spirited bout, with Joslyn being awarded the nod by a close margin. One knockdown was scored by Joslyn in the second round. DeCote though heavier, lost on points which the lighter lad piled up.

Matched with Vern Covey, Ted. Smith, also in the lightweight class managed to hold his heavier opponent to a draw. Offsetting the effects of the round Covey gave Smith managed to gain sufficient points to enable him to hold the bout to a draw.

In the second appearance together, Gordy Cook and Joe Hamain, Jr., fought to a draw, although outweighed by his bulkier opponent, Samain managed to gain a lead of points in spots which offset the boring rushes of the larger opponent. Both lads turned in a good bout.

As third man in the ring, Freddy Parry capably managed as referee.

KI-Y LOOP

Two games were played in the local Ki-Y League at the Arena last evening when the O.S.D. aggregations played a one to one tie with the Hillsides in the juvenile series, while the Maple Leafs trounced the Sharks 5 to 2 in a midget group game.

The juvenile contest saw plenty of action packed with the boys from the School for the Deaf carrying the play all day. A goal in the dying moments of the game caused no little end of excitement when the O.S.D. aggregation alleged they had scored the tying drive as was allowed, however, and play resumed with Bostrant scoring for the O.S.D. and Cowan for the Hillsides.

The lineups:

Hillsides — goal McNabb, defence Davidson and Culhane, centre Foster, wings St. Denis and Cowan, subs, Kennedy and Chumbley.

O.S.D.—goal Rolando, defence, Lethbridge and H. Hawthorne, centre Bostart, wings Kowlerics and Tharburn, subs. Gallinger, Hunt, Evans and B. Hawthorne.

Referee—Gerald Ethier.

EDDIE SHORE RETURNS TO BOSTON

You can take it from all concerned, Eddie Shore was one happy hombre to get back to Boston from his short vacation in Bermuda. Looking much fitter than when he left, the Boston hockey defence star, who crashed into Ace Bailey in a recent game causing Bailey to fracture his skull, is getting in shape to play again in his first game since his suspension. He will play on Jan. 26. He is shown here with son Eddie Jr. Shore has been trying since his return to see Ace Bailey in Boston City hospital, but Dr. Munro, in charge of Bailey, has refused to allow it. Bailey returned to Toronto this week.

Day By Day

The shifting of dates in the Kingston City League has been causing no end of disturbance among the clubs in the local intermediate group. Fortunately Cobourg, Trenton and Campbellford appreciate the position the local club has been placed in and are endeavouring to assist them in every possible manner, but when dates are continually being shuffled it naturally arouses the ire of those trying to straighten out a jumbled-up problem.

Yesterday at noon the D.A.C. was notified that the third game in the Kingston City loop would not be played on Friday but next Tuesday. Twice previously these dates had been changed causing Manager Patterson considerable expense in the matter of long distance telephone calls to Trenton and Campbellford so let's hope the matter is at last settled. As the situation now stands the local intermediate play in Campbellford on Friday night, an original date and meet Hemlocks in the third game of the play-off in Kingston next Tuesday. In the meantime, however, the locals are scheduled to play in Trenton next Monday evening, it being a regular O.H.A. fixture. Every effort is being put forward to postpone this game, if possible. What has been suggested is that Convener Bill Hennessy might better call another group meeting and draft a new schedule, all dates in Trenton should regulate as to what the future may bring outside of the O.H.A.

The fans will get their first peek at the local junior squad this evening when Manager Eddie Thompson will put his team of Belleville juniors clad in their new red and white uniforms. Twill seems like old times to encourage a local team decked out in red and white, to victory. As was pointed out by Skipper Thomas last evening at a meeting very likely looking prospects on hand that it will take at least three games to try the superiority of them out under fire. Tuesday night the first contest will open the seasoned Hastings "Amalgamated" as the initial league game of the season in Belleville.

Frankie Hart, the popular Dutch wrestler, who has appeared in a local arena on many occasions with real success, is making quite a reputation in the Michigan centres which feature the light heavyweights. At Detroit last Monday he won the title there, it being his fifth victory in two weeks. Alex Kaaboul is also attracting attention on the same circuit. Incidentally, Jack Reynolds, Queensbury Club promoter, believes in securing wrestling cards while they are ready, for he is now godfather of Hart's infant son.

Under their new moniker of the Deacon A.C. the local junior entry of basketball artists in the E. O. A. A. league opened up the current season by romping home to a 32 to 14 win over their R.M.C. rivals at the "Y" last night while their intermediate brothers took a 34 to 30 trimming at the hands of the Cadet Intermediates. The games produced a perfect yardstick as the local juniors were about as superior to their rivals as the "Y" team was emblazoned by the Cadet Intermediates. Coach George Laughlin has the makings of a classy junior team, but they must remember they've just started towards a league title.

The local "Y" team just seemingly could not click around the cage. Repeatedly they missed opportunities to score by either poor shooting or indecision. Of course the Cadets set up a sturdy defence on the small "Y" floor that locked-in made the locals offensive play rather hard at times. Sterne, the Cadets' shifty forward, was undoubtedly the outstanding player on the floor. A fair crowd witnessed the pastime while the indoor sub-zero weather naturally put others away.

In an impromptu manner the South End A. C. are staging semi-monthly boxing bouts at their club rooms on South Front street. Last evening the fans were treated to seven fast bouts, all of which were keenly contested. These fortnightly affairs are steadily growing in popularity and are evidently stepping stones towards a high class boxing show that may terminate the winter activities of the club.

The local Cities Service team drew first blood in the city league finals down at Kingston last evening versus the Hemlock Daisy team. All they have to do is to play back to the same game on their own ice next week to secure title of the Kingston loop will be their's. The "silmen" packed too much speed and clever combination for the "dairymen" with the exception of Peterson and their plays were better around the nets. Their defensive play was nothing to rave about while protecting a couple of goals and a strong offensive is always better than a defensive game anyway.

Bailey and Jackson of Leafs Picked as "Beau Ideal" Players

Both Have Everything to Make Them Stars in Pastime

(By Sam Robertson, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Jan. 18 (CP)—Did you ever see a dream skating?

That query was put to the managers of New York's National Hockey League clubs, not exactly in those words. They were asked what they considered the greatest all-around player of today—the "beau ideal" a manager might dream of developing on his team.

"I'd pick Irvin Bailey," answered Lester Patrick of the Rangers.

"Harvey Jackson, like Bailey, of Toronto Maple Leafs, is my choice," said Joe Simpson of the Americans.

It was the player having a composite of abilities the managers were asked to name. One rating high in mentality and courage as well as the more mechanical requirements of the lusty sport.

The "Grey Fox" of the Rangers, who has been piloting major league clubs for 24 years, gave the question long consideration before naming Bailey his ideal puckman.

Clouded in Doubt

The irony of it is that the Toronto right winger's future in ice battles is clouded in uncertainty. Ace Bailey left Boston yesterday for Toronto after a fourth major operation on his skull fracture he suffered in the Bruin-Leaf game on December 12. friends there said the "Ace" knew he would never again don hockey equipment. The specialist who attended him merely said Bailey was normally recovered. He refused to discuss his possible future as a player.

In enumerating the factors he considered in naming Bailey, Patrick held up a powerful, gnarled hand and ticked them off on his fingers.

"Brains?" he said. "There is no smarter player in the game. Is he flashy and spectacular? The answer is yes. Craft and cunning? The 'Ace' has guile and is a master feinter. He is fast, hard shot. He is an expert stickhandler and one of the best backcheckers in the game and a fine fighting representative.

Patrick let that question go unanswered. The eagle Bailey won for his life was testimonial enough to his fighting heart.

Joe Simpson paced the office floor in the American headquarters for some minutes naming the three young left winger of Toronto as his ideal.

Jackson can do everything there is to do. He can skate and he can stickhandle," Joe said. "He can take a pass and give a pass. He is a great shot and a fine back-checker.

"He has spirit and courage, and for a comparatively great player, Jackson is my choice."

A FLOATING RIDE

WHAT is this FLOATING RIDE that people are talking about? It's the greatest advance in riding since the invention of the shock absorber . . . the result of Knee-Action Front Wheels, another revolutionary new system of car design pioneered by McLaughlin-Buick.

It banishes the jar and bump and bounce of the ordinary motor ride—it is a comfort beyond description to back seat passengers—it ends steering jerk and wheel shimmy. Too good to be true? We urge you to be your own judge—to convince yourself—by driving one of the new McLaughlin-Buicks today.

(1) Your present car—front spring slightly raised by an I-beam axle. We put it a little lower in front of the firewall. (2) A man steps over a low-pressure tire in the Low Price Field. (3) Now, 1934—the "Knee" in the front wheel, the tilt of the kingpin, and the lift of the car—all combine to give a floating ride and fails like a knee fastened to shocks, the car floating smoothly over

Vacuum-controlled to give a smooth quick stop with only one pedal the former pedal pressure. Adjustable required only half as much effort as a hand-operated brake. Cast iron drums with outside cooling fingers and long life.

New, extra low-pressure balloon tires running on only 21 to 22 pounds of air give amazing comfort. Much wider tread puts more anti-skid on the road and greatly improved traction and safety. Mounted on new, anti-spoke wheels.

The famous Fisher type of all-steel body with extra strength and rigidity. Silent steel-to-steel reinforcement. With sloping V-type radiator, low hood, deeper fenders, and graceful sweep-line unbroken to prevent glare. Fisher Ventilation System has been fixed. Roomier interiors.

LOVE'S LOTTERY

by

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

"Card," he answered laconically, as he reached toward a letter he had to consider".

Cicily, who knew nothing of modern speed and of the ways sundry must make to get to New York, thought of Geoffrey all the day, as "yes, old thing," and hoped he'd her a huge box with a Fifth Avenue florist's name lettered upon it in gilt. With bands she went unsteady she opened the box: while Benson stood by watching her, without looking at her, which is an art that well trained servants have mastered. The box open, she murmured a rapt "Oh!" Love having its manner of changing truth, she felt that she had never had such "utterly, beautifully, ravishing flowers!"

A few moments after and Benson said to the cook, "Let us hope he will be worthy of her; she is arranging them better."

Geoffrey came at six, to stay an hour, and he found the cook in full force—that it was "pretty darned real!" She had him lassoed, lured, lured and branded; and his state, he realized, with a deep perturbation and respect, was "pretty all wrong for business—"

She sat in his lap, knew that lift, set her absurdly tiny feet from the floor, and, pushing back his hair, rested a cushion beneath these feet. "I'll get under those pursuits if I like," he said, "which means—I'm ready to be a doormat!"

"Yes?" she laughed, with her question, and she shook her head. She had remembered that he was ruler, and he had not, in that way, changed. Had he not always had his own hour for coming to see her? Had she not always had her Yes, Had she dress," he said, after a testing look at her which resulted in his realization that he must not try to push ahead—too fast.

"I thank you—"

"How about dinner with me in my room—the liberty after—Pop and your aunt, any night you'll name? Any play you care to see?"

She thought it would be "charming" and she said so.

He thought, "I guess I'll have to make up my mind to lose some sleep and money sending this up. Well," he prompted, "when?"

She laughed delightedly. She had never known such dynamic force she confessed. But then she had—really—until very lately—known only Latin men who generally liked to dawdle over the making of love as did women.

"Tin—" he agreed, eyes narrowing, after she had spoken of the hatefulness of Latin men. "You're the darndest young thing to pin down to a date and—a hour I've ever known!" he added.

"I'm frightfully unmethodist!" she confessed, "but with that I shall have to consult my aunt. She has plans, always. She's quite a busy person. I hope she can manage it soon if you really would like us to come—"

"—really would!"

"You are such kind," he heard then. "Kind," echoed. "Yes, I am!" he reflected, and lyrically, "when I'm dying to pick you up and crush you to nothing, snuggling you!" She would be a great help in a business way, too. There would be no necessity of dragging the right man to dine at his house with her at the head of his table.

She spoke of a recent book; he had not read it. She read another; he had not read that. Discouraged, she abandoned books. "After all," she decided, "reading doesn't make men." And then began her conversation. Smiling at him, she forgot the need for speech. The old feeling, which had been hinted the night before and which had been impressed by her memories of him, was sweeping through her. And he was urging her and Mrs. Ellis to dine with him, and seeming to really want them too, and—so much! On the following Saturday Geoffrey bestowed into an almost empty, never dead-country portraits of all sorts of women that had to that moment made in his rooms a confusion of his use of opportunity and his noble sense of honor.

This done, he surveyed the waste. It satisfied him. Over life, one love and one portrait hereafter!" he vowed. When he had time, he would tell Harris to "chuck 'em out, and save no pieces!"

A month later he "had it out" with her. He had not meant to do—was so long a time as four weeks to the guest; but, somehow, she had risen him, holding him off—turning abruptly to shyness when he hinted softly of his reasons for of no uncertainty that would persist in her, despite the love for him that she knew and had confessed herself, to keep him from voicing that which was his certainty.

Then, the month that had held theatres, rides, calls, dances—as part of his "high-pressure courting"—ended and he spoke.

Albion Carter Marshall had always had his influence with Cicily, and it was to this and to his pause after she confessed to him her love for Geoffrey Field.

He studied her, his despair making him look as old as he was, which he rarely did. They sat in a book-lined room at the rear of his solid, old house and before a fire. Testimonies to the wide range of his interests were around him; his love of Spain was shown through pieces of pottery—and his knowledge of the heavens was told by an opened book on stars. Accounting some ote's latest on the subject—volumes in French and Italian were upon the shelves with well thumbed tomes in Latin, Greek—a half worked cross-word puzzle was on the desk with a friendly letter that described a sizeable plague to Albion who would appreciate hearing of the find. Albion had wandered every bypath that had beckoned him to a wide, free, civilized race takes you to but one goal and that one goal is the goal of the man who wishes to live. Feverish people wondered how he kept "cool" as he did. The while they scanned the jacket notice of the book of the month, hoping to digest it this—impossible to read with so much to do! And they never dared too how he kept so young, not having eyes to see how really young he could be myriad and sipped continually.

"He won't make you happy," said Albion after some moments of silence, which had followed Cicily's faltering confession of her love for Geoffrey.

"Doesn't matter! I want only—to make him happy!" Cicily answered.

"But dear child, no woman can make a man happy unless each is happy," Albion stated. "Happiness is elusive, we are told, and true, but that you give. They are contagious. Our two children are going to segregate the gloomy, among whom will be I—who are always—" he laughed "—the cheerful. They, too, are gloomy and our wise children are not. Henrietta—"

Cicily smiled at little she always did at Albion's pronouncements.

"I don't quite agree with you, dear," she said gently.

Youth never agrees, it challenges. You think you would be happy, I presume, with him happy?"

"Yes," she admitted softly.

Albion, of the dearest Galacians—one that women particularly enter, Men, even blind—guessed how it is to be a lie from that hour when they refuse to go to Sunday School to please the maiden aunt. Dear child, I want to talk to you gravely, seriously, and as only a bachelor, of marriage. What do you think makes a happy marriage?"

Cicily considered and as she considered, Albion summarized: this often his method of conversation and one that out at one those who were ill at ease.

CHAPTER 4

"A good marriage," said Albion slowly, eyes on the fire, "would be a tightening of married life, a communion of tastes that outlasts that which your contemporaries call "the biological urge," my dear, and that which mine called 'young love.' Any insurance for the future demands earnest of time. How Geoffrey Field will give you and your children money, but he will never give you, nor them, time. His children will know him as a remote, wearer, signer of their modern declaratives of independence, which are checks and yet will know him at the other end of the table (when he has time to dine at home, which won't be too often) or on such other rare occasions as when a hill in rare occasions as when a hill in Surrey affords absolute-ly no excuse for absenting himself. Wives of such men, my wives are nothing more than hostesses in their husbands' homes, attractive and diplomatic hostesses to whom they can advantageously present such acquaintances as will be helpful to them in a business way. You are not built for that, Fortunately, some women are, but you are not. You would be miserable, very, very miserable—married to Geoffrey Field!"

Cicily, who had frowned, thought was now pale. She, whated Albion was not as wise there was a deal she knew, in whi he said. Yet—she loved Geoffrey and loved him! And the fact had become a chant that dimmed all other sound and every sense of reason.

"The wives of such as your Geof, frey trust to her themselves," Albion went on. "Their children have no father, or a father that did you, who know too many far too well. And when these poor, neglected women "console themselves" they turn their attentions to young boots or dancers who need meals. And if they have need for sympathy takes them a 6ft fatcher than is safe to go, they feel themselves to be justified; their men are no more circumspect in their contacts with women they meet in their offices or in the world of hellness. They have not had time' to keep in step with their wives, who read books and talk art and all that sort of thing that makes them know themselves to be raw, uncouth, money-grabbing savages.

"I'm not going to have that," said Cicily.

"No?" questioned Albion.

"No!" she was quite certain. "I want to be married all through to have a companion. Uncle Albion! I want my husband, my dear."

"I want my children to have any help that might need of a man from their father,...I want everything", Albion went on, "that I can, dear! We wander through the world hunting "everything" and bumping against "everything" in the dark"—and perhaps some day when we wake up alive, we'll know we found what that we have everything. I like to think so...If I knew as I do that there will be a girl in crinoline, the scent of rose-leaves and lavender, night ...Ah me!"

"About Geoff" said Cicily. She leaned toward him to lay her hand in his and for a moment they sat so.

A little later she stepped into her aunt's car to be driven home-ward.

Alone, Albion sighed, and he ordered another of his best bottles of port. He needed cheering. He craved for the child, cared so very much for the child, and all the wisdom of all ages, he knew, could not help her unhappiness. Dear little Cicily! She loved Geoffrey and love had made so many sins, so many marplained to Cicily, as she raised a fork-load of lobster patty to her lips, "Here it will be!"

"The kindest person, Aunt Ella," Cicily thought, and she added aloud and slyly, "I might ask Geoff to dine with us."

"But do, pet!" said Miss Ella, warmly, who felt that "the arrangement" was going to be "most suitable!"

A moment later Cicily heard Geoffrey's voice, deep, sharp as it always was during day hours, and plainly chanting his resentment of circumstances that "then it softened. Would he come? We'l, rather! Eight! Right! And he thank you—"

Benson had arranged things "no pleasantly" setting a table for three before the drawing room fire, and Miss Ella left orders to have opened for them the '21 Pol Roger.

Geoffrey came in, cheeks stinging from cold, eyes brightened by it—and by seeing Cicily. Benson had loved him, with the frosted chafer and glasses on a tray. Rather solemnly, and a little tremulously, they drank to one another's health and hopes.

"Wish me luck—Cicily" said Geoffrey.

"Geoff" she answered warmly and in her eyes was that "Well, that's all that's necessary" his stated almost harshly, and Benson came to go on, but again Benson came in.

Although temporarily sidetracked, it was wholly delightful, he realized, to be across the small table; and it was the sort of thing a man looked after a day. "Do you play the piano, Cicily?" he asked.

"Yes" she answered, "—what music do you care for music?"

Certain sorts I thought then—of how fine it would be to be lulled to resting, with music—after a hard stretch down town. Think I'll have to make you play to me."

"That would be lovely; I so much like playing," she stated. He had not thought of her liking playing or disliking it, and he did not consider it after hearing her even at it.

Benson was filling the bread and shallow goblets, which up to that moment had been thinly. Benson had served Miss Ella ever since Cicily had been awkward, bony and "all legs and knees," and serving Miss Ella, her friends and their friends, he had learned many things: among them, his love for music he served and his habit of judging people. He did not think Mr. Field was a bad sort as men went, but he hoped, and with a suddenly troubled heart, that Miss Cicily would not say yes to the question that was coming..."She would not be happy," he thought, "she would not be happy!"

A little later Geoffrey took his coffee from Cicily, and after a time fire with a low coffee table by her. A larger table, one. The small spoon tinkled on the saucer in Geoffrey's hand, set to dancing by his unsteadiness.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service)

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"This is your world," said Tarzan to the Red Flower; "what do you suggest we do now?" We should descend the mountains," replied Jana. "for it is in the mountains that Carb and his warriors will first search for us. In the lowland country we can turn back toward Zoram in greater safety." Both of them being unfamiliar with this section of the inner world, the descent proved slow and dangerous.

At last, coming out from a long winding canyon, they found themselves on the edge of an almost treeless plain. The girl gave a little gasp as she recognized where the trail had led them. "This is the Gyor Cora," she exclaimed. "May we not have the lad fortime to meet a Gyor?" "And what so dreadful is a Gyor?" asked Tarzan. "If is a terrible creature," said Jana. "I have never seen one but the warriors of Zoram have seen many of them."

The land before them rolled on and on, curving slowly upward into the distant haze. "Do men live in this strange place?" asked Tarzan. "Only the Gyor make their home here," answered the girl. "And what are they?" again inquired the ape-man. The girl shuddered. "Let us not speak of them," she whispered in an awed tone. "They are more horrible than the Gyors. Men are they they hage no hearts, for they are devoid of friendship, sympathy and love." "None of which I possess," said Tarzan lightly. "But let us go on, it seems peaceful and quiet enough."

The eternal noon-day sun shone down upon the handsome giant and the lovely, primitive girl as they made their way over the plain, through grasses that gently waved knee-high. Tarzan of the Apes was restless. Dreamlike events came to his nostrils, and strange creatures were about. It aroused him to a sense of impending evil. Just as they had risen over they huge no hearts, for they are devoid erceed a little distance, the girl touched Tarzan's arm and pointed. The thing she saw, Tarzan had seen at the same instant. "A Gyor," she cried. "Quick, lie down and hide in the grass."

Annual Meeting, Banquet Held by Deloro Safety Committee

Year Shows Enviable Record of No Accidents

Marmora—The annual banquet followed by the annual meeting of the Deloro Safety Committee took place in the Staff Dining Room at Deloro on Thursday evening. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, R. A. Elliott, chairman of the committee, called for a hearty vote of thanks to the management who provided the menu.

The regular monthly meeting preceded the annual meeting. C. Brooks reported ten suggestions, six of these were mentioned by C. F. Nicholson of the Competitive Committee as receiving awards as well as four others reviewed in recapitulation. The Star goes to the Engineering Dept. C. H. Buskard brought in the report of the Inspection Committee. R. Bradley was appointing floating member for January. C. Brooks recounted the holding of promo method practices last month in the Oxide plant. K. Hewitt was entrusted with similar practices in the Silver Plant during the current month. W. R. Reynolds, reporting for the Publicity Committee, mentioned the circulation of the New Year's letter among the employees. C. H. Buskard's report of the Benevolent Relief Fund wound up this meeting.

The Annual Session

With R. A. Elliott still presiding, the annual meeting commenced. The chairman's report, among other things, contained the following interesting points: Approximately 70 acting members on the safety committee, of the 108 meetings held since the inauguration in 1923 one man has only missed three meetings; another had only missed five. The objective of the organization was "No accidents—no lost time". The movement has in 1933 had the most successful year since 1923. From October 1932 to October, 1933, a year had been experienced without a compensatable accident.

There was, too, the unwritten bonus system whereby no employee losing time through an accident, stayed at home when able to resume work.

That two foremen with best records for the year entailing them to attendance at the annual convention are Harry Smith and Joseph Judge. The passing of Alex. Kennedy, a foreman who did his part well for safety work was recorded by Mr. Elliott. He said that the meeting this year, and concluded by remarking that it is not enough to hold the old ground, but there should be the striving to break new ground.

F. Paquet, in giving the secretary's report, said that throughout the year 96 suggestions had been received, of which 64 had been acted on, and 459 had been expended in awards. In mentioning that the four new members were; Silver Plant, W. Simmons; Oxide Plant, B. Bradley; Engineering Dept., W. Foster; and General Division, W. Brown. There was the good attendance sheet in 1933 since the formation of the organization, "no accident causing lost time has been reported," said Mr. Paquet, "an achievement in itself."

Officers Returned

Re-election of all officers and committees ensued as follows:

Chairman, R. A. Elliott (tenth consecutive term); Vice Chairman, C. Hemphill; Secretary-Treasurer, F. Paquet; Competitive Committee—Asst. Secretary, W. R. Reynolds; Inspection Committee—R. Murray; J. Judge; N. A. Kilpatrick; G. Brooks and W. Simmons.

Competitive Committee—H. A. McNally; C. F. Nicholson; H. Rennie; W. Mumby and M. Loveless.

Inspection Committee—C. H. Buskard, J. Hemphill, W. Regan, H. Smith and A. McKenzie.

Publicity Committee—W. R. Reynolds; A. V. Yates; W. J. Rigg; P. Gray and D. Robertson.

Auditors—H. A. McNally and H. Rennie.

W. R. Reynolds was elected to the Trustee Relief Board in succession to the late late Alex Kennedy.

A series of excellent speeches ensued, R. B. Wright, general manager of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, spoke of the annual meeting as an event he always looked forward to because of its social side and of what was to be learned at it. Once more it was his pleasure to pledge the company's support. It was a matter of personal gratification to him to see how well they get along with Safety Work.

T. A. Bapty, the company's secretary, re-echoed the remarks of Mr. Wright. "Accidents are mean things to run up against. For your sake, as well as for the sake of the company, I sincerely hope you will be able to carry on so well as in the past," he remarked. Mr. Bapty then gave an interesting account of official practice on the S. S. Mauretania which he participated in while on his recent trip to the Carribbean.

McIntyre Superintendent

The guest speaker of the evening was D. E. Gray, Public Relations for the McIntyre Porcupine Gold Mining Co., a talk followed with keen interest, he described the change house of the mine which he superintends, and told of safety first equipment used by workmen. He was forced to say that the Deloro Committee had an extremely enviable record. While listening to the various reports of the evening, he had gathered ideas on organization. "Safety First," said this speaker, "is humane work of the first water."

Othe, speakers who left a good impression by their hearers were J. Hemphill, H. W. Sabine, Dr. H. Crawford and W. K. Reynolds. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Step out of fog into sunshine

HOW many days of your life are lost in the mists of half-health? How many hours which might be bright with promise are dull 'and dispirited?

Half-hearted days are frequently due to common constipation. It clouds your waking hours, takes the sunshine out of living. Yet this ailment can be overcome so easily and pleasantly by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory investigations have proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further assist elimination. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, and gently helps to clear the system of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines!

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in muffins, breads, omelets, etc. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

IMPORTANT! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains nothing but pure bran with a small percentage of flavoring. It is recommended as much more efficient in relieving common constipation than part-bran products which cannot contain as much "bulk".

Keep on the sunny side of life

MARMORA IS DEFEATED 2-1

Tweed Has Good Standing in Central Intermediate Loop

Tweed, Jan. 18 (Special)—Marmora representatives in the Central Intermediate League arrived in Tweed on Monday night all primed to secure revenge for a 4-1 beating which the locals had administered in Marmora at a previous engagement and they almost accomplished their purpose, the home road securing the odd goal in three, only after sixty minutes of strenuous hockey, in which the opposing forwards back-checked each other nicely, and the rival goalies outpressed their attackers frequently, then close in.

The first period, which was scoreless, saw Marmora pressing hard to get the drop on their opponents and ably superb work on Thompson's part prevented at least a couple of goals as T. Shannon and McWilliam Odell set through for hard shots. Odell and Maguire, who incidentally played his best game of the season, was quite the best man on the ice, had several fine chances but Callery suppressed them. Quinn, set far behind Maguire is effective-ness gave the rival defence conmotion moments but without penetrating his guard. Five penalties were handed out during the period, the domesters drawing three.

Second Period

The second period opened with Marmora placing a man short, but this team-mates had no trouble in holding the lead. In a few minutes Shannon drew a penalty and Tweed pressed with Maguire as the spearhead of the attack. Referee Geraldi found it necessary to warn Callery for tripping Maguire with his stick. A moment later a two-man shot-for-goal effort was not tallied to click. The former drew a penalty for mixing with Neal and while he was off McWilliam scored on a perfect pass from T. Shannon, on which Thompson had no chance. Just one minute later to second line, Orr, Rupert and Clarke signalled their entrance into the fray by securing the equalizer, report to Orr. This spurred both sides to renewed effort and play became strenuous. McCoy drew a vest for lifting Marmora's foes from under him against the boards. Marmora found the going hard in the centre zone as Orr for some moments poked at the puck away from every one who attempted to get away. With McCoy still in the box R. Shannon drew a penalty to be followed by Meraw who was still off as Marmora, again at full strength pressed hard. McGuire and Quinn just failed to register as the latter fell as he was about to take the former's beautiful pass. The period ended just as Thompson went to his knees to get Hewitt's hard wing shot.

Play Speedy

There was no cessation of speedy play as the final period opened, but the best efforts of the two Shannons, Hewitt, Neal and McWilliam failed to add to their single tally. LaPantaine and Maguire loomed wicked shots that kept Callery busy. About halfway through the game, Rupert broke through McCoy and Shannon and from a short distance cut-let fly. The goal forced Callery to drop to his knees with the puck under him, and before he could clear Orr seized the opportunity and with a fast stick pushed aside and puck both into the net. At that moment the referee rang his bell and skated up to the net to have the puck resting comfortably behind the goal line. The light flashed and Referee Geraldi proceeded to tentee to for the face-off when Manager Wells of the visitors scrambled over the board to protest vociferously that the bell had rung before Orr's performance. After some moment's delay the point was conceded, this" it was not apparent why the referee should wait to ring his bell at such a time, and the goal was disallowed. Play became harder than ever for a few minutes and McGuire and Meraw again combined for a pretty goal by the latter, which tested 2-1 which ended the scoring, altho penalties in the last minutes gave quick succession weakened the opposition.

Referee Gerald Geraldi handled the game satisfactorily.

The line up:

Marmora—Goal, Callery; defense, B. Shannon, D. McCoy; centre, T. Williams; wings, Hewitt and T. Shannon; subs, Neal, Stewart, Wilson and Barnes.

Tweed—Goal, Thompson; defense, LaPantaine, J. Geraldi; centre, R. Guire; wings, Meraw, Quinn; subs, Orr, Clark, Rupert, J. Rashotte.

PRE-GAME PREDICTIONS

(By the Canadian Press)

Two young recruits who, in their last time out, got more pucks past Charlie Gardiner than many veterans do in a season, test their sharpened scoring sights against Detroit's sensational new goalie tonight in a game that may set Montreal Maroons' course for the season's end for the National Hockey League scrap.

Russell Blinco, recently acquired from Windsor, and Bill MacKenzie, Winnipeg product, each got two pucks against Gardiner Tuesday night and figure that if they can do that with the league's shutout king blocking the way beating Wilf Cude on Detroit tonight should be easy.

The Montrealers invade Detroit in quest of two points that will tie them with Canadiens for second place in the League's Canadian section, a spot they haven't prared for before this season. Eddie Gerard's men also figure evening their series with the Red Wings, who hold the edge now with one win and two ties.

When "Ace" Bailey arrived in Toronto lodge hall fans-mates on the Toronto Leafs were preparing to meet Boston Bruins in their first Toronto encounter since the wingers was injured in the Hub game of December 12. Both managers harp strenuously on their players the necessity of clean hockey. Both hold an advantage over the Bruins on two wins and a tie in three games.

Leadership of the United States section probably will be decided tomorrow night at least tonight in New York when the two top teams, Rangers and Chicago, clash. The teams have staged notable games on three occasions since November with never more than a goal separating them in the final score. The Rangers have the edge with two wins in three games.

BISONS AND INDIANS PLAY SCORELESS TIE

Third Place Tie in International Race Still Undecided

Cleveland, Jan. 18 (CP)—An eccrime tussle today had failed to break the third place tie in the International Hockey League held by the evenly matched Buffalo and Cleveland entries. The two clubs struggle last night both teams fought to a 0-0 deadlock with the goal tenders displaying sensational net minding.

In the whole session Buffalo launched an offensive that bewildered the Clevelands who were forced to keep the puck up the ice to prevent a score. When the Indians managed to break loose and slit through the defence they found Bill Tuomey in the Bison goal unbeatable.

For four minutes of the initial period Cleveland were shorthanded through penalties but the goal tending of Morry Roberts and the Regan-Noble defence held the Buffalo scoring in check. The crowd of 2,100 was raised from the benches when Cleveland's forwards launched attacks that got only as far as the six-foot defence of Berlet and Teasdale, Buffalo giants.

MINTO LOSES FIRST GAME

Stirling—Minto suffered their first defeat of the season on Tuesday night at the hands of the Zion Hill aggregation who came through with a 5-1 win. The play was not nearly so one-sided as the score would indicate and Tanner in the Minto net was not up to his usual standard. The play in the first frame was quite even and no one was chalked up. In the second period Zion Hill gained a distinct edge on the play. Ketchenson and Mills each notching a counter for Zion Hill. The third period was fast and furious, the play became increasingly rough-er with penalties going to Henderson, Tomlinson and Denyes (2). With Denyes at the Zion Hill crease in the cooler, Orley Parks added another goal to the 2-0 lead when he beat Tanner on the Minto end on what looked like a very easy goal. Many shots were made on the Zion goal and George Gibson finally scored the only Minto tally of the game. Parks again scored, this time from centre ice, The final counter of the game was registered when Stanley Seley beat the defence to make a nice clean shot on the Minto goal. Tanner cleared but the puck bounced back in front of his stick to roll up the game with a 5-1 score. Parks was outstanding for Zion Hill while Gibson and Reid shared the honors for Minto.

Referee—Earl Wallace.

West Huntingdon 5, Evergreen 2

Evergreen—Wet Huntingdon for the first time in the second fixture and lost to the Huntingdonites by a 5-2 count. The game was a peppy affair and provided more thrills than the previous one. Mott was outstanding for the winners, scoring in the first frame the first goal of the game when he poked the rebound from Wright's shot past the little Evergreen goalie. Don Rodgers, the speedy young centre player for the visitors scored a neat goal when he checked up Murray in front of the Huntingdon goal and beat Sarles who didn't have a chance to save. The period ended 1 si.

Shortly after the gong sounded for the second stanza, Mott notched another counter, taking advantage of a scramble to put his team in a lead which was made more secure by Charlie Wright who added another close call shortly after Mott.

The third frame opened with Evergreen on the short end of a 3-1 score and although they worked hard, failed to overcome the lead. Wright again repeated his scoring performance which was followed by a goal by Mott, tallied between. Not just at the end of the third period brought the count up to 5-2 by scoring his third goal of the evening.

Penalties were imposed on Kerby for the first period, Mott and Mc-Gee in the second and on Stapley, C. Wright and M. Mott in the third.

R.M.C. Teams Leave Floor with Win and Loss in Cage Loop

Deacon A. C. Juniors Win 33-24 While "Y" Lose 34-20

To usher in the current E.O.A.B.A. season in Belleville last evening the local Deacon A. C. juniors defeated the R.M.C. kids by the score of 33 to 24, while the local Y.M.C.A. intermediates bowed to the sturdy Cadet intermediates by a 34 to 20 score in the night-cap affair of a whirl bill of basketball staged at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium last night. The local juniors were far superior to their rivals while inability of the local intermediates to locate the basket when in scoring position cost them their contest. Both local squads were somewhat out-weighed by their "soldier" opponents but the excess speed carried by the Deacon A. C. kids overcame this handicap.

Presenting a quick passing game of superb combination the R.M.C. intermediates opened the scoring early in the intermediate game to forge to the lead, which they inconsistently never relinquished even when the locals staged a belated rally in the dying moments. The defence set up by the Cadets proved altogether too sturdy for the slightly built Y.M.C.A. cagers who seemingly could not penetrate the Cadets' defensive zone.

Sterne, the Cadets' fast moving forward, proved in find about to be the bonanza the locals repeatedly and score twelve points. Stevenson, Simson and McDonald also assisted the play well for the winners. For the Belleville juniors, Bowes, a rather flashy start, came into his own when he dropped in seven out of the local scorers with eight points. Inability to score when in position cost the locals many points, however. White, Burley and Wickerson were seen at advantages periodically.

The line-ups:

R.M.C.—Sterne 12, Stevenson 5, McDonald 6, Christian, H. Simson 4, T. Simson 2, Oaks, Ripley 2, Bradshaw and Phillips.

Belleville "Y"—Smith 4, Burley 2, Faulkner 4, White 2, Wickerson 1, Cather, Davison, McLean 2, Atkins and McPhee.

Referee, George Laughlin; scorer, Bob Brown.

Deacon A. C. 23, R.M.C. 14

In the opening junior game the local Deacon A. C. kids won their first O.A.B.A. game when they conquered the R.M.C. youngsters in the R.M.C. gymnasium. The speedy Deacon juniors opened with a surprise offensive attack that netted them 23 points in the first half while the Cadets were held to six small points.

Using their speed and tricky combination plays the locals completely outclassed the cadets in the opening half only to have the visitors stage a rally in the second period to hold the locals in check during the playing of the second half. Albert Faulkner led the local scorers with 12 points while George Ostrom tied up 8 to his team's credit. Cole, MacFarlane and Countryman also played a stellar game for the Laughlin-coached juniors. McKay, the hefty centreman of the cadets proved the best for the visitors while Slater, Moffat, and McPhan also were seen at an advantage.

The line-ups:

Deacon A. C.—A. Faulkner 12, Martin 4, Cole 2, Ostrom 8, Countryman 2, MacFarlane 4, Henry 1, Tobe and Cowain.

R.M.C.—Moffat 2, Slater 4, McKay 8, McLean, Smallan, Burton, Birchall, Bradford and Galloway.

Referee, "Bucky" Calder; scorer, McFee.

Pembroke Lady Has Now Used Dodd's For Six Years

Pembroke, Ont., Jan. 18.—(Special)—"I have been a steady user of Dodd's Pills for the past six years," writes Mrs. A. F. Shults of this city. "I was terribly bothered with my Kidneys, and before using Dodd's Kidney Pills could hardly dress myself. I suffered with the pain in my back has now gone and my Kidneys health has improved 75%. Address Honors Mr. And Mrs. Ketcheson

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ketcheson in the eighth concession of Thurlow township when friends and neighbors of Bethel and Zion communities invaded their home to spend a social evening with them before they removed to their new home in Belleville. The occasion was a complete surprise. The evening was spent in the usual fashion together with games, music and song after which Mr. Roscoe Bedford, (superintendent of Bethel S.S.) acted as chairman, called the company to order and Mrs. Milton Robson read the following address:

To Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ketcheson:

Dear Mollie and Harry,

We, your friend and neighbors from Bethel and Zion have learned with sincere regret of your intended departure from our midst, and have gathered here tonight to express to you, in a slight way, our appreciation of your friendship, and sincere sorrow at parting from you. We have long since learned to value the friendship of Mrs. Ketcheson's industrious and unselfishness which have endeared you to us.

Mollie, you came to us first as a teacher and remained as a bride among us. Harry, we feel you were born ready with your sympathy and a willing hand to help in any way, any capacity in which you were asked to serve.

We feel sure that both of you will always have what you justly deserve—the best and highest esteem of all with whom you come in contact.

As a tangible expression of our love and esteem, we hope you will you to accept this chair and may it always remind you of your many friends remain at Bethel and Zion.

(Signed)

Earl Sayers.
Milton Robson.
Bryan Wannamaker.
Roscoe Robson
Lee Ketcheson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson expressed most fittingly their deep appreciation of the kindness of their friends and assured each and all that they would always welcome visits to their new home. "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" was sung after which a dainty lunch was served and a social hour spent together.

DIRE STRAITS OF THE WEST PRESENTED

Western Premiers Answer Charges Made Against the West

WORKS PROGRAM

Advocated in Best Interests and Would Establish Workman

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—(CP)—At the Dominion - Provincial Conference, when it reassembled today, the Premiers continued the "round table" under the heading of "Provincial Financing." the second item on the agenda. This subject was opened at last evening's conference when, starting with British Columbia, one by one the spokesmen for the Provincial delegations from British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, detailed to the Conference the tragedies of the past few years with increasing extravagancy expenditure, curtailed services and rapidly diminishing revenues.

There was no desperation or defeatism in the statements, but optimism and confidence that with co-operation and determination they could extricate themselves from their financial dilemma.

Today the trans-Canada march was continued with the Eastern provinces scheduled to take their turn in describing their own financial problems.

It was expected that a more definite picture would be presented, in view of the previously expressed views of the delegates from Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes.

Dealt With Charges

Reports of charges leveled by Eastern Government Officials that the West had received more than their share of financial assistance and had, perhaps, not been as economical as they might have been, were answered by some of last night's speakers. The picture was painted of the great open spaces, sparsely populated but peopled by those who demanded the same modern services of highways and social amenities as those which their fellow contemporaries in the more densely populated east, had come to be the standard of living.

Researches of Siftor, the westerners claimed, that—no provinces had gone further than they in reducing controllable expenditure—even in the face of damaging criticism of peace and relief—that they had accentuated their difficulties years from the general depression common to all.

Earlier yesterday the Provincial Premiers took under consideration a proposal from the Dominion Government that, in the near future—four or five months hence—a Federal public works scheme would be launched to furnish a living wage to the great majority of the unemployed in an attempt to banish the special menace of a prolonged spell of direct relief.

The proposal carries with it the condition that the provinces undertake to assume the responsibility for whatever direct relief it may still be found necessary to grant within their borders. A committee of Provincial Premiers and Ministers, under the chairmanship of Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta, was appointed to study the relief question from all angles and to render a report which will be before the whole conference, probably Friday, on the best method to be adopted. Their deliberations will take into consideration the Dominion government's proposal. A short meeting was held late yesterday afternoon and another will be held today.

SIXTH PRESIDENT IN FIVE MONTHS NAMED

Carlos Mendieta Takes Charge of Affairs in Cuba

Havana, Jan. 18 (AP)—Cuba rallied round the banner of Carlos Mendieta as all political leaders moved to place the veteran Nationalist in the presidency succeeding young Carlos Hevia, who resigned last night after only 40 hours in office.

Scant opposition was voiced to Mendieta, 60 year old former Congressman and soldier, as plans went forward for his induction into office after strong political factions had voted him their support.

Meanwhile, Manuel Marques Sterling, as Secretary of State in Hevia's cabinet, prepared to assume the duties of the presidency pending Mendieta's assumption of power.

209.11 MILES IS NEW RECORD IN HOME-MADE PLANE

Miami, Fla., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Flying a four-cylinder monoplane he built himself, Fay Miles, Los Angeles pilot, today established a new world speed record of 209.11 miles an hour for single-seater racing planes over a 100 kilometre course, which is equivalent to 62.137 miles.

Miles surpassed by the small margin of 1.39 miles an hour the former record of 207.31 established by the Frenchman, Delmotte, last May 22.

IRISH LEADER DIES AT 62

Joseph Devlin, For Many Years Leader of the Nationalist Party

Belfast, Ireland., Jan. 18.—Joseph Devlin, veteran Nationalist leader in the Irish Parliament here early today. He was 62 years old.

Known as the "Irish Demosthenes", Devlin was one of the few Irish politicians for more than thirty years.

He died peacefully at 9:45 o'clock after a long illness which kept him out of the campaign in the last election.

Five thousand prayed in West Belfast churches for Devlin's recovery. He was the idol of the masses, the children going to the heads on the streets when his illness necessitated in homes maintained by him.

Because of his great oratorical powers, Devlin was chosen by the Nationalist leader, John Redmond, to go on a mission to the United States to plead the cause of Ireland.

Headed Missions

Devlin headed six missions to the United States and one to Australia and brought home large sums of money for his party.

His silvery voice made Westminster ring with the words of Ireland when he was a member of the house of Commons in the years prior to the Irish treaty.

Devlin played the greater part of his life for home rule in Ireland.

Despite his great love of children, he never married. Instead of his money, his one luxury was a mild cigar.

In politics Devlin gave many hard knocks, but before his important speech he always shivered, could not sleep and would begin with a trembling voice with his hands shaking.—But as he warmed to his tasks his confidence grew and he spoke in words.

Devlin was a devout Catholic and was granted audiences at the Vatican on less than three occasions.

He was a member of the House of Commons from 1902 on, except from 1922 to 1924, when he sat in the Irish Ireland Parliament from the three Belfast divisions.

Devlin was "Joe" to his friends and foes alike, but in the House of Commons after his return in 1929 they knew the Devlin of the early years as he made few speeches.

MAY HAVE BUT ONE CHANCE

Canada Might Construct St. Lawrence Canal and Leave the States Out

Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Representative Bertram Snell of New York, Republican leader, told the United States House of Representatives today that if the United States did not ratify the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty at this session of, Congress, it may not have an opportunity for Canada to construct the canal alone.

In lengthy debate on the Treaty which has been sidetracked temporarily in the Senate because of opposition to ratification, Snell said:

"Canada already has started on the development of the St. Lawrence Waterway and will finish it alone if necessary. Then American ships will pay tolls to operate from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes.

"If you do not accept this opportunity in this session, Congress, you may never have another. It is impossible for the United States to get into the Great Lakes through the St. Lawrence alone, but the Canadians can do it alone and they will."

He was preparing to take his views to President Roosevelt.

DEATH TOLL IS NOW 2,200

Bihar District of India Is Heaviest Hit By 'Quake

New Delhi, India, Jan. 18 (AP) The number of earthquake dead in the Bihar district of India alone was estimated today to have reached 2,000—with perhaps 4,000 injured.

Previous reports had placed at 2,000 dead and 10,000 injured the toll for India at large as a result of violent earth shocks which destroyed whole cities Monday.

Reports of estimate in Bihar was made in an official telegram from the city of Patna to the home office here.

Provincial officials expressed regret that "exaggerated" reports concerning the extent of the havoc had been circulated, but added that in addition to the great loss of life, property and land had been damaged extensively.

Authorities are capable of dealing with the situation without outside assistance, the telegram added, but a government loan will be required later.

An aerial survey of the Bihar district yesterday showed that great fissures had formed in the ground, doing untold damage to farm lands and threatening remaining buildings.

RHEUMATISM
Rheumatism is a disease which has caused days, months and years of intense suffering. It is the result of improper elimination of toxins from the body. The skilled and most satisfactory way to cope with this condition is to deal directly with its cause. By so doing, permanent relief is assured. Chiropractors have been very successful in dealing with this disease. They locate the place where the nerves are impinged that causes the faulty elimination. Once the various organs of elimination are functioning normal the body is soon freed of toxins and the rheumatism is gone.

BOSS LORD OF THE SUN

When big news breaks at night, or in places remote from the reach of reporters or correspondents, the files of mental activity burn brightly in great newspaper offices. In a recent comparison of such beacons of storm and stress, the Literary Digest recently related, a group of veterans agreed that the night when Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was struck by an assassin's bullet, while making a speech in Milwaukee, had few rivals for toil and excitement.

It came in the midst of an embittered campaign with the former President running against Taft and Wilson, and the first report was that the Colonel was killed. From the anti-Roosevelt papers, and they were neither few nor gentle, hastened to denature their columns of all rude references to him and to pile in panegyrics for one who had now become a martyr.

But late that night came the corrected news that the Colonel was alive and kicking! The campaign was still on!

A typical case of office overturn resulting from this double-edged news break was that of the New York Sun, which had been opposing Roosevelt with all the barbed and polished skill it had inherited as a Dana tradition.

What happened in the Sun office that night was told in a recent issue of the Editor and Publisher by Barrett Finn, in a copyrighted article entitled "When Boss Lord Rules the Sun." "The story becomes especially apropos in the light of Chester S. Lord's peaceful passing recently at the age of 83.

"About nine o'clock on the evening of October 14, 1912," the article relates, "the telegraph editor rushed over to Boss Lord, and scarcely able to conceal his excitement cried:

"They've shot him!" He dropped a paper upon the managing editor's desk. "The Boss picked it up and gazed at the telegraph editor in sur, prise. Who had been shot? One message from Milwaukee told the story. 'Theodore Roosevelt has been shot and killed by a man believed insane'"

In the twinkling of an eye the whole political situation had been changed. Without a moment's hesitation, Lord began dictating telegraph orders.

The Chicago correspondent was to rush to Milwaukee, taking a dozen reporters with him.

Every detail of the work to be done was outlined by Mr. Lord, as by a general planning an attack. The Milwaukee correspondent was to hire a dozen extra men to help him dig up every extra fact about the assassination and the assassin. "You can't send too much material."

The Washington correspondent was to send columns about Roosevelt's career, especially family life and friends.

"About twenty or more telegrams of this nature were dispatched to various parts of the country." Mr. Finn continues. "Every available man on the city staff was put on the job, and when the editorial writers had all gone home, a man was left to keep writing and delivering page and 'Letters to the Editor' to make any statement or article reflecting on Mr. Roosevelt."

Twice that night Mr. Lord had to remake his plan of campaign. The first was when Milwaukee wired that the Colonel was not killed, only seriously wounded. The second was near midnight when the Sun was already to go to press with pages of the Roosevelt story. This time Milwaukee wired that the wound was superficial, the Colonel had continued his address and then left for Chicago.

"Now, for the first time in his career as a newspaper man, Mr. Lord had a real fighting chance," Mr. Finn admits. "A complete revision of the paper must be made immediately. Not a line in the edition of the Sun had to be written, and less than an hour to do it in."

"Every article assuming the death of Roosevelt must be thrown away. The stories relating to his earlier life, the interview with the local physician, the editorial writers' caustic men, the effect on the campaign—all had to be junked.

"Despite the lateness of the hour, nearly five pages on the attempted assassination were printed in 'the Sun that morning.

"Lord had enough left over for five or six newspapers." Mr. Lord remarked.

ELDORADO HAS JR. HOCKEY TEAM

Will Form League With Queensboro and Others

Eldorado, Jan. 18—Through the efforts of the younger generation in Eldorado a junior hockey team was formed. An initial meeting was held at the rink house on Jan. 8th. Orden Pigden acted as chairman and Kenneth Martin, secretary.

D. Stewart was appointed captain for the team and Kenneth Martin team secretary.

Dr. F. J. Hickle was elected president and Chas. Pigden vice president. The financial committee elected included Gordon Pigden, Vernon Shreve and Kenneth Martin.

It is the aim of the junior hockey teams to develop the young men into good hockey players and good sportsmanship. If Eldorado is to retain a senior team it must have players to pick from as the older players drop out. The age limit for this team is eighteen years and under. A league will be formed between Eldorado, Queensboro and some other place. Cooper has intimated the team that it will be impossible for them to organize as they have no juniors in the vicinity.

REAR END COLLISION IS NARROWLY AVERTED

Sir John Simon and Joseph Paul-Boncour en Train.

Geneva, Jan. 18 (AP)—Sir John Simon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs and Joseph Paul-Boncour, Foreign Minister of France, had a close escape from serious accident on a trip from Paris by train last night.

Their train had covered half the distance through a tunnel which pierces the Jura Mountains this side of Belgrade, near Geneva, when the engineer suddenly saw a red light in front.

Desperately throwing on the brakes, the engineer halted the train abruptly just in time to prevent a head-on collision with a freight stalled because of a faulty locomotive.

Sir John and M. Paul-Boncour, first getting up for a day of hard work in connection with arms discussions here barely managed to keep their feet as the brakes violently brought the train to a standstill a few feet behind the freight.

The ministerial train later pushed the freight outside the tunnel onto a side track, arriving in Geneva an hour late.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE

Although the thorny primrose path would probably not have been the one chosen by "Ann Vickers" in her younger days, several affairs with men who were to all appearances sincere in their romances left her with one decision. She definitely aligned herself with the free lance.

When Ann at last fell desperately in love, it was with a prominent jurist. There she defied conventions, championing a million modern women bound by those fetters through which men step without a moment's hesitation.

First, an army captain, dashing, handsome and under orders for service overseas duty, won the beautiful Ann from her post in settlement work. Promises of marriage and the thoughts of his great sacrifice made her forget the honor and service to which she had bound herself. The captain played by Bruce Cabot, later cans her aside and taunted her with an announcement of his engagement to a bitter rival. Diplomatic statement number one for Ann Vickers, heroine of Sinclair Lewis' sensational best seller.

The blond Conrad Nagel was the romantic delinquent Number Two who made and forgot promises to Ann, a little more skeptical now but still the courageous woman born to love. Again another woman, this one possessing great material influence as well as physical attractiveness, won Nagel.

Then Sam Hardy stepped lightly into the picture as No. Three of the Vickers' scores.

All the while the pendulum that swung between romantic desire and labor carried her one way and then another. The great decision came shortly after she had met the leading jurist of the community, played by Walter Huston. And hardly had her love affair with Huston began than prison shadows fell between the two. And Ann Vickers had to make the most vital decision of all and one that has rocked the world of literature with its discussion of right and wrong, of age-old convention and modern unwritten law.

Directed by John Cromwell, "Ann Vickers" brought to the screen by R.K.O. Radio Pictures under keen bidding for the book rights and heavy expenditure for elaborate production, is cracked by a cast that includes besides the male quartette who have been mentioned, Edna May Oliver, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Rafaela Ottiano, Mitchell Lewis, Helyn Eby-Wick and Gertrude Michael.

AT THE CAPITOL

JACK HOLT AND KEN MAYNARD

A better earthquake—at least a more spectacular one—than that which rocked Southern California a few months ago, was produced on a motion picture stage by Roy Dickson, expert "creator of effects" for the screen. It was done for "The Wrecker," starring Jack Holt, which heads the double bill at the Capitol Theatre commencing today.

And Davidson ought to know how. He produced most of the thrilling air sequences in "Hell's Angels," including the death-dive of an airplane into the side of the immense Zeppelin, and the subsequent explosion of the dirigible. He worked a year and a half on that one picture.

He produced the sensational debut which wiped out a whole city in "Johnstown Flood," several years ago. He handled all the hair-raising machine-gun shots in "Scarface"; the storm at sea, in "Rain"; and recently, what he pronounces the toughest job he ever tackled, a series of under-water shots for "Hell's Cargo," also called "Below the Sea."

This story—written by Albert Rogell, has for its central figure a man who is in the business of delivering bombs and fireworks to cities as they outlive their usefulness. Jack Holt plays this part. The big climax is when the wrecker's crooked friend, who has run off with his unfaithful wife, is trapped with the woman in a collapsed building, shaken down by the earthquake. It is overthrown because the builder has used sand instead of cement in his mortar, a situation revealed by newspaper investigations that followed the terrible disaster of March 10 in California. It is the problem of the builder—the only man who is able to handle the situation—whether he will save them or let them perish.

Jack Holt is ably supported by pretty blonde Genevieve Tobin, Sidney Blackmer and George E. Stone.

Another thrilling feature, though of a different type is presented on this same program. Staged in a small Bigger than a circus! All the excitement of a carnival! All the thrills of a bandit chase! Here's stunts by Ken Maynard and his horse-pal, Tarzan! A daring skiplane kidnapping—sinister mystery—mile-a-minute action from start to finish! All this barely describes what you will see in Ken Maynard's new roaring western picture "King of The Arena"—now showing at the Capitol till Saturday.

Spokesmen for the missed seated the front seat of the Bremer sedan when it was found in an outlying residential district after their ja.. on Wednesday, it was reported today.

Indications are that the kidnapped owner and head of the Commercial State Bank, whose father, Adolph Bremer, is a leading friend of President Roosevelt, was brutally slugged over the head when he resisted his captors as they invaded his car.

Fearing his son's life was in jeopardy, Adolph Bremer, chief owner of the Jacob Schmidt brewing company, last night began urged law enforcement agencies to put in their efforts to hunt down the abductors.

No word from his son's kidnappers, who were expected to attempt contact with negotiators yesterday, added to the uncertainty surrounding the case, for which a special detail of Washington men from Washington has been ordered here.

Lord Chief Justice Writes to Himself as Lord Chancellor to Resign Office

Birmingham, England, Jan. 19—(CP Cable)—That celebrated power in Gilbert and Sullivan operas, "can I commit myself for contempt of my own court," which puzzled the Lord Chancellor, was recalled in a speech today by Lord Sankey, the present National-Labor-ite Lord Chancellor.

Lord Sankey recalled that when taking office he went to his room at the House of Lords as Lord Chancellor and was told he must write a letter as Lord Chief Justice to the new Lord Chancellor resigning the former office.

"So I wrote a letter from myself as Lord Chief Justice to myself as Lord Chancellor," he said. "I then wrote a letter from myself and then came the opportunity of a lifetime.

"I wrote back to the former Lord Chief Justice and thanked myself for my great services in that office, tendered to the State and in the Court of King's Bench.

"I said they had been much appreciated by the public and I wished myself many happy and successful years as Lord Chancellor, and was a very remarkable letter, and I do not mind telling you in confidence that every bit of it was true."

NO MONSTER SEA SERPENT

Prof. Dymond Kills Monsters of Men's Imagination

Toronto, Jan. 19.—(CP)—The sea monster decided at Lake Ontario's West and of Loch Ness in Scotland must be mistaken because there is no such thing as a monster sea serpent, said professor J. R. Dymond, Assistant Director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology, today.

Commenting on a statement made at Montreal by Prof. V. C. Wynne-Edward's of McGill University, that he "would be very much surprised if sea serpents did not live in Lake Ontario," Dr. Dymond said:

"I am sure Prof. Wynne-Edwards has been misunderstood. There is no such thing as a monster sea serpent, or rather I would say that as far as we know there is no such thing as a serpent, of course, is a reptile and as far as marine reptile has ever been discovered.

DUELS IMMINENT AMONG DEPUTIES OVER SCANDAL

Ancient Way of Settling Difficulties Again Resorted to

Paris, Jan. 19 (AP)—Two duels involving deputies appeared imminent today. Both were results of the Stavisky scandal.

A deputy, member of the Chamber of Deputies, Joseph Samuel Lagrosillere of Martinique, and Jean Herriot of Tarn, Ferry, the editor of the newspaper La Petite Gironde, came face to face in the lobby of the chamber this morning.

Lagrosillere said he understood Herriot had coupled his name with perjury charges in connection with the collapse of Serge Stavisky's Bayonne Pawnshop and the resultant loss to investors of $40,000,000.

Ferry replied to the slaps with a punch in the jaw. Before either two deputies came to blows, however, and while the cleaners still littered at their swe..pings seconds for two other notables met in the chamber to decide which of their principals had been offended in another argument.

They represented Anatole de Monzie, Minister of Addication, and Deputy Phillippe Henriot.

FUTURE OF ANGLO-SAXON IS IMPERILLED

Lower Quarter of Population Producing Half of Population

Toronto, Jan. 19.—(CP)—Educational and medical authorities here today expressed their approval of Dr. W. L. Hutton's warning at the Eugenics Association Convention when the Brantford physician said that the falling birth rate among the biologically fit is a menace to the future of the Anglo-Saxon race.

"Generally speaking, those who should have big families don't, and those who shouldn't have, do," Dr. Peter Sandiford of the College of Education said. "For example," he continued, "in birth rate for the feeble-minded is more than twice that of the normally-minded. The whole situation is a real cause for concern. The races of Western Europe are on the down-grade with regard to numbers. The lowest quarter of the population is producing half of the population."

Even if Turpin Stabled Black Bess at Inn, It Must go for Road Widening

By THOS. T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Jan. 19—(CP Cable)— Destruction is looming to another of the minor places of historic interest in and London. The stables of the Spaniards Inn, in Hampstead, where, according to tradition Dick Turpin, the highwayman, stabled and used to put up his famous mare, Black Bess, are being demolished for road widening.

The owners of the Inn are reluctant to destroy this link with the traditions of the English highway of the 18th century, even though the said traditions may be unquestionable in a double sense but the demands of modern transport have become imperative.

In any event the stables are a sorry looking structure nowadays Dick Turpin, too, suffered a perfectly justified debunking long ago at the hands of historians who are now when Dickens knew them.

being the chief character in Harrison Ainsworth's novel, "Rookwood." The ride to York on Black Bess is becoming as pure myth, and it is even more certain that Turpin was hanged at York as a common horse-thief.

Romance sometimes dies hard, however. So, still small parts of Middlesex there remain quite countrified, and the Dick is remembered with having demanded shelter. There are farm houses, too where one may still see events at 6 p.m. at Memorial Hall. Good prizes. Admission 25c. 19-1t

MANY HONORS TO JURIST ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Sir William Mulock is Recipient of Congratulations

90 YEARS OLD

In Interview Says He Saw First Circus at Age of Seven

Toronto, Jan. 19 (CP)—Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of the Province of Ontario is 90 years old today.

Surrounded by members of his family, relatives who have come from all parts of the country to be with him on the auspicious occasion of his 90th standing, the Chief Justice was having a quiet day. The day was broken only by a luncheon with the bar, a meeting with the bar society at noon and a reception at his home later in the day.

During a life which began in the quiet village of Bondhead, Ont., nearly a century ago, which took him through University of Toronto, Osgoode Hall, the Houses of Parliament and to the present position in the Supreme Court of the province, Sir William has met adventure and thrills, has interviewed...

Perhaps the foremost of my life; why the day I was born," Sir William told his interviewers. "Wasn't it yours? Why of course it was. It is for everybody."

The Chief Justice reminisced at length on one thrilling experience: the crossing of the Canadian frontier rapids in a birch-bark canoe. But that was not so exciting as his first circus at Holland Landing, he explained.

"My mother took me there when I was about seven years old.

"He liked the clowns, he remembered the horses and riders, but the clowns particularly.

Sir William has no recipe, for longevity. "We know many ways to shorten our days; but to lengthen them is another matter," he said. "I never studied any rules for health but I never disregarded any rules for health. The less friction the less wear, and one can use machinery animate on inanimate."

The only times he was ever injured, he related, were when he was busy playing football at College and when he fell from a horse. "But then that happens to everybody," he remarked.

Wellington Resident Shoots Smaller Species of Lupus

Canis Lupus of Hastings County, known in fatter circles as the "big bad wolf," is having a struggle to get along these days in the back townships. Today another $15 bounty was paid on the pelt of a fairly large animal by County Treasurer J. W. Haggerty. Shot last week in Wollaston County by Morris Conlin, resident of Ormsby. It was a smaller species of gray wolf.

Commenting on a statement made at Montreal by Prof. V. C. Wynne-Edward's of McGill University, that he "would be very much surprised if sea serpents did not live in Lake Ontario," Dr. Dymond said:

"I am sure Prof. Wynne-Edwards has been misunderstood. There is no such thing as a monster sea serpent, or rather I would say that as far as we know there is no such thing as a serpent, of course, is a reptile and as far as marine reptile has ever been discovered.

SUDDEN SLASH IN NEW JOBS

Money Fast Dwindling Forces Cuts in U. S.

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)— A sudden slashing on the job parceling out of 500,000 new jobs coupled with a drastic slash in all working weeks, was the answer today of the United States Civil Works Administration today to its fast dwindling money supply.

Official estimates were that about 4,000,000 workers in thousands of the United States would draw reduced pay envelopes.

All civil works job-giving throughout the country, where they were applicable, were cut still being filled, was called to a halt. The only exception made was for replacing workers who had quit and been paid off.

POUND GAINS OVER DOLLAR

Sterling was $5.04 1-4 in London the United States dollar weakened to close at $5.03 and a fraction at $.4 cents on the day, while in New York the pound recovered sharply at the opening to $5.02 1-2, later easing to $5.01 1-2.

Even if Turpin Stabled Black Bess at Inn, It Must go for Road Widening

By THOS. T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Jan. 19—(CP Cable)— Destruction is looming to another of the minor places of historic interest in and London. The stables of the Spaniards Inn, in Hampstead, where, according to tradition Dick Turpin, the highwayman, stabled and used to put up his famous mare, Black Bess, are being demolished for road widening.

The owners of the Inn are reluctant to destroy this link with the traditions of the English highway of the 18th century, even though the said traditions may be unquestionable in a double sense but the demands of modern transport have become imperative.

In any event the stables are a sorry looking structure nowadays Dick Turpin, too, suffered a perfectly justified debunking long ago at the hands of historians who are now when Dickens knew them.

MANY HONORS TO JURIST ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Sir William Mulock is Recipient of Congratulations

90 YEARS OLD

In Interview Says He Saw First Circus at Age of Seven

Toronto, Jan. 19 (CP)—Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of the Province of Ontario is 90 years old today.

Surrounded by members of his family, relatives who have come from all parts of the country to be with him on the auspicious occasion of his 90th standing, the Chief Justice was having a quiet day. The day was broken only by a luncheon with the bar, a meeting with the bar society at noon and a reception at his home later in the day.

During a life which began in the quiet village of Bondhead, Ont., nearly a century ago, which took him through University of Toronto, Osgoode Hall, the Houses of Parliament and to the present position in the Supreme Court of the province, Sir William has met adventure and thrills, has interviewed...

Perhaps the foremost of my life; why the day I was born," Sir William told his interviewers. "Wasn't it yours? Why of course it was. It is for everybody."

The Chief Justice reminisced at length on one thrilling experience: the crossing of the Canadian frontier rapids in a birch-bark canoe. But that was not so exciting as his first circus at Holland Landing, he explained.

"My mother took me there when I was about seven years old.

"He liked the clowns, he remembered the horses and riders, but the clowns particularly.

Sir William has no recipe, for longevity. "We know many ways to shorten our days; but to lengthen them is another matter," he said. "I never studied any rules for health but I never disregarded any rules for health. The less friction the less wear, and one can use machinery animate on inanimate."

The only times he was ever injured, he related, were when he was busy playing football at College and when he fell from a horse. "But then that happens to everybody," he remarked.

Commons May Debate Lotteries Without Party Lines, Says Premier

No Support Given Plan of Quebec Premier on Lotteries

BLIND PENSIONS

Dominion-Provincial Parley May Favor Jacques Cartier Celebration

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—The suggestions of Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec that lotteries be legalized in Canada, and that a system of pensions for the needy blind be established, met strong opposition at the hands of the delegates to the Dominion-Provincial conference today.

A third item discussed at the morning session, possible assistance to the celebration proposed for next summer in memory of the 400th anniversary of the arrival of Jacques-Cartier, received a fair measure of support.

Lotteries may be the subject of a wide-open debate in the House of Commons as Prime Minister R. B. Bennett intimated that was the proper place to settle the question. Mr. Bennett intimated plainly that he would offer no objection to such a debate with party lines erased and members of all parties free to speak and vote as they pleased.

No Support For Proposal

Mr. Taschereau found no support for his proposal and Hon. W. J. Major, Attorney-General of Manitoba, led the opposition. The Canadian Government people of his province were buying lottery tickets from the Province of Ontario and recently agitation had arisen in individual circles for a legalizing of the operation of lotteries in Canada. He believed Canada might well keep this great flood of lottery ticket money at home, operating similar lines here for educational and charitable purpose.

Mr. Major quoted from the report of the commission which recently investigated the situation in Great Britain and recommended strongly against the traffic as economically unsound and morally improper.

It is anticipated that a bill will be brought into either the Commons or the Senate in the present session. Last year it came up in the Senate and was carried there at an overwhelming defeat in the Commons.

Decision of Highest Greek Court Will be Given Tuesday

ATHENS, Jan. 19.—(AP)— The reporter of the Supreme State Council recommended today, to the council, that Samuel Insull, former Chicago Utilities operator, be expelled from Greece. The decision is expected next Tuesday.

MARRIAGE VOW SOLVES PROBLEM OF RELIEF

Indians and Squaws With Children Attend Ceremony

Albert Bay, B. C., Jan. 19.—(CP) —Twenty-eight Indians, members of the Skwawkwith Reserve, and their families are assured of relief today.

Not legally married, but all accompanied by children, they were given, the Indians applied for Government relief, and in mass marriage ceremony to solve the problem. The Indian agent explained the situation.

Undaunted, the brave, the squaws and papooses with children —some 15 years old—marched en masse to the office of Justice-of-the-peace Rev. C. K. Prosser, rector of Hillcrest Anglican parish church. Surrounded by dusky brides, bashful bridegrooms, and hosts of children the ceremony read the general ritual of the marriage service.

THANKED FOR PROMPT WORK

A letter received at the office of the city engineer at the city hall on Thursday afternoon was read with uplifted eyebrows and wide smiles. The communication, from a prominent citizen, brief and to the point, thanked the department for the public works on the promptness and efficiency with which a recent request to a private home had been remedied that day before.

As it was, the first of its kind received by the department in years, it was allowed to feast all by itself in lonely solitude.

FIREMEN MAY ATTEND FUNERAL

Fireman John Hall of the Kingston fire department, believed to have been the oldest fireman in point of service in Canada, who died in Kingston (C.P.) and was well known to Fire Chief William Lynch of this city, and a recipient of the local department.

Part of the funeral procession which will accompany the late Fireman Hall to the grave on Saturday is expected to be composed of firemen from this city if permission is granted, Fire Chief Lynch and Mayor Tice.

Mr. Hall was 82 years old and remaining an active fireman until he became seriously ill some months ago. He had been a frequent visitor to the local fire halls in earlier years. He leaves a record of forty years of continuous service with the Kingston fire department.

ICE NOT THICK ON TRENT RIVER

Testing the ice on the Trent River on Thursday to see if it was strong enough to support the weight of a motor truck, Chief Inspector Bell of the provincial police warned drowning in the river when the ice gave way beneath his weight and plunged him into the cold water. Only the promptness of Dr. E. V. Frederick who rushed to his assistance saved the man's life. The man had been returning from Healey Falls by motor and had been taking a short cut across the frozen over Trent River near Campbellford.

LARGE NUT CACHE FOUND IN TREE

Here's a little squirrel that's either dead, or he's going to be on short rations for the duration of the winter, and until the nuts nut crop is ready to harvest.

Cutting down a large dead elm tree near Thomasburg on Thursday afternoon, Harry Pringle, former resident of Ameliasburg, found in a large hollow of the tree enough hickory nuts to fill a bushel basket. The nuts nuts after they had been cached high up in a hollow of the dead tree, were carefully packed in and with waddings of grass and dead leaves. He thinks they were an emergency supply.

ICE CUTTING IS HALF COMPLETED

With men and equipment still standing at the ice fields, Norman Ray of Quinte, commercial ice dealers reported today that they were well into the middle of the annual harvest. An average of 7,000 cakes of ice is being cut by each individual dealer, although one of the largest companies stated he did not expect to be in the neighborhood of six thousand tons. A layoff from the work was caused on Wednesday and Thursday by some of the dealers owing to the severity of the weather.

MOIRA RIVER DOES OWN RINK FLOODING

In a prankish mood, the Moira River today overflowed its frozen surface with a sudden flood of dammed-up water from above, and ruined a perfect skating surface just below the lower bridge, where scores of youngsters had congregated on their skates during the past week. The flooding was said to have been caused by the lower part of the river freezing almost to the bottom from the continued cold weather.

OVER THOUSAND ATTEND BOUTS

TRENTON, Jan. 19—(Special)—Two thousand boxing fans attended the first card at the airport this year. The fight was held by the Relief Project No. 29 with permission of Wing-Commander L. S. Breadner, D.S.C.

Flying Officer Hugh Campbell, sports officer at the camp announced the fighters with Sgt.-Major J. Coggins of the Royal Military College, Kingston, the third man in the ring.

The judges for the ecening were Mr. E. M. Parker and Dr. R. R. F. Richardson of Trenton and Mr. Mr. John McFee of Belleville.

Sgt.-Major Witherly of the R.C.A.F. was the time-keeper and the project fighters were handled by Mr. Adams, trainer of the boys at the camp.

Ten good bouts were featured with one knockout registered by Howard "Killer" Cole over W. Fergus of Picton.

Cole made his first appearance in the ring since last fall when he fractured a bone in his hand in a bout at Oshawa.

The first three decisions were booed heavily by the audience.

Johnny O'Neil of the South End Athletic Club gained a very unpopular decision over F. Potts of Trenton, in the first fight. Both boys fought hard with Potts being the aggressor.

Charlie Potts of Trenton, lost a decision to the long lanky C. Edwards of Picton.

These boys were content to spar the forepart of the fight with Edwards concentrating on a body attack.

In the third round Potts hung a haymaker on Edwards, who went down asan was saved the count.

Both lads tore in the last round and Referee Coggins gave a very popular decision.

The third fight at 170 lbs between Glant Shulman and Bill Goodman was a real slugging match. Shulman specialized in a body attack which kept Goodman against the ropes.

Referee Coggins repeatedly warned Shulman about hitting below the legal line.

Goodman was no match for the Dempsey-like Shulman, who only did some light sparring in the final round.

Bill Smith of Trenton and George Vider of Kingston furnished the best bout of the evening, when they hammered each other for four hard rounds and then went an extra round before Smith finally gained the decision.

The fight was a slugging bee from start to finish with the second and third rounds producing plenty of gore and action. Seldom has a lighter boxer been seen than Smith, who grinned widely as he stood toe to toe and slugged with the latter boxer. It was a fight that had fans from their seats in a way.

Jack Bristol, Madoc, was also Scheduled for only four round, an extra minute round was added on by demand of the crowd. Though outclassed in the first two rounds, Smith came back smiling to win after showing how he could take it on the chin and come up smiling.

The first bout saw Bobby Fluker, one of Belleville's favorite mitteters matched with Andy Ouzac. The durable "Vancouver Kid", showed a new style that had the crowd rooting from the start. With a longer reach than the sturdy, heavy punching Ouzack, Fluker managed to stand the smaller man off and pile up points while waiting for an opportunity to hang up one of his whistling upper cuts. Ouzack saved himself on several occasions.

This was Ouzack's second appearance since last spring when he retired owing to trouble with his breathing.

W. Fergus, Picton, was knocked out cold when Howard Cole scored a uppercut unnorked from the floor by Referee Coggins. Fergus, prize of the camp, in the 150 pound class in just two rounds. Gamely struggling to his feet on the count of nine he was only to be floored again by a follow up left to the jaw and a right cross for a 45-second round.

Art Jeffs, Canadian scrapper of the S.E.A.C., veteran of many a dough-nut battle, was matched with Ken Crawford, of the Airport, and former Belleville City Club star in the first class. Angel led the attack but the wiry Crawford warded off the blows like a veteran and a couple of times had Angel diving into the ropes with his head to escape a knock out.

This Crawford lad has improved with the boxing instructors. He is a very careful scrapper who takes it in his stride and waits for opportunities.

Jr. Bristol, Madoc, 147 pounds, hopelessly outclassed from inexperience, took a beating from the fists of Kingston, furnished by Trenton in the first round and finally took a knockout when the referee stopping in the second round. Bristol was game to the finish, objected when the referee stopped the contest, pushing from the ring with his gloves still on as the finish came.

He showed his dissatisfaction by taking a swing at his second and getting a few chunks out of Bill Iowel before leaving the ring.

Vera was given the popular decision on a technical knockout.

Jack Hammond of Kingston, Eastern Ontario bantamweight champion, fought a "no decision" affair, was injured in a preliminary and was unable to attend. Len Marks of Belleville Ajax substituted and these lads put up a real scrap for the audience.

Wheeler's aim was a vest pocket Dempsey left cross punch, but Marzelle who handled them right back but lost the decision.

Wheeler has a hard time to get an opponent his weight at 118 lbs.

Two real veterans of the ring Ted Gandy, Toronto and Bert "Sunfish" Anderson of Trenton, furnished the fans with five rounds to climax the proceedings.

O'Connell stayed off "Sunfish's" right throughout the five rounds. These old timers fought an entirely different style which didn't give them a chance to show their worth. Gandy's left was a real weapon that could have been called a draw.

Johnny O'Neil, Belleville, decision over F. Potts, Trenton, 170 lbs.

C. Edwards, Madoc, decision over Charlie Potts, Trenton, 136 lbs.

Shulman, Vancouver, decision over Goodman, Long Branch, 170 lbs.

Bill Smith, Trenton, decision over G. Vider, Kingston, 160 lbs.

George Fluker, Belleville, decision over Andy Ouzack, Vancouver, 147 lbs.

Howard Cole, Trenton, knocked out W. Fergus of Picton in first round at 160 lbs.

Bill Crawford, Belleville, decision over Art Angel, Belleville, 135 lbs.

Bobby Vieau of Trenton gained a technical K. O. over R. Bristol in 2nd round at 147 lbs.

Howard Wheeler, Oshawa, decision over L. Marzelle, Point Anne, at 118 lbs.

Paddy O'Connell, Toronto, decision over "Sunfish" Anderson, Trenton at 155 lbs.

MALARIA NOT AS PREVALENT AS YEARS AGO

There Are, However, Some Regions Where it Still Exists

By Logan B. Roach, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Psychology
(Copyright 1934 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Malaria is one of those loose, waste-basket kind of terms with which we like to describe certain vague feelings of illness without taking the trouble to find out what actually is the matter.

When you come to think of it, it is really a human weakness to feel grateful to any disease which compels us to confess that we have been guilty of indiscretions. Take, for example, the disease called gout. Mr. Jones yields a certain kind of satisfaction.

Neurasthenia is another such term. So is "nervous breakdown." Malaria has been a cover-all word for years and it still persists, despite our present-day knowledge on the subject, which is very definite and precise.

If you suffer that time-honored "tired feeling," which seems to be considered by so many as the outstanding symptom of malaria, you had better check up to see whether actually you are sick or whether you are in the condition known unhygienic living or a purely mental state that is due to worry. Then if you suffer chills and fever, especially at regular and recurrent intervals, you should have your blood examined the better.

Malaria, as we usually say a parasite, the "Plasmodium Malariae", is a tiny animal organism, that can be seen in the blood by means of the microscope. The discovery of this organism is carried to its credit by the female mosquito of the genus "Anopheles."

Some day read up on the interesting life history of the anopheles breeds malaria organisms within its body. The story is a bit complicated and too detailed for us to discuss here, but, from a medical point of view, it is fascinating reading.

The mosquito, in the way, are not of the anopheles variety. In temperate zones the predominant variety of mosquito is the "Culex" and it is unable to act as host for the malaria parasite. Even though the anopheles is more prevalent in warm climates it is also found in many temperate ones.

Malaria is not as prevalent as it used to be some fifty years ago. And there are regions in the United States and elsewhere where it still exists where the people know that the local health authorities to rid the neighborhood of swamps and other breeding places of the mosquito and of mosquito propagules.

Quinine is a specific remedy for malaria, but best results are obtained when the blood is saturated with quinine at the time the regular chills and fever occur. Taking quinine haphazardly is not sufficient.

It has been found also that a certain arsenic preparation, called by the trade name of Salvarsan, has its substitute since the war called Neoarsphenamine, is a specific for malaria. Quinine and arsenic, however, are these; First, it you think you have malaria consult a competent doctor who will examine your blood. Secondly, don't try to treat yourself, but let the doctor do it.

The diagnosis and treatment of malaria is a comparatively simple matter. Thousands of real malaria sufferers might be cured annually if this were done. Moreover, thousands of people who think they have it could be rid of the bugbear of malaria and would receive treatment for what really ails them.

Dr. Black's Daily Diet Hint

Persons discussing diet one should consider restaurant and soda fountain eating, for millions of persons eat outside the home each day. Insistence upon absolutely clean and sterilized dishes, utensils, knives, dishes, etc., should be a habit. Even if the contamination brought about through unclean articles may not be sufficient to produce an actual disease, such contamination frequently causes stomach and intestinal disturbances.

SCALE WALLS AND ESCAPE

Believe Some Wounded After Fusilade of Shots

Lansing, Kas., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Scores of guards at the walls of the Kansas State Prison here today amid a fusilade of shots. Two of those who fled were Bob Brady and Dick Clark, who were recaptured as prisoner after escaping with nine others last May 30.

Prison officials believe some of the convicts were wounded. No guards were hurt.

The convicts were believed to have scattered into the timber surrounding the prison and are not believed to be armed.

In their escape they used, as a rope, a long ladder with which they were using in their work.

All available prison guards were ordered on duty.

Also aiding in their escape was a hastily constructed ladder, made of scrap lumber.

The convicts overpowered their guard, Clyde Deer, took his keys, locked him in cell-house No. 2, but did not harm him.

In addition to Brady and Clark, those who escaped were: Charles Clifton McArthur, 29, serving five to 18 years for second degree burglary; Fred Cody, 33, serving 20 to 50 years for bank robbery; Tommie McMahan, Kansas City, 30 to 42 years for first degree robbery; Frank Dunlap, 30, Fred Brennan, 30 years for second degree murder, and Benjamin Young, 19, two to four years for jail break.

Judge Warns Engineer His Mad Notion May Put Him in Madhouse

London, Jan. 19.—(CP)—Clarence Guy Gordon Hadden, who pleaded guilty in Old Bailey today to a charge of attempting to blackmail the King will be bound over to keep the peace.

This was the decision reached after Hadden had entered the surprise plea and had heard his claims that he is the son of the late Duke of Clarence shattered by Sir Thomas Inskip, Attorney-General.

Sir Thomas issued a series of errors in Hadden's claims in regard to the date of his birth and finally identified him as one of a child, born to a Lieutenant Rogers by a woman not his wife.

The date of Hadden's birth was set as 1898—two months before the Duke of Clarence, who was the elder brother of King George, visited India. It was on this visit that Hadden claims the Duke met his mother.

Addressing Hadden, 42-year-old unemployed engineer, accused of having written letters to His Majesty demanding money with menace, Sir Judge said:

"Unless you wish to end in a mad house, the sooner you depart from the belief you have been nursing in your brain, the better it will be for your life, the very holding to this belief—which seems to rest upon nothing—has been your undoing."

Hadden, who had been granted the right to subpoena witnesses in a hearing which was to be asserted before the continuance to today's session, arrived at the court with several women companions this morning. They were each of them before entering the dock.

Provocation Alleged

When called upon to plea, Hadden said "Guilty under extreme provocation."

Justice Charles of Old Bailey in granting permission for the witnesses to hearing was adjourned until today, said he would not go into the matter of ancestry despite the engineer's claims that he ascertained at the time that He could prove he was a nephew of the King.

The Attorney-General, in a statement on the facts of the case today, said the charges were serious.

"The fact that they relate to His Majesty makes not the least of the seriousness or otherwise of the offence," he declared.

The Attorney-General said there was "an obsession which so far as I know and at present has not been carried to a delusion in the defendant's mind that he is the legitimate son of the Duke of Clarence."

In the letters Hadden was accused of having written to King George. It was alleged that he asserted his kinship with the King. Finally and asked 600 pound annual income "with enough ready money to start a modern boarding house."

ASKED THAT PIECE OF WATER BE CLOSED

Residents Claim it to be First Class Pike Grazing

Following an informal meeting of interested parties, it was decided to recommend to the Ontario Game and Fish's Bay, from the easterly end of Waupoos inland to the head of the bay, be closed to any fishermen for the period July 15th to September 15th, each year. The meeting, which took place at the Royal Hotel on Tuesday, was the result of largely signed petitions, both for and against the complete closing of the bay to net fishermen. Officials of the Game and Fisheries Department were present and the discussion was completed by the seasonal closing was agreed to by both parties. The waters in question have made somewhat of a name for themselves. Not many persons have seen wonderful pike fishing grounds, and it was to ensure the supply of this species, lately elevated to the game fish class, that the petition by have the bay closed to nets was made by residents of the district.—Picton Times.

It is understood that the general business of the Board following the inauguration will be fairly light.

CONFERENCE MAY AGREE ON 4 PROPOSALS

Reports of Committees Have Been Received on All Matters

RELIEF WORK

Lotteries And Revision of Customs Act Yet to be Taken up

Ottawa, Jan. 19. — Wearied by hours of verbal wrestling with their economic and social problems the delegates to the Dominion-Provincial conference turned today to the more positive aspect of the task that brought them to Ottawa from every Canadian Province. With reports from the various committees before them they set about drawing up the conclusions upon which future relief and financing efforts will be based.

It was believed that definite pronouncements would be made on the following items:

Methods of meeting further unemployment and relief problems.

What policy may be adopted in co-operation with the federal government or individually to rehabilitate the finances of the four western provinces.

Whether or not the provinces and Dominion can agree on a uniform act regulating the incorporation of companies.

The advisability of initiating on a large scale an assisted land settlement scheme.

May Ask Reduction

Resolutions are also expected on the question of a downward revision of the gasoline and customs taxes on liquor, and the suggestion that lotteries may be legalized to a certain extent.

The conference is expected in close hand this afternoon.

Yesterday the Dominion governments delegation appointed a sub-committee to study the basis of equalization payments to the Maritime Provinces which claimed this had been recommended in the Duncan Commission report in 1928 and only partially carried out.

Reports: Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia that the Canadian Pacific Railway and Railway be absorbed by the Canadian National and that economies be effected. He also appointed a study that province's status within Confederation, and the claim that it has been unfairly treated, were both denied by Premier Bracken.

The railway, it was declared, would only serve an additional burden on the Canadian National, while the economic status of the province with relation to the rest of Canada could be dealt with by negotiation with the Dominion government, if necessary.

The conference also discussed assisted land settlement, establishment of a marketing board and agricultural credits yesterday.

MONSTER SEEN BY THE MONKS

Creature of Loch Ness at Inverness Probably is Reality

Fort Augustus, Inverness, Scotland Jan. 19 (OP Cable)—The "monster" of Loch Ness, already seen by many than fifty persons, today had four Benedictine monks to vouch for its authenticity. The monks declared they had seen it several times.

This newest support for the actuality of the much-ridiculed creature came from Father Hunter-Blair who said he had interviewed the monks and confirmed their own belief, that he had seen the monster, now about at the same time advanced the opinion the creature was a survival of the Devonian period in geological history, dating back several hundred million years.

50 Feet Long

Coordination of descriptions by the numerous persons, who claim to have seen the monster leads scientists to believe it is about 50 feet long with a slim neck, fringe-like external gills near the lower part of the head and at least two fins with which it propels itself through the water. Most persons have seen only a monster with its head reared from the water but many have seen a series of humps resting or travelling along the surface of the loch, which they took to be the creature's back. It is said to travel at considerable velocity, at times reaching a speed of 15 miles an hour.

Only a few have attempted to describe the color of the creature as two many have seen it at sufficiently good light. Some say it is dark brown, others that it is dark grey. But those who have seen the texture of its skin say it is lumpy, but not scaley.

The monks, who told the abbott they have seen it, live by the Fort Augustus Abbey, close to the loch and clear spots from which others claim to have sighted it.

AS OPERA LIFTED BAN ON "SALOME"

Banning since 1907 when the Metropolitan Opera's production of "Salome" by an unprecedented storm of protest, the Oscar Wilde story set to Richard Strauss' music has been revived—with certain restraints—and takes its place in the repertory again. In this scene Herod (Max Lorens) pleads with Salome (Greta Ljungberg) to dance for him. It is this dance, termed "shameful", in 1907 that has been sufficiently subdued to pass 1934 muster.

TABBIES ARE WORST VERMIN

Greatest Enemy of Game Says Not Conservation Engineer

Windsor, Jan. 19—Elcon Scratch of Leamington was unanimously re-elected president of the Essex County Sportsmen's Association at the annual meeting held in Leamington.

Chief speaker at the meeting was Thomas McClure, Conservative engineer, who dealt with part of the continent's outstanding authorities on game birds. He said that the greatest domestic cat as the worst destroyer of wild life. It was pointed out that during the past three years the association had obtained 15,000 eggs from the government and had liberated some 250 live game birds.

"Vermin control is the foundation of game management," said Mr. McClure. "In dealing with the Hawks we find that 90 per cent. of the time the hunter kills the least detrimental of all the hawks. These most detrimental are the short-winged hawks living in the forests and in the majority of cases the hawk killed is the one that circles over the farms, a bird that is not nearly as injurious.

"But one of the worst animals for killing game is the domestic cat. There is no worse vermin on the face of the earth. If you were to get rid of 85 per cent. of the cats in Essex county there would still be an over-supply of tabbies."

In 1926 when complaint was laid that the pheasants were destroying song birds, I went to one home and counted thirteen cats in the kitchen, and three or four more in the vicinity of the barn. We cut one of the cats open and found four meadow larks inside."

HOLD CAUCUS OF 3 GROUPS FOR SESSION

Appointments Made to Carry on Due to Change

SINCLAIR ABSENT

Committees Named to Tackle Each Government Department

Toronto, Jan. 19—(CP)—With a big for support of the other opposition groups, Liberal members of the Ontario Legislature were prepared today to take the aggressive in a campaign against the administration of Premier George S. Henry. When the House opens Jan. 31, the five-man Progressive group under Harry C. Nixon, with Farmer-Labor representatives, and Farmers and Earl Hutchinson the Labor party; will be invited to sit in at Liberal caucuses.

Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., Provincial Party leader, attended a caucus yesterday at which his leadership outside and the leadership of Dr. George A. McQuibban inside the House was endorsed "100 percent."

At the same meeting, the members agreed upon committees joining the other opposition groups to join their caucuses to "confer and co-operate in a united front against the present administration."

Dr. L. J. Simpson, Kingston M.P. was appointed financial critic, with M. O. Sipel of South Waterloo as his assistant, and Charles A. Robertson, Perth Huron, was elected party whip, with T. A. Blakelock, Halton as deputy.

Committee For Every Dept.

A new departure in opposition tactics was the appointment of committees, which will each tackle a government department. Lands and forests department, education and agriculture were singled out particularly, and four-man committees were appointed to look into their administration.

In addition, Dr. McQuibban's proposal for a party committee room to assist in co-ordinating and directing the Liberal fire was endorsed. The House will have a joint voice made up of Liberal "civilians" who do not hold seats in the House.

Douglas M. Campbell elected by acclamation to fill the vacancy in East Kent, was formally sworn in by the clerk of the House after the meeting. He will sit with the Liberals, although elected as a Liberal-Progressive.

Only absentees from the caucus were W. R. Sinclair, who took place as party leader was taken by Dr. McQuibban, M.P. for Port of North Waterloo, who said he did not approve of the change in leadership, and Dr. Thomas Herbert Renfrew who has been ill for some time.

Weaver Coal Storage System

The Weaver Coal Company's new storage system, recently installed at Toronto by the Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Company of Canada, is working very satisfactorily.

The system adopted involves the extensive use of belt conveyors together with two special stacking units. Coal is placed in pile on the dock from large self-unloading boats equipped with long unloading booms. Underneath this initial pile, in a concrete tunnel, is the first belt conveyor 350 feet long which receives coal from the pile above at the rate of 600 tons per hour through patented quadrant gates. This tunnel conveyor delivers coal to a transfer point, from which coal is delivered to either of the two trunk conveyor 900 feet away, or by means of a second cross conveyor to a second 900 foot long trunk conveyor. Each trunk conveyor is equipped with special stacker-tripper which deserve coal pockets for truck loading.

The whole scheme of handling coal over the area of 1000 feet long by 800 feet wide is made possible by the use of the two special stacking units which involves the addition of a hinged arm or boom extension to the standard belt tripper. Each stacker is located at a point where it is decided to unload coal, and the coal is carried by the trunk belts thence through the tripper and on to the boom conveyor to the piling point, whether this be at the storage piles or coal pockets. Also, it can be raised as desired and will stack a pile of coal over 35 feet high the whole length of the track and on both sides.

The complete electric system is interlocked by multipoint relays so as to ensure starting the conveyors in the correct sequence and thus preventing a travelling conveyor from feeding coal on to a stationary conveyor. This interlocking system also comes into operation to stop all the conveyors beyond any one conveyor which may accidentally stop due to any unforseen reason.

This system of handling coal is entirely new on this continent and was designed entirely by the local engineering staff of Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Company of Canada under the supervision of A. E. May, Chief Engineer. Mr. A. P. White, Toronto representative of Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Company of Canada, formerly superintendent of Marsh Engineering Works, is responsible for the speed limit of the boom, together with two special stacking units. Coal is placed in pile on the dock from large self-unloading

Hull, England, Jan. 18.—(CP Cable)—Six men were entombed today when a grain warehouse collapsed in a heap of masonry and grain and ten others were injured, at least one seriously. Authorities supervising efforts to extricate the six expressed the opinion they were dead.

The accident occurred while 30 men were at work in the building, located in the heart of the shipping district. Without warning the warehouse crumbled and fell into the street.

Police and ambulances rushed to the scene and began the work of extricating the injured. One man, pinned beneath a fallen timber, could not be moved until a police surgeon amputated a foot by which he was held.

"TO STAY YOUNG"

In Paris has started a magazine "To Stay Young," whose purpose is to "strive energetically against the effects of old age." For years after the war pessimism and disbelief in the values of life were cultivated by the young with reckless enjoyment. Le Temps of Paris is quoted in this regard by the New York Times: "No longer do we wish to grow old. This secret hope, this desire touching by dint of its fervor, can be read on so many faces."

This desire to remain young accounts for the youthfulness of dress which many affect, and for the overstercise which is dangerous to the elderly. According to the New York Times the old lose youth but they gain much, they learn to be tolerant. Having little to hope for in the way of years, they have also little to fear.

Then they have the supreme pleasure of living in the snowy age respected by all as solons or oracles.

But life itself divides naturally into periods, there are babyhood, childhood, adolescence, youth for a few brief years, young manhood and womanhood, adult life, mature life, and the slow procession past the zenith of the years, culminating in a time of rest.

No one decries the desire to stay young but there are many who seem to be done and childhood, youth and young manhood cannot do them all. Every age has its contribution to life. One cannot visualize a life made up only of young people with their enthusiasm and their recklessness and lack of experience, neither can one think possible a world of middle-aged folk or patriarchs. All ages of life have their appeal to all ages of life.

POETS AND POETS

Dr. Brunt claims that fear of ridicule and inferiority smothers the artistic feelings of thousands of persons who might otherwise be poets. While this may be true, the world could not deal with so many thousand poets for the pay as it is, is small enough. So many poets would raise the standard and only the cream of art would come to the top after all.

There are versifiers who do not hesitate from shyness. There are poets who do hesitate for shyness and fear of ridicule, and then there are those happy persons who have a message in metre and yet do not hesitate.

Greater than is generally realized is the interest in contributing verse to newspapers. Steadily despite the non-appearance of specimens of their handiwork, the poets continue to send in that stream of musical phrases, more than can be handled.

The creative instinct must be strong. Persons whom one would scarcely realize as interested in writing are anxious to pour their contributions in or find in some way an outlet for their work. Editors cannot but be sympathetic in the face of this desire to creat something in words or phrases which will live an ephemeral existence or continue to be read for years to come. The poem that attracts more than ordinary interest is very rare and it would seem to be so rare that it is a wonder that poets continue to court the muse hoping against hope that they may achieve something enduring.

What the inarticulate poets would write were they not afraid of ridicule and mockery is difficult to say. Editors' experience generally has been with those who are not so shy as to be held back from appearance in print. And it is fortunate that some are not fearful, otherwise much good poetry would never be written.

C.R.C. GROWS N FAVOR

Canadians are steadily learning to appreciate more and more the work which the Canadian Radio Commission is accomplishing and in the United States the offerings of the C. R. C. are meeting with growing favor. As expected there are foes to the commission within Canada who belittle its efforts and achievements.

Placing the radio broadcasting in Canada on a non-commercial basis under a national board was a big enough undertaking to occupy the minds of the commission for some time with the job of picking up the many threads of a business which had been built up by private companies or stations ever since the coming of the broadcast. This makes all the more important the success which has followed the efforts to nationalize Canadian programs.

Radio is becoming a voice of Canada, a powerful voice which is unlike any other national expression. Outsiders are coming to a realization of this.

That the time will come when the impressions of the Canadian system will affect the United States system is probably not a wild prediction. Everything that is good in our system will be appreciated at the full. Nationalization in the United States would of course, be a potent aid to the Canadian Commission. More powerful stations could straighten out the disorder in the air channels and also provide programs of every possible kind to the satisfaction of all.

There is no doubt that the Canadian system is showing the way.

THE PHEASANT

A pheasant cock sprang into view,
A living jewel, up he flew.
His wings laid hold on empty space,
Scorn bulged his eyeballs out with grace.

He was a hymn from tail to beak,
With not a tender note or meek,
Then the gun let out its thunder.
The bird descended struck with wonder.

He ran a little, then, amazed,
Settled with his head upraised.
The fierceness flowed out of his eyes
And left them meek and large and wise.

Gentleness relaxed his head.
He lay in jeweled feathers, dead.

HOW WELL DO YOU KNOW YOUR NEWSPAPER? In this wonderful age in which we have the privilege of living there is so much that is new and wonderful, even amazing, that the senses can not really take them all in as fully as they deserve. OSHAWA HAS A WOOD PILE, and human flotsam and jetsam, drifting with the current of derelict life, up-and down the highways and byways of the province, can stop in at Oshawa, cut a cord or two of wood and eat good wholesome meals. It was thought that the civic woodpile would discourage transients, and that they would give that place the go-by when they found that they had to work to eat, but strange to say, the reverse is the case. Oshawa has just as many or more transients, willing to cut wood for their meals—and the meals are good restaurant meals, so the welfare workers are playing fair with the nomads, and the nomads are playing fair with the welfare workers. Human beings are walking up and down this banner province of Canada, cold and hungry—what if nobody cared?

The young mother was frantic. Her two year old daughter howled and howled and howled.

"Whatever is the matter with the child?" asked the father in despair.

His wife sank in a chair and began to weep, while the baby went on crying.

"I d-d-don't know," sobbed the distracted mother. "It's either because she's eaten too many strawberries, or she wants more!"

Despite the talk of alarmists, there can be no European war in the near future for three sound reasons: Germany can not wage one, France does not need one, and Uncle Sam will not pay for one.—The New Yorker.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 19, 1914

At Christmas the works of the Steel Company of Canada here were closed down so that certain repairs might be made. This morning the mills resumed operation and the plant is certainly a busy industry there being upwards of three hundred men employed.

At the annual meeting of the Belleville Agricultural Society the president Mr. G. M. Campbell occupied the chair. The reports showed that the receipts were $3,062.59 and the expenditures $3,034.29. The following officers were elected: Hon. Pres., Mayor J. F. Wills; Hon vice presidents, Mr. G. M. Campbell and Col. Ponton; President, John Elliott; first vice president, Arthur Jones; second vice president, H. K. Denyes; directors, W. W. Anderson, Stanley Welbanks, Alex. Hutchinson, Geo. McCullough, Harry Ketcheson, Arthur Vermilyea, A. Martin, W. C. Farley, Chas. Weese, Robt. Graham, Jr., Fred Wills, R. Terwilligar, W. C. Reid, L. W. Marsh, W. Carnew, Secretary, H. J. Wills; auditor, Secretary, G. G. Horton; auditors, J. L. Clapp and H. A. Faichman.

30 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 19th, 1904.

Twenty below zero at eight o'clock this morning.

Roy Chown has been appointed manager and Howard Frost captain of the Y. M. C. A. second basketball team.

Mr. Howard Woof of Syracuse, N. Y., is visiting relatives in the city.

The junior O. H. A. match last night between Cobourg and Belleville drew only a small crowd, the exceedingly cold weather undoubtedly kept many away. The game resulted in victory for the visitors by a score of 6 to 1 and they fairly deserved the victory. The Cobourg team is a lucky aggregation, heavy and speedy enough to hold its own with many intermediate teams. The following composed the Belleville team: Dolan, W. Hamilton, Conley, Brennan, Weller, Spangenberg and R. Hamilton.

40 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 19th, 1894.

Mr. C. B. Allen is attending division court in Tweed today.

Mr. Jas. St. Charles, jr., returned today after a visit to Toronto.

Miss Richardson of Whitby, is visiting friends in the city.

Mrs. H. K. Smith, assay warden, is in Madoc today.

Mr. Chas. Laidlaw, teller in the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, is spending a few days in Kingston.

The city auditors, W. F. Aceves and John C. Keith will commence the audit of the city accounts on Monday next.

It is indeed mild weather when frogs are tempted to leave their winter retreat. Mr. Wm. Minaly caught five dozen of the green jumpers on the Grand Junction dock yesterday.

The ice harvest has commenced. The ice is about half the thickness of that of last year and hauling of it is difficult owing to lack of snow for sleighing.

50 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 19th, 1884.

Street Surveyor Taylor celebrated his 61st birthday today.

Rev. J. W. Burke, rector of St. Thomas' Church, will preach in Picton on Sunday next.

The Grand Junction train from Peterboro left the track this morning between Stirling and North Hastings Junction and a number of the passengers were slightly injured.

Yesterday afternoon Charles Duckworth had the little finger on his left hand so badly injured while at work Tickell's factory that it had to be amputated.

Tobias J. W. Meyers, aged 75 years, died yesterday at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. John N. Lasier, Alexander street. The late Mr. Meyers was a son of the late John Walter Meyers and a grandson of Capt. Meyers, who was one of the original settlers of Belleville. He was born in Sidney township. He is survived by one son, Mr. E. W. Meyers, furrier, and one daughter, Mrs. John N. Lasier. He was highly respected.

Premier Henry Will Reply on Bond Sale

Ottawa, Jan. 19—Premier Henry stated he was not in a position to give a detailed answer to criticism of the personnel of the committee which handled Ontario's recent $40,000,000 loan, but that he would furnish a complete reply when he returns to Toronto from the Dominion-Provincial Conference this week-end.

Mr. Henry took occasion to point out however that a Bank of Montreal official, a Bank of Nova Scotia official, and a broker comprise the committee. The latter, two men from the Bank of Montreal on it, has been alleged. Furthermore, the same committee functioned for the last big Ontario loan which was floated under the direction of the late provincial treasurer, Hon. Edward A. Dunlop.

Asked why such criticism should be directed against the governments appointment of the committee, Mr. Henry said:

"I guess there are some people who are put out a bit because the loan went over so handsomely."

11 BUSINESS PLACES BURN

Four Alarm Fire in Buffalo District Cause $200,000 Loss

Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 19—(AP)—sweeping through an eight-story factory building block in the South Buffalo district a four alarm fire early today destroyed 11 business establishments, causing damage estimated by fire officials at more than $200,000.

Four firemen received minor injuries fighting the flames while 11 others narrowly escaped death during a series of gas explosions in the basement of the building.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight and was still smouldering at dawn today although completely under control. It believed to have started in a branch store of the W. T. Grant Company, the flames spread rapidly through 11 other establishments, including a bowling alley, a dance hall, several stores and business offices. A moving picture theatre in the centre of the building was damaged but fireproof walls saved the auditorium.

Dense clouds of smoke billowing from the building coupled with gas explosions hampered the work of firemen.

ASK RULING

Elass. Ont., Jan. 19.—Following receipts this week of a registered letter from public school inspector I. L. Skuce, of Sudbury, ordering their resignation from the board of No. 1 Kapuskasing public school, Trustees R. Mcbryil, John Thompson and A. Desforges are appealing to Premier Henry, as Minister of Education for a ruling.

Work of the Radio Commission

St. Thomas Times-Journal

The opponents of the Canadian Radio Commission never lose an opportunity for voicing their opposition. They apparently are doing about all the talking. Practically nothing is heard from the thousands of listeners who are daily enjoying the diversified, excellent and wholesome programs which the commission has arranged for their edification and entertainment. Unfortunately, in Western Ontario, radio owners have not the same facility for hearing these programs as have those in some other sections of the country. The most powerful station in Western Ontario, CKLW, Windsor, is coupled up with the Columbia Broadcasting Company's chain, and only broadcasts the Canadian programs that are carried by that chain. The London station, CFPL, while it can be heard clearly over a fairly wide area, is on the same 410-cycle band as one of the Montreal stations, and in consequence, the reception is more or less spoiled for those operating radios of considerable power. This difficulty, of course, could be largely eliminated by giving CFPL a clear channel, at least so far as its territory is concerned.

There can be no serious question to think but that the Canadian Radio Commission has done a great deal to develop Canadian radio talent, which would have remained undeveloped but for it. One of the best evidences of the worth of the commission's programs is found in the fact that several of these are now regularly broadcast by the big chains in the United States.

Another meritorious thing that the commission has done is to place Canada on the air. As everyone knows, there was very little heard about Canada before the commission took hold. But now, in song and story, in educational talks, in addresses on public questions, and in inspiring music, Canada is being broadcast both at home and abroad. ...Those Canadians who are grateful to the commission for what it has done to develop home talent and to Canadianize radio programs should begin to rally to its support, for all signs point to a fead set being made against it at the coming session of Parliament.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake Up Your Liver Bile and Get A New Lease of Life. No Calomel Is Necessary.

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of bile into your bowels, every day of your life.

Without that bile, bowel waste remains in your food just, won't digest. It ferments and poisons instead. Gas bloats you. Food don't touch you and your entire system is undermined by the poisonous waste matter. You have indigestion, constipation or sour stomach.

Laxatives are no help to liver action. They're mere bowel movers. Calomel is dangerous. It's mercury, and breeds and spreads germs. You need something like the pep to a healthy person should have. In fact you are generally wretched.

How can you expect to clear up a condition like this unless you get to the cause—your liver? Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills, the original pill, for roughage? They can't wake up your liver bile!

Avoid substitutes! Buy yourself a box of old reliable Carter's Little Liver Pills. All vegetable, sure, gentle, safe. They'll wake up your liver bile and make you feel like a new person! Only 25c at all druggists.

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name and look for the name. Carter's, on the red label. Be on all druggists. 67

LOUSE UPSETS THE LAW

Judge Padden Deems Tools in Favor of Wild-Life Procession

New York, Jan. 19—Robert Burns dignified the louse in poetry, and now the little beastie threatens to distinguish itself into the United States public works program.

In the midst of court proceedings at the Chelsea police station, Judge Frank M. Padden leaned from his chair and backed away, the writer reports. He was horrified by a little procession of wild life across the judicial desk: A louse, rampant, followed by a cockroach.

"I refuse to hold court in a place like this," Judge Padden exclaimed. "I see no reason why the public works money cannot be used to build few police stations. I'll take up the matter with Mayor Kelly."

POLLYANNA STAGED BY ROSENEATH SOCIETY

Provides Excellent Entertainment For Winter School Delegates

Roseneath Dramatic Society provided last evening's entertainment at the winter school being held at Bridge Street United Church with the well-known comedy "Pollyanna, the Glad Girl".

Under the direction of Mrs. G. A. Tucker, the well-prepared play was interestingly presented and Pollyanna was a very real character indeed. The part of Pollyanna was taken by two actresses, little Miss Dorothy Tucker as the twelve-years-old girl and Miss E. Wallace as Pollyanna at seventeen. Both acquitted themselves well as did the other members of the cast. Even the lively pair "Seddon and Gomorrah" were very well behaved and seemed quite accustomed to the stage.

DESCRIBES OLD AND NEW SPAIN

Dr. F. Thompson, Western University, at Canadian Club

"Spain, Old and New," the subject of yesterday's address to the Women's Canadian Club by Dr. Frances Thompson, of the Department of Romance Languages, Western University, gave hearers a comprehensive picture of the historical background of this picturesque country.

Looked upon as the "last stronghold of romance," Spain, the speaker pointed out, could be a very prosaic country, indeed. In fact many illusions and fancies concerning Spain were rudely shattered by facts. Far from being always attired in brilliant costumes, associated with Spaniards, the people of that country had adopted Western clothes. The men do not spend most of their time serenading with guitar and song the ladies of their choice who on their part are much too busily engaged to adopt romantic poses in the casement window.

There is not a vigorous middle class in Spain as in France and the lot of the poorer classes is far from sunny. Their hard work dispels the idea of the "lazy" Spaniard.

Spanish women are enthusiastic workers in church organizations. They are not especially interested in culture, their family life of eating all their time.

"One thinks of the Spaniard as a gay cavalier, so fond of bull fighting that he must be cruel and treacherous," said Dr. Thompson. "In reality he is very polite and friendly with an overwhelming cordiality."

Provinces, differing in dialect, traditions, even cookery dishes, make natives first, a member of his own section, then a Spaniard, so that, while he is not attracted to the Anglo-Saxon race, he is often not attracted to his own race.

Within this divided country is every variety of weather, the north unpleasantly cold in winter, the south unbearably hot in summer, both delightful at certain seasons.

Dr. Thompson then traced the history of Spain from the days of the Derbian and Celts to the present time. The centuries of Moorish occupation, the brilliant reign of Ferdinand and Isabella, the golden age in the type of Spanish monarchy, the advent of the House of Austria to the succession of Spain by the establishment of the House of Bourbon through the influence of Louis XIV of France, who placed his grandson on the Spanish throne were explained by the interesting speaker.

Napoleon's filing into Spanish matters and the more or less well-uncomfortable reign of his brother Joseph as King of Spain were followed by Alphonse XII seizing the throne of Spain at 28 caused by the present exiled monarch, Alphonse XIII, months after his father's death, to be born a king.

Spain's influence in world politics had by no means been a glory of the past. Dissatisfied with things as they were, there was a strong republican feeling among Spaniards and although the period of military and last minute plays for power was forced to abdicate.

Present economic conditions of the republican victory have been grossly exaggerated, there was no wholesale shooting, burning and pillaging of churches. There was only slight destruction. The orderliness of the people was admirable," Dr. Spain. The greatest country in Europe in its golden age is gallant-many problems to solve including those of finances, education, religious orders. The religious orders were declared dissolved, the Jesuits being especially restricted. There was to be no state religion. Four thousand schools were built and intensive teacher training preparation has begun.

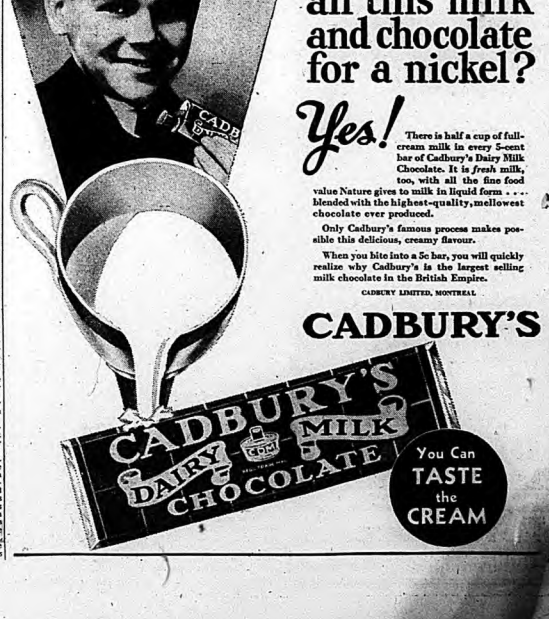
They have to overcome an aversion and inferiority complex towards things Spanish. This has caused Spain's mines, utilities, etc., to be exploited by outsiders, even yard goods manufactured in Spain has to be sent to England and ehtered as an English import to appeal to the Spaniard.

Women have just been given the franchise and the result of the recent election ends the first period of the republic. The women have brought in a more conservative type of government. The swing from more radical party has been noticeable. The looks forward with interest to future developments.

"I ask you to be sympathetic in your point of view when you see some account on the subject of Spain. The greatest country in Europe in its golden age is gallantly fighting to regain some of its lost prestige," concluded the speaker.



Mrs. J. Kinnear, president, who had introduced the speaker, thanked her in the name of the club for her very fine address.

LONDON POLICE SHOOT FIVE TONS OF RABBITS

London, Ont., Jan. 19—Five tons of rabbit meat has been fed to London's unemployed this winter by city policemen. Marksmen on the city force on ten organized hunts have brought down 999 jack rabbits averaging in weight a little more than two pounds.

The latest and best hunt was yesterday when 119 jacks were bagged.

The meat is in great demand among the unemployed and this morning there was a wild scramble when the police unloaded the game. The jokers are not the only ones benefitting from the expedition. The police are a big factor in reducing farm damage by curtailing the rapid natural increase of the jacks.

He Hasn't Learned to Live Within His Income!

DISPOSITION gone sour, nerves ready to snap, existence a misery. Life one round of unpaid bills—of stalling off the butcher, the tailor, the rent collector.

He'll have to get out of the mess himself. But he need never get INTO it again. For economy is a matter, first, of budgeting—of balancing income against expenses IN ADVANCE.

Does this mean exchanging misery-living for MISERLY-living? It does not! It means careful day-by-day buying; it means hunting for values and value-events where they're always found; it means BETTER living at LOWER cost; in a word, it means shopping and saving through the Ontario Intelligencer Ads—BY READING THEM EVERY DAY!

Won't some kind soul who's found this way out take pity—AND TELL HIM?

POLICE COURT

Owing to the absence of Magistrate Mikel from the city no police court was held Friday morning. His Worship's attending the present Ontario Bar Association convention in Toronto.

Not a single arrest was made by the local police department during the past 24 hours. No major motor accidents were reported despite the icy conditions prevailing on local streets and highways leading out of the city. The motorcycle patrolman of this community stated this morning that motor traffic was practically at the minimum, owing to the treacherous wheeling. The majority of hills and curves have been handled by the highway department on the main Provincial highways, however.

Following the recent order issued by K. G. Donnan, K.C., local Crown Attorney, relating to the illegal using of milk bottles by local dairymen, the latter would have been instructed to inspect milk wagons delivering milk in the city periodically. The first inspection occurred this morning with the result that no local milk dealers were found in possession of other dairymen's bottles although quantities belonging locally to milkmen in Trenton, Cobourg and even as far west as Newmarket were found in some of the local delivery wagons.

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Jan. 19 (CP)—Financial markets displayed climbing tendencies today as the United States dollar lost most of yesterday's advance in foreign exchange dealings.

While there was no wild rush for either stocks or staples, prices moved steadily during most of the session. Support shifted from group to group in about a Brownsville way the rails and industrials stepping forward briskly at intervals.

The continued demand for bonds at substantially higher quotations was encouraging to the financial district.

Shares of Delaware and Hudson got up 3, and gainers of 1 to 2 or more points included U. S. Steel, N.Y. Central, Allied Chemical, American Can, Chrysler, U.S. Smelting and Mackinson Afdall.

Scattered improvement occurred in the Canadian list. Home and McIntyre were little changed but International Nickel and Canadian Pacific edged slightly higher. On the Curb, Hiram Walker and Lake Shore mines got up about a point apiece. Dominion Government issues were a trifle easy but the 4s and 1-3s improved 1-4 and 1-8 a point. The Canadian dollar was 1-4 of a cent higher at 99 cents.

Toronto, Jan. 19 (CP) — Hogs were the only class of livestock to show any gain at the local yards. Livestock market this week, all grades and classes declined and barely holding steady. Cattle trade was slow on Monday and Tuesday with large holdovers each day. Receipts were light on Wednesday and steady resulted in active trading and the market closed with only 100 head unsold.

70 MILLION SAVINGS ON TRAFFIC COSTS

Washington, Jan. 19—President Roosevelt sent to the United States Senate today a special war department estimate that the transportation savings on traffic by the proposed St. Lawrence seaway project would be $70,000,000 annually.

The treaty with Canada was still before the Senate, Senator Shipstead (F. L., Minn.) speaking in its favor.

The war department report showed its estimate was based on a calculation that the export and import tonnage over the seaway annually would amount to 13,000,000 tons.

Tempers Flare and Penalties Garnered by Hotheads as Going is Tough in the N.H.L.

Bruins Went Down Before Leafs 6-2 in Rough Game

HAWKS DISLODGED

Rangers Win 5-0 And Move to Top of U. S. Section

Tempers that flare when the going is tough brought hotheads into headlines today after the stormiest night the National Hockey League has weathered this season.

Fists flew in outbreaks of ill-feeling that needed thirty-three minor and seven major penalties. None of the punching duels was serious enough to suggest league action.

A wearying schedule and the strain of tight division races had built up the tension. Only in New York, where Rangers beat Chicago 5-0, and Detroit where Wings and Montreal Maroons tied 1-1.

A scheduled love feast in the first period of Bonnie Kingsford's Leafs since the Bailey incident was turned into the scene of rough, tough hockey battle the teams stage when they are in the mood. Leafs had 6-2 and were that much better than Bruins.

Hatchig once cracked Jack Dempsey on the jaw Lionel Conacher throws his stick and Art Jackson does so well at New York he earned two major penalties in addition. Ching Johnson Square Garden police into action.

Big Train Socks 'Em

The big train, former amateur light-heavyweight boxing champion of Manitoba, Eddie Shore, is the Les Patrick's men taking the United States division leadership and sending Chicago into a tie with Detroit for second place.

First he socked punches with big Ching Johnson in the second period and then took on Dave Trottier in for a short round. The latter scrap was continued in the penalty box, developing into a battle that needed police to entangle.

The Rangers' first line of Bill and Bun Cook and Frank Boucher were in top form and gathered in seven scoring points. Butch Keeling started the scoring on a solo rush half way through the second period and after that Cecil Dillon and the ace line took over.

Dillon and Boucher both scored before the middle session ended, the former while Conacher was serving his first major. The Cook newsboys split the two goals in the third session.

Five majors and thirteen minors were handed out in the Detroit game. Herb Lewis and Steve Prazak staged the first pugilistic effort in the second period and were chased for five minutes. The lesson meant nothing to Eddie Goodfellow and Hooley Smith who tossed punches at each other in the third and were given the same sentence.

Frank Carson got the fifth major when his stick struck Smith on the ear. The going was rough all the way through the game and it kept the fans on their toes. Johnny Sorrell got Detroit's goal on a pass from Eddie Wiseman in the first period. Evans tied it up in the second after breaking through a pass of Detroit defence.

Quiet Affair

Compared to the other games the Boston-Toronto encounter was a quiet affair, but the 19,000 fans had expected stiffer minutes of clean hitting after they cheered the Bruins as they came on ice. But it developed they saw fifteen penalties handed out, one a misconduct.

Big Red Stewart, Boston centre, and Frank Clancy bumped each other around in the second and then Stewart's stick struck the Leaf defenceman as he went down there art was given a minor. The Bostonian made the mistake of coming back on the ice to argue about it and was handed another minor and the ten-minute misconduct besides.

Babe Siebert, against whom Ottawa protested recently was booed roundly in the third when he was alleged to have kicked Alex Levinsky and Charlie Conacher. He got two minor penalties and the Leaf right winger also was given a minor when he swung his stick at the Bruin.

Despite the penalties Stewart was the most valuable man Boston had on the ice. He made the plays for both Bruin goals, passing to Dit Clapper in the first period and conveying the puck in close for Red Beattie's goal in the final frame.

After they warmed up in the first period, Leafs were always in command. Red Horner, Conacher and Hec Kilrea had made it 3-1 before the first was over and Harvey Jackson and Ken Doraly added to the lead in the second. Horner got a second goal in the third session.

N. H. L. STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Red Horner, Toronto, scored two goals against Boston and played a sound defensive game.

The Cook brothers and Frank Boucher, Rangers' ace line, shared seven scoring points.

Wilf Cude, Detroit, and Dave Kerr, Maroons, played brilliantly in the nets as the teams tied 1-1.

CAMPBELLFORD WINS BY 5-3

Stirling With Re-arranged Lineup Taken in T.V.L. Fixture

Stirling, Jan. 19 (Special)—At a poorly attended game in the local arena on Wednesday night, Campbellford Juniors defeated the Stirling Red and Whites by a score of 5 to 3. It was a great game, fast and clean throughout.

Local's line-up was altered completely from the old one and Bill Whitby, who has taken a band with the game for the first time this season, has lined the players up with Johnnie Mumm, Fred Jobbin and Basil Robinson on the first forward line, while S. Kerby, Jack Armstrong, Gerry Haslett form the second string. The defence work was left to Lorne Bateman and Friday Fraser with Armstrong also trying out on left defence.

In the first frame Joblin scored the first goal for Stirling on a pass from Fraser Jobbin, who scored on a McArthur pass evened the count. Ken Gold scored the second. Campbellford goal from centre ice and Joblin five minutes more on the play, C. Bush of the visitors scored the third on combination play. The period ended 3-2 for the visitors.

The play became faster in the second with each team netting a goal. Eddie Bush scored for Camp, on Robinson's passing for the locals making the count 4-2.

MADOC AND MARMORA TIE

Fine Clean Game Played on a perfect Sheet of Ice

Marmora, Jan. 19 (Special)—Marmora met Madoc on the former's ice on Wednesday night and the game ended in a well. The ice was in excellent shape, and in spite of the fact that they had to play overtime, the score resulted in a tie 3 to 3.

In the first period play was good. Ralph Neal received a penalty, G. Hewitt scored and Neal received a second about. Due to good passing by Hewitt, G. McWilliams, assisted by Bill Shannon, scored a goal. The second period was very exciting for Madoc, while Tom Shannon, made a fine shot and scored for the locals. Madoc's goal was assisted by Henderson scored for Madoc team. Several penalties were handed out.

In the third period play speeded up. Play was fast and good. Howard Hewitt made an excellent play resulting in a score of 3 to 3.

Ten minutes overtime was played with neither team scoring.

A large crowd was in attendance which made gate receipts excellent.

It was a clean, straight, hockey game, with very few penalties given out.

Current Sport

Day By Day

Again the senior baseball situation looms up on the horizon with numerous surprises recently presenting themselves. Much has been written in the past few days about over the Ulster Stadium project, but apparently nothing definite. Things went so far in Guelph that a split in the "Leafs" executive was followed. The Guelph moguls might have their own way for although they have less than the proverbial "leg to stand on" to play in the Ulster loop.

The latest infra' through the barbed wire circuit, tells us that the outside of Toronto club will be included in the Ulster Stadium loop in 1934. As we understand it a stock club has been added to the present five teams to compose the Ulster Stadium League. Last year the Ulster circuit operated as a five team loop with some little success, they claim. Numerous other Toronto clubs are being admitted to the new league but, the league executive seemed to think that one club out of Toronto clubs would add to their chances of success. Hamilton was tried out to fly and no less than eight Toronto clubs, including amateurs were seeking a berth in the loop. Even Kitchener had a franchise in the loop mat, with President Gammon at the helm, thinking public came out of the woodwork, but evidently have it that "no clubs outside of Toronto" is the final decision of the year." Naturally the inference is that the Ulster Stadium is the stitch club had been procured right in Toronto.

Now that this question has been definitely settled, once and for all time, the Ulster Stadium moguls can start in just where they left off last fall, with three clubs. Of course they will have to concentrate their attention on procuring two or three clubs to fill out the league schedule. Before leaving the subject—"maybe it will be up to see yer sometime, Oshawa."

Sport notes—Freddie Parry, local boy, is matched for a re-instatement yesterday and may soon be seen in a local ring. "Peanut" Langman exhibits a fine left hook and Jack Carter Paterson's Dobermyn are playing in Campbellford this evening. The two collegiate basketball teams, junior and senior, have been scheduled to play a crepe double-header at the Albert College tonight. "Wee" hockey is being played daily at the Memorial Cup. The Belleville squad journey to Madoc on Monday night, where they can take undisputed title to that district. Here's the line of a win—the "Arena Rats", a fam can use their own judgment."

Juniors Bounce Into Group Picture by Handing Hastings 5-2 Defeat in First Game

Eddie Thomas Has Makings of Smart Junior Squad Though Light

Demonstrating superior hockey ability both ways the Belleville Juniors ushered in the current Junior O.H.A. season at the Belleville arena last evening by trimming the Hastings "Amalgamates" by the score of 5 to 2 before a goodly number of spectators who showed well for their attendance in the brand of hockey served up by the kids.

Lack of finish around the nets kept the score down considerably as the local marksmen repeatedly missed scoring opportunities, especially in the initial frame when play was rather disorganized and played in a slambang manner. Once the kids settled away and became accustomed to the spry rules in hockey season, however, they gave the fans plenty of thrills and stamped themselves as potential group contenders. Manager Thomas trotted out a host of new faces and, making an impression. "Cainer" Sinfield started in the nets and thwarted the visitors for two periods. "Curly" Churchill play Dennis and Jo Rogers combined and a small riot followed with the players on the ice taking part. Referee Green soon established order and, after a spasmodic meeting the two main participants for a five minute penalty to close the second period.

Churchill replaced Sinfield as goal tender to open the final stanza and when from the face off Greer carried the puck to the Hastings defence, passed to Morris L'Heureux and in turn Barry Boston in the red light with a nice sh.t off the wing. Mr. Rogers came back to score Hastings' second about when he beat McCoy's pass out past Churchill. Eddie Thomas, playing-coach of the night, Cy Barrigar took a pass from Dennis, High School sportponents' blue line and sunk the rubber behind Sinfield. Friendly-enough hostilities by whipping the puck past Churchill on Boyle's pass out.

Murray Murdoch Wants to Make Long Games Record

Can Run His String to 400 if He Plays Every Game to Mar. 8

New York, Jan. 19.—Sleek-haired Murray Murdock of New York Rangers, who may not stack up very formidably in a physical way beside such mastodons of the ice as Ching Johnson and Taffy Abel and Lionel Conacher, is hockey's iron man for all that. They can't knock him down and keep him there.

When the saga from the Pacific, Jean Lester Patrick, first led his newly-assembled Rangers across the horizon of the National League in the fall of 1926, the handsome young man from Manitoba was starting from scratch. He has since played in every game the Rangers have played and on March 8 these fixture-league and play-off—will total 400.

Through seven and a half seasons Murdoch has been escaping the pitfalls—injuries, sickness, colds and ailment trains. He played in the first game the Rangers engaged in under the big top back in 1926 and the last night at Detroit he ran his string of consecutive games to 399. If you count exhibition features, too, he has begun and played any yet, his run is already above 400.

Claims He Is Lucky

Big enough and cagey enough so that the hardest bumps without getting hurt, the former University of Manitoba jumbo has never kept removed from the heavy ranks. He has waded into the thick of plenty of turmoils and scored as many goals in rough games as in other ones.

"It's just that I've been lucky, that's all," he explained.

Like baseball's consecutive game monarchs, Everett Scott and Lou Gehrig, Murdoch has developed a complex about playing every game. Just as hockey satisfactorily as he's aware, he is a record-breaker without going any further. But Murdoch first wants to reach the 400-game mark and only a broken leg or some accident equally serious will stop him.

There will be quite a little celebration on March 8. When Rangers play Montreal Maroons that night, a real that night it will mark the league's top play-off game of the club and besides Murdoch, four other players, manager Patrick and Secretary Walker, were pre sent at the 1926 opening.

KALBFEISH TO OTTAWA CLUB

Fourth Member of Cataracts This Season to Join Pros.

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—Ottawa Senators obtained another recruit from the Niagara Falls amateur team today when they signed Walter Kalbfeish to bolster their defence line for the balance of the National Hockey League season.

Kalbfeist is rated as one of the best defence players in the amateur ranks and the Senators have had an eye on him for some time. They carried on negotiations with him here. The line-ups:

THE BIG SEVEN

Young Master Conacher, who pilots the high hazards for Toronto Maple Leafs, was back in uniform last night and the scoring statistics promptly showed the result. A goal and assist for Charles brought his total to seven points, which is just four points more than Joe Primeau of Toronto and Frankie Boucher of Rangers have collected. Both Hitler Kid and Frankie managed to collect a couple last night. Conacher is leading the entire league in goals scored, but Ralph Weiland is leading assister with 17.

QUEENSBORO IN LEAD 6-2

Defeat Eldorado And Advance in Group Standings

Eldorado, Jan. 19.—(Special)—In the opening home game of the season in the Hastings County League Quennboro downed Eldorado by a 6 to 2 score here on Wednesday night. The score about indicates the play as the visitors forced to the lead in the tallial frame, never to be headed.

Thompson and Hayton stood out for the winners, while Roland Valiers of Eldorado was perhaps the best performer on the ice. The visitors showed a better method of attack when their combination plays clicked in perfect unison. The score by periods saw Quennboro lead 1 to 0, 3 to 1 and with a last period rush they bagged three goals to the two scored by the local combination.

The game was well in hand all the time under the care of Alex Hunter, referee. Eleven penalties were listed. The line-ups:

TECS TIE DETROIT

London, Ont., Jan. 19.—(CP)—Detroit Olympics still retained their first place standing in the International Hockey League here although they were given a stern tussle by London Tecumseh who are occupants of the cellar. The game ended in 3-3 after overtime despite frantic efforts of the Tecs to upset the lofty Detroiters.

Three times the Tecs took the lead, only to have the desperate Olympics even the count again. It was a hot, fast game although the All Stars 'Defensive the locals have shown against Detroit this season.

Boston Bruins Bow to Leafs

The Boston Bruins arrived in town sporting a quaint set of helmets that made them look like the 15—Acrobatic Hutchinsons—15 But on this occasion at least they lacked some of the speed and team-play of 15—Acrobatic Hutchinsons—15, and were defeated, 6 to 2.

The Leafs, as soon as they had penetrated the disguise of the visitors, commenced to also penetrate their defence. Jackson and Conacher were especially brilliant on the attack, and Red Horner, although hitting nothing with his body-checks, hit the net twice with his shots.

In the second period the boys showed signs of turning in a repeat performance of the Boston Tea Party. The helmets came in useful then and were also a help to the rink management in the matter of selling programs.

"LOVE'S LOTTERY

by

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

"Isn't it?"....Inside, "My God, I love you!" I wish I'd been a better sport. I wish to the Lord I had!"

She had set her cup on the small table she longed for. Then in it, then he leaned over her, one strong hand on each arm of her chair.

"I'm having the world's worst hero," he continued, "and I'm going to ask you to marry me! And——"

If you don't—I'm going—to die."

His words! she did not speak. "Cecily!" he appealed, voice roughened by need and fear. "What should she say, she wondered—what should she say? Aldous's warnings whispered in her mind. He was the same Aldous coming from Geoffrey's ruddy face. He leaned toward her, in the sway of his body forgetting her own control and for that which she alone could give to him.

"My God," he thought, "if she doesn't——"

CHAPTER 5.

What's the answer? Um?" Geoffrey tried to make his probing sound easy, but it was not. He waited for the first time he had felt a doubt that crippled him.

"I don't know—Geoff—of course, I——"

"WHAT?" he almost shouted it; his stomach fell. "Don't try to lie to me quickly, up and close against him; "Speak that—again!" he ordered through set lips.

"I can't——" she repeated, unsteadily, her lips were trembling; loving was not as she had expected it would be; it hurt to love.

"You darling! You—utterly—dear darling!"

His was quite mad, gloriously mad; and then, with the first touch of his lips made her tremble. Nothing else mattered. This—loving him, being loved by him! That a fool she had been to think for that reason had place in this! Nothing else mattered. Nothing! No one could! It, and no one else would want to! She tightened her arms around his neck in a sob.

Neither of them knew how much like it was when he sailed her in the big chair from which he had lifted her, to kneel before her.

"I haven't always been——quite good, Cecily," he admitted in a low, firm undertone. She smoothed his hair; she heard herself say, "It doesn't—matter, darling."

He raised his head; his eyes blazed, looking into hers.

"I'm going to make you a good husband, so help me!" he promised. "Now that, do you?"

"Yes, dearest."

"I'm going to work so that you can have everything; anything in the world that you want——"

"I want to be near you—Geoff—in all ways! And there!" she said appealingly.

"Near me?" he answered. "You'll know—some day—how I want you—near me!"

"I mean——" she flushed a little.

"My darling—my darling—my darling!" he buried his head; his head was buried on her knees and he was shaking. Certainly, she reasoned, her hand once again on his hair, she could do as she would with him? She did not know that, the chaos over and the danger made, a woman loses the old power—and sad power, if she does not build a new one. And that to build anything in marriage, takes time and two hearts and two to give and thought and effort.

He struggled up to settle on a near chair and to look on her with shaken eyes. Hinting of his past indiscretion to her hurt him incredibly. Lord, he was no worse than a million other men. And—he hadn't known she was coming. Nor could he have believed earlier that it would be like this. He drew a deep, sharp breath, which was prompted of compunction and not the passion that had mastered him. Straight—he couldn't look at her; he leaned forward with a shake of head to light ground, to hide his face against the softness of her throat.

"If you can forgive—love me—love you——you'll make me—a decadent, Cecily."

"I love you, and I want you to love me——and in all ways, please, Geoff——"

The first part of her confidence had stirred him, to stun him to the last.

"Oh——you dear!" he exploded.

Before he left, she said with a tension that amused and touched him, "I want companionship, Geoff!" Geoffrey never learned what it was to kiss her, and that he had not dreamed enough, wanted no more than to kiss her; but he said a mild, vague but comforting "Of course, dear!"

So sweet, she was! So utterly dear.....and about "as cute as they make 'em!" when she voiced her boredom "Poor old—Aldous!"....He smiled a smug, almost condescending masculine smile down at her. Her fingers were moving on the braid that outlined his coat lapel. "I have—been such a fool as to this before, Geoff," she went on kind in an undertone, "but, even when Aunt Ella, has been sufficient-ly close to—let me speak of it. But—I know how—bad—a series of—parents is for a child. Now—my—because of the children—I must be for always, Geoff."

His smile has left; he felt his eyes sting. His own slater, the year before, had had a child, and had not spoken to her husband for months, because of that child. Most women, in the world he knew, felt that way.

"Cecily," he said unsteadily, "we won't have any rows about—being married forever. There is nothing—I want so much. You don't know how dear you are—how lovely. But—Cecily, darling——"

His head his cheek, dark head to say his closely cropped to her soft golden hair, and he closed his eyes. He had always taken from the world that had offered him the best; he had thought of little but taking. Now he knew himself as wanting to give, and the more want told him that depletion in this manner makes a growth.

"Cecily," he persisted, "I'm going to do my utmost to be the man to—deserve you." And never before, and ever, with the interest of his truthful had he spoken more sincerely. But a clock chimed. "Lord, one!" and he realized with a start that he had a hard day ahead and that he must have rest in order to be ready for the day and the night. "I'll go to rest, dear!" he said.

Riding home through a picturesque snowfall, he thought, rather dimly of her, her inner and outer sweetness and while shaken by his emotions, he decided that he'd have to make her understand that he must save his energy and guard it in order to be at the full force and at his best, to "work."

Cecily would be known the sort of young women who linger where the bread line forms, and even where the sort he knew stepped on the bread line. Her first reaction was an explosion of anger suggesting the Fourth of July, if they were set, they wailed a confession of it, and begged for "a shot of gin." Thus he presupposed, without even a consideration of the matter, that Cecily would like him know if he can any way, failed to please her.

He like Aldous, and this was often silent, studying him; if she were silent too long he could stir-mise her dreams by saying, "Love me?" which is the first item on the standard questionnaire of lovers. This always prompted from her a full confession of how much she loved him and of how long she had loved him.

And as Cicily heard herself confessing but a small part of the full and word-shaking truth, she always felt she was touchy about Geoffrey's description in having "really edgy" about it, and that nothing mattered but the way they cared.

Yet——from the way Geoff worked——they had no little time together and now, if ever, she reasoned, certainly he would make time to be with her. Sometimes her eyes were a bit more wistful than the eyes of any "happily engaged" girl should be and, with her, very often Geoff had to say "Lo——no!" Albion was dismissed and so he decided he must manage, somehow, to live another twenty years in order to help her through it. She would need sympathy. Albion was certain and he was equally certain that Cicily had seen too much of flirtation to indulge it even in mild-est form.

"Dear Uncle Albion," Cicily said when she told him, "Please don't mind too dreadfully!"

He patted her shoulder; he had no words. Cicily had had an unusually lean life she had been brutally assaulted by her mother's lack of faith in her, which had come to light when Angus Pond had suddenly realized that he adored the child, at the same moment when he had forgotten his age. Then Cicily's mother had died, and before there had been any reconciliation. "And now—Geoffrey——"

"I love you very much, dear," said Albion, and for the first time Cicily heard his voice shaken by his fears; "I love you very much," he repeated, "and I want you to have a chance at some happiness, which is as much as most of us get——"

"But I am so very happy, Uncle Albion!"

He thought of his sister who had been happy with eyes expanded and glazed by the drug she took; the case, he decided miserably, were analogous.

"I'm going to bring Geoff to see you dear" she said next, and she fulfilled her promise within two weeks—as soon as Geoffrey had the free moment for the call. The visit was not a success. Geoffrey, who planned to "die with his boots on," disapproved of Albion, who had retired from active business at less than fifty robore years, Albion disapproved of Geoffrey's manner of drinking a very rare port.

"Hurried people do not have time to get the flavor, the bouquet," Albion reflected. Albion looked at Cicily and then away, unable to look on her longer. Cicily was the kind who should be poured, a bit at a time, into a crystal glass through which one could see her color; then, with a circular motion that loosed the perfume, poured the glass: after a time she should be sipped and always she should be treated tenderly and reverred.

The young oaf had drained his glass at a gulp, to set it, with a clatter that menaced it, upon the table. Instantly, Albion suppressed the impulse of his eyebrows, which was to rise high.

"So you retired?" said Geoffrey in a carrying, strong tone that was oddly out of place in the room. "Well—that wouldn't suit me! I'm going to die in harness. I wouldn't be happy if I weren't overworked twelve months of the year. What do you do?"

"There are other things in life," Albion answered, "beside the acquiring of a living income, but one does not tell that to people who see more beauty in a dollar than in a bit of Sevres."

Cicily looked alarmed.

"Let's talk of other things," suggested Albion, who knew that he

"Before taking Kruschen, I was a nervous wreck," I had very bad dizzy spells and hot flushes, had spells of feeling so weak I could hardly move at times that the least thing would upset me. I was about three years in that condition.

I could not tell you in words how happy and glad I am to-day that I took Kruschen Salts a trial. I have now taken them for 15 months. I would not miss them one day. They are the most wonderful remedy anyone can take who suffers as I did. Albion brought a piece of Roman marble to show Cicily. Cicily adored it and so did Geoffrey smiled tolerantly. Such enjoyments one left to one's women; and when one got fed up with allitudes one took a little excursion with another type. Not that he meant to do that; no, he would play square. "And anyway," he thought, "I haven't time!"

Little Benny's Note Book

Last nite I woke up all of a sudden on account of just finishing a dream about being cast away on a landslide, mostly rocks, and there was nothing on the land and big bangs of thunder was going off and it was all dark and then when there was lightning, being as there was no thunder this time, Gosh, I wonder if the end of the world is going to be like this?

Add I tried to go to sleep again and couldn't and all of a sudden a fearse streek of lightning there was a rain and then a fire and a bang of thunder went off like 10 bumps rolled into 1 and came as close as anything me hitching, I bet that pritty near shook the house, I wonder if it hit next door and split their house in 2.

And I got pritty neer all a ways under the covers and the lightning went to ate myself.

cape oftener and oftener and the thunder banged louder and louder and the rain sounded like shot verter instead of separate drops, and I must, I guess I better get up and shut the window.

Only I didn't, not reeling like getting out of bed on account of not wanting to bump rite into a streek of lightning or something and then the dimlest streek of lightning and the fearsest bang of thunder both went off together and I without the part of the house to fall down, cry it didn't me thinking. Maybe I better go down and see if pop and ma are all rite, but if I did they mite think I was scared.

With that then something popped on my bed being my little dog Jumpy scared as anything, and he got underneath the covers and pushed himself rite up to me, and his hart was going so hard I could feel it, and I put my hand and I hugged him in my arms every time there was thunder, saying, "It's rite Jumper, it aint hurt you, it's only thunder and lightning, it's only clouds bumping together and making loose electricity, go to sleep and dont mind it, Jumper."

Making spe feel so much better, I went to ate myself.

Hamilton, Jan. 18. — Hamilton's scarlet fever epidemic is one of the most mild type, Dr. Harry Moore, M.O.H., stated today. Altogether there are 78 cases reported, but only one was discovered by public health nurses during their regular inspections. Twenty-seven new cases were reported this week.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE WRECKER"

AND

"KING OF THE ARENA"

A brilliant cast, replete with name talent was assembled for "The Wrecker", Columbia's big mystery drama now at the Capitol Theatre. Jack Holt, distinguished veteran performer with an outstanding record of screen successes, is seen in the leading role.

Genevieve Tobin, noted screen star, Miss Tobin has just returned from a successful tour abroad, where she appeared with Gloria Swanson in "A Perfect Understanding". She has since had roles in "Infernal Machine" and "Pleasure Cruise."

George E. Stone, well remembered for his portrayals in "Cimarron", "The Front Page" and "42nd

Genevieve Tobin and Jack Holt in "The Wrecker", now at the Capitol.

Street," has another important role in "The Wrecker." Before launching his bow on the screen several years ago, Stone had a long and successful stage career also headlining in vaudeville. He has achieved a well deserved fame as a character artist, particularly in semi-comic, semi-tragic Jewish parts such as he has in the film.

Stanley Blackmer, likewise a noted figure before the footlights and incidentally the husband of Genevieve Tobin, is the villain of the piece. He was seen in the title role of "Rackets in the Columbia film, "Cockeyed Hour" and prior to that in "Voice in Dinner" and "Daybreak." Blackmer is a well known figure recruited from the stage where he appeared opposite his wife in most of her greatest successes.

And on the same program another picture that will delight old and all, "Ride 'Em Cowboy" Ken Maynard, that redheaded hard riding, hard fighting, devil-may-care cowboy of the silent days, is seen in the most action-jammed, lightning-paced picture of his career, "King of the Arena"—is now at the Capitol Theatre.

And what a picture! Two shows in one. You'll see a circus with all the excitement and entertainment of the Big Top, and right in this circus, Ken, and his famous horse, Tarzan, steal their hair raising adventures which lead them across the border into a bandit's nest, thrilling Mexican, Canadian cowboys—gunning riot in the most exciting picture you can imagine, and pretty Lucille Browne is the lovely heroine.

Don't miss this Ken Maynard thrill-a-minute picture. Hold on and don't touch leather. Ken and Tarzan are on their way to give you the supreme picture experience of your lives.

Capitol News of the world contributes a really fine newsreel. Saturday only comedy chapter of "The Whispering Shadow."

AT THE BELLE

"ROMAN SCANDALS"

Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals", opens a four days' engagement at the Belle, commencing Tomorrow (Saturday), matinee daily.

This is the pop-eyed comic's fourth annual screen musical comedy for Samuel Goldwyn.

Ruth Etting, Gloria Stuart, David Manners, Edward Arnold and Verre Teasdale are his companions as he frolics among the gorgeous slave girls gathered for the pleasure of Caesar; in and out of prison dungeons, flying over dusty roads at the reins of a thundering chariot, and likes it at times.

George Kaufman wrote the original story for Eddie's adventures. Anthony McDuffe responsible for "The Kid from Spain", "Whoopee" and earlier Cantor successes, did the adaptation. Dubin and Warren wrote the songs.

Another lavish Goldwyn production, "Roman Scandals", has among its' most spectacular features a great Busby Berkely scene, where a hundred of the Emperor's beauties spin and strut in a stirringly symbolical dance, their bare mesh costumes glittering in the moonlight, as the dancers and the rabble look up at the alabaster bodies of the captive slaves for sale to the highest bidder.

Ruth Etting's song, "No More Love" and a vivid dance creation by Grace Poggi, who will be remembered for her dress interpretation in "The Kid from Spain", are details in the production's panoramas.

Eddie has three songs, "Keep Young and Beautiful" and "Build a Little House", written by Al Dubin and Harry Warren, and "Tax on Love", by Warren and L. Robin.

In this special musical film Eddie plays a wistful, deep-eyed lad in West Rome, Oklahoma, whose imagination carries him back to the sad of beauty in distress in the Rome of the Caesars . . . to fantastic complications in court intrigue, ending in a stirring chariot chase, with the Emperor's soldiers in hot pursuit of Eddie who has seized possession of a court secret. Of course Eddie escapes . . . back in fact, to West Rome, Oklahoma.

Frank Tuttle directed "Roman Scandals" for the Goldwyn and Busby Berkely staged the gorgeous dance numbers.

Also on the program supplementing the feature will be Pete the Sailor in "Blow Me Down", "Hollywood on Parade", revealing favorite screen stars at work and play, and "Following the Horse" another of the popular adventures of the News Reel Cinemaran.

"Ann Vickers" Tonight

A best selling novel, and the "best drawing" stars. That is the combination Radio Pictures offers with "Ann Vickers", Irene Hunton, Conrad Nagel and Edna May Oliver starring in a film version of Sinclair Lewis' popular novel, "Ann Vickers" will be presented at the Belle tonight for the last times. A funny Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy comedy and Belle News are exhibited on the same program.

MULOCK FEARS FOR LIBERTY

Warns Against Creation of Boards With Autocratic Powers

Toronto, Jan. 20—Warning that Canada's commissions and boards having autocratic powers threatened to overthrow the rule of law in Canada and constituted a danger to the "national safety" was left today by Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario.

Sir William, speaking at a banquet held in his honor by the Ontario branch of the Canadian Bar Association on the 90th anniversary of his birth, declared that the provincial legislatures have encroached upon many of the people's most cherished rights, deprived them to the protection of the courts of justice and conferred upon commissions, public officers and other irresponsible bodies the power of arbitrarily determining the people's rights."

The aged jurist held many such bodies were composed of persons without knowledge of the law or of law in administration of justice, free to put their own interpretations on common sense and British liberty. Many, he said, were not bound by precedents or decisions.

He described such bodies as free to review the case chamber methods of conducting their proceedings behind closed doors, giving no reasons for their decisions, no wronged suitor being left without redress.

He appealed to all members of the bar in the country and to "all other patriotic citizens" to prevent legislation tending to such rule.

"UNWISE" TO CONSOLIDATE

Thinks U.S. Railroads Should be Brought Under Gov't Control

Washington, Jan. 20—Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation, today stamped "unwise" any move for immediate consolidation or government ownership of the railroads of the United States.

Vast possibilities for the future nevertheless were strongly hinted at in a "preliminary report" of many thousand words transmitted both to President Roosevelt and the Congress by the inter-state commerce commission.

He reported study of the Canadian railway railways was shown not to constitute convincing arguments against public ownership and operation.

The red-haired co-ordinator seriously doubted that the present management of the rail carriers was unsatisfactory, but added:

"Management should have the chance to apply the principles of consolidation, and with the help of the government, at least at the outset."

Eastman nevertheless asserted a conviction that public ownership and operation of the railroads would go further than any other remedy to obtain a profit for the rail and were now suffered by the carriers.

The question, he asserted, ought to answer for congress was definitely and as to

"Is there need for a radical or drastic change in the organization, conduct and revulsion of the railroad industry which can be accomplished by federal legislation."

NO DECISION ON SOLICITOR

Board Will Seek an Adjustment of Hydro Rates For Summer

Business of the Board of Education was light following the election and installation of officers on the first meeting of the year on Friday evening.

In the committee of the whole, with Mr. Geo. F. Ostrom in the chair, accounts totalling $896.69 were passed when introduced by the newly installed chairman of finance, Mr. Cyril Waite. Of this amount, nearly half had been paid to the local Hydro, it was pointed out by Mr. Allin.

"I'd like to ask the secretary about this," commented Col. W. N. Ponton. "What about this charge for summer rate when the schools are closed and practically no current is used?"

"I interviewed the Hydro on the matter," stated secretary J. B. Findlay, "but we were informed that we must pay a least 75 per cent. of the peak load charge for September to January. There seems to be very little we can do about it although I believe that some sort of an adjustment is being attempted by the office now."

TEACHER READY TO PAY KIDNAPPERS

No Contacts Have Been Made With Abductors

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—(AP) A fortune in old bills was ready for kidnappers today if they would heed the plea of an aged invalid father begging for the return of his wealthy son, Edward G. Bremer, held for $200,000 ransom.

"Bring me back my boy—please bring me. Money is waiting for you—but hurry—we want him back," wrote Adolph Bremer, grandfather friend of President Roosevelt as he paced the floor in the office of the home of Edward G. Bremer, father of which he is principal owner.

No contact had been made by the abductors, though the family was hopeful some sign would be made today telling them how and when to deliver the ransom in $5, $10, and $20 bills.

NATIVE OF CITY

Lt. Col. E. A. Geen Assumes High Office After 10 Years Service

It was a brief message, which dealt principally with further rigid economies to be practised by the Board during the coming year, that the newly installed Chairman of the Board of Education, Lt.-Col. E. A. Geen delivered to members of that body following his installation to office on Friday evening.

Escorted to the chair amid the applause which greeted his acceptance of office, Mr. Geen thanked the members present simply but effectively for the signal honor, that had been accorded him on the tenth year of service with that body. To the new members he extended his welcome, and to the older officers of the Board, he asked of nothing more than the continued support that had been given his predecessor, Mr. Ponton.

"I can only hope to fill that office as it has been filled in the past," stated the new chairman. "And so I undertake my task

Dr. G. C. Lawrence, veterinary, who says that he has lost track of the number of dogs that he has treated, stated "the disease prevalent amongst Lindsay dogs, which is spreading at the rate of 150 a week is a rare and severe form of distemper. It is considered that the disease is much like a bad attack of influenza in humans, but with the dogs there is very little chance of recovery. Probably the heaviest loser was Ray Morden, of Kent St., who has lost a large kennel at his home. He had 18 dogs in all, 15 of them valuable registered dogs.

TRUANT OFFICER GIVES REPORT

Local boys and girls are finding lessons more profitable these days, or are just attending classes in school because there is much to do for them to do, it is indicated by the annual report of the School Attendance Officer, which is before the Board on Friday evening.

Wrong Name Given In Contempt Case

An error occurred in yesterday's issue in regard to a story of committal for contempt of court of a resident of Tweed. The name Clifford Mercer, who unfortunately used, whereas it should have been given, as Michael Mercer. The man was recently sentenced to serve ten days in the common jail for failure to appear in Division Court at Tweed. He was later apprehended. Upon arrival in Belleville, however, and through the efforts of his solicitor and family, arrangements have been made settling the difficulties concerned. Michael Mercer, the accused man, being released from custody last evening. The mistake of the name is regretted.

MERCURY DROPS OVER 25 DEGREES

Local weather prophets dug deeper into overcoats this morning as a shivering mercury again dipped below zero marks last night and early this morning. But no relief from the second cold wave this month has been promised by the weather man for the week end. It will probably be colder this evening and on Sunday, with a strong promise of snow. Although a chill north wind drove temperatures to a lower point in the city, at the pump house below a lowest mark of only two below was recorded. High at noon on Saturday was set at 28 above, while a strong sun which shone over the district continued to take the nip from the frigid air.

COL. W.N. PONTON IS WELCOMED TO BOARD

Starting His 22nd Year in Fine Fettle

Colonel W. N. Ponton, K.C., appearing fresher and more active than ever, and "feeling fine" accordion to the press reporters entered the Collegiate Board room on Friday evening to take his place at the table on the thirty-first consecutive term.

For thirty-one years he has served, although it might be forty-two, for most Boards have had a Dean of the Board has been on the lists of those, who proved the sparing of a ratepayers' money. And for thirty-one years he has enjoyed the privileges of being able to serve the city in such manner, according to his own words. But his service to the city reaches farther back than a thirty-one years. Fifty odd years ago he was gazetted as a Second Lieutenant in the Argyll light Infantry, and forty years ago he entered City Council serving various terms of office.

Now he is back again, in better health than for many years, "and ready to fight as vigorously as ever for progress, practical economy and during the coming year," he states, "and I am pleased to hear a welcome by both the older and newer "youngsters" on the Board.

CONSUMPTION IS LESS DUE TO STOKERS

Lower Grade of Coal Can Be Used in Furnaces

It's been a hard year to heat schools, and considerable extra fuel has been burned, so far this season, but the stoker is coming up in the class rooms, but even considering this grade, consumption of fuel is slightly less than it was in previous yea.; when automatic stokers were not in use on the boilers. A lower grade of coal can now be burned owing to the automatic and complete combustion of the fuel, a less amount is required than would ordinarily be shovelled in by hand.

1,600 SIGNED PROTEST CARDS SENT TO PREMIER

Protest Sale of Beer And Wines In Hotels and Restaurants

The city of Belleville on January the 18th 1934 presented to Premier and his Cabinet 1,600 signed protest cards, received from citizens protesting against the proposal to permit the sale of beer and wine in hotels, restaurants, or clubs. This was the first consignment to be followed by hundreds more, it is expected. There are about 290 depots in Ontario now for the retailing of beer consisting of stores, warehouses and breweries. In order to greatly increase the outlet of their products the brewing interests are proposing to extend new licenses to about 2,500 hundred hotels, 4,600 restaurants and some 150 clubs. Licenses will be issued to retail beer in Ontario by the glass to 6,750. Believing this greatly increases the evils already really increased sale and provide potent temptations and luring to the young people who frequent so largely our restaurants and hotels, the beer drinking habit, which leads to the use of harder drink, and further believing that many men not now frequenting liquor stores or brewery warehouses would be induced to spend their time and income in drinking by the glass as in old bar room times, developing appetites for liquor, and increasing the misery and suffering of their poor families already there are enormous depression therefore a storm of protest is raging all over Ontario against the above proposal.

Wellington Juniors Defeat Trenton in Exhibition Tilt

Score 5-3 And Prince Edward Boys Had That Edge

Trenton, January 20.—(Special)—Orval Kyle's Wellington Juniors took the local Junior O.H.A. team by surprise last night in an exhibition tilt and when the smoke cleared the Trenton lads were on the short end of a 5-3 score.

The local kids were bad for two periods between the Wellington boys to have the best of the third period but it was too late in the game.

Wellington has some fine material in the Burley brothers, Phillips and Moore, all of whom starred in defence. Munroe in the nets saved dozens in the last stanza, when the black and whites fairly bombarded him.

They are all good skaters and pack fine shots.

Powell and Thompson were absent from the local line-up for the first period while they played basketball at the High School.

Kirby opened the scoring before the opening bell had quieted down on a pass from R. Burley.

The Prince Edward lads forced the play to keep the local in hot water.

B. Lott passed the puck from the local net to Jack Leanore at the blue line, who skated down to around the defence to even the score with a well beat Munroe.

B. Burley put the green clad lads one up on the play to end the scoring for the first period.

There was no scoring in the second.

B. Burley, Phillips and Moore each tallied before the play-off ended going in the second game. For the remainder of the game the boys from Bay street were kept up in the class rooms, but even considering this grade, consumption of fuel is slightly less than it was in previous yea.; when automatic stokers were not in use on the boilers. A lower grade of coal can now be burned owing to the automatic and complete combustion of the fuel, a less amount is required than would ordinarily be shovelled in by hand.

"Sky" Thompson drove a hard one by Munroe in the second giving the locals their second count.

"Shad" Lott and B. Burley combined to notch the last tally when the former beat Munroe.

Every Trenton man worked like a trojan after they got behind.

Mitchell and Thompson on defence were giving out plenty when called upon.

With this game out of their system the Wellington boys will meet Thomas' Belleville Juniors a return game here.

C. E. Thompson, former coach of the Belleville Juniors, refereed the game meting out only minor penalties.

The merchants who donated the sweaters on the scoring members are: Allen Lamore store (sweaters, hats); Thompson with the "Excel-Ior Life" and Lott wearing "Burt Smith" tobacconist sweater.

Trenton—Goal, Cottrell; defence, Lott and Lamore; forwards, Leanore, Lea and Burtt; alternates, Kirby, Wilson, Hall and Thompson.

Agency For Belleville Scribe

Harry Moore who recently resigned as President of the local hockey club explains the present Belleville situation in this week's Courier-Advance of which he is a editor.

Last Monday the Belleville sports writer said: "Belleville is without the helm of the 'black and white' clad outfit and an opportunity to set up a squawk and blow off a bit of steam yesterday.

Mr. Moore gives the following reasons for our "steam blowing off" over the Belleville "appreciation" and the postponement of games to accommodate our friends in the east in the Kingston City League:

"I have before me notes taken at the meeting called to draw up the new schedule for the Intermediate for the Trenton Club and when I say that the Belleville scribe is 'all wet' in his statements in the above article, I mean just that.

First it was agreed that Belleville were not to use Tice, Brady, Hinds, the two McDonalds and Sherry in the local O.H.A. group. And it was upon the guarantee of the Belleville sponsors of the time that they would not use these players with the Campbellford, Trenton and Cobourg.

Second, Belleville asked that they not be scheduled for any games during the first week of January so that their team in the Kingston City League might play-off with the second place winners.

Belleville were accordingly, as scheduled to play any games during that first week, and they were put down for just one game during the second week of January. Now we are into the third week and find games that had been arranged have been put back because the benefit of the Belleville Kingston City League Team. Could is not the O. H.A. team) thus delaying the playing out of the schedule which may be seriously affected if we should run into soft weather.

It is unfortunate that the Belleville team were not able to play their first game in the Kingston City League in the first week of January as intimated at the meeting at which the local schedule was drawn. Had this been done there would have been no occasion for any trouble or argument."

Two Slight Accidents

Two slight automobile accidents occurring in and near Trenton on Thursday.

The police are investigating but as yet no charges have been laid.

T. H. S. Wins Two

Picton and Trenton Collegiates met in a two game tilt last night for the first game of the season here. Trenton took the honors in both games but the Picton team put up a stiff battle especially in the first game. A large number of fans witnessed the games.

Senior Game

The senior game was fairly fast but rough playing on both sides spoiled the game for the spectators. During the first half the T.H.S. boys set the pace and constantly has the ball in their opponents' territory bombarding their baskets with shot after shot. Hurwitz, Huffman and Fox stong out for the locals with Wallace playing a good combination game. Mallett and Johnson played a smart game keeping the P.C.I. backfield away from the basket, Mallett and Foley stood out on the Picton team among many of the points. Box score: T. H. S.—Huffman 4 points; Hurwitz 15; Taylor 3; Fox 5; Mitchell 2, P. C. I.—Welch 3; Foley 10; Mallett 10; Hollingsworth 2. Final score T. H. S. 33; P. C. I. 24.

The Intermediate game:

T.H.S.—Forwards, Huffman, Hurwitz; centre, Taylor; guards, Wallace, Mitchell; subs, Johnson, Fox, Thompson.

P.C.I.—Forwards, Welch, Mallett; centre, Foley; guards, Palmatier, Hollingsworth; subs, Seeley, Hollingsworth.

Junior Game

The junior game proved to be fast and furious in the first half which resulted in the score T.H.S. 7; P.C.I. 4, but in the second half the Trenton basketeers walked all over the floor time and again sinking some pretty baskets. Campbell, Wells, Stotz Grey stood out on the T.H.S. quintette with Davis a close second. Redd Miller was usual player in his regular good game of guarding the basket. Forwards, Wallace, Walton, Wannamaker; centre, Lockyer; guards, Yarwood, Murphy; subs, Lockyer, Burley, Welsh.

Referee—Loughlin, Belleville.

SEEKS TO CONTROL DEADLY GAS PERIL

British Guiana, Britain's only colony in South America, may contribute largely to a reduction in deaths caused by carbon monoxide gas, discharged from automobile exhausts.

Following experiments made by Dr. John Harger at Liver, Liverpool, England, the British Guiana Committee supplied the research department with quantities of bauxite, for which British Guiana is famous. It is proposed to use bauxite to absorb the monoxide by combustion in the exhaust chamber of automobiles.

The British colony is connected with Halifax and Saint John by Canadian National Steamers.

ATTENDANCE ON MARKET SMALL

Cold weather was responsible for only a fair attendance of vendors and purchasers at Belleville's Saturday market. Accepted advances in the price of eggs was little substantiated, a cent or two cents more per dozen being asked than a week ago, with a price range from 25c to 30c per dozen. Creamery butter was still at 35 cents a pound. One farmer at 27.28 was the only bird of his kind on the market. A few ducks were offered at 75 cents and a dollar each, chickens ranged from 75c to $2.30 a pair, and were for sale in fair quantity only. Fresh pork found purchasers at 5c, 6c, 7c and 8 cents apiece.

Despite weather conditions there was a good offering of cooked. Northern Spies $1.00 and $1.20, Stowns 75c and Talman Sweets at 60 and 75c a bushel; cooking apples were 50c a bushel. Potatoes were also in a bushel with some vendors asking $1.10. Other vegetable received were: Cabbage 5 cents, turnips, turnips, carrots, beets at 30c each, spanish onions 40c and 50c a peck, cabbage 5 cents and celery 5 and 10 cents.

Early Days at Ivanhoe

Written for The Ontario Intelligencer by Hattie F. Clements.

The first record of land settlement at Ivanhoe is an Abstract of Tittle dated 1803. Elizabeth Dunhame purchased from the Crown 200 acres of land in the 6th concession, lot 6, of Huntingdon township (farms now owned by C. A. Mitts, Sam Kilpatrick and John Clements). In 1834 Mr. Wm. Mitts purchased this 200 acres from E. Dunham and settled on the farm now owned by J. Clements.

Mr. John Wood from Scotland settled on the 8th concession 102 years ago. He was the first settler (and only) on that line. He was a justice of the peace and called Squire Wood. The next year Mr. George Carscallen came. Mr. Sam Burnett, John Haggerty and Wm. Roy followed during the next few years. Mr. Hugh McMullen from Scotland settled below the hill and Peter Roy where John Wright now resides.

The first road to Madoc was by Bronson's bridge.

To go from Madoc to Belleville they had to build a raft to take the oxen across Moira (Hog) Lake. A family by the name of Mackenzie liver near which is now Madoc Station. Mrs. Mackenzie walked to Belleville carrying her butter. She stayed at Mrs. Hugh McMullen's all night, in all taking three days to make the trip. In order to post a letter the early settlers had to walk to Belleville. The mail going to the Old Country went only once a year.

Mr. Hugh McMullen and Mr. Saries went to Stoco Lake to fish and Mr. McMullen was drowned. Mr. John Wood was the only one who had a span of horses, so he went and brought the body home.

The name, Thos. Emo, a young Irishman, a school teacher (rather aristocratic in manner and appearance) arrived. He had been reading Sir Walter Scott's noved "Ivanhoe" and with the dispatch that Ivanhoe characterizes the Irish, he named the place. He later became Reeve of Huntingdon and County Warden. The majority of early settlers were Irish. Some of the names of Irish settlers are—Ray, Burnett, McKee, Shaw, Rollins, Emo, Gunning, Stout, Rutledge, Rawson Carscallen and MacMullen.

Scotch—Harvey, Wood; Fleming; Roy; McMullen and Archibald.

English—Tummon; Chapman; King; Lidster; Prest and Gaven.

U.E.L.—Reid and Mitts.

At first the main ambition was the primitive struggle to subdue the wilderness and clear the land. Gradually other occupations besides lumbering and agriculture were introduced and engaged in. Mr. W. MacMillen was a weaver. Daddy King the first shoemaker; Wm. Vane a furniture maker; Sammy Ranson a tailor (crossed the ocean 9 times); Gay Brother, stone masons; John Shaw, a shoemaker; A. Fitchett and S. Holden had hopyards. A waggon was sent around in the morning to gather up the hoppickers. They usually took their dinner with them but they could get it for 25 cents at the hop-yard. Some earned the handsome sum of three dollars for the season.

After some of the land was cleared and log houses built they planned to build a church. At first they worshipped in the homes or perhaps a new barn. Timber was hauled out to build a church on the lot at the corner but this did not materialize so Mr. Wm. Mitts bought the timber and built the house the writer is now living in. The present occupants have no fears in a windstorm because the foundation is so secure. On the same place, when the barn was new, the settlers held religious service in it. Mr. Jas. Wright has often told how he had attended the service in this barn.

The The Bible Christian Church was built on the 8th line at a later date.

Collins' Church was erected near the railroad track and White Church (Pres.) in a field next to the school house. This last named was a mission, Rev. David Wishart coming from Madoc and, later Mr. Grey from Stirling. St. Andrew's was built in 1933. Wm. Archibald, a local farmer contributed nineteen hundred dollars towards the building fund. Miss Robertson, a school teacher, here at that time, organized and taught the first adult Bible Class in the Presbyterian Church. However, the first S. S. in the community was at the Bible Christian Church, where the teacher took what ever chapter in the Bible they chose and taught it. They had class meetings at which all gave their testimony. They held prayer meetings through the week.

Prayer and faith were their strong points and the evidence of things not seen.

Miss Charlotte Ranson, Miss Thressa Mitts and Miss Sarah Rollins and Miss Mary Jane Fleming were leaders in the singing.

Mrs. Lewis Mitts had a great gift for vocal prayer at the services. People would walk for miles to attend church in the early days. Walking was the principal method of getting from one place to another.

Beulah church was built in 1882, M 2. Alex Mitts had a very prominent part in the starting of this church.

From the community two went as ministers of the gospel, Mr. Thos. McKee and Mr. Jas. Haskins.

At the first and only wedding held in Beulah Church the ceremony was performed by Rev. Richard Duke, an Irishman contracting. These parties were Wilson Fitchett and Frankie Mitts. The groom forgot the license. In the first wedding at the Presbyterian Church, the parties were Grace McInroy and Forbes Sherry.

The writer has in his possession a Bible that was owned by the pioneer mentioned above, Mr. Thos. Emo. He read it through nine times Each reading is recorded. The second reading was in 1848.

There was a school house situated opposite where Harford Reid now lives. Thos. Emo taught—in that school. Mr. Martin Baker taught in the Reid Settlement, also Mrs. Lewis Mitts. Teachers boarded around among the settlers, a week at each place. Miss Stokes was one of the first teachers.

The first cheese factory was built in 1870, Mr. David Fleming and Mr. H. Gauen went around to interview the prospective patrons to find out how many cans they would keep. Then they went to Thurlow to find out what steps to take in order to establish this industry that has proved so profitable to the farmers. The factory was built on the 6th line and was the first in any of the parts around. When we consider that the first cheese factory in Canada was built in 1850, we are pleased to think the pioneers were not so very far behind the times. People did not lock their doors. No one knocked at a door. The sound of a neighbor's footstep was sweet music. It was customary to get a cup of tea when a neighbor called. When visitors were going away one never said goodbye at the door but always walked a short distance with them. Women wore dresses made of calico, wincey or flannel, wore a little cap in the house and for style a plaid shawl, woollen mufflers, fur tippits, sun-bonets, but no fur coats, in summer, hoops, etc. If the women of to-day dressed like the pioneers, we would not have forty-three silk mills going full blast in Canada. Men wore frilled cloth suits and overcoats with a capot, and, for state occasions, a boiled shirt. Their food consisted of all kinds of meat, home-made bread, maple sugar (white sugar was unknown), dried berries, Johnny cake, etc.

A darning needle owned by Joe Wood's grandmother brought from Scotland went from one house to another until it had served the whole neighborhood.

Mrs. Joe Wood's grandmother never washed with a board as that would wear out the clothes. She made butter with a ladle and always scalded the milk.

Mr. Archibald had the first fanning-mill. It went from the fifth to the twelfth concession cleaning up all the grain.

Mr. Joe Hagerman had the first buggy.

Mr. Sam Burnett walked to Belleville and returned carrying a plough, an ox-yoke and a set of drag teeth on his shoulder.

John Shaw and wife came from Ireland to New York, then to Ivanhoe. The first week they were here a neighbor told them there was an Irish family down below the hill and they had a new babe. Mrs. Shaw said to her spouse, "let's go and call and see the new baby". Imagine their surprise and delight to find Mr. Donnan's family that they had known well in Ireland and the baby was Mr. James Donnan, now of Stirling.

Mrs. Chambers' great-grandmother made hats all week and on Saturday walked to Belleyille carrying the hats to sell.

Mrs. Mandy Hagerman would walk out to Eno's store carrying a big basket of eggs. She would arrive at eight o'clock in the morning, first having baked a big batch of bread and attended to the numerous duties on the farm which goes to show the pioneers were early risers.

Two girls got lost in the woods and spent the night there, Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Chambers.

Henry Gaven, an Englishman, lived in a quaint house built in the English style. His first wife was an English Lady. He was one of the party who went in search of Sir John Franklin. He suffered great hardships and almost starvation on account of food being improperly canned. He was granted a pension by the British government.

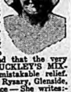
In the early days there was a toll-gate at the corner.

The settlers always helped one another in every way possible. When fire destroyed the home of one of the settlers, and the lady of the house (my grandmother) was burned very badly, Diana Mitts and a companion carried a feather tick nearly a mile so the afflicted one could rest.

There were three outstanding citizens who we think of with gratitude:

Mr. Jack Ray—One did not need to send for Mr. Ray, he was right there to help and would walk the floor with a sick child. If one of the men were called, for instance, to the jury he had no fears in leaving for if anything went wrong Mr. Ray would come and attend to everything.

Mrs. Thomas Tummon radiated an atmosphere of cheer, like the "Lady of the Lamp" always went to better help the sick and stayed with them until they were well. She was and is the friend of little chaildren and has knit many pairs of mittens for little children.



Mr. Black Reid was another helper along the Jericho Road, "Lived in a house by the side of the road and was a friend of man". Words fail to express the service these three have rendered to the community.

Some people who have attained to a prominent position in the world of affairs have sojourned in Ivanhoe for some time. Miss Cherry, a teacher, president of Teachers' Association, Toronto; Mrs. H. Rowe, teacher, president of Teachers' Association, Ottawa; Miss Robertson, teacher; Mrs. (Rev.) Dr. McQueen of Edmonton; Mr. Joe Mitz, teacher, Civil Service at Ottawa.

Who can say but the years spent in our quiet little hamlet contributed to their success in life? Be that as it may we are sure their sojourn has been of benefit to the community.

The descendants of the pioneers should feel a sense of pride in the heritage which has been handed down. Any one who is privileged to live on in the old place should feel proud of their ancestry and their high character. The pioneers were men and women of deeds, honest, friendly deeds and they built well and faithfully. The country is better today because of their straightforward course and their example of uprightness.

IT'S WONDERFUL HOW BUCKLEY'S CAN FIX A COLD SO QUICKLY

That's what surprises everyone who takes BUCKLEY'S for the first time. Accustomed to ordinary cough remedies they don't expect any benefit for several days, and often don't get relief then, and are astounded to find that the very first dose of BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE gives unmistakable relief. Take Miss Mary Rysary, Glenside, Sask., for instance — She writes:- "Last Winter I caught a very severe cold. I tried several remedies without deriving any benefit. At a friend's suggestion I tried BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE. It is wonderful how it can help a cold so quickly."

Whether your cold is merely in the sneezing, sniffing stage, or away deep down, Buckley's will bring you prompt, sure, safe relief.

It acts like a flash—A single sip proves it.

Appointment of Solicitor for Educational Board is Referred Back

"That's not just, a payment like that. True, we can't just stop using the current. We have to have it. But I should strongly recommend that the committee take this matter up and talk it over with the Hydro in a quiet manner and see if there isn't something that can be done."

Mr. Ostrom: "I believe the Hydro are working on the matter right now, Colonel, and are attempting to arrive at some more equitable adjustment."

Grant To Milk Fund

One hundred and fifty dollars will be granted by the Board of Education to the school milk fund, which will be added to the total of $200.00 given by Miss Grace Graham for that purpose, and a $50.00 grant for the same purpose by the Belleville Rotary Club, on condition that the board pay the above share. The milk will be used in the public schools for the under-nourished children.

At a total cost of $307.50, the telephone system in the Collegiate Institute had been overhauled and repaired, it was revealed by the report of the school principal, P. C. MacLaurin.

Attendance so far in the cold months had been good in spite of the inconvenience, and sickness among the scholars was almost nil. Report cards containing the results of the December examinations were now being sent out.

Recommended for purchase by Mr. MacLaurin, a grant for $17.55 for a volley ball and basket ball was passed. The basket ball was the most expensive item, $12.00.

"And that's a lot of money for a basket ball," commented Mr. R. D. Adams.

"We secured a catalogue and bought one of the cheapest makes we could find," stated Mr. MacLaurin in explanation.

"It's still a lot of money," said Mr. Adams.

Several applications for position of teacher were referred to the committee. One application for the position of supervisor of playgrounds was also received and referred back.

In a letter addressed to William Harrison from C. J. Boyce of Warkworth, a request for detailed information regarding the Belleville Collegiate was contained. The communication requested a complete statement of school equipment, investment and subjects taught. Also cost per pupil, the number and salaries of teachers, the capacity for attendance and the capacity for outsiders wishing to take academic courses.

Ask For Rates

"Would it be reasonable to suppose that your school board would enter into a five-year agreement to furnish Northumberland and Durham pupils with service on an 80 per cent. basis, or thereabouts similar to Oshawa's offer?" asked the note. An answer was requested before January 24th when the county council will be in session.

Mr. Harrison explained the letter. "As I see it, either Northumberland and Durham will have to build a school of their own or seek an outlet for their children."

Secretary J. B. Findlay was authorized to answer the communication, giving such necessary information as he deemed discreet in the light of near developments locally.

A request for the usual library grant for the collegiate of $150.00 was referred to the finance committee on the request of Mr. Cyril Waite.

"If we're going to have a library in the school we've got to have books," commented Russ Wotten.

"I believe that this matter should be further explored," stated Mr. Cyril Waite. "They may need the books all right, and probably do, but there just might be a chance to save a few dollars here. Maybe we can cut it down a little." The motion that the finance committee investigate was seconded by Mr. Wotten.

A full page ad in the Elevator, Collegiate publication, was authorized by the board at a price of $15.00.

Permission sought by the Temperance Educational Association of Ontario, for a series of five lectures to be held in local secondary schools which will be illuminated with lantern slides, was referred to the school management committee.

Everett S. Fairman will be appointed school representative to the Belleville Entrance Board for the year, on his written request for that permission. This will be the second year.

Receives Government Fee

On a query from Trustee Adams regarding the position, Mr. Clarke, Public School Inspector, stated that Mr. Fairman would be one of the examiners, and as such, he will receive a fixed governmental fee for his work. "Generally," stated Mr. Clarke, "this appointment is given for two years."

A communication from the Ontario Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association of Ontario, requesting an annual subscription was referred to the School Management Committee.

In an attempt to learn just what needed reforms are unanimously sought by various Boards of Educations of Ontario regarding school matters, the Associated High School Boards and the Province of Ontario requests the local body to forward information along the lines of their queries contained in another communication.

"Are you satisfied with the examination fees as at present?" questioned the latter. "Yes, considering that they are only a dollar now, as contrasted with $1.50 last year," stated Mr. Moncrief.

"Satisfied with present remuneration of teachers presiding over examinations in June?" This was left blank.

"Was the date of examinations satisfactory last year?"

"Very unsatisfactory," stated Principal MacLaurin.

"No," commented members of the Board.

Mr. Waite: "Are we members of this body, the Associated High School Boards? I'd suggest, that some special committee be named to go into this thoroughly," he added, when informed that the local Board was a member. "These are big questions and should be answered with care."

To Answer Questionnaire

A committee composed of Mr. G. F. Ostrom, H. B. Neal, Cyril Waite, P. C. MacLaurin and Inspector Clarke will draft answers on the questionnaire.

A tender for the painting of the basement in Queen Victoria School was referred to the Sites, Building and Repairs Committee.

"Hasn't that place been painted yet" asked H. J. Allin. "We were talking about that last August."

School Attendance Officer H. D. Ransom was re-appointed to that office for the year 1934.

"He should be complimented for the manner in which he has carried out his work during the past year," commented Mr. Ostrom on the reappointment.

In order to find some means of reducing the cost to parents whose children are attending school in the city, a notice of motion which will empower a special committee to make an investigation of further needed economies in the operation of schools was introduced by Mr. Reg. Moncrief. "I still think that further savings to parents whose children are attending the Collegiate could be made," stated Mr. Moncrief.

Whether a solicitor will be appointed by the Board of Education rests with the School Management Committee which will bring in a report at the next meeting.

A recommendation that a solicitor be appointed, and that a former member of the Board, Mr. Chas. Cameron be named at a retaining fee set by the Board, was introduced by Mr. H. J. Allin.

An amendment was immediately moved by Mr. Chas. Hyde that the solicitor be appointed, but that no one be named at present.

"We've got to go slow on this," warned Mr. Ostrom. "We've got to be careful about this adding further to our staff. Remember, this is a year when we are all talking economy."

"How much has it cost this Board for legal fees during the past four years?" questioned Harold Armstrong.

$40.00 Paid in Legal Fees

Secretary J. B. Findlay: "It's somewhere in the neighborhood of thirty-five or forty dollars. I know, that we have paid out ten dollars or so on one or two occasions for advice, and there have been other smaller items, which have also been paid for. That's just an offhand estimate."

"Mr. Butler should have been paid a good many times, while he was sitting on this Board," commented Colonel Ponton. "He's helped out several times."

"The tax payer is the one, who must be considered on this matter," reminded Mr. Armstrong. "He is the one, who is going to pay the bill."

"Considering the consensus of opinion on this matter, I would withdraw my motion. I feel however, that the secretary of this board is handicapped in being unable to go to a solicitor at any time and secure needed information," stated Mr. Allin.

"We should have a legal adviser on the Board," stated Mr. Lent. "During the past year we've probably done a lot of things, that were not quite legal."

Mr. Allin: "I'll withdraw my motion."

It was moved by Chas. Hyde, and seconded by Russ Wotten, that the matter of a school solicitor be referred back to the School Committee for the purpose of getting further information on the matter.

When members of the Board entered the Collegiate Room on Friday evening, they found little wooden triangle supports with their names printed on them indicating individual seats at the tables.

"Very nice," remarked Colonel Ponton, fingering his own name plate. "Examine the nice work on them," he suggested to the other members.

Each member solemnly bent over the tables to give the little card holders a proper inspection.

"Mr. Bear of the Vocational School turned them out for us," added the Colonel. "He should be thanked for them."

"Yes, and the best part of it is, as I understand it," remarked Mr. Allin, "he did most of them after hours."

"Well, we're getting classier all the time," remarked another member.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

will be a much lighter one."

"Every one knows the economies that had been effected during the past year by the Board of Education, and it is up to us this year to match or even better that record. All departments this year must watch expenses jealously. These are days of economies, and it is to this and allied bodies that the hard pressed ratepayer in times like these must look for relief. Only by carefully considering every expenditure will, we be able to realize these economies which must result."

Several matters will come before the Board this year which must receive careful consideration, pointed out the new Chairman.

May Appoint Solicitor

"One need perhaps is that of a solicitor. Whether one will be appointed rests with the Board as a whole, but this is one detail that must be given careful thought. The proposed reduction in numbers of the Board is only one matter on which legal advice will be necessary in 1934."

"There is the matter of fees for county pupils attending school in the city which also remain to be adjusted, and to this end we are prepared to outline our policy to the County Council."

"The question of additions to Queen Mary School, which had been strongly recommended by a committee of the previous Board, appears hardly possible this year, but serious consideration will be given the matter," stated Mr. Geen. "Were we financially able to go ahead with the work, then there would be no question of authorization. But if we are to effect economies this year, further building seems out of the question. This is a matter, which must be taken up and disposed of later in the year."

To the Dean of the Board, Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., Chairman Geen paid special tribute for the help and guidance, that has been given during the past many years the meetings have been graced with his presence. To the newly elected officers of other departments he looked for a continuance of the harmony and sincerity of effort that had characterized that body for the past year. With unity much could be accomplished.

As an aid toward carrying out the business of the board in an efficient manner during the coming year, Mr. Geen made a strong request for every member to be on hand at the regular meetings and committee meetings. When unable to be present notification of their absence to the secretary would be of great help.

Native of City

Lieut. Colonel E. A. Geen, who Friday evening was selected by his fellow members to preside over the affairs of the Board for the ensuing twelve months is a native of this city. The third son of the Rev. Albert L. and Consuela (Porneri) Geen, he was born in the Geen homestead, "Moody Cottage", West Bridge St., October 18th, 1884. Col. Geen attended the Public and High Schools here and following his schooling entered the service of the Dominion Bank under Mr. J. W. Murray here in Belleville in 1907, later he was transferred to Marmora and served with branches of the Dominion Bank at Kitchener and Huntsville. He entered the Customs service in 1913 under the local Collectorship of the late Arthur McGinnis and was appointed Collector of Customs for the local Port, May 4th, 1918. In 1921 the Customs and Excise branches of the Department of National Revenue were united and Col. Geen occupies today the position of Collector for both in Belleville.

Military Career

As a boy the new chairman of the Board of Education was a member of the Boys' Bugle Band of the XV Battalion A.L.I. and in October 1914 joined the "Colours" to fight in the World War. He was an original member of the 21st Battalion (C.E.F.) and served overseas with that unit until the latter part of 1916 when he received his commission and was returned to Canada to serve with later battalions here. He received his honorable discharge in 1918.

On the reorganization of the Argyll Light Infantry in November 1919 he was made a Captain, and March last on the retirement of Lt. Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., was given command of the battalion.

In 1919 he married Miss Estella Barrager and two daughters and a son make up Col Geen's family. He is a member of St Thomas Church, and for two years was Rector's warden of that congregation, and is now one of its Diocesan representatives to the Ontario Synod of Kingston.

The new chairman entered in 1934 his tenth year as a member of the Board of Education, and it is rarely, that he has missed a meeting of that body during his term of office. Last year he served as chairman of Finance committee and the unanimous choice of his fellow members Friday night, in placing him at their head for the coming year, evinces the confidence they have in him and his abilities. Their selection will meet with the approval of his hundreds of friends in Belleville, and well wishes and congratulations are extended to him.

Seen Through a Window

THIS IS THE MAN'S OWN STORY—

"I was walking along Front Street, window shopping, as my wife calls it, Quick & Robertson had a window with overcoats. My eye caught one, a dark gray smart coat, looked just my size and had that air of smartness which marks the dressy coat—the price knocked me for a row—$9.95. I've paid $25, $35, $45 for coats not half as smart—

"I went right in and bought.

"Was it a Bargain?

"Even my wife was satisfied that I had actually saved at least $15.

"I have since found out that Quick & Robertson carry such an enormous stock to give a wide choice and variety that every year at this time they put on a clearing sale which is a sale, so as not to carry any Overcoats over the season."

And that immense stock means that every size man or boy can be fitted to perfection.

And SO-O-O-O, as Ed Wynn would say — get your overcoat now while they are going, going and will soon be gone at prices which will never again return in our lifetimes.

HEAT VALUE OF WOOD FUEL

Forest Products Laboratories Makes Tests

Ottawa, Canada, Jan. 20—Wood has always been an important domestic fuel in Canada, and its use in recent years has increased. On account of the many requests for information concerning the heating value of wood fuel, the Forest Products Laboratories, Forest Service, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, has prepared a table which indicates the relative fuel value of the various Canadian woods.

Equal weights of different woods give off, at the same moisture content, nearly equal amounts of heat in burning, since the Fundamental substance composing wood is the same in all species. Slight exceptions to this rule are sometimes noted in these woods that contain resin, oils, etc., which may give out a little more heat, weight for weight, than other woods. With such slight exceptions, however, the fuel value of wood depends gneerally on the weight per cubic foot, the heaviest woods naturally giving the most heat.

A standard cord of well seasoned sugar maple, beech, or yellow birch split firewood weighs upwards of 4000 pounds, whereas a similar cord of softwood may weigh less than two-thirds as much. The relative value of wood depends generally may, therefore, be approximately compared on the basis of their weights, at the same moisture contents.

Two pounds of seasoned firewood are generally required to furnish the amount of heat obtainable from a pound of anthracite coal of good grade. Coal, however, is generally burned somewhat more efficiently especially since much wood is used in heating installations designed for coal. In order to deliver the same amount of heat to a boiler as a pound of coal, a little more than two pounds of wood is required.

CHURCH OF ST. VIDAL AT MONTREAL BURNS

Damage Not Known As Fire Is Not Under Control

Montreal, Jan. 19.—(CP)—Fire which started early today in the home of the parish priest, Cure N. Pilon, almost totally destroyed the Church of St. Vidal, in Montreal north, today.

Montreal firemen were called out to aid the Montreal north department and when they arrived on the scene the fire had gained such headway that the home of the parish priest was completely destroyed and flames were sweeping through the church itself. A heavy snowstorm and sub-zero temperature caused the firemen considerable trouble in their efforts to subdue the flames.

No estimation as to the amount of damage could be obtained as the fire was still raging several hours after the outbreak was noticed.

THE CAR AND THE SPLASH

Most persons have always felt that the motorist in early spring days or during the wet season should use a little care in passing pedestrians at crossings or when pedestrians are using the highways where there are no walks—that is, they should try not to splash them.

Riding safely in a car over roadways covered with slush, filth, water, mud, oil, grease, some drivers may feel it too great an effort to slacken speed and so avoid splashing pedestrians. But the days are coming when motorists will be put to that test. If they disregard it, they will splash the clothing of people who can ill-afford to have their clothes drenched and spoiled.

But then all motorists are not so thoughtless, so indifferent, so cruel, for it is cruelty to splash an innocent pedestrian with filthy water, ruining perhaps an evening's enjoyment, or necessitating a return home before going to the office or the shop for a change of clothing.

Melting days are ahead and drivers of motorcars have time to think over this little question of courtesy.

A MEMORIAL FOR FOSTER

Pittsburgh is going to erect a memorial to Stephen Collins Foster, creator of songs. Strange that so many years after his death the man who lived in suffering and destitution should at last be honored!

If spirits can visit earth after death and hear music then Stephen Collins Foster might out of his sympathy for the poor come back and his ears would hear the strains of "Old Black Joe," Swanee River," "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," "My Old Kentucky Home" and many others.

Foster by his simple melodies is so hear-touching that there is little possibility in thousands upon thousands of years that he will fail to appeal.

This composer did not rank with the great masters of harmonies like Bach and Beethoven, Wagner, Verdi and many others, but he touched the common heart, not in his own day but in the days which have followed.

Like Foster there are many persons spending lives of unostentatiousness today who are serving their generation but are not "thought of," and yet their influence passing through a family and the succeeding generations will never pass away. Their name may not shine as brilliantly as Foster's does today but the influence coming from unknown personalities will radiate through the far distant future. The names of the great cannot be many for man is too busy to know them all and many great pass into forgotten ways but their influence does not fade.

THE KING'S MAIL

So far this winter the rural mail carriers have not had the deep snow to conquer which they were forced to make their way through last winter on some of the sideroads, yet they have been obliged to use the sleigh carrying the precious mail, the arrival of which is one of the pleasures even of the days of the telephone, telegraph, the motorcar, the train and the radio. For mail must come.

Cobourg Sentinel Star under a heading "The King's Mail" reverts to the old coaching days when sweating horses galloped through the night along the lonely and dangerous country roads of England expecting any moment to hear the highwayman's command, "Whoa." There were even the dangers of flood and of the elements but in spite of obstacles the mail was delivered. How far has advanced since those days even to the coming of the plane which is more and more taking on the duties of the mail.

But the rural mail carrier does not drive a plane yet, though that day may come soon enough. The Sentinel Star says the life of a mail carrier in the country is no sinecure. If he is late he is met with complaints and his wife is sometimes called up by impatient persons. He may be delayed in digging for hours to get through a snow bank.

The Sentinel-Star goes on to say: "Many persons on the route ignore the fact that they are supposed to clear the way to their boxes and that a mail carrier is not supposed to use his vehicle to shovel out the mail, yet many times he is forced to plough knee deep through the drifts in order to reach the mail box, but he carries on his job to deliver the King's mail and nothing must prevent that."

The city authorities of Sofia have threatened to cut off the National Bank's water supply following the bank's refusal to allot them the amount of foreign exchange necessary to buy abroad water equipment for Sofia's new water system.

"Girls are no longer clinging vines," says an authority. No, they are wild ramblers!

THE CHILD AND THE WREN

It took three weeks to make them friends,
The wren in fear the maid molest
Those six white eggs within the nest
She built up at the gable-ends.

What fearful language might be heard
(If only English she could speak)
On every day of the first week,
All from the throat of that small bird!

The scolding died away, and then
The fear was followed by surprise
At such sky-blue within the eyes,
That travelled from the girl to wren.

But that third week! I do not know—
It's neither yours to tell nor mine—
Some understanding glance or sign
Had passed between them to and fro;

For never was her face so flushed,
Never so brilliant-bide her eye
At any gift that I could buy,
As at the news when in she rushed

To tell us-that the wren had come.
With flutter and hope and gurgling sound,
From gable to tree, to shrub to ground,
Right to her hand to get a crumb.

LET'S TALK SOME MORE about ourselves—yesterday we mentioned the Teletype, the Linotype and the big Goss newspaper press, three outstanding wonders of modern newspaper making. Today we draw your attention to the newspaper itself, just one phase, THE FIRST COLUMN, on the Front Page. For instance here is a review of a recent issue. Column one entitled, "News Briefs and Oddities,' a daily feature presented for your approval, entertainment and edification by grace of the Teletype, which by the way, costs $5,000 per year to give our readers an up-to-the-second world news service.

x x

The first despatch is dated Chicago and tells a true story about a one-legged man who broke a window to steal an artificial leg. He wound up with a crutch given him by the merchant whose window he broke. An odd story and interesting, told in a few words.

x x

The next despatch disturbs P. T. Barnum in his grave by taking the credit from him of originating the phrase to the effect that a sucker is born every minute. Away back in 1851 an old book of Latin sermons was entitled "The number of fools is infinite." However, no one has yet challenged Barnum's claim to the statement that the public like to be humbugged. In the light of the horse with his tail where his head ought to be, the woolly horse, and the old negro stubbornly willing to admit he was two hundred years old, and their successful exploitation, besides other stunts, Barnum was right.

x x

Another despatch tells of the death at Columbus, Ohio, of Dr. George T. Harding, 2nd., brother of the late Warren Harding, who was president of the United States. Dr. Harding was a neuro-phychiatrist, but that is not given as cause of death.

x x

Homer, New York, breaks into the First Column, with a tale of the one-man police force. Chief of Police Grace Vermum, who made 191 arrests in 1933 and got 190 convictions, the other case being held up on a question of sanity. Chief Vermum is a terror to evil doers, if any, and in his lighter moments leads the Episcopal Church boys' choir, often conducting with his policeman's billy instead of a baton—being always ready for service. It is suspected that most of his convictions are for traffic violations.

An editor is a man of few words, generally, that is most generally always. Here's a despatch from Albany giving in a few words an editor's speech: "Gentlemen, I'm just getting over the mumps, I want to be excused from speaking but I'd like to warn you, too, to flee over the furthest hill any time mumps appear within striking distance of you." That's all he had to say, and he said it. Just like the First Column, subject of this article, says a lot in a little.

x x

Other despatches in that First Column tell of a Senator at Washington being elevated in company of a group of reporters; a Brockville dentist who died in Tonopah, Nevada; a mining town which turned out a bunch of get-rich-quicks in record time; of a daughter being born weighing 18 1-2 pounds, to Mr. and Mrs. Czarnokol, Chester, Pennsylvania, and of a human sterilization law prepared for passage in England.

Some, indeed, have already gone a step or two further. They have actually put their thoughts into practice. Occasionally, we behold the spectacle of young girls taking the initiative in the love game. Often they court the men. They do not feel ashamed to express their feelings. They do not hesitate to tell the men they love them. They say what they think. They act as they please.

Most young women, to be sure, still cling to the more old-fashioned methods. Some do it from choice—because they do not wish to be said to be so forward and revolutionary. Hundreds and hundreds of women would like to be free to put into practice what it is to be strongly their inmost desire, and much can be said in defense of such a radical step.

Often the most desirable girls do not have the opportunity to marry simply because the chance winds of circumstance have not blown an ardent male their way. So much depends, for a woman, upon knowing many men. Generally speaking, the fewer she knows, the smaller her chances.

In any case, should not a woman have as good a right—should she not, indeed, have a better right—to do the selecting and choosing than the man?

Certainly a woman has every reason to be careful in deciding who the father of her children shall be, therefore it is important that she study the personality traits of her future husband as carefully as possible.

But with present standards of conduct prevailing the way are the very man she has been dreaming about for years, some and go. He may fit in with her ideal or what a husband and father should be. But if the man pays no attention to her it is as if he never existed. She is a ship in the night, he passes on. And in the end, the young girl may have to be satisfied with a second or even a third choice.

WILL WOMEN TAKE LEAD IN LOVEMAKING?

Woman's Role Now Distinctly Passive One

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

The young girls of today have become so free and unrepressed that one might, quite logically, predict that the time is now far off when the female of the species will take the initiative in love making, and that the male will be robbed of this last prerogative he has held so proudly for centuries.

It has always been the custom for the young lady to wait until some man was attracted by her, courted her, and finally asked for her hand.

The woman's role was distinctly a passive one. If she were utterly bewitched by a member of the opposite sex she might think about him, dream about him and desire him. But never, did good breeding allow her to do much at him by word or sign what the state of her heart really was.

Nowadays, however, women are chafing under this ancient restraint. "We have a right to love; why have we not also the right to show our love, and to make the proper advances in order to consumate it?" they reason.

Some, indeed, have already gone a step or two further. They have actually put their thoughts into practice. Occasionally, we behold the spectacle of young girls taking the initiative in the love game. Often they court the men. They do not feel ashamed to express their feelings. They do not hesitate to tell the men they love them. They say what they think. They act as they please.

At Kingston last night an indoor baseball match took place between teams representing the officers and men of the 15th regiment of this city and the officers of the permanent corps at Kingston. The result was a win for the Belleville officers by a score of 23 to 25. The following composed the Belleville team: Capt. Hinds, Capt. Allen, Capt. Cook, Capt. Tennent, Lt. Hyman, Lt. Middleton, Lt. Perdue, Lt. O'Flynn and Lt. Ketchenson. At the conclusion of the game the Belleville officers were royally entertained.

A bunch of local hockeyists who travel under the name of Trent Valley League team went to Deseronto last night and were defeated by a score of 6 to 2. A party who was there says that the game was the weirdest thing he ever expected to see. The Deseronto rink is an open air affair—the Trent Valley League, you know, doesn't make covered rinks compulsory; just as long as there are no stumps in the middle of the ice it's blow the expense and let 'em go. The Deseronto rink is lighted by three acetylene gas lamps which have a habit of going out every once in a while, in that case, the only way of obtaining the players bump themselves against the fence to keep warm and wait until the lamps do business once more. When the lights are burning they give nearly as much light you can get a headache from like the ancient Romans, had trouble with their eyes one night. The Deseronto Players received a surprise, at least the goal umpire said they did when the puck was handed up it was found at the other end of the rink, one of the spectators thoughtfully putting a match and discovering it. The genial "Pat" Wagar of Napanee was referee and he admitted that in a hockey experience of 37 years he had never seen anything like the game. The Belleville goal-keeper made some beautiful stops and the way he did it was no trouble to him at all. He would be standing looking out into the darkness when all of a sudden, there would be a shock. "Ah! ha!" he would say, nonchalantly, "I knew that I have made another brilliant stop" and sure enough there would be the puck lying at his feet. The Deseronto goal-keeper made many beautiful stops of the same kind. When the game was over the Belleville boys had an invitation to a rink and barrels of invitations to fight. Oh! It was a grand evening. The final score was 6 to 2, but the local puck chasers think they could have won easily if they had taken some phosphorus to rub on the puck. The following composed the Belleville team: Williamson, Pringle, Wright, Stork, Horner and Hough.

No. What peice of weaving or spinning is as perfect as a cocoon? None. What artist of modern country ever painted a picture so bewtiful as a sunset? Who can answer that question? she said.

The example so far seem to be based on personal envy rather than awe or admiration, Miss Kitty said. Now come, come, has anyone else an example? she said.

ADVERTISING OF PATENT MEDICINES

J. C. Kirkwood Attacks U. S. Legislation to Suppress it

DISSERVICE

Millions Made Interested in Health And Appearance

By JOHN C. KIRKWOOD

Across the border they are proposing to enact legislation calculated to suppress or diminish the advertising of patent medicines, cosmetics and proprietary food products. This proposed legislation is known as the Tugwell Bill.

To condemn patent medicines holus-bolus is the veriest stupidity. I recall some years ago a Toronto business man telling me of a visit he paid to a Harley Street (London, Eng.) specialist. His Toronto physician had recommended to him a sea voyage and a consultation with the Harley Street man. The Harley Street doctor, in exchange for his five-guinea fee, gave the Toronto business man a prescription which the latter put in his pocket book. On his return to Toronto, greatly improved in health, he reported to his Toronto doctor. "What did Dr. ——— say?" asked the doctor. "Oh, he gave me a piece of paper which I have never looked at. Here it is," said the business man, taking from his pocketbook the costly piece of paper. Then both the Toronto doctor and the business man had a good laugh, for the Harley Street expert had prescribed a Canadian-made proprietary medicine which is regularly advertised in Canadian papers.

Both doctors and druggists readily admit that there are many, many proprietary medicines of the highest merit, and doctors prescribe many of them regularly. To forbid by law the makers of patent medicines to advertise them in the public press would be a great disservice to the public. One suspects that there are some patent medicines and some kindred preparations which lack merit and whose continued or frequent use by any single person might be even harmful; but it would be just as absurd to condemn all patent medicines because some are not of high standard or have bad effects as it would be to condemn the institution of the Christian Church because some sinners are to be found among the righteous, or to denounce a city's police force as corrupt because some individual policemen turn out to be rogues.

Concerned for Health

I make this point: the millions—nay, billions—of dollars which have been used to advertise patent medicines, dentifrices, cosmetics and hygienic and sanitary products, have had as a corollary the making of millions of men and women deeply interested in and concerned for their personal health and appearance. I claim that this quickened and broadened interest and concern have been of immeasurable advantage to doctors and dentists. I claim that it is the persistent educational advertising of makers of branded drug products, including dentifrices and beauty and hygienic preparations and specialties, which incites men and women to desire and to seek for a better appearance and better health and hygienic practices. I claim that it would be a national disaster if the makers of proprietary medicines, dentifrices, germ-killers, beauty preparations and treatments, and products having hygienic and sanitary values, should be denied, by-law, the right to advertise them in the public press.

To me it is a sign of enlightenment, not of credulity and extravagance, when I see the shelves of a bathroom cabinet laden with things in bottles, jars, tubes, tins and cardboard, all designed to alleviate ailments—colds, coughs, skin sores or blemishes, for example; to keep the skin cleansed and soft; and to give quick relief from pain or from the distress of indigestion. For I have this knowledge, shared by almost all others, that what is habitually found on the shelves of a bathroom cabinet is there because of its proven merit—its ability to perform a required service satisfactorily. And I venture the assertion that in the bathrooms of doctors and dentists—and, indeed, of the scoffers—one will find a plentitude of advertised proprietary products, in tins and bottles and tubes.

Easy to Find Wrong

It may be true that the man whose tools are test tubes and flame can find lots wrong with proprietary medicines and beauty preparations; but it is not equally true that psychologists and teachers and preachers can find something wrong with every human being whose moral make-up they may analyse and test? If patent medicines and dentifrices and cosmetics are to be banished because of their shortcomings, why should not human beings be likewise banished from the ranks of the living if and when they are found morally defective. Where will you find complete perfection? What matters is that those who make things—motor cars, fabrics, paper, beauty preparations, patent medicines and hygienic preparations—shall ever strive to improve them; and that those whose professed business is to make men live better morally, spiritually and physically, shall ever make progress in their elect endeavor.

Finally, there is this fact for our comforting: the makers of proprietary medicines are required by the law of Canada to register their formulae with the Department of Health at Ottawa. Thus these formulae come under official inspection, and it can be said that the requirements of the Federal Government do protect the public. Moreover, the laws of Canada forbid makers of proprietary medicines to make false and exaggerated claims in advertisements or on labels and there is constant and close supervision by the government department concerned.

There is an old story about the wholesale slaughter of birds because they were too noisy. Only after the birds had been exterminated did those who slew them learn of the services of birds as destroyers of evil insects. I hold no brief for any particular proprietary product. I speak as a member of the public, as a consumer of many of the things which the Tugwell Bill would take from me, without adequate replacement.

LIBRARY CORNER

It was only after the assurance of a friend that "when a man is dealing with the 'minutiae' of his own job, his writing can't help being of permanent value and interest" that Sir John Martin-Harvey was induced to write of his colorful career as actor-manager. "The Autobiography of Sir John Martin-Harvey", tells that proportion of the truth, which serves to make any life interesting and omits those passages, which, though true, are according to the author, batter left unsaid or unwritten. A veritable treasure trove of anecdote and impressions is this story of life behind the footlights of early struggles of the rise to fame, of acting in England and America. All those artists of the last generation whose names are now stage history move with stately grace through the pages of his story, Ellen Terry, Sothern, Sir Henry Irving, Forbes Robertson, Mrs. Patrick Campbell. Here also are such figures as Sir Arthur Sullivan, Pinero, Sir James Barrie, Richard le Gallienne, Craig, Henry James. This volume will prove all the more interesting since many Bellevillians were priviliged to see Sir John Martin-Harvey in "The Corsician Brothers" and as Sydney Carton in "The Only Way" in the old days of Griffin's Opera House.

The shortage of one-act plays for Drama Festival presentation has prompted John Bourne, a British adjudicator to collect eight plays suited to the needs of dramatic clubs and play-reading societies. The plays chosen are published here for the first time, three of the authors are British Drama League judges, one of whom, Mr. Sladen-Smith, is the only dramatist whose plays in performance have twice won the Lord Howard de Walden Trophy. In the collection also are two plays which were placed first and second at the 1933 Welwyn Festival.

F. Yeats-Brown of "Bengal Lancer" fame has arranged and edited a book of escapes of all kinds. "We are all escapers, men, women and children," the author maintains. "Almost everything we do, except the supermest acts of enjoyment, which partake of some higher reality, are escapes in some manner, or degree." "Escape" presents flights of all kinds, the Biblical escape of Lot from the doomed cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, the elopement of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning and in modern times the escape of Grand Duchess Marie of Russia. A brilliant company of men and women have been gathered from the shades of the past, St. Augustine, Chares II, Lady Nithsdale, the story of whose valorous deeds will be an escape for the reader from useless leisure.

A reply to Mr. George Bernard Shaw's "The Adventures of the Black Girl in her Search for God," has been given by Dr. W. R. Mathews in "The Adventures of Gabriel in his Search for Mr. Shaw." Combating Mr. Shaw with his own weapon, satire, Dr. Mathews has pierced through the Mr. Shaw who loudly "beats his own drum," the Mr. Shaw who lectures at length on behavourism and pricks the dignitaries of Church and State, to the "real" Mr. Shaw who "is a very decent fellow, rather on the small side."

Mr. G. M. James Describes Scenes During Vacation Tour of the United States

(From Our Special Travelling Representative, MR. G. M. JAMES)

ARTICLE ONE

As the following paragraphs are to a large extent introductory, they may issue from Detroit, Mich., as well as come from Florida, on this fifteenth day of January 1934.

The writer must humbly confess that he never did anything in all his lifetime that quite equalled the appeal and response of the letters he sent to this paper from Europe about one year and a half ago and he intends for a few weeks to prove his gratitude to as many of his kind friends, young and old, as possible. The following are a few of the expressions of appreciation received from readers in Belleville and many parts of the world, some being from the Dean of Canterbury Cathedral and other noted places:

1. We are pleased to see ourselves as others see us.
2. Your letters were in tune with the times.
3. You are a keen and accurate observer.
4. You observed some of the paradoxes of life.
5. You certainly get a lot out of life.
6. Your historical references were particularly interesting.
7. You excelled yourself on Scotland.
8. My impressions though made somewhat previously were very similar to yours.
9. As you showed plainly, London, England, is no place for a poor person as wages are low and the cost of living is high.
10. We saw many wonderful things through your eyes.
11. You see the cheerful side of life but pity all distress.
12. Stephen Leacock (Montreal) must now look to his laurels.
13. Your letters were remarkably well written.
14. We are preserving your letters for our children when they grow older.

Some of these kind expressions were repeated many, many times by letter or by the living voice. While the writer is sincerely grateful, yet he feels that a standard has been set which it may not be possible to attain again under totally different conditions of country and climate but he will always try to do his best as he sees and understands.

Mrs. James and the writer left Belleville on January 10, 1934, for Toronto, 113 miles, with the thermometer at 30 degrees above. Mileage is always important in travel and temperature is considered so important this time that we are carrying a reliable thermometer to give accurate information throughout. Toronto enjoyed a good old-fashioned Christmas trade like Belleville but by the time we arrived everything had slowed down almost to a dead calm. The writer has been in and out of Toronto all his life and he never saw its people better clothed or better fed as far as outward appearances can reveal. Yet withal a cruel canker is at work and it gives the writer much concern. He has gone to much trouble for months to get the facts. Many young girls who work in stores and offices in Toronto smoke a cigarette and drink a cup of coffee (nothing more) for their breakfast. Why? In response to so many radio appeals to have the willow-wand figure and the waxen complexion. Why? To be beautiful and hence adored. Woman has always held man in the hollow of her hand and she will continue to do so to the end of time no matter what foolish things she does.

We add our protest to the very unsatisfactory condition of the street car service in Toronto especially in the matter of inhuman overcrowding and long delays in inclement weather. We do not know of anything so bad throughout the world. As a business man who spends large sums in Toronto, I feel it is not only unkind but rude to all outsiders. Toronto is a highly favored city as to schools, colleges and conventions and hence owes its visitors much better treatment, failing which it may ultimately lose the goose that now lays the golden eggs of prosperity.

On January 13 we left Toronto for Detroit, 270 miles, the second stage of our leisurely journey to Florida. The thermometer still registered around thirty above and for the first time in a week the sun came out in all its glory at Leamington. In a radius of fifty miles around Leamington there are evidences of the great extent to which tobacco is grown in this district such as stubble (like corn stubble) in the fields and the numerous small red buildings in which the matured plant is cured. A small red globe on a metal tripod is seen near the road opposite nearly every home. Natural gas so plentiful in this region is piped to every home and the red globes are the gas meters. All this district is level, beautiful and prosperous within sight of the waters of Lake Erie. Surely Ontario is a highly favored land!

Finally we passed through the tunnel under the Detroit River between Windsor and Detroit. First we went through Uncle Sam's immigration office and as usual a handsome young officer fired questions at Mrs. James (always my wife not me) faster than she could answer them. Where were you born? How old are you? Where are you going? How long do you intend to stay? Have you a return ticket? Is this your husband? Meantime I produced by passport with inscriptions from England and France and my official press card. Then with a smile this officer waved his hand in a satisfied manner as if to say "Pass St. Peter" and we went into room number two for customs inspection. Another handsome officer opened our four suitcases at the same time remarking pleasantly, "Just personal belongings I presume". I noticed, however, that he tarried longer where tinted lingerie was in evidence. However, we came through this second ordeal unscathed. As we were gathering our things together we noticed that the officer was looking into the suitcase of a middle-aged lady and that on the very top was a large book entitled "The New Testament in Large Print". The officer merely read the title, closed the lid and passed on without a word or a gesture.

We were safely in lovely Detroit but we had to find a place to sleep and eat. We went to a hotel we knew by favorable report and a negro porter black as midnight with teeth like ivory conducted us to our room and the following conversation ensued between Mrs. James and Midnight:

"Do fires break out here sometimes?"

"No, mam, but we soon puts them out."

"I'm very afraid of fires."

"Sure, mam, all women are."

"Are you married, Porter?"

"No, mam, but I has imagination and hope."

"Now just what would you do if a fire broke out tonight?"

"I would rush here and carry out the pretty lady."

Did Midnight of the smiles and imagination get a tip?

A stroll around the principal streets in the evening showed that all stores except those selling fruit and food close Saturday night at six and other days at five, remaining closed all day Sunday. Nearly every store window had a small white paper stuck on it. In the centre of the paper was a blue eagle, at the top the letters "NRA" and at the bottom "we do our part". As you know the capital letters NRA stand for the "National Recovery Act" planned by President Roosevelt and the words "we do our part", show that the great American people are overwhelmingly behind him. All in all it is the greatest single event in the history of the democracy.

At our first meal we discovered that Detroit like Montreal places a tax on meals in hotels and restaurants. It is a three per cent. tax scaled as follows: 17c to 46c tax 1c, 46c to 76c tax 2c, 76c to $1.17 tax 3c and so on proportionately. In Montreal the tax goes exclusively to the maintenance of its hospitals. In Detroit an undetermined part goes for welfare work and the rest to reduce taxes to the regular taxpayers. Where will the need for more revenue lead and where will it end?

Beer may now be had in many places in Detroit such as restaurants at 10 cents per glass. Will the repeal of prohibition on this side of the line affect the profitable tourist trade in Canada and especially in Ontario?

The best attended theatres in Detroit spend half an hour each performance singing recent hit songs such as: (1) The Old Spinning Wheel, (2) Annie Doesn't Live Here Any More, (3) Did You Ever See a Dream Walking? (4) It's the Talk of the Town. The pipe organ and its player leads and the audience sing splendidly. As we see it, the results are well worth while.

Sunday morning we attended church a block from the Statler Hotel in the heart of Detroit. The service began at 10:30 and before that time every seat including the large gallery was filled and some were standing, not less than two thousand well dressed, refined people with the young people in their proper proportion. The people and the speaker, a former pastor, reminded us very much of that memorable Sunday morning at St. Giles, Edinburgh, a year and a half ago. "Religion in a shaking world" was the subject and the text was in Psalm VIII, "Thou hast made man but little lower than God". It was one of the most inspiring discourses we ever heard and the attention hung on every word. Here are just a few of the highlights: (1) We have been enduring the deepening darkness of difficult days. (2) It is a curious thing that the world always has been shaking. (3) We have arrived at the present through adversity and struggle as a race and as individuals. (4) Man thrives on adversity. (5) He is at his best when he is expected to surrender. (6) Man was meant to struggle and conquer. (7) The history of the world is dotted with Ends and Beginnings. (8) Man is at his best in his grim days. (9) We share the tradition of the ages for heroism and sacrifice. (10) The source of our optimism lies in the fact that we are not contented to live as beasts. (11) There has always been divine discontent at the fact that some have not a fair chance. (12) Religion wishes to mould the world to correspond with the spirit of Jesus. (13) What causes the eternal fight by man for preservation? God tempts all to do the right, noble and pure. (14) Religion makes the weak strong and the bad good.

Certain Protestant Churches in the United States have recently printed a pamphlet called "The Social Creed" which sets forth definite objectives of Social Reform. A few brief statements follow from this Creed which will show what a millenium wave is most assuredly sweeping over this great and powerful land:

1. The church stands for the abatement and prevention of poverty.
2. It stands for the right of all men to the opportunity for self-maintenance.
3. It stands for suitable provision for the workers in old age.
4. It stands for the reasonable reduction of the hours of labour.
5. It stands for the application of Christian principles to the acquisition and use of property.

And thus this modern Social Creed proceeds until almost all our difficulties are set forth in their proper relation.

As a student years ago at Toronto University I came across a theory or supposition which to-day interests me greatly. As I remember it some historical writer advanced the theory that from earliest dawn there has been at least one dominant civilizing nation or power beginning with the Chinese, then Egypt, Palestine, Greece, Rome and at present Great Britain. Each nation or power waxed and waned in approximately one thousand years and the movement was always from East to West and then farther West. Is this the plan of the Great Jehovah to whom a thousand years are as a day. Is this dominant civilizing power now about to pass West again to the Great United States of America under the guidance of one of the greatest leaders this old world has ever known? Will the Divine plan link Canada and the United States up in some way to make them jointly the greatest of all the world forces so far.

On Sunday evening we attended the same church as in the morning and heard Edgar Guest who was introduced as "The loved poet of Detroit". Mr. Guest does not speak distinctly nor loud enough and his platform presence is possibly not as good as might be desired. However he is well worth while because of his great pathos and humour. He recited several of his poems and explained how he came to write them. We enjoyed what we could hear very much. But his congregation was only about half of that of the morning no doubt because many people associate poetry with school days and unpleasant examinations. A teacher so often is necessary in order to extract meaning from much praised poetry. This attitude though so obvious is to be regretted because there is still some new-born poetry worthy of being read and understood. Most of those who are trying to write for publication today try to get a start on poetry and are much disappointed when they find out that no paper or magazine will print it, because few people will take the time or trouble to read and understand it. If the same ambitious, would-be authors would put the same time and ability on a short story that could be read in five minutes, they might easily become famous because there is never enough of this material to go around but the story must be really interesting and point the way to success in some human endeavor. The best way for a beginner is to find an event in some person's life that was a clear-cut turning point for him or her and around that circumstance build up a story that ends in success or fame. For example a lad once had a career as a teacher through a visit to some of his country friends. Another young man became one of Canada's greatest preachers through the breaking of a wheel on a railway coach. Nearly every life has at least one such event which gradually led to important results. Such a story may be largely fiction though founded on facts. It will require as much skill to know what to omit as what to include.

By the time we send another letter we shall have crossed the Dixie Line.

CHIEF GUNSON IS ACQUITTED

Charges of Perjury Not Proven in County Court

St. Thomas, Ont., Jan. 20 (CP)—Police Chief Herbert Gunson was acquitted on a charge of perjury by Judge Uriah McFadden. The charge was laid following evidence given at the St. Thomas Police Commission hearing of charges made against Chief Gunson of conduct unbecoming a police officer. The charges were dismissed.

Before a packed courtroom, witnesses testified that Gunson visited a house at 83 Clarence Street, London, Ont., in the fall of 1932, at the Police Commission inquiry he had denied visiting the house "during the month of July, 1932 or at any other time."

Asked to explain his negative answer, Gunson said he had confined himself in his reply to the period named in the charges against him—"on or about July 1932." Judge McFadden remarked the Chief evidently meant to say that he had not been at the address in July but had omitted to say "in July."

Fine Performance of Arms and the Man by Young Thespians

Bernard Shaw's Brilliant Satire on War is Cleverly Produced

THE CAST

Presenting as their major offering of the season, "Arms and the Man" by Geo. Bernard Shaw, The Young Thespians of Belleville Collegiate Institute gave striking evidence of their progress in dramatic work. Not only is their acting more finished but noticeable strides have been made in the general stage arrangement. The settings last evening were lovely, especially in the first two acts and the perfect timing of various lighting changes was a triumph for Jack Lill, the stage manager, whose arduous work even included the raising of the back drop for the second act. Miss N. Merry, who has guided the destinies of The Young Thespians with great devotion and skill will be proud of the success of her players.

"Arms and The Man" was a difficult play for the young actors to attempt but their ability was such that they made of it a complete success. Directed as the uselessness of war, for they could not order as seriously into the subject as most of Shaw's dramas on various themes do. The contrast of the professional soldier's attitude toward fighting and the pomposity of the stage soldier is more humorous than convincing. But the play has enough of Shaw's characteristics to present many pitfalls for the amateur and it is a tribute to The Young Thespians that they not only avoided the dangers but made capital of them.

The story concerns the fact that a Bulgarian girl and her mother shield a Serbian soldier who is really a Swiss in his escape from the lines. The girl's fiance and her father return from battle, and have heard the humorous story of some Serbian soldier's escape and that the family is thrown into a turmoil by the advent of the fugitive to return a borrowed coat. Their forces now at peace, the soldiers are cordial and all is forgiven but Captain Bluntschli was Raina's military ideal and she loves him only that he is wealthy all ends well, with Raina's discomfited suitor consoling himself by marrying the captivating maid.

Miss Marielle Forster was Raina Petkoff, the Bulgarian girl, who safeguards the fugitive and finally falls in love with him. As the ecstatic, fickle, but most attractive Raina, Marielle was very good, indeed. Her vivid personality was in keeping with the character and her first slip most exacting scene was skilfully done.

Catherine Petkoff, who rules her husband's household, and also his naive pride in trying to maintain a superior sort of home when she has in reality but traces of culture was an exacting role, admirably played by Miss Eleanor Bluthe. Her graceful voice and dignity of manner are assets of this young actress.

Louka, the maid, bitterly opposed to servitude, jealous and much in love with Raina's dashing fiance, was a role in which Ellen Jones and Marshall excelled herself. A charming picture in her peasant costume, Miss Marsalka has restrained manner of acting that adds emphasis to all her scenes.

To Douglas Haly Frink was assigned the role of Captain Bluntschli, a professional Swiss soldier at present working for Serbia. He is excellent as the matter of fact unperturbed man of war whose common sense is striking but who can be sentimental at heart. He was never out of character and maintained his detached air in the most exciting moments.

The part of Major Petkoff was taken by John William Carmichael. A very good but ignorant Bulgarian and a jolly fellow at heart, he is given to boasting but is rather likeable. With his handsome mustache and his triumphant air he was altogether a fine figure of a fellow and he swanked about the stage almost as much as the gallant Major Sergius Saranoff (Douglas Harold Newby) who falls in love with Louka after being betrothed to Raina. These two young actors have had considerable experience which showed in their handling of scenes when they were more or less ridiculous.

William Alexander Logie was fine as Nicola, a servant, engaged to Louka, but always planning things to his advantage. Faithful to the point of exasperation he never loses an opportunity to advance his plans to make his future as a storekeeper a success.

Adding to the smart appearance of the play Donald Newton Spring as a Russian officer and Robert Kidd and Harold Bankier as soldiers, were other members of the cast.

The brilliant costumes for which the Vocational girls deserve credit in their assistance gave the play an artistic finish. The musical setting by the school orchestra under the direction of Ross Hunter was splendid and an added pleasure was Miss Sylvia Tritt's solo "My Hero" from the Chocolate Soldier.

At the conclusion of the play which was witnessed by a capacity audience, Miss Merry was presented with a lovely bouquet of roses.

Besides the cast those responsible for the success of the production included:

Staff Advisors—Director, Miss Merry; Costumes, Miss MacPherson; Stage, Mr. Ferguson; Stage Manager, Jack Lill; Assistants, Albert Hillman, Kenneth Bray; Lights, Henry Liddle; Advertising, Kenneth Brenton; Costumes, Georgina Skelcher, Peggy Templeman, Jocelyn Jones; Make-up, Rose Lazier; Properties, James Moon; House Manager, Floyd Henry; Prompter, W. B. Gerard; Treasurer, Beauchamp Payne.

Much Good From Recent Conference

Quebec, Jan. 20 (CP)—"A great deal of good will ensue for the country as a result of the Dominion-Provincial conference which concluded at Ottawa yesterday in the opinion of Premier L. A. Taschereau.

The Premier left Ottawa yesterday and was at his office at Parliament Buildings today. He said his opinion of the conference and Quebec's attitude towards its outcome could not be divulged until the legislature assembly next week.

"What I have to say must be kept for the House," the Premier explained. "I cannot go into details at the moment.

IMPORTANCE OF HUMAN ELEMENT IN RAILROADING

Montreal, January —Railwaymen and body are heabetter today than ever before, at least as far as Canada is concerned, declares Dr. John McCrae, Chief Medical Officer for the Canadian National Railways, and in consequence, railway operation is more efficient.

He lay stress, said Dr. McCombe, is apt to give all credit for betterment conditions to the great advances that have been made in mechanical devices for simpler railway operation. People forget that maximum results from these improvements must always depend on the fitness of the human element.

Not only had increased attention to railway medical service reduced the liability to accident, but it had added years to the lives of thousands of railwaymen by detecting in their early and curable stages, diseases which otherwise would inevitably have resulted in complete physical breakdown at a comparatively early age. Less than one half of one per cent of railwaymen in the employ of the Canadian National Railways have to be retired as a result of advanced disease.

Fort William, Jan. 20—(CP) In spite of the wintry weather two boats of the Paterson Lines are being loaded with flour here. They are the Lavaldoc and Coteaudoc, and will take on 3,500 tons of flour. It was necessary to cut through three feet of ice all round the boats in order to allow the vessels to settle in the water as they were loaded.

SHE LEAPED FROM HIGH SCHOOL TO FILMS

LONA ANDRE

From a second-year high school student with a penchant for strawberry frapes and class cutting to a full-fledged leading film actress —all within a space of a few months—is the dizzy leap to fame made by pretty Lona Andre. Lona hails from Nashville and brought her "you all" accent with her to Hollywood.

FAN DANCER RESCUED IN FAR NORTH

Fay Baker, dainty fan dancer, who went north to The Pas in Manitoba to perform before that far away mining town, is now safe in Winnipeg hospital, resting after her trying ordeal of being stranded with her pilot in a lonely fisherman's hut on Lake Winnipegosis for five days. Miss Baker, recounting her experiences, says they had but little food and thought of porridge, prunes and beans makes her shudder now, for that is all they had for the five days they were lost. The pilot, Bill May, had been forced down by engine trouble and bad weather. They were rescued by Jack Crosby, operating manager of the Northwest Aeromarine of Winnipeg.

G'WAN, BETCHA YOU'RE SCARED!

Miss Mildred Eaton, Ontario swimming champion, certainly doesn't take any notice of the thermometer which was hovering uncomfortably close to the zero mark when this picture was taken on the shores of Lake Ontario—although it looks as though it might have been the Arctic circle. But don't get excited, she didn't really plunge—it's just a pose.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

"ROMAN SCANDALS"

AT THE CAPITOL

Eddie Cantor is the only star in pictures who consistently and successfully follows the practice of making one picture a year. "Roman Scandals" showing at the Belle today until Wednesday, matinee daily is the fourth annual screen musical comedy for Samuel Goldwyn. The other three were "The Kid From Spain", "Palmy Days" and "Whoopee".

Four years ago, Eddie announced that he was through with the stage. Making up a picture career he swallowed to concentrate. That meant long and careful preparation for his single yearly film. And the spare energy it left him was valuable; he needed time for his literary, radio and philanthropic interests.

Eddie was once a Hester Street brat down on New York's Lower East Side. He learned how much milk and fresh vegetables and a vacation in the country would mean to a tenement boy. Now that he is riding high, Eddie doesn't forget that there are other boys and girls and mothers in the tenements who need those things. And then he holds the presidency of such great organizations as the National Vaudeville Artits, with its big sanitarium at Saranac, and the Actors' Guild.

Among Eddie's published writings are four short, humorous books, the autobi-graphical "My Life In In Your Hands" and the forthcoming Ziegfeld story, "King, Queens and Jack".

His last stage show was "Whoopee", preceded by the Ziegfeld "Follies" of 1927 in which Cantor, for the first time in the history of those institutions, was starred. Before that, there was the record-breaking "Kid Boots".

"FACING THE MUSIC"

All those who appreciate variety and entertainment should visit the Capitol theatre next Monday where "Facing the Music" is being shown.

In this new comedy which stars Stanley Lupino lovers of Grand Opera and admirers of that joyous brand of humor for which Lupino is noted are equally well catered for. The brisk comedy action of the film takes place during a performance of Gounod's "Faust" whole many of which are cleverly blended to form a background for the plot. Mixed with the tale of a young man who falls in love with the niece of a prima donna. In his efforts to win her favor, involved in a publicity stunt to steal her aunt's jewels, he finds he is worn during a performance of "Faust".

The jewels actually are stolen and Jack is faced with the difficult task of finding them in a packed opera house before the finale of the Opera when the real thief will be discovered and subsequently his proposal of marriage rejected.

A symphony orchestra of over sixty performers under the direction of Harry Acres provides the musical accompaniment.

"Uproarious situations — interludes of catchy comedy and comedy and smart dialogue are all artistically blended into the making of "Facing the Music." Paul Revere, Jr., a big two reel comedy; Baby Burlesk; Audio Review and Capitol News comprise the show for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Last showing today (Saturday) of Jack Holt, dynamic screen star in "The Wrecker" and Ken Maynard, star of Western stars in "King of The Arena"; "The Whispering Shadow" serial, plus Capitol News.

1 "Mary—I just don't know what to do with Junior. He whines like this all day long. And he hasn't one BIT of appetite!"

2 "I've gone through the same thing with my Polly. Don't worry—I'm sure all he needs is a good laxative. Give him Castoria tonight."

3 "Mary! I followed your advice—and you ought to see the smiles around here this morning!"

"I'm so glad, Sue. You see, Castoria is made especially for children. You'll find it's a wonderful help in relieving constipation. And it's a splendid laxative to give Junior when you notice a cold coming on, too. Often laxatives made for grown-ups are uncomfortably strong for little tots. They really do harm. I'm sure Junior loved the taste — all children do."

Monthly Review Canadian Dairy Production Comparison with Periods Previous Year

The following figures relative to the Dairy Industry of Canada are taken ex-tra, official, the monthly report of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

CHEESE

The end of November cleared up the cheese manufactured as far as grading was concerned, with the season for that commodity for 1933. In 1932, Canada produced 1,171,294 boxes of cheese of which 94.87 per cent. were first grade, compared with the 1933 manufacture of 1,266,644 boxes and 93.75 per cent. first grade. The figures specify a falling off of 125,410 boxes but first grade cheese increased 1.12 per cent.

The two great dairying provinces, Ontario and Quebec, both show a marked falling off in manufacture during 1933 from 1932. Figure for the two years are given herewith:

	1933 Boxes	First	Second	Third	No Grade
Ontario	876,704	96.73	3.15	.11	.01
Quebec	280,010	89.40	10.13	.36	.11
	1932
Ontario	950,981	96.38	3.45	.14	.03
Quebec	285,910	86.32	13.18	.46	.04

In both Ontario and Quebec the make of first grade cheese increased but the general manufacturing in 1933 from the year previous is most marked. Quebec made 50,291 boxes less and Ontario 74,277 boxes less. Of this latter amount Central and Western Ontario were responsible for 70,000 of the decrease and Eastern Ontario 4,000 boxes.

BUTTER

The production of creamery butter graded in December 1933, in Canada, shows a decrease from that of the corresponding month in 1932. In December 1933, 11,241,000 pounds of butter were manufactured compared with 12,614,985 pounds in 1932, a decline of 1,373,483 pounds.

Ontario's creamery butter production for the month, with 4,718,649 pounds compared with 4,718,649 pounds in December last compared with 2,500,000 pounds in December last compared with 4,185,000 pounds in December 1932.

Production of creamery butter in Canada for the eleven months ending November 30th, 1933, totalled 207,093,793 pounds compared with 202,403,072 pounds in the like months of 1932, an increase of 4,190,721 pounds or 2.07 per cent.

Dups is reported by the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries. The twenty-five head established near Pembroke have had an increase of five young in 1933, while a similar increase is also reported from the herd of fifty at Burwash. Three calves died at the Burwash farm but the remainder of the herd as well as those at Pembroke are in splendid condition states the report.

Rudy took advantage of the occasion to tell reporters that "it's all over for good. I'm through with her forever."

BAKE SHOP AT TRENTON BURNS

Trenton, Jan. 20 (Special)—Starting from an unknown origin fire completely destroyed the bake shop of Jack Simpson, Dundas street east here this morning when the flames enveloped the building before the fire department arrive on the scene. The building was a complete wreck, being burned to the ground, only the ovens remaining standing in the smouldering ruins today.

The fire was first noticed by a passing transport driver who immediately gave the alarm. Upon the arrival of the fire department the building was a mass of flames and beyond the fire department control. The department centred their efforts upon the saving of nearby buildings and dwellings that were continually threatened by sparks from raging flames and flying sparks.

Mr. Simpson who operated one of the oldest established businesses in Trenton worked on the building last night preparing for Saturday's rush of week-end business. He closed his bake shop at 12.10 today when all was apparently in proper order. "No, I have no insurance on either the building or the contents," Mr. Simpson told the Ontario Intelligencer this morning when he related as to how his entire output of bread for the week-end had also gone up in smoke. He could conjecture no idea how the blaze started, he said.

The building owned and operated as a bakery by Mr. Simpson is a well established Trenton business, having been in continuous operation for many years.

Eleven Transients at Police Station

Activities were practically at the minimum during the past 24 hours in the local police department. But a single arrest was made nor was there an automobile accident reported. Eleven trandients were in Sergeant-Major's lodging in the police cells last evening.

No motor accidents occurred on the provincial highways while the traffic department report a slight increase in the motor traffic of late. Number two highway is in excellent condition, while the new gravelled bound roads are somewhat icy, but are being sanded at dangerous curves and hills.

No police court was held on Saturday owing to the absence from the city of Magistrate Mikel.

EMPLOYMENT IN LOGGING

Encouraging Signs of Industrial Recovery Seen

Ottawa, Jan. 20—Among the encouraging signs of the beginning of recovery, the increase in employment in logging operations is of special importance, as it usually declines in winter work. The monthly reports received by the Department of Labor indicate that on November 1 there were approximately 100,000 men employed in logging operations as compared with 75,000 at the same date last year. This is practically back to the average of the five-year period, 1926-1930, when 105,000 were on the pay rolls in November.

Logging for the season, which may be taken as normal, the average number engaged in logging throughout the year is estimated to be 91,000, but the monthly averages ranged from 75,000 in August to 139,000 in February. If this trend is followed in 1933, there would be 120,000 men at work during the next four months.

The advantage of having an industry which is capable of absorbing large numbers of additional men during the winter months when work in many other occupations is curtailed is apparent.

The Forest Service of the Department of the Interior attributes this increase in the activity of the logging camps to the increased exportation of lumber, especially to the United Kingdom and other parts of the Empire, and to improved conditions in the pulp and paper industry together with the depletion of stocks of logs and pulpwood during the past two years.

E. J. PYEAR IS NEW HEAD OF FAIR BOARD

Stirling Agricultural Society Had Most Successful Year

COUNCIL MEETS

Harold Tulloch, Formerly of Stirling, is Killed in West

Stirling, Jan. 20 (Special) — The annual meeting of the Stirling Agricultural Society was held in the agricultural rooms on Friday, Jan. 19, 1934, at two o'clock, with president E. J. Pyear in the chair. The attendance at the meeting was fair and nine new members were enrolled.

The minutes of the last annual meeting and the last directors' meeting were read by secretary J. E. O'Donnell and approved. The annual report and financial statement were then submitted and proved satisfactory showing a balance on hand of $70.97. Correspondence from the Harness Horse Association and from the secretary of the Central Fairs Association were read and fyled. The president and secretary were appointed as delegates to attend the Central Fairs Convention being held in Belleville on January 25. The dates of September 18-19 were fixed on for the annual fall exhibition providing no changes shall be necessary. The affiliation fee was ordered sent to the Ontario Fairs Association. The decision was reached to send no delegate to the Ontario Fairs Convention this year.

President Pyear delivered a short address to the members in which he thanked them for their co-operation during the past year and hoped that this spirit would continue to prevail in the new year of 1934. Some few of the directors may have been delinquent at times in discharging their duties but on the whole, the executive worked harmoniously. President Pyear stated that he had filled the presidential office during the past three years, the most trying time of the depression and that he had concluded the third term he felt successfully with a small balance on hand. He was desirous of giving up the office of president which he thought ought to be offered to some one else and not monopolized by any one president for any great number of years.

The election of officers followed, most of last year's executive being re-elected:

Following the adjournment of the annual meeting a directors' meeting was held at which J. E. O'Donnell was re-elected as secretary and C. W. Thompson was re-appointed treasurer.

News has been received in Stirling of the accidental shooting and death of Harold Tulloch, aged 23, son of Thomas J. Tulloch, formerly of Stirling and now of Eckville, Alberta. Mrs. J. M. McGee, and Mr. Henry Tulloch of Stirling, are sister and brother of the boy's father.

The following is the clipping which appeared in the Red Deer Advocate, January 10th, relative to the shooting.

"Apparently shot through the heart when the trigger of his 30.30 rifle caught on a twig while he was crawling through a fence while on a coyote hunt, Harold Tulloch, 23, of Hespero district, 25 miles southeast, was found dead near his home Monday. Coroner Dr. Greenaway, who accompanied Constable Leyland to investigate, found death was accidental and no inquest necessary.

Tulloch had left home Sunday morning, but his failure to return caused no alarm, as it was thought he had stopped with friends. Monday a search was begun and the body found about 500 yards from his home. He was unmarried and several years ago lost an eye when thrown from a horse under a team and wagon.

Special Meeting Held

A special meeting of the town council was held on Thursday night to discuss the purchase of the new equipment for the talkies in the Stirling theatre. The council have found it difficult to arrange a suitable price and Clerk G. H. Luery was instructed to write the Theatre Equipment Company concerning this.

Interesting features of the program were musical selections contributed by Messrs. Arthur Bateman and contributed by Messrs. Carleton and seconded by Mr. Edgar Morrow to Messrs. Rev. A. S. McConnell addressed the association briefly following which the meeting was brought to a successful conclusion.

An enjoyable evening was spent on Tuesday night, when Messrs. R. H. Williams, Ezra Nicholson, Jack Thompson and Claude Tucker entertained three hundred and fifty friends and neighbours at a party held in the Stirling Community Hall. Both round and square dancing was enjoyed to music supplied by Sam Houton and His Blue Birds. A dainty luncheon was served at midnight after which dancing was resumed until 2.30 a.m.

DOG LICENCE IS FOUND IN CROCODILE

Hollywood, Jan. 20.—One of the trophies Clyde Elliott brought back from India, where he went recently to shoot an animal film, is a stuffed crocodile 17 feet long. When he shot it Elliott estimated it weighed 800 pounds and was about 100 years old. In its intestines they found a Calcutta dog's license, dated 1889, and a silver watch.

TIPSY DRIVERS HELD AS SERIOUS MENACE

Dr Miles of Yale Says They Are Menacing in Different Ways

Drinking of alcoholic beverages interferes with driving ability in four different ways, Dr. Walter R. Miles of the Institute of Human Relations, Yale University, told a meeting of the Highway Research Board in Washington recently, says The Boston Transcript.

"A man may keep his car right side up and on the road when he is too intoxicated to walk, but this fact is not reassuring to others on the highway," Dr. Miles said.

"Although alcohol is generally thought of as a stimulant, and gives the feeling of stimulation to the person drinking it, its real effect is depressing on most of the functions of the body. The driver who has been drinking gives a poorer grade of attention to what is going on around him, including other traffic and traffic signals. His eyes, hands and feet are slower to respond. His muscular responses are less dependable, more variable. But he has an increased self-assurance which prompts him to assume the right of way and be willing to take a chance.

"Although alcohol is directly mentioned in only 7 to 10 per cent of fatal highway traffic accidents, it is the belief of informed traffic officials that one-third of such accidents are at least partly chargeable to use of alcohol by the driver," Dr. Miles said.

ANGLO-CATHOLIC LAY LEADER DIES AT 94

Viscount Halifax Prominent in Work of Church

Doncaster, Eng., Jan. 20 (CP Cable) —Anglo-Catholics throughout the United Kingdom today mourned the loss of their venerated lay leader, Viscount Halifax. Ill for only a few days, Lord Halifax died late yesterday at Ickleton Hall, near here, at the age of 94.

Ardent proponent of union between the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches, Lord Halifax gained wide notice as the prime mover of the celebrated Malines conversations in Belgium, which, although bringing no tangible results, undoubtedly aided in understanding between the two. Out of these conversations grew a warm friendship between Lord Halifax and Cardinal Mercier

Despite his advanced age Lord Halifax remained the leading influence amongst prominent Anglo-Catholic lay groups and only a few weeks ago he succeeded in merging the English Church Union, of which he had been president more than 60 years ago, with the Anglo-Catholic Congress, the other great lay body of the Church of England.

FARM HOME AND TWO BARNS BURNED NEAR MILFORD

Burgess Jenkins Loses House and Barn and Phil Mack a Barn

PICTON, January 20.—(Special) — A disastrous fire broke out at eight o'clock, Thursday night, at South Bay, thirteen miles southwest of Picton, and four miles south of the village of Milford. Mr. Burgess Jenkins' house was discovered to be on fire, that is said to have started from over-heated stove pipes. The fire gained rapid headway, and neighbors were quickly on the scene to help, but were unable to save any of Mr. Jenkins' furniture. Early Friday a.m. Mr. Jenkins' barn burned. It is thought that a spark from the burning house must have caught somewhere in the barn, and burned unnoticed until morning, when the barn was a mass of flames, that spread to Mr. Philip Mack's barn, and destroyed it also. One horse perished in the fire, which was so hot that neighbours were unable to enter the stable to save it. It could not be ascertained Friday what insurance was carried on the buildings and contents.

On Thursday night Picton Bankers met Wellington at the Wellington Arena, and a hotly contested game was played before a large crowd of fans. The Bankers are considered one of the weakest teams of the league, but they defeated Wellington last night 1-0. Brock Hudgin refereed the game. Croft—the Bankers' goal and Brimley, the Wellington defense, were both penalized for slashing. Gibson, Wellington defense man, was chased by Referee Hudgin, for hitting a spectator, Rolland Haddon, and put off the ice for the rest of the game. Murney Green, sturdy defense man of the Bankers, scored the only goal in a beautiful lone rush.

W. LEGGE DIES

Toronto, Jan. 20.—(CP)—William Legge, retired Pembroke, Ont., tobacco merchant, is dead at his home here. He died Thursday at the age of 76. Mr. Legge moved to Toronto, five years ago. His widow two sons and two daughters survive.

Province in Enviable Position When Power Cost Paid in Full

Hon. J. R. Cooke Predicts Increase in Net Reserve of $5,000,000

Galt, Ont., Jan. 20 (CP)— "No place in the world" in the opinion of Hon. J. R. Cooke, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, "will be in a more enviable position as a location for industry than this province" will be when its power cost is paid in full.

In an address here last night Mr. Cooke predicted an increase of $5,000,000 in the net reserve of the commission and Hydro municipalities as a result of last year's operations. "While reports for the year are not complete," he said. "I venture to think that in this fourth year of depression the municipalities and the Hydro Power Commission will increase their net reserve over $5,000,000."

He explained that half the cost to Hydro power consumers consists of money costs to the commission and the equities of municipalities were growing.

"What," he asked, "does the future mean under these conditions? If the cost of the money invested is actually over 50 per cent. of your power costs, do you ever think of the enviable position that will be yours in this province in regard to industry when the power cost is totally paid?"

LOVE'S LOTTERY

by

Katharine Haviland-Taylor

CHAPTER 8

Miss Ella was entranced by the arrangement; Geoffrey became "A dear, dear boy"; the blades of him constantly to her friends and to Cicily, which was satisfactory to Cicily, if not to the friends, of whom Geoffrey, who hated lost motion and slack talks the social as well as in the business world. "A perfect old dodo, Miss Ella Cicily. Loved your"; or a commanding "Kiss me!" Cicily, with Cicily at the piano. He was with a heavy heart that on the battle he had had that day (did won) to the sweet.

"Geoffrey, dear boy!" she began; he quickly and with considerable physical tendency to raise his brows. "So sweet to find you here!" (She dropped in on him at his office by cart that Benson had rolled in) "I've heard of the new Geoffrey Jones," she went on, as she tugged from her fingers the soft doe-skin gloves. "Phillipa, London has run away with her; her husband has left a note telling her husband that she hadn't seen him for years and that she had got used to his society, and what they will live on no one knows, although Maria Tait thinks Phillippa has a sufficient income of her own, left her by her mother, but neither of us could remember the figures. She told me during the prayer offered by Doctor Watts who opened the benefit—a beautiful prayer, but I mean to say thing Phillipa could have waited for a divorce? As I said to Maria, Phillipa is, well—too old to be turned by the world—and bad—ah —of well, you know she is too old to need to be bothered! I cannot understand it! Poor Morton Condon! Such a hard worker; hasn't been out of his office for one day in thirty years!"

Cicily rose from the piano bench. "I don't blame her," she said, and almost accidently.

Geoffrey frowned. She would have to understand Cicily would, the importance of that which claimed him. And begin, even now, to admonish herself to be brave, his mind for hurry. Perhaps if she saw his office and his desk in it, she would be a bit readier to offer that which was like gold to ask from her.

Their engagement had been announced at a dinner, for "a few, dear dear friends," which had been given by Miss Ella. Since that time, mid-January, there had been considerable entertaining for Cicily and Geoffrey. Cicily complained that she never saw Geoffrey except as they hurried somewhere or hurried away from somewhere. Geoffrey heard: "He writes on his card sometimes——"

(He had twice.)

"Just the same," said the girl who had been hailed as Miggsey, "I'd rather have no circumlocution in reason if my boy picked it out—"

Cicily swallowed hard and of nothing.

"What's her name?" she heard then.

"Cicily Eden." Cicily heard as her cheeks grew warm.

Little Miggsey's cheek grew warm and sandwich later! she had heard a buzz and his order, and he said, "Information, have some one bring Miss Eden, who is waiting to my office....."

Cicily was rather silent, eating her luncheon with Geoffrey he attributed her silence to her having been impressed. She had been impressed, true, and in two ways. He noticed, coming back to his office, that the girl at the information desk looked up at him anxiously as he thought this was because she had taken the morning off..... She's a good - sport," Little Miggsey thought, with a deep breath, which was drawn of relief. "She didn't tell.....

"All right!" she framed with her lips, carefully and carryingly and to another anxious girl who watching her from the rear of the outer office.

But, that it was not "all right", Cicily Eden could have attested.

CHAPTER 7

The matter of her flowers, and how they were ordered for her, haunted Cicily for days. When Geoffrey was with her, she excused him and the matter became small; but when he was absent the matter was large. Everyone who has lived at all knows this sliding scale of measurement and too, everyone who has lived, has come to know who compels the use of it. Cicily thus vacillated between a dislike of her cousin and a dislike of Geoffrey's habits.

Miss Ella, of course, was faithful to Parts, the modern sweet oil for the wheels of living. Being fond of Cicily's world, only in these usually side-tracking houses does one enjoy women's feeds. And it was Miss Ella who suggested Geoffrey's joining them "after the shopping." And of England.

Cicily, as she pointed out, "you would have a little time to yourselves, dear."

Cicily's eyes brightened as she considered the long slow days at sea. Owning back on the same with Geoffrey, those days would grant them the necessary time for the laying of a firm foundation for companionship. They could share reading, talking, and best of all silence. Two persons did not know each other, really, until they were able to share without strain, a long interval of quiet. She would, she decided fiercely, "make Geoff" join them! He would have to begin to cultivate the side of him that he must grow for their peace.

"That's very good idea. Aunt Cicily, Cicily said. "Let's plan to go early in May."

An admirable arrangement, as would be, dear! Oh to be in England now she had been!" (For it is April)! But—no matter! And to think of all we could do together on the bluebells probably being out! Ah—dear, dear England! The air! They have ye of peace, of meaning, of course, but going to Paris we—Cicily Eden, you shall be crisp! Ambling, her characteristic straying into lyrical, heard it casually as she planned the time with Geoffrey, as they had never wanted anything so much, she knew.

Cicily spoke to Geoffrey of the plan that night, as they drove toward a house where a dinner was being given for them.

"We'd get away—for a little time, from this....." she explained. "I'm so tired of hurry. I think our class system is struggling.....I envy you your prosperity of leisure.

"When do you plan to go?" Geoffrey questioned, stolidly. He could not "get away", he knew there were several important mergers on his horizon, which, each day, were drawing closer. However, he would not tell her this night, that he could not join her and Miss Ella they had few, uninterrupted moments together. He could not endure the thought of any of these being spoiled.

They skirted the edges of a park that, in summer, would be lovely, were wandering speechless and heard, band in hand, shoulder touching shoulder, and, shoulder touching shoulder.

"That group lives," Cicily commented, glancing out. "They have time.....hard to eat all they need..... We have to snatch at our sustenance as we race through the moments.....and we're always hungry!"

"Rather!" Geoffrey agreed with conviction. He slipped an arm around her to draw her close for a short, but satisfying second. He wished—suddenly and for a short space, sincerely—that he could join her in Paris or London. But he knew without the least doubt that it was quite impossible" as things were!

He watched her, in silence, making herself charming as she always did and now by listening to the monologue of one who collected old china, with the same ease and slowness he betrayed in telling of his collecting it. My heavens, but you are pretty!" eh thought, staring at her.

Cicily, glancing up then, caught the warmth in his eyes, to answer it and to flush a little. Their glance was that rare, tangled one, which is capable of making a world rock and which is not easy to part. It sent through Geoffrey a sweep of tenderness, which made his hands unsteady and his heart beat hard. How he needed her! And how he would love her, married to her! He would, from that second, consider joining them in England.

There was music after dinner. A contralto from the Metropolitan seemed to make the prism pendants of an old chandelier tremble; and a young violinist, who was coming back to which was his own, played with tears in his eyes to make a call also in the eyes of those sensitive, who-heard him. The spring that had been loosened by many of the company, he put into the air. "A sweet programme," fat dowagers told reporters.

TILLIE THE TOILER

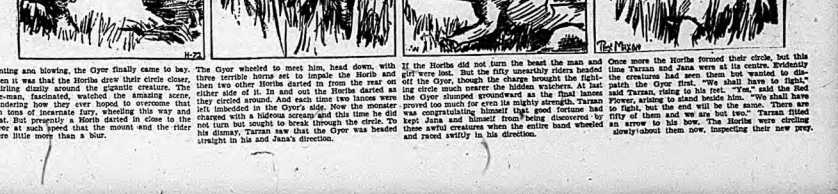
BRINGING UP FATHER



By George McManus

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Panting and blowing, the Gyor finally came to bay. Then it was that the Horths drew their circle closer, wheeling slowly around the gigantic creature. The ape-man, fascinated, watched the amazing scene, wondering how they ever hoped to overcome that ten tons of incarnate fury, wheeling this way and that. But presently a Horth darted in close to the Gyor at such speed that the mount and the rider were little more than a blur.

The Gyor wheeled to meet him, head down, with three terrible horns set to impale the Horth and then two other Horths darted in from the rear on either side of it. In and out the Horths darted as they circled around. And each time two lances were left imbedded in the Gyor's side. Now the monster charges with a hideous scream; and this time he did not turn but sought to break through the circle. To his dismay, Tarzan saw that the Gyor was headed straight in his and Jana's direction.

If the Horths did not turn the beast the man and Once more the Horths formed their circle, but this girl were lost. But the fifty unearthly riders headed off the Gyor, though the charge brought the fighting circle perilously near the hidden watchers. At last the Gyor slumped groundward as the final lances proved too much for even its mighty strength. Tarzan was congratulating himself that good fortune had kept Jana and himself from being discovered by these awful creatures when the entire band wheeled and raced swiftly in his direction.

time Tarzan and Jana were at its centre. Evidently the creatures had seen them but wanted to dispatch the Gyor first. "We shall have to fight," said Tarzan, rising to his feet. "Ya," said the Red Flower, arising to stand beside him. "We shall have to fight, but the end will be the same. There are fifty of them and but two." Tarzan fitted an arrow to his bow. The Horths were circling slowly about them now, inspecting their new prey.

Dohertys Advance to Second Place in Group Standing by Defeating Campbellford 2-1

Locals Good Going Both Ways And Had an Edge

PEPPERY GAME

"Rube" Buskard Gives a Fine Performance in Goal

Revenge is sweet . . . .
Elevated into second place . . . .
Group contenders . . . .

Take your choice of the above as they are true of the Belleville D. A. C. Intermediates after their sterling 2 to 1 victory over the Campbellford Maroons in the Hydro town last evening.

Not from the time that President Percy Bond of the O.H.A. faced the puck for the open bouncing and the final gong ended the contest were the Maroons in the same class with the locals, as the "oilmen" literally swamped the latter from all over eking out one-shot, out-pay and outscore the group leaders.

The keen derby, the peppery mug and all other presents to be handed out were passed to Goalie "Rube" Buskard, who made the locals forget all about Les Tite by his sensational saves and stops that not only broke the hearts of the Maroons but left them a broken and disappointed bunch. Yes as they might the Perrie-ites crew could not belge the brise brilliant Buskard as the local net-minder starred throughout. In passing it might be said in Buskard's favor that he was deprived of a shut-out by a minute interpretation of the rules when Referee Burtt faced the puck off five feet in front of the local net only to have Ken Davis bat the rubber past Buskard before it even touched the ice, making two infringes of the rules on the one play as no puck can be faced off within ten feet of the goal mouth. Then again the 200 pound, 6 foot-er must first touch the ice before he can be charged, or else plainly violated.

"Pete" Comes Back.

But then there were other wearers of the green and white to cover themselves well with glory, First "Pete" Morgan returned to form to outskate, out-shadow and out-everything any and all of the Maroons. Pete's endeavors, both saves were a big factor towards the local victory. Roy Cowert also went as far as did Carl Morgan in getting along the, left boards of the first line. Incidentally this trio were far to fast and high speed to any players tossed over the boards by Skipper Jewell, as these plays were sensational at times with Pete making the plays. Rene St. Denis let the second line like a veteran and capped off his evening's activities by scoring the first of the locals won them the day.

The Maroons seemed to literally disorganized owing to the close manner in which they were being checked. Morton stood up well in the nets, holding the score down considerably in the opening period as the local forwards repeatedly bombarded his citidel. The Campbellford brothers, Harry and Fred, went well until defeat stared them in the face and then they were not to be engaged. Whitton, Hendy and Davis proved the best of the Maroons offensively. The homesters were reinforced by Stan Shillington, Wes Hams and Shannon from Marmora but they did not seem to fit in with the style of play set up by the Maroons. In the second canto a small flutie campaign took place between Rigby and Fred Ingram, during which no goals were registered.

TORONTOS WIN.8-0

(By the Canadian Press)

Heavy goal bombardments had altered the usual position in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association championship standings when Toronto last night whipped West Toronto Nationals 8-0 in the Arena Gardens, shifting place and jump into second place behind Hamilton Tigers, who stretched their lead by overwhelming Kitchener 8-2.

Torontos' victory was the first against Nationals this season. Led by Wesner with four goals, Toronto held Nationals to a walk, while he shot all over the lot in the first period. Stein from all angles. While Stein and Wesner starred, Duncan in the centre ice notpped the rubber with ease.

PRE-GAME PREDICTIONS

(By the Canadian Press)

Two Coaches—one the League's leading scorer, the other the mainspring of Chicago's defense—got on their brother act at Toronto tonight in one of the six games that make this week-end the busiest since the National Hockey League schedule opened in November.

When the Coacher boys play each other there is always interest at Toronto in the way they treat each other. Lionel, the elder is young Charlie's idol but that doesn't mean that Charlie cannot from trying to make the Chicago ace look bad as often as possible to stop the "big" train from blocking his sharpshooting brother.

When Chicago plants here last Charlie scored the winning goal with a backhander, his second goal in the net off Lionel's skates. The younger Conacher cleverly denies his older brother was the source of those goals. He prefers the net cleanly.

If he can stop the Leafs can score twice tonight, off Lionel's skate or otherwise, Lionel has a chance to win. It would be Thomas Patrick Gorman, Hawk pilot, is quite willing but should Leafs can have two if we get three" he says in his generous way.

Chicago, Detroit and Toronto all play twice tonight, while Montreal the Hawks moving back home after tonight's game to meet Montreal Maroons Sunday night. Detroit plays Ottawa tonight and then race home to be here when Leafs come along Sunday.

New York Rangers play Canadiens in Montreal tonight and boomerang back to Manhattan for New York Sunday in the other game.

batted the face-off into the net to even the count. Later Red Horner crushed Weir into the boards for a two-minute penalty.

The teams did not seem so anxious to mix it in the final canto as after four minutes of play Covert and Pete Morgan combined the length of the ice for a feet fore to fore to have Covert take a pass from Pete and slam the puck for the winning goal when he walked in on the unprotected Morton. The play also crowned numerous similar attempts which were made. Later Morton thwarted St. Denis and McGuire when the kids raced in on the Maroon net. Immediately following the dying moments of the fracas Ingram pulled a fast one on the local underneath him as the local centre prepared to face off. Just as the Ingram-Fred Harry Morgan got out of a sick bed to play while Jimmie McGuire played well. His goal, which was taken care of by Jim Ebbler, Mase Bigby and Jim Weir, deflected off repeatedly using their bodies to at advantage. The referee's work in the locals won them the day.

The Maroons summary of the disgraceful ending to the close manner in which they were being checked. Morton stood up well in the nets, holding the score down considerably in the opening period as the local forwards repeatedly bombarded his citidel. The Campbellford brothers, Harry and Fred, went well until defeat stared them in the face and then they were not to be engaged. Whitton, Hendy and Davis proved the best of the Maroons offensively. The homesters were reinforced by Stan Shillington, Wes Hams and Shannon from Marmora but they did not seem to fit in with the style of play set up by the Maroons. In the second canto a small flutie campaign took place between Rigby and Fred Ingram, during which no goals were registered.

The first period of the O. H. A. faced the puck and welcomed the teams in an official capacity. Covert opened up by taking a shot a fast one at Morton. Both teams were travelling at a high speed in the result that the six hundred odd fans witnessed the rubber hit the ice. Half way through the period "Pete" Morgan sallied through only to have his shot by Wesner still, Morton held him at he was about to shoot. Rich Mr. MacKay, Bushard and Morton were repeatedly called on to make sensational saves from which by no score was registered. Ken Davis brought the locals to life in the opening battlifies in the second frame that proved the most hectic of the three tipped. The play was back up and down the ice with all players accounted for. The third period proved a typical Campbellford-Belleville battle royal with the climax coming when Rigby soloed, only to have Fred Ingram dump him. Referee Burtt took exception to the play and hung one on Fred's chin. Players retaliated and a general bedlam took place around the face-off circle until Referee Burtt restored order and banished Rigby from the ice and Fred Ingram for two. The locals were literally all over the Maroons after this but seemingly could not score despite the fact they had numerous golden opportunities. (After lambasting Morton for some time Carl Morgan sallied down the left boards and shot with Alex Weir banging home the rebound to open scoring activities. With but a minute to go play was called at the Belleville goal. David

RAWDON LEAGUE GETS UNDER WAY

Bethel Defeats Springbrook, Glen Ross and Mt. Pleasant Tied

Stirling—The Rawdon League opened with a bang on Thursday night when Springbrook met Bethel and Glen Ross encountered Mount Pleasant in the two middle-under staged in the Stirling arena. The ice was in first-class condition and the games were real peppy affairs.

In the first fixture, Bethel took Springbrook into camp by a score of 5 to 2. In this game Wallace, Acker, Bethel and Elfrith Conley, three families to all Stirling hockey fans for the last fifteen years, were lined up on the Bethel team and the boys had a real nice workout without over-exerting themselves. Two or three minutes after the gong sounded, Ackers slid Wallace went up the ice to register the first count. Wallace giving the puck the initial poke. The next count was rolled up when Wilson Campbell, speedy left-winger on the Springbrook squad slipped one past Freddie Dalrand in goal for the locals. Ackers soon remedied this and with the greatest ease added up the ice on a solo dribble for the second counter for Bethel. A number of long shots by Wallace and Ackers was an outstanding feature of the game.

The second frame was fairly close and Wilson Campbell of Springbrook on a pass from Bill Heslip repeated his earlier success by manoeuvring the puck to the score 2 all.

In the third period, Wallace scored two goals and Ackers one on a beautiful combination play. This left the score 5-2 for Bethel Only one penalty was handed out to Kirby for a trip. Credit is due to the Springbrook goalie that the score recorded for Bethel was not much bigger. Those rural league fixtures are becoming more real hockey players and would-be hockey fans would do well to be at the rink side next time the teams go into action.

The Mount Pleasant-Glen Ross fixture was a real one and just how evenly the two teams were matched can be easily ascertained from the following. Each team scored three scorelem. In the first period neither team could seem to get over the blue underneath him as the local centre prepared to face off. Just as the Ingram-Fred Harry Morgan got out of a sick bed to play while Jimmie McGuire played well. His goal, which was taken care of by Jim Ebbler, Mase Bigby and Jim Weir, deflected off repeatedly using their bodies to at advantage. The referee's work in the locals won them the day.

Day By Day

During the two previous Hemlock-Belleville games at Kingston the attendance has been around the thousand mark. The opening game saw Howard Murray deliberately chase "Red" Hamlen out without the least provocation, while in the night Mallowed dropped his stick and pushed Pete Morgan as the local winger was attempting to get back into the goal crease. Just because these two players defended themselves they were penalized equal to that of the aggressors in each case, which is contrary to the rules laid down by the C.A.H.A. We can only say in the minute penalty shall be imposed on the player who has been struck, while a minor penalty is to be imposed to the adversary, if he retaliates.

If, however, the player being attacked merely holds off his adversary no penalty shall be imposed on him. During the Murray-Mac-Donald affair all the scrapping did was ward off Murray's attack. Of course we are not criticizing the referee making the situation look rather dangerous. Before each game Eli Kingsley, the local referee was repeatedly warned regarding rough play and fighting. It is a regular law in the local dressing room, that one of the main objects of the Belleville section opponents is to "get the Morgans." Each of the Morgan brothers have been giving their opponents the "business" since they first took to the ice all and say nothing. Of course, when a player deliberately wallops an opponent, as did Shallow-son, one cannot blame Pete for retaliating. He didn't know Shallowson knows what might have happened.

Interscholastic hockey now looms on the horizon with three teams entered in the Bay of Quinte group of C.O.S.S.A. hockey. Despite the efforts of Coach Shiels, Trenton H.S., Albert College and the local C.C.I. V.I. have not yet joined the ranks. Out in North Hastings they have two senior groups for interscholastic competition with Marmora, last year's title holders, again having a classy aggregation of puckchasers, while Stirling claims to have plenty of available material on hand from which to form a strong championship team may emerge.

Let's see, what's on the sport horizon for next week. Monday the D.A.C. intermediates play in Trenton, while the Griffs' Garage sextette journey to Madoc. Tuesday the local Cities Service bustle it out in the third game at Kingston. Wednesday sees a twin bill of basketball at the Y.M.C.A. when the fast Queen's Juniors and seniors meet the local teams, while the Belleville Juniors go to Trenton that night but on Thursday we'll be able to play bridge. Friday night the Belleville intermediates at Belleville, while the D.A.C. journey to Picton. Oh yes, on Monday night the Belleville Basket Ball Association Executive will meet to consider the question of forming a league. The local organization had not refused to play but had they asked postponement in the matter but, as the fact is, the club brokers fails regarding the protecting of the locals in the matter of Kingston City League games. The Belleville club now feel at liberty to use such players as Tex. Sherry, Nicol or MacDonald if they see fit. It must be remembered that the latter players were but moved to Brockville temporarily. They have never asked for a transfer from Belleville and will usually would revert to the local club. They have never asked for their business warranted the return of the players to Belleville. (Thanks boys.)

On a fast sheet of ice the local D.A.C. intermediates looked like an entirely different team last night when they trounced Jay Ferris' Marmora by a two to one score, reversing the dose handed out here previously. The locals showed far better too much speed for the Marmora crew and kept the aggressors from the opening play right to the finish. It was a treat to see "Pete" Morgan return to his old-time form and while both ways Roy Covert and Carl Morgan were seen to an advantage with "Rube" Buskard in the nets. Referee, St. Denis looked the best of the three lines he has checked While ton to a stand-still and had the "Do-Deserves-shifter" talking to himself at times.

Buskard was robbed of a shutout by a technicality, however. It seems that referee Burtt will play when Buskard fell on a pass. Instead of facing each team in front of the net, Ross missed his engagements slightly and faced off about five feet in front of Buskard. On the face off Davis batted the rubber past Buskard. Even at that the puck never touched the ice as Davis hit it in mid-air.

Last night's win raises the stocks of the D'Leureux-coached clan to a position, where they can now hold a prominent place in their group. The locals did not take any too well to their trimming as was noticeable from the lack of pep in the final moments of the game, but referee Burtt soon cooled their coffee.

BASKETBALL

Belleville's two interscholastic basketball teams clashed in the Albert gymnasium on Friday night, the collegiate team by a score of 31-17 showed their superiority in every department of the game in both games and practises. Although Albert had a smart team it lacked the finesse gained through playing for several years with the personnel of Belleville. D. Driscoll in his first year of interscholastic basketball is a real find and was the star player every game. His third basket was the best clean-cut shot scored while Red Macfarlane was the play-maker and high scorer of the game. Every room on the winning team seemed to clink for the right time and again. Cole with fifteen points was high scorer. Albert's total of 17 was made from points each played well and paved the way for several baskets.

The collegiate opened up when Macfarlane sank a basket on a long shot. The visitors quickly evened the score and until a few minutes before the half-time period seemed to gain the upper hand. The collegians unleashed a terrific attack and Cole with two connected points to make the half-time score 17-9. After the recess D.C.I. scored in quick baskets but the Albert defence of Bishop and Dunnington tightened down and Waring made some nice passes so that Albert scored three while B.C.I. were doing the same. Referee Faulkner handled the game in a very capable manner.

The teams:

Belleville Collegiate—Centre, Cole; Forwards, Macfarlane, Driscoll; Guards, W. Gibson, W. Hines; Alternates, Bell, Hall, Hamilton, Temple and F. Hines.

Albert College—Centre, D. Macfarlane; Forwards, Bishop and C. Waring; Guards, H. Dunnington and C. Bishop; Alternates, Young and Hutchinson.

The boat carried the promise of many, Max Schmeling, ruled him out and get a shot at the crown, now partially worn by Maxie Rosenbloom.

The Canadian has had a brief span of ringwork has won and lost in the welter and middleweight championships, was never endangered by the right hand of Olin, who had a 10-pound pull in the weights. He totaled away with his favorite left hook and knock the New Yorker with right crosses from the first round.

In the ninth he had his adversary doubled up twice with whistling lefts to the body. But Olin held on, trusting the fight at times into a waltzing match, and seldom took the offensive.

Today's agressiveness. Brouillard had the handful of 4,000 fans who saw him fight for his attempt and crying for a knockout. But unfortunately for the boy from Edmonton Dempsey has Baer tied up while the latter is under contract for Camera to fight under the Corporation's banner until next fall.

New York, Jan. 20 (CP)— The thumping left hand of Lou Brouillard today had made that son of French Canada the foremost challenger for the light heavyweight boxing title.

He unleashed a damaging attack from the pot side at Bob Olin of New York, in their 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden last night, and piled up a point total that even two low blows, obviously unintentional, could not wipe out.

"WATCH YOUR TURTLE"
IS GOOD MOTTO THEME

One of the most popular features of the Great Barrier Reef to-day, Wardon Wards, zoologist of the Australian Museum, states that there are many ways of spending an interesting time there, one of the most exciting being turtle-riding. "But you have to watch your turtle," said Mr. Ward. "There is no variety which is perfectly safe. You sit on the turtle's back, put your hands on the front of his shell and then back whenever he tries to dive, but as you would put a horse. It is a fascinating sport, as long as everything I know, and safe in water up to about six feet in depth. Naturally, if the turtle gets his head down and dives, you dive, too."

Anti-Militarist Group in Japan Gains When Militarist Leader Quits

World Capitals Speculate Upon Effects as Araki Quits

U.S. "INVOLVED"

Tension Grows Between Japan And United States

(By the Associated Press)

World capitals speculated today on what effect the resignation of General Sadao Araki, extreme militarist, as Japanese Minister of War might have on strained relations between that country and Soviet Russia.

General Araki was succeeded by General Senjiro Hayashi, whom Japanese political writers expressed belief that the anti-militarist movement gained strength by the change.

Meanwhile, a warning to Japan not to "play with fire" in Manchuria came from a high Soviet official.

In M. Zinoviev's address to the Moscow Communist party and members of the Soviet central executive committee, in an address to party leaders and to the people in preparation for an attack at any moment; and that Japan "must remember the Soviet Union is not Czarist Russia of 1904."

U. S. Aloof

Belief that the United States is involved in the situation was expressed by former Premier Edouard Herriot in Paris.

Writing in the Agence Economique et Financiere, he said "another is unquestionable" between the United States and Japan on the one hand and the Soviet Union on the other.

Tokyo, Jan. 22 (AP)—General Sadao Araki, who in the eyes of the world personified the militarist spirit with which the Japanese nation has been dominated for the last two years, relinquished the portfolio of Minister of War today and at last temporarily retired from the political stage.

Premier Saito, after futilely urging the bed-ridden war-lord to reconsider, accepted his resignation.

Afterward, the premier acquiesced in the recommendation of members of an informal conference of high ranking military leaders that General Senjuro Hayashi succeed Araki. General Jinsaburo Masaki, member of the Supreme War Council was chosen to succeed Hayashi as Inspector-General of Military education.

Liberal Measure Seeing

It was considered too early today confidently to gauge the significance of the shakeup in the ranks of the Japanese political writers and non-commissioned officers, but strong opinion prevailed that Araki's retirement might be a signal for a long suppressed liberal Anti-Militarist Movement again to lift its head.

Further, they believed, it may mark the beginning of a turbulent period likely to be known in Japanese history as the days of the era, coinciding with Japan's conquest of Manchuria, withdrawal from the League of Nations, the rise to power of peace-time budgets in the military industry, resentment against a Japanese-American tension and ever-darkening Russo-Japanese war clouds.

Soviet Prepares to Resist

Moscow, Jan. 22.—A warning that "we must be prepared for an attack at any moment" from Japan was sounded by L. M. Kaganovitch, head of the Communist party and a member of the Soviet Central Executive Committee, in a speech at a party conference January 21, it was made public today.

"Conditions are very tense in the far east today," Kaganovitch said, "and we must be prepared for an attack at any moment. We have told Japan by the sale of rights in the Chinese Eastern Railway it won't be so easy and will cause a serious conflict."

"At the same time we are not seeking war with Japan," the leader continued, "and want to keep peace. If Japanese generals dare plot against our frontiers, they will feel the might and power of our Red Army.

"They must remember the Soviet Union is not Czarist Russia of 1904."

Kraganovitch's remarks followed the line of recent speeches by Maxim Litvinoff, Commissar for Foreign Affairs, and Vyacheslav Molotoff, President of the Council of Commissaries, all of which showed growing concern here that a clash with Japan may not be avoided.

CHOKED DEVIL OUT OF BOYS

Father States He Was Ordered to Commit Deed

Seattle, Jan. 22—(AP)—A 37-year-old fisherman, Oskar Hestness, a self-styled "Messenger of God" on May was choked to death and then murder for strangling his two little sons.

Chief of Detectives Luke Mahoney declared Hestness had given a "vision from God" ordering him to slay the boys as a sacrifice to the Lord Jehovah, and Henry four.

Authorities were to study the sanity of Hestness.

In words including many religious phrases, the straggling-haired fisherman described the killings.

"I killed John first, last Tuesday," he came from the Pentacostal Temple and I asked him to send him. He wouldn't answer. Then I asked him who is in your room.

"He said the devil is in me. Then God appeared to me and he told me to choke the boys out of him.

He added that he killed Henry Wednesday.

14 MAROONED IN 2 COACHES

C.N.R. Locomotive Tries To Plough Way Through Drifts

Saint John, N.B., Jan. 22 (CP) —The Canadian National Railways locomotive today was attempting to break through snowdrifts on the Hampton-St. Martin's line in an effort to reach 14 persons who, since Saturday morning, have been marooned in two day coaches stuck in snowdrifts between Penobscot Lake, about 40 miles from St. John.

The 14 persons who started from Hampton on Saturday morning have been sleeping almost nightly in the cramped quarters of the coaches. Their food has been supplied by provisions rushed to relief by volunteers from St. Martin's, eight miles away. Heated on stoves in the coaches, the meals have been served in paper plates and cups and other emergency containers.

The passengers had nothing to eat from Saturday morning until Sunday night. Three St. Martin's men, laden with provisions, reached the coaches early Sunday after an eight mile trek along the tracks in sub-zero temperatures. The provision carriers were Edward Dunhill, Walter Brown and Warren McDonough.

Body of Wife Not Stolen but Buried According to Plans

Fredericton, N.B., Jan. 22. —(CP)—When Percy Robertson and other mourners went into the Baptist Church at Ripples, N.B., to attend a funeral service for his wife, they found the body missing and reported the fact to police. It had been stolen."

Royal Canadian mounted police said today they would take no action, however, as an investigation had revealed that Mrs. Robertson, aged 27, had been buried at Ripples last Sunday and that her relatives other than her husband were present, having borne the funeral expenses and made arrangements for the service and burial.

Mrs. Robertson died in the hospital here on January 12. A brother-in-law, Victory Wilkins, said today that Mrs. Robertson had asked to be taken to Ripples the following day and that Robertson arranged to have it read by Rev. Mr. Mitchell at the funeral service Sunday afternoon, January 14.

Later, according to Wilkins, Robertson wanted to postpone the funeral until Monday, January 15 because Samuel Steeves, a Pentecostal leader, could not arrive until then to conduct the service. The relatives had to return to Fredericton on Monday, said Wilkins, and telling Robertson the funeral would be held Sunday they what ahead with the service and burial.

Premier Bennett Assails Liberals in Bid For Power

Toronto, Jan. 22—An attack by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett on the destructive tactics of the Liberals in their "reckless desperate bids for power" and a defence by Premier Henry of the procedure followed in floating the recent $60,000,000 provincial loan, aroused a high pitch of enthusiasm among the 1,200 present at the banquet of the Federation of Young Conservatives Limited, held at the King Edward Hotel Saturday night.

The occasion was the first convention of the federation, which spent all day Saturday perfecting the newly launched organization on a federal and provincial basis. A comprehensive constitution was accepted at the afternoon gathering, officers elected to replace the provisional executive, and all carried out in the organizational stages, and resolutions adopted, including votes of confidence in Premier Bennett and Premier Henry.

Premier Henry, in discussing with the provincial loan and of the manner in which it was floated, referred to the banquet by Premier Henry, and to the publication of the subject would be "discussed in the most definite form in the coming session of the legislature."

Same Procedure Followed

The procedure followed today and arranging the terms of the loan was essentially the same as that followed by the government last June, he asserted, and the cabinet committee of financing experts which assisted the government was the same which acted in the same capacity last September. The effect of the loan, he said, the flotation cost (marked discount to un-

RAID MADE ON ALLEGED GAME

Police Climbing Ladder Visit Upstairs of Trenton Building

Nineteen youths found themselves in the clutches of the law following an organized police raid on a dice game which, police progress alleged to be conducted in a business premises in Trenton on Monday afternoon.

The proprietor of the business above which the gambling game is alleged by the police to have been in progress was taken to the police station and later released. No charges have as yet been laid against any of the men or premises.

Under the direction of Chief of Police William Bain of Trenton, assisted by a detachment of provincial police and the R.C.M.P., the raid was successfully made at 2.05 p.m. Sunday. Upon the arrival of the police it was found that they had to enter the room by way of a shaft, that included a crude ladder-like arrangement, over which one person at a time could elevate himself into the gambling room. Immediately following that wall known game of "crap" were hard at it shooting words of encouragement at the "galloping dominoes" he said, when the law arrived on the scene. All participating quietly surrendered to the officers, the players' names being taken by the police.

This raid by the police is said to be the first of a series to be carried out in connection with gambling alleged to be in progress.
